MARKET WAS WEAK

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—Acute weakness developed in today's stock market when bear traders renewed their selling attacks against the standard industrials. The decline followed an earlier period of strength during which operators for the rise tried ineffectually to revive bullish enthusiasm by bidding up a selected list of rails and specialties. Net losses ranged from ½ to 11 points.

Uneasiness over the money and loan situation, resulting from the Federal Reserve bank's report showing another increase of $22,000,000 in brokers' loans for the week ended August 18, and the temporary withdrawal of several large operators from the market, are believed to have been the primary factors in the selling movement. Despite the sharp decline in many popular issues last week the public has been slow in re-entering the market, leading to a widespread speculative belief that a further downward revision of quoted values was necessary before a broad buying movement could be set in motion.

Rails were in brisk demand in the early trading on the publication of a series of unusually favorable July earnings statements, but they yielded with the industrials in the late wave of selling, although the losses were not as large. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad reported net operating income of $1,911,172, a new high record for that month and $120,566 above the same month a year ago, while the Union Pacific showed net of $2,488,406, a gain of $678,129 over July 1925.

Wide and erratic fluctuations again took place in General Motors common stock. It opened 1 7-8 points higher at 212, advanced to 214 3-4, broke to 206 and rallied to 207, where it was off 3 1-8 on the day. U. S. Steel common was under pressure most of the day, closing 3 3-4 points lower at 149 1-8, after fluctuating between 148 5-8 and 150. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 12 points to 211 and then rallied to 218, selling of this issue being influenced in part by reports that German pipe manufacturers were making large shipments of their product to this country. Du Pont dropped 8 points to 300.

Heavy realizing sales checked the advance in the General Asphalt issues, the common showing a net loss of 5 3-4 points at 55 while the preferred broke 9 1-2 points to 127 1-2. Private reports of another sharp increase in crude oil production last week had a depressing influence on the other oils. Copper, equipment, merchandising and food shares all showed points of weakness. New 1926 peak prices were established in the early trading by Butterick Publishing, Collins and Aikman preferred, Howe Sound, Shell Union Oil and Warner Brothers Pictures A.

The early demand for the rails centered in the Southern and Northwestern Carriers, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Rock Island all breaking through to new high prices for the year. "Big Four" jumped 25 points to a new record high at 275 on one sale. New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Atchison and several other rails which were in brisk demand during the morning actually closed lower on the day.

Commodity markets were irregular. Active wheat futures declined about a cent a bushel on reports of favorable weather. Cotton closed unchanged to four points higher after an early period of strength based on unfavorable weather. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices fell back 5 to 9 points.

Call money was again quoted at 4 1-2 per cent all day, which rate has prevailed since August 10. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

The reported removal of the "Peg" on German marks, which immediately rose 2 1-2 points to 23.82 1-2 cents, featured the mixed foreign exchange market. Heavy buying orders for the German currency made their appearance from Berlin and Amsterdam. The other active European exchanges drifted lower, demand sterling ruling around $4.85 1-8 and French francs being quoted just below 2.85 cents. Greek exchange was firm despite reports of revolutionary disturbances in that country.

FIVE DIVORCE SUITS FILED FOR COURT TRIALS

Five suits for divorce were among the new suits for the superior court which were filed here Tuesday at the office of the clerk of the court. They are returnable in September.

Harry K. Nadelson of Bozrah seeks divorce from Anna Lippman Nadelson of New York whom he married Sept. 1911 in New York city. He alleges that she deserted him Aug. 1, 1922. They have two children, a son fourteen and a daughter ten, who now reside with the defendant.

Edith Farina Miller of New London seeks divorce from Ernest W. Miller of Boston and the custody of four minor children, aged from 12 to 4 1-2 years. The petitioner alleges intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1917. They were married Jan 28, 1915.

Helen W. Donner of New London seeks a divorce and custody of two children in a suit against Louis Donner, also of that city. The plaintiff's maiden name was Helen West. They were married on July 23, 1920. Since Aug. 7, 1925, the defendant is alleged to have been guilty of intolerable cruelty, and for the past year, it is also alleged, he has been habitually intemperate.

Catherine W. Morgan of New York city seeks a divorce and change of name from Leroy H. Morgan of Groton. The plaintiff's maiden name was Catherine Watt. They were married April 26, 1917. She bases her suit on grounds of intolerable cruelty, between the wedding day and June 2, 1924.

Lena Maynard Muckensturm, now of Killingly, formerly of this city, is sued for divorce by John Nicholas Muckensturm of Norwich who married her Nov. 22, 1923. He alleged a statutory offense between Nov. 1 1924 and June 25 1926 and names Roger Coombs as correspondent.

STATE PHARMACY COLLEGE WILL LENGTHEN COURSE

The board of trustees of the Connecticut College of Pharmacy, which is at New Haven, voted at their last meeting to lengthen the course in the new institution to three years. This change will be effective in 1927.

At present, the course of two years grants the prospective student a degree of Graduate in Pharmacy (Ph. G.) and registrations are being received each day by the registrar, Stephen B. Rice, from those young men and women who are anxious to get in this fall. Applicants must be at least 17 years of age, and must have had four years high school education or possess an education equivalent thereto.

The college is located at 150 York street, in the building formerly occupied by Yale Medical school. The building has been completely renovated, and with its modern equipment, it is quite ideal for college purposes.

The college was opened October 20, 1925, with a student enrollment of 86 members. No college ever opened with greater promise, and under better auspices. With a first-class equipment, a splendid faculty, a devoted board of trustees, the pharmacists of the state of Connecticut, have an institution to be proud of. The well-deserved tradition of the excellence of the educational institutions of New England will be further strengthened by the work done at this college.

SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR LIQUOR SALE

The continued case of Joseph McQuette and Sadie Wheeler came up Tuesday before the city court. Judge Arthur E. Libby fined McQuette $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication.

Ephraim Dorous of 197 West Main street, charged with violation of the liquor law was found guilty of actual sale and was sentenced to 15 days in jail. The court stated that it believed that Dorous was a broker for liquor but that he did not actually handle the liquor.

John Foley of Biddeford, Me., enjoyed a laugh when the court asked him if he had any money to pay his fine of $5 and costs. He went to jail where he can laugh for several days while working out his fine.

The case against Robert Schmidt of London, charged with not having his automobile operators license with him, was continued until next Monday. Schmidt alleged that he had lost his license and the court informed him that he must show the duplicate from Hartford on Monday.

STONINGTON WOMAN SUES TO COLLECT ALIMONY

Elizabeth P. Babcock of Stonington has brought suit in the superior court against Horace H. Babcock of that town for the alimony of $75 a month which a superior court judgment on Jan. 28, 1926 gave her in her suit for divorce. NORWICH C. E. UNION HELD PICNIC AT VERSAILLES

About 60 Endeavorers of the Norwich union attended the picnic at the Versailles Methodist church Saturday afternoon. In the early part of the afternoon games were enjoyed under the apt leadership of Mr. Maples and Mr. Mack. Prizes were given in the races. At 6 o'clock a lunch was served by the entertaining society, which consisted of sandwiches, cake, punch and assorted fruit.

At 7 o'clock the evening service was held in the auditorium of the church. This opened with a praise service led by Howard Zabriski of Preston City. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of Norwich Town led in prayer. Song, Hinding in Thee. The president, Miss Gertrude Ladd of Hanover, then announced that because of a few expenses which were incurred for prizes, etc., a collection was to be taken.

Announcement was made of an executive meeting to be held right after the evening service, also that the fall meeting of the Union would be at Hanover. Bright The Corner Where You Are was then inspirationally sung by the congregation.

A rising vote of thanks was given the Versailles society and the program committee for the good time they arranged.

The speaker of the evening, Rev. George Atha, of Groton, was then introduced. His subject was "Ready." He gave many explicit illustrations of his subject by telling actual life stories where readiness was the vital factor.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

After the service a group assembled for an executive meeting when the nominating committee was chosen. They are Miss Jessie Hyde, Howard Bushnell, Henry Sebastian. April dues and collection are due to the treasurer, Robert Schmidt now.

FORECLOSURE SOUGHT ON MORTGAGE ON SPARYARD

Foreclosure of a $7,000 mortgage on three parcels of real estate is sought in a suit brought in the superior court by Fields S. Pendleton, Jr., and Winfield S. Pendleton, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., against the Alexander Shipping Co., Inc., of New York and others. One piece of property lies on the cove and the Mystic river in the town of Stonington, and the other two are in Mystic, one on Velvet lane, containing a three-tenement dwelling house and a one and one-half story house, and the other on Washington street, and for many years occupied as a sparyard.

The mortgage was given May 19, 1925, by the defendant, Morris M. Levinson of Newburg, N. Y., payable one year from date to the two plaintiffs as administrators of the estate of Fields S. Pendleton, deceased, Jacob Hyman of New York, who is named as a party defendant claims a $13,000 mortgage on the premises, the town of Stonington claims a lien for taxes due April 10, 1926 and the Mystic fire district claims a tax lien, which liens have priority over the plaintiff's mortgage.

ALLEGES CONTRACT BREACH ON BUYING PROPERTY

Dr. Hugh F. Lena of New London is made the defendant in a suit for alleged breach of contract brought against him by Leopold Schaller of New London and filed here Tuesday at the office of the clerk of the superior court.

It is alleged that on June 10, 1825, Mr. Schaller agreed to purchase the so-called Harris building in New London from the trustees of the Harris estate, giving a bond for deed. On or about June 29, 1926, within the time limited for Schaller to purchase the property, he claims to have sold and assigned to Dr. Lena for $15,000 all his right, title and interest in the agreement with the Harris trustees, but although time for payment of the sum has arrived and demand has been made for it, the defendant has refused to pay.

PROBATE APPEALS OVER TWO NEW LONDON WILLS

Appeals to the superior court from the probate of two New London wills were filed Tuesday here with the clerk of the court.

Annie Hicks Crocker, adopted daughter of the late Mary Hicks, appeals from the probate of the latter's will, of which Alfred Colt is executor.

An appeal from probate of the will of Daniel C. Wetmore, late of New London, is taken by his children, Ralph W. Wetmore of New London, Herbert Wetmore of Norfolk, Va., and Fannie Wetmore of New London. The widow, Emma Wetmore, is executrix of the will.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE

If some good fairy should appear, as they did in the old fairy tales and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy, and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you this priceless gift of better health.

PROFESSOR THOMAS BROWN WITH "FLOATING UNIVERSITY"

Professor Thomas G. Brown, son of Archdeacon and Mrs. J. Eldred Brown of this city, is to sail September 18, on an eight-months cruise around the world as a member of the faculty of the "Floating University", under the auspices of the University Travel association of New York. Prof. Brown is to direct the courses in journalism and to act as managing editor of the daily newspaper to be issued on board the ship. He will collaborate in this connection with Ex-Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who will be editor-in-chief of the paper.

The college cruise, the first of its kind to be undertaken, will provide an opportunity for students to secure the educational advantages or extensive, directed travel, and at the same time to complete a year of college work. The Holland-American liner Ryndam, which has been especially equipped for this service with deck and cabin classrooms, gymnasium, swimming pool, library, printing shop, etc., will carry 450 carefully selected college students from nearly every state in the Union, and a teaching staff of 50 representing almost as many colleges, on the 36,000 mile voyage. The party will sail from New York through the Panama Canal and thence westward, visiting 35 countries under the auspices of the government and educational leaders of each country.

It is this semi-official character of the cruise which will open to the students and teachers many opportunities never before granted to globe-trotters. In many countries they will be entertained by students of the foreign universities. Arrangements have already been made for large receptions in Honolulu, Tokohama, Canton and Bombay. The Chinese government plans to transport the men from Peking to the Great Wall, and there to provide donkeys for a unique eight-mile race to the Ming Tombs, apparently recognizing the American love of sport. In Japan the students will live ashore for several weeks in order to see as much as possible of intimate Japanese life. In Java, below the equator, where New Years Day will be spent, the natives are planning a colorful festival. The Kin of Siam, an Oxford graduate deeply interested in occidental civilization, has invited the entire party to jog overland on elephant back to his capital for a royal banquet and ball. The Egyptian government has given permission for extensive archaeological investigations under the direction of Count de Prorak, and at Vienna and Berlin there will be private performances of the opera, followed by receptions at the former Imperial palaces. The last stopping place of the cruise, after its visit to Norway and Sweden, will be England, and the Prince of Wales has expressed his desire to meet the students there and talk with them. Virtually every country that is to be visited has officially designated a representative to join the cruise and acquaint the students before hand with the nature of its history and customs and its peculiar problems. And everywhere the students will be supplementing their class work with a practical study of conditions in the various countries they visit.

Professor Brown's classes in journalism will co-operate in writing and editing the cruise newspaper, which will receive Associated Press service by radio every day and by mail service at all ports, and which will contain a record of all the students and faculty activities during the eight months' travel. A modern linotype machine and vertical printing press are to be installed and operated by students under competent direction. In each country visited the journalism students will make a special study of the press and its influence, besides reporting all the activities of members of the cruise and writing feature articles for publication.

The details of the newspaper project were worked out at a recent conference in New York of Professor Brown with Governor Allen, Dean James E. Lough of New York University, and A. J. McIntosh, president of the University travel association.

Prof. Brown is receiving his sabbatical leave from Dartmouth college for the ensuing year and expects to return to his duties in the English department there following the completion of the cruise.

FOUND STILL WORKING IN PRESTON LIQUOR ARREST

Ignatz Meigey, who lives on a farm in Preston, was brought before Justice of the Peace William B. Mitchell at Preston Tuesday afternoon and was fined $100 and costs for violation of the liquor law. Meigey did not desire the services of a lawyer and pleaded guilty to the charge as made.

Meigey was arrested shortly after noon Tuesday at his home in Preston by Officer Arthur Whitmarch and Officer Johnson of the state police barracks at Groton. Armed with a search warrant, which had been procured some days ago, the officers entered the house and found a still in operation. A quantity of mash and moonshine in jugs was seized by the officers.

Meigey, his moonshine and utensils for manufacture of liquor were brought to Norwich where Meigey was locked up until the court was ready to receive him. The still was warm when taken back to Preston to be used as evidence against Meigey, providing he cared to fight the case.

Among those remaining through the entire week were Frederick H. Bushnell, who served as special policeman, Mrs. Albert G. Miner, matron of the Norwich Town house; her son, LeRoy Miner, Miss Hazel Cruthers and Miss Muriel Rose. Miss Doris Rose spent a few days, returning Wednesday. Mr. Whitten on several days attended during the week, as did also Mrs. Frederick H. Bushnell, wife of the Sunday school superintendent of the Methodist church. There were no services of any kind at this church Sunday, that those who cared to might attend services on the camp grounds.

After attending the morning worship there, Rev. Mr. Whitten went to Gardner lake Sunday afternoon to conduct services at the Methodist church, this being the last time for this season he would be privileged to address the young people who have been spending the summer in camp there. There was an unusual large attendance, including boys and girls from the camps at Milo Light. Attending religious service Sunday afternoon was part of the schedule for that day each week.

In the congregation at the First Congregational church during the Sunday morning worship were several visitors from out of town. The pastor, Rev. Gudon F. Bailey, chose for the text of his sermon Ecclesiastes 12: 13-14. "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God, and keep His commandments; for this is the whole duty of man. For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil. The Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening was in charge of Miss Margaret Chapin. The topic assigned was: Bible Teachings About Prayer. Phil. 4: 6-7; Heb 4: 14-16.

In continuing The Study of Isaiah, the Congregational mid-week service Thursday evening will have for its lesson, chapters 31, 32 and 33.

IMPRESSIVE LAST RITES FOR DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT

Dignitaries of Academic and Public Life Attended the Solemn Services in Appleton Chapel at Harvard—All Nations, Creeds and Colors and Men of All Stations Were in the Gathering—In His Eulogy Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon of Boston Asserted "There is No Place Here for Lamentations, We Bring Only a Brief Word for the Great Teacher and Thanksgiving to God for One of His Greatest Gifts to Mankind."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 5—(AP)—Harvard and the nation joined today in solemn services for Dr. Charles W. Eliot, whose 92 years were crowded with service to the intellectual life of both. Appleton chapel in the Harvard yard was filled with dignitaries of academic and public life while the Rev. Dr. George R. Gordon of Boston and the Rev. Dr. Francis G. Peabody of Cambridge conducted the services.

At Northeast Harbor, Me., yesterday, where Dr. Eliot had died on Sunday, there was an informal gathering of his summer neighbors of fifty years. Today was in contrast for the presence of so many leaders of the varied fields of knowledge gave an added weight of dignity to the tributes paid.

The keynote to this eulogy was sounded by Dr. Gordon. "We must recall," he said, "that he it was who led the academic mind of the nation into new ways, a thoroughfare as broad as the intellectual life of the world. The whole truth, and nothing but the truth;" he spoke to his fellow citizens as no other man has spoken in our time.

"There is no place here for lamentation, we bring only a brief word of veneration for the great teacher and thanksgiving to God for one of his greatest gifts to mankind.

"An illuminating mind of the great vital issues of his fellow men, a will mighty in its high purpose, constantly without stain and dedicated to public good. We offer thanks that release has come from the inevitable growing limitations, that freedom has come again to this apostle of freedom, that the end of enforced idleness has come to him who abhored idleness.

"We who have known him for many years, who have toiled with him, confess with gratitude that he was our rock and fortress in the well fought fight. With gratitude, I say, and reverence. Simple, austere, reasonable, moderate, just and infinitely considerate, never to the dwellings of the great came a nobler guest.

"We pledge the universiyt, whose chief glory he was, our best, and our best to the country whose greatest private citizen he had been for more than a generation; we pledge to what he loved best and most."

Dr Gordon opened the service with a prayer "in behalf of students and teachers everywhere, for all Harvard men throughout the country and the world, as they turn at this time in reverence and grateful memory."

The casket was covered with greenery from the Mount Desert island hills, where Dr. Eliot found his greatest happiness. Interwoven were crimson roses, the color of Harvard. Behind were ranged thousands of the same shade sent by Harvard clubs throughout the country. From the organ loft hung a crimson banner with the university motto "Veritas."

All nations, creeds and colors and men of all stations were in the gathering. Predominating were the fellows and members of the board of overseers of the university, faculty members emeritus who were coworkers under the 40-year presidency of Dr. Eliot, and scores of younger professors, now leaders in their fields but many of whom were his students in college.

U. S. Senator William M. Butler, George R. Nutter, president of the Boston Bar association, Adjutant General Jesse H. Stevens, representing the commonwealth, Judge Frederick Cabot and Herbert Parker, former attorney general of Massachusetts were a few of the men of public affairs present.

The congregation sang again the old hymn most loved by Dr. Eliot, "How Happy is he Born or Taught" and another "The King of Love My Shepherd Is."

Prof. A. T. Davison played the organ recital before and at the end of the service.

Harvard had then completed its tribute, as his neighbors did yesterday at Northeast Harbor. The family followed the body to Mount Auburn cemetery where private committal services were held before burial in the family lot. As the cortege left the chapel and followed the winding paths of the yard, lined with people with bared heads the new bell installed in Harvard hall was sounded for the first time.

"It marks a new chapter in Harvard life," a passerby remarked.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN AND A MAN AUTO VICTIMS

WHITE RIVUR JUNCTION, Vt., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Death and mystery followed an early morning automobile smash on a fog hung road in Hartland near here today. Two young women and a man were killed and a second man was injured when their machine crashed through a bridge rail and plunged 50 feet to the Central Vermont railroad tracks below.

The dead, all of Springfield, Mass., are Miss Doris Page, 19 year old telephone operator, Miss Bertha Lucier, and Thomas Mason. Mason's brother, Harry, was taken to the Mary Hitchcock hospital at Hanover, N. H., where he was still unconscious tonight, more than 13 hours after the accident.

Until Mason recovers consciousness the presence of Miss Lucier in the party will remain a mystery. Her parents saw her off on a Montreal train in Springfield last night for a month's vacation and today were unable to explain why or where she joined the Masons. At the hospital it was said that Mason showed no outward evidence of injury, but that his condition was extremely critical. Both he and his brother were married and moved recently to Springfield from Albany, N. Y.

KELLOGG AND SHEFFIELD DISCUSS MEXICAN AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Mexican affairs were discussed today by Secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Sheffield at a prolonged conference but the only official statement resulting from it was an affirmation by the secretary that Mr. Sheffield will continue at his post.

Contradicting published reports that Mr. Sheffield would resign, the secretary's statement said the ambassador would return to Mexico City upon expiration of his leave of absence. It expressed absolute confidence in him and declared the department "does not desire him to resign."

GERMAN HAS DEVELOPED DIRECT COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY

The camera, using plates of red, yellow and blue, was devised at Munich and Stettin by a group of German students of photography.

Photographers declared the instrument the most successful color camera ever intented.

The association passed a resolution designing an annual photograph week. The first such "week" will be observed in October.

KILLED OLD MAN WHO HAD CALLED HIM A LIAR

VANDLIA, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Because he was called a "liar" during an argument by Peter Rosenberger, wealthy aged farmer, Frank Sparr, a farm hand today confessed fatally slugging the old man with an automobile tire jack, thereby clearing a murder mystery which concerned authorities of four states. Sparr for the past two weeks had successfully posed as the purchaser of Rosenberger's crops and equipment, after telling the neighbors the old man had suddenly decided to go east to live.

When the Illinois river yielded Rosenberger's body, two weeks ago, after an extnsive search had been made at river points in Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky, a coroner's jury recommended that Sparr be held to the grand jury which indicted him for murder.

Appearing for arraignment today, and in response to the court's instructions to plead, Sparr suddenly said:

"I am guilty."

Rosenberger had proposed the sale of the standing crops on the farm to Sparr, the latter told the court, and had gone as far as to make out a bill of sale; the old man decided if he could employ a housekeeper, he would stay on the farm himself and they were on their way to seek one when the quarrel started.

Sparr said he made up his mind a week ago to plead guilty to the murder, after the finding of Rosenberger's body had cast doubt on his story of buying the farm. The prisoner absolved Roy Walker, a brother-in-law, and William Walker, a half brother, of any share in the deed. Sparr had been in jail without bond for almost two weeks and will be sentenced Friday.

One daughter, Mrs. Freida Steubinger, of Peoria, is the only known heir to Rosenberger's property.

He gained his freedom through the automobile door of the city where the jail is located.

Daniel had been in the city jail since Monday afternoon. He had been arrested for driving an automobile while intoxicated and for being a suspicious person. Investigation following his arrest disclosed his connection with the theft of the automobile in Raliegh.

Daniel was to have been arraigned tomorrow morning in the city police court to face the automobile theft charge.

Gov't Expenditures Are to be Reduced

Total Proposed for Fiscal Year 1928 Will be Considerably Below Actual Expenditures for 1927.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The total proposed expenditures by the government in the fiscal year 1928 will be considerably below the actual expenditures for 1927, perhaps a quarter of a billion dollars, Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee said today.

While the Illinois representative did not go into details, after discussing the appropriation situation for next year with President Coolidge, he said the government would not be confronted with as heavy outlays as was the case this year on the postal pay increase voted two years ago or on the soldiers' bonus and other special items, which in the fiscal year 1927 have placed an extra burden on the government of $300,000,000.

Total expenditures for 1927 have been limited by the president at $3,600,000,000 compared with approximately $3,620,000,000 in 1926, $3,529,000,000 in 1925 and $3,506,000,000 in 1924, the lowest expenditures year since the war. The budget for next year has been limited to $3,270,000,000 but this does not include postal costs or such indeterminate items as tax refunds.

In going over the financial situation with Mr. Madden Mr. Coolidge emphasized the economy programme of the administration and urged that no unjustifiable expenditures be made. Mr. Madden, who left for Chicago this noon after being an overnight guest at White Pine camp, plans to go to Washington soon and confer with Brigadier General Lord, director of the budget.

While no provision has yet been included in the budget estimate for next year to carry out the $165,000,000 public buildings programme, Mr. Madden indicated that some amount would be provided with the maximum for any one year limited to $25,000,000.

CROWDS STRUGGLE TO SEE BODY OF RUDOLPH VALENTINO

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Because of the disorder within the last two days the public will be barred after midnight tonight from viewing the body of Rudolph Valentino as it lies in state in a funeral parlor, S. George Ullman, the dead film star's manager, said today when he arrived at the funeral establishment to find a mob of 20,000 struggling with the police in an effort to get into the building. Since late yesterday afternoon, when the doors of the parlor were first opened to the public, a fighting, noisy throng has endeavored to view the body, and a number of persons have been injured.

"This has gone far enough," Mr. Ullman said. "The lack of reverence shown by the crowds, the disorder and rioting since the body was first shown, have forced me to this decision. Tonight at midnight the doors will be closed to the public and the body placed in a vault here in the Funeral church until Monday. It will be viewed only by friends and associates."

Mr. Ullman added that there be no great funeral cortege Monday, when the body is removed to St. Malachey's Catholic church for services.

"There will be only a hearse to bear the casket," he said, "and one or two automobiles to carry intimate friends."

Mr. Ullman tonight received a cable from Valentino's brother, Alberto Guglielmi, en route to this country from Paris. The cable requested that the star's funeral be delayed until his arrival on the White Star Liner Homeric. Mr. Ullman replied that to delay the fungral after Monday was impossible.

"To my sorrow it is impossible to delay the funeral later than Monday on account of health regulations," Mr. Ullman cabled. "I have exerted every effort to have an extension of time, but was allowed only one extra day."

Women predominated in the crowd that flocked by thousands and stood outside the parlors in the rain today until they could pass inside to view the body of the man who rose from dishwasher to the original "sheik" of the movies.

Many of the women came miles to see the face of the dead actor. Two women fainted in the close-packed crowd. Traffic on Broadway and nearby side streets was crippled despite the activities of nearly 200 policemen specially asigned to the vicinity.

BARRE, VT., FIREMEN QUIT AFTER DIGGING DITCHES

BARRE, Vt., Aug. 25.—(AP)—All four members of the Barre Fire Department had abandoned their jobs tonight in protest against having been put to work at digging ditches.

They were ordered to dig a trench two feet deep in front of the fire station for a new signal system, and walked out after doing the work under protest. Chief John C. Henri said that under department regulation firemen were required to do any work necessary for the proper maintenance of the department. The chief and his assistant, Ross McDonald, proceeded to recruit sufficient personnel to bring the department back to normal strength.

He suffered a relapse late yesterday but improved during the night. He sank again about 3 o'clock this morning and death came about 10:30. Hindu Comes to Alter Our Religious Life

Jiddu Krishnamurta, Theosophist, Claims to Have Heard the Voice of the "Universal God."

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A small, swarthy-skinned man walked down the gangplank of the steamship Majestic today, confident that his visit in this country will bring about a radical change in the religious life of the nation.

He was Jiddu Krishnamurti, Hindu theosophist, hailed by his followers as the world medium for the "voice of the godhead." Although he claims to have heard the voice of the "Universal God," the visitor's dress and manners were no different from those of any young Hindu dressed in Occidental garb.

His grey suit, striped shirt, blue tie and tan shoes were strictly 20th century in style. He speaks with an Oxford accent.

His arrival was a quiet event. Besides reporters he was met at the steamship by a press agent and the head of the American Theosophical society.

Krishnamurti has been called the "new Messiah," but he made it clear today that he makes no claim to that title. He declined to discuss with newspaper reporters any spiritual message he is bringing to this country. Instead, he referred them to a small pamphlet which was distributed aboard the steamship. After a lecture in Chicago before members of the Star in the East, of which he is head, he probably will go into retreat on his ranch nead Ojai, California.

Mrs Annie Besant, 50-year-old international president of the Theosophical society, who accompanied Krishnamurti on his voyage, will tell people in 34 cities of the "coming of the new world teacher."

"We do not claim for him Messiaship," Mrs. Besant said. "He is the teacher of the world. Since 1909 we have known that he has been selected as the vehicle of voice of the godhead. I believe that through him we are at the beginning of a new civilization, such as has occurred five times in the history of the Aryian race."

Krishnamurti said of himself: "I am different than other men, never touch alcohol or meat. I play golf and tennis, and I swim. I have studied all the great writers."

The pamphlets distributed by the press agent on behalf of the Theosophist stated that in 1910, when he was a boy, he published a book 'At the Feet of the Master," which "had written into its teachings of his teacher, received during sleep."

While Krishnamurti would not discuss any spiritual message he is bringing to this country, he did discuss jazz and other features of the modern world. America, he said, is part of a "jazz-mad world."

"This civilization is based on materialism," he asserted. "It is based on an excitement that is not real happiness. As long as one dwells on a spiritual plane he can forget materialism."

NAME OF PITTSBURGH BANK BOMBER STILL UNKNOWN

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The name of the perpetrator of the fatal bomb explosion in the Farmers Deposit Savings bank remained a mystery tonight after two possible identifications had proven erroneous.

The most important developments of the day was the location of the note in which the bomber yesterday afternoon made his demand for $5,000 and the threat to blow up the bank, if he did not get it. The note revealed that the man carried 50 sticks of dynamite in a little satchel. "It will discharge," it was written, "when the handle is out of my hand, if you or any one else fires a gun at me, there will be no cage left, we all will be blowing up pieces. The note was handed to a teller and the explosion occurred when the man dropped the satchel as a policeman approached.

BOYCOTT IS CAUSING GLOOM IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25—(AP)—The businessmen of Mexico, with undisguised gloom, are settling down with whatever philosophy and resignation they can muster to what seems to be an indefinite continuance of the stalemate in the religious situation. There is still hope that somehow a solution may be found, but so far as tangible facts are concerned nothing has occurred of late to substantiate that hope. If anything, the government and Episcopate both seem to be adopting a somewhat stiffer attitude.

REPUBLICANS IN STAMFORD BRING TROUBLES TO COURT

Ten Members of the Republican Town Committee and the Advertising Manager of a Stamford Newspaper Must Show Cause Why They Should Not be Charged With Contempt of Court—Outcome of a Paid Advertisement Signed by the "Republican Town Committee," Said to be Derogatory to the Stamford City Court.

STAMFORD, Aug. 25.—(AP)—With the republican primary here but two days away, ten members of the republican town committee and the advertising manager of a Stamford newspaper found themselves before Judge Samuel Young in city court today to show cause why they should not be charged with contempt of court.

The court action follows publication in a Stamford newspaper yesterday of a paid advertisement, signed by the "Republican Town Comittee," and alleged to be derogatory to the Stamford city court. The city court has been made an issue in the primary campaign

Three of the members of the committee denied in court that they had any knowledge of the advertisement until they had read it in the newspaper. They were Frank Rich, J. J Moore, and Max H. Mernstein.

The others in court today were Warren S. Abel, chairman of the committee; M. H. Kenealy, state senator; J. J. Treat, former mayor; J. T. Crane, a New York lawyer; John Roberts, former councilman; W. F. Gillespie; Frank Gurley, who represented Stamford at the last session of the legislature, and E. L. Witham, the advertising manager.

The cases were continued until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Petitions for the warrants which resulted in the court action were signed by Prosecuting Attorney Max Spelke, who was mentioned in the advertisement and who is a "Lincoln" republican.

Judge Carl Foster, of Bridgeport appeared for seven members of the committee and Witham. He filed a demurrer and arguments proceeded on the question of law. The demurrer, however, was over-ruled by Judge Young after a session which lasted all of the afternoon. Judge Foster then announced that he wished a continuance until tomorrow morning to file further pleadings.

In presenting the demurrer, Judge Foster argued that the complaint was insufficient in law because the acts and matter alleged in the complaint do not constitute a contempt of court inasmuch as the advertisement did not contain any criticism of the court and merely gave a statement of facts.

He further argued that there could be no contempt because the acts alleged took place after the final disposition of the cases which were first brought up last February. It was also claimed that it did not appear in the complaint as filed by Prosecuting Attorney Spelke that the statements contained in the advertisement are untrue

Prosecuting Attorney Spelke argued that the attack on the city court and Judge Young could be drawn from inference and was made by insinuation that could be clearly drawn by the advertisement.

In over-ruling the demurrer, Judge Young delared it appeared that the advertisement was not inserted for the innocent information of the public and that it insinuated that he suspended sentences after the accused had served part of their terms, because of corruption. He declared that never would any corruption enter his court.

Continuance of the case until tomorrow brings it to within 24 hours of the republican primary for the election of a town committee and the naming of delegates to the various conventions.

The split in the republican party dates back to the last session of the legislature when there was a contest over the city court judgeship in Stamford.

FIVE COACHES DERAILED BY PROTRUDING CRANE

MAPLEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Speeding out of a dense fog, an express on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad crashed into a crane projecting from a repair train here today, causing the derailment of five coaches and injury to five persons.

Two hundred New York children who were passengers in the three rear coaches of the five car train, escaped unharmed, although theirs were among the coaches derailed. They were bound for a summer camp. The injured were taken to Orange Memorial hospital.

The crane was on the east bound track and the express was traveling at the rate of about 40 miles an hour, according to Track Supervisor Thomas Langdon. Through a misunderstanding of signals, it was said, Harry Fine, operator of the crane, swung it into the path of the train, missing the locomotive and striking the tender. The derrick in turn struck and derailed the baggage car and four day coaches.

The derailed coaches crashed into the Maplewood station platform, demolishing the shed over a subway which leads from the east side of the track under the road bed into the station.

GERMANY AND FRANCE IN AGREEMENT AT GENEVA

GENEVA, Aug. 25—(AP)—Germany and France joined hands at the preliminary disarmament conference today in securing the adoption, against the opposition of the American and British delegations, of a resolution concerning the average age of fleets.

The French formula for estimating the age of a fleet was approved by a majority yesterday, and today the German project was adopted declaring that the age thus obtained constitutes one of the factors to be taken into consideration, although it does not seem possible to apply it as an exact co-efficient to the tonnage of the different countries in order to arrive at an equitable comparison of naval values.

The Americans and British tried to have eliminated the declaration that age as reckoned by the French formula constitutes a factor which should be taken into consideration, but the committee refused to agree to this.

GREEK PARTY LEADERS FAIL TO FORM COALITION CABINET

ATHENS, Aug. 25—(AP)—The party leaders failed this evening to reach an agreement for the formation of a coalition cabinet, and General Condylis, who carried out the recent coup in the Pangalos government, will form a temporary cabinet on the understanding that elections shall be held not later than October.

Admiral Coundouriotis has issued a statement to the people of Greece accepting the post of president, thus resuming the presidential duties which he was called by the vote of the fourth national assembly.

General Pangalos has been interned on the Island of Aegina in a private building, not a common prison. Nothing has been definitely decided upon as to his trial, but General Condylis has repeatedly told those demanding the death penalty that the former dictator would be tried according to law.

HEARING TODAY ON BILL FOR STEVENS AND CARPENDER

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Apparently invigorated by the knowledge that much work must be done before the plea tomorrow for admission to bail of two defendants charged with the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, the state today went about its questioning of witnesses with unusual intensity.

Among those questioned at the Somerset county court house by Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, were Fred David, Middlesex county detective; John Ferguson and anthony Silzer, attaches of David's office; W. H. Long, county physician of Somerset, where the slayings occurred, and Bogart T. Conkling, former sheriff, and Austin Greaiis, errand boy for a New Brunswich tailor at the time of the double murder in 1922.

Inspector Underwood of Jersey City said Greaiis had signed a statement several days ago in which he said that on the day after the slayings he called at the Hall home and received a suit "spotted and stained" to be cleaned.

Willie Stevens, brother of Mrs. France Stevens Hall and cousin of Henry Carpender, all of whom are charged with the crime, had instructed him to get the suit, Greaiis's statement said.

Later, however, Mrs. John Greaiis, of New Brunswich, mother of the youth, declared it was not Austin, but his brother William who was employed by a tailor at that time.

WOMEN OF ITALY MAY LOSE RIGHT TO VOTE

ROME, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Women of Italy may lose the right to vote before even they have had a chance to cast a ballot. They won the right to vote at municipal elections at the last legislative session of parliament after many years' struggle, but now a facist decree probably will abolish all municipal elections. This decree, according to a semi-official statement will be adopted at a meeting of the council of ministers next Tuesday.

The right of suffrage which the women lost is nominal because the suffrage measure not only restricted the women's right to the ballot to municipal elections but allowed the privilege only to a very small proportion of women. Only women who might be styled "prominent," "official," "war widows" and the like were to have the right to vote, which, as was pointed out in the legislative debates, was granted as an honor to certain deserving classes of women rather than a step toward political enfranchisement of all the women.

LONG LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The little Methodist Episcopal church in this hamlet is richer by $100 through the generosity of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the president.

The 49 members of the church recently decided to conduct a fair for funds to help carry on their work. Mrs. John Helms, one of the congregation, wrote to Mrs. Coolidge and asked if she would not care to contribute something for the fair.

The first lady of the land immediately responded with a gracious note and in addition a photograph of the white house taken by herself and bearing her utograph. A summer guest who visited the fair paid $100 for the picture.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

At a hearing in borough court Tuesday morning R. E. Stewart of Winsted, Conn., was fined $10 and costs of $11.25 totaling $21.25, which he paid, on a charge of speeding, Saturday, in the town of Willington. The arrest was made by Officer C. Willis, while on patrol duty on the Willington road.

Another matter which took up much of Judge Heald's time Tuesday a. m., was the case of Mrs. Adelaide Lorenzet, summoned by Officer Mason of the Stafford Springs police department, on charges of breach of the peace and assault. Mrs. Amelia Lorenzet was alleged recipient of the "slap" which caused all the trouble. Judge Heald heard the story of each of the women and of the several witnesses summoned, and apparently concluded that the case did not require the imposition of a fine and costs to impress Mrs. Adelaide Lorenzet with the seriousness of the offense. He secured a promise from all involved in the fracas to discontinue such ehavior and to maintain the good reputation which the Italian population of the town has established.

The argument started at a dance Saturday night at the Italian hall when some slighting remark was alleged to have been made by a visitor about one of the young girls at the dance. In order to straighten out the difficulty the woman charged with making the remark invited the girls concerned to her home Monday evening and while the discussion was in progress Mrs. Adelaide Lorenzet, according to the story told the officer, slapped Mrs. Amelia Lorenzet. The ensuing racket resulted in the action taken by the police.

DANIELSON

REPUBLICAN PARTY WARNED OF SCHEME TO BE PUT OVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 25. — From sources in close affiliation with the management of the republican party in the town of Killingly there came Wednesday the information that members of that party who do not care to see it dominated by a vicious influence, that is working secretly to control it, should be on hand at the caucus Friday evening to name delegates to various conventions that are to be held incident to the fall elections and for the purpose of electing a republican town committee. Leaders of the republican party here see disaster for party aims in Killingly if any such plan as it is secretly hoped to put over for control of the organization goes into effect. At the request of republican leaders this information is given to the public. It is now a matter of each individual republican being at the caucus unless he or she be willing that control pass into hands that are certain to wreck its possibilities of victory. And what applies to this caucus will apply to the town caucus scheduled for September 9, and another caucus incident to state affairs, to be held at a later date. The democratic party will be up against the same underground influence that the republican organization is fighting, when it holds its caucuses at an early date. A secret society has set out to run the political affairs of the town of Killingly with its own members in office—and everyone knows what that means.

SERGT. WALTER EVANS SUFFERS PECULIAR BURNS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 25.—Sergeant Walter Evans, regularly on duty at the state armory here, in charge of motor trucks and other properties of the state in the use of the service battery kept there, is nursing a face made extremely painful by powder burns. The battery recently returned from its annual period of field service at Tobbyhanna, Pa. Among other things the boys brought back as souvenirs were a few .75 shells. They were supposed to have been discharged and the castings were to be manipulated into souvenirs of one kind or another by the batterymen who had them. On cleaning out one shell a piece of felt was found underneath which was about a cup of coarse black powder. The powder was emptied from the shell onto the ground near the armory garage. Somehow this powder became ignited and there was an explosion that rocked the garage doors, filled the air with smoke and flame and painfully burned Sergeant Evans. He was hurried away for treatment and is now under the daily care of a physician. It is not anticipated that he will suffer any permanent injury.

Fenner Woodward, in the town court. In default of $2,000 bonds he was taken to the county jail at Brooklyn, in charge of State Officer Donald J. Geddes of Danielson barracks. Technically, the charge against Hughes is manslaughter.

Hughes was a battered specimen of humanity as he appeared in court. His head was bandaged and his face and nose skinned and swollen. He was not represented by counsel. "I suppose I shall plead guilty," he said when the complaint alleging wilful and negligent operation of an automobile in a manner to cause the loss of life was read to him.

It was regarded as a possibility that Hughes may obtain bail, but he was unable to do so today. He will be tried at the fall term of Windham county superior court having criminal jurisdiction. Disposition of his case finally, because of its gravity was not within the province of the town court.

Indulgence in moonshine liquor and beer after an all night's debauch led to the accident that caused Hughes' plight, according to testimony given the coroner by Stanley Kulbacki of Webster, who was riding in the rear seat of the machine when it was wrecked, near Welch's store at Attawaugan.

Monday next the Whitestone mill property at East Killingly is to go under the auctioneer's hammer to satisfy a tax lien of the town of Killingly. All negotiations for payment of back taxes due the town have failed, though they have extended through a series of years. The property is now chiefly valuable for its water privilege. What was the mill is a toppling array of stone ruins—all that was left after the fire that ravaged the big plant on a Sunday night in December three years ago. There are some old stone stock and dwelling houses unoccupied for a long time that have more or less value, but the water privilege, still an asset well worth having, is likely to hold the greatest interest for any who may bid on the property.

Wednesday afternoon, the body of Mrs. Margaret Harrington, 69, widow of Michael Harrington, was received here from Boston and taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mrs. Harrington, who had been in failing health for some time, died during Tuesday night at the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston. Mrs. Harrington, a native of Ireland, had lived hereabouts for many years. For a long time, with her husband and members of her family, she was resident in the town of Brooklyn. Later she moved to Danielson, acquiring property on Carter street, and still later lived on the West Side, where she owned a home. She is survived by a son, Frank Harrington, a resident of what is known as the Fitzgerald property in the Bush Hill section of the town of Brooklyn. Mr. Harrington, who had been in ill health for years, died about two years ago.

From her home in Moosup, the funeral of Mrs. Clara Robideaux was held Wednesday morning with a solemn mass of requiem at All Hallows' church at 9 o'clock. The officers of the mass were Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, the pastor, Rev. J. C. Mathieu of Wauregan and Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., of Danielson. There were many relatives and friends at the service. The bearers were John Robideaux, Euzeb Robideaux, Andrew Robideaux, Albert Robideaux, Theodore Robittaille and Leander Robittaille. Burial was in All Hallows' cemetery on the Green Hollow road. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

No word came out of New London Wednesday for anxious relatives here who feel that a body seen floating near Plum island by an aviator flying over waters thereabouts Monday may be that of Billy Maurice, otherwise William Coutu, once a resident here. It was learned that boats plying through the area where the body was seen floating are on the lookout for the body, which it is believed is being carried back and forth by the tides and currents and winds and may eventually be picked up miles distant from where the aviator reported having seen it.

Danielson's proposed town football team for this fall has not undertaken practice as yet. There are many barriers to get a team ready for action on the field. First there is the matter of getting a competent squad of ample numbers and next comes the matter of equipment. It appears that Danielson has plenty of good football material. That is a splendid asset. Now comes the matter of outfitting the players. Possibly that will be taken care of in the near future. There are various plans for doing this. It seems almost certain that a lively, efficient team would attract good patronage here. Nearby towns have their plans for teams this fall, so there would be no great difficulty about getting games.

At a session of the town court Wednesday morning, Judge W. Fenner Woodward sent Stanley Aubrey of Goodyear to jail in Brooklyn for 150 days—30 days for intoxication and 120 days for breach of the peace. Aubrey, arrested by Constable Martin Wolfe of Goodyear, was making his third appearance of the year in court Wednesday, having been in last January and last April.

Marketmen and grocers of Danielson have entered into an agreement to continue the Thursday half-holiday arrangement through September and October, it was announced Wednesday. Thursday half-holidays have been general here with the stores during July and August, but after next week the marketmen and the grocers will be alone in continuing their weekly half-holidays.

Fans are enthusiastic about the series of games arranged for September 11-12 between a team of players of the Danielson Twilight league and a team of players from the various teams of the Wauregan Twilight league. The series promises good sport.

PUTNAM

BLOOM SILK CO. STARTS RUNNING NIGHT AND DAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 25.—There is a prospect that the Edward A. Bloom Silk company will become one of the largest textile industries in the city. The company has already installed more than fifty per cent more machines than was intended when they bought the plant from the Putnam Manufacturing company on Providence street.

This means not only half as many more operatives as it was first planned to employ, but the capacity will be increased by running two shifts, a day and a night force. Beginning Tuesday, night operatives were put on in the throwing department. Only a small force will be used at the start but it is planned to increase the number as rapidly as possible.

The company has had to gradually overcome the obstacles incident to changing from a large cotton manufacturing plant to a silk one, corrections and adjustments have been made after trial, more employes added as rapidly as possible and the working of the plant brought to its fullest efficiency.

One factor that counts greatly in this direction is the fact that every machine has its own motor. Employes, as they become better acquainted with their work, are making very satisfactory wages.

FINE ORCHARD TRIP FOR FRUIT GROWERS NEXT WEEK

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 25.—The Quinnebaug Valley Growers' association in co-operation with the Connecticut Pomological society has arranged an orchard trip for Tuesday, August 31, starting at H. B. Buell's, Eastford, at 9 a. m. standard time.

Mr. Buell has about twenty three acres of apple and peach trees ranging from one to twenty three years old. These orchards have produced some very fine fruit. His new storage and his method of storing are also worth seeing.

At 11 o'clock, the party will visit Valleyside, the home of William C. Child, at Woodstock. Mr. Child has a diversified farm, one of his main crops being apples. He has over twelve acres of trees. His oldest orchard is seventy-five years old and the youngest was set out five years ago. A basket lunch will be eaten here and coffee will be provided.

At 1.30 p. m. the party will be welcomed at the hospitable home of Gardiner H. Sumner. His place is located one-half mile north of Woodstock Hill. Mr. Sumner has three orchards, one raised from seed planted by his father and two others set out by himself, one forty and one nine years ago. His McIntosh apple trees are the oldest in Windham county. This farm has been in the family for five generations. The two-hundred-year old house, containing many heirlooms, is a most interesting place to visit.

At 3:00 p. m., the trip will continue to Parker Bros.' orchard at Fishdale, Mass. The Messrs. Parker have one of the best apple and peach orchards in Massachusetts. They have won first place at the New England Fruit show at Boston open to Massachusetts growers. They have new storage ground storage, a new Cutler grader and a method of growing apples that no fruit grower should miss seeing.

Professor Darrow and other fruit specialists will be on the trip, to advise and answer questions.

DEPUTY LEONARD H. HEALEY ILL AT HARTFORD HOTEL

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 25.—Leonard H. Healey, deputy commissioner of Agriculture of the State, who has been ill at the Hotel Garde in Hartford for several days with rheumatism, is reported as much improved and expects to be able to come to his home in Woodstock tomorrow. Mrs. Healey has been with him since he was taken ill.

A few days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Garwer motored to West Glocester and in a short time filled a ten quart pail of the finest blueberries seen here this summer. Owing to the dryness of the swamps they were able to pick where it had been too wet in other years.

Rev. John K. Moore, 53 a former pastor of Thompson Congregational church, died at his home in Sharon, Mass., Sunday afternoon after a long illness. He was born in Berlin, Conn., a son of the late Rev. William H. and Mary B. Moore, and was educated in Hartford schools graduating from Yale college in 1895 and from Yale Divinity school in 1898. Rev. Mr. Moore held pastorates in Elizabethtown, N. Y., Parkville, Thompson and Sharon. He is survived by his wife, Grace Perkins Moore; son, Winthrop Moore; a daughter, Miss Margaret Moore and a sister, Miss Anne W. Moore, all of Sharon. Funeral services were held at his home Wednesday morning. Burial is to be at Westbrook.

Naman Goodspeed, 81, of Scarsdale, N. Y. is a patient at Day Kimball hospital since he was removed from a north-bound State of Maine express train a few days ago. Mr. Goodspeed was on his way from Scarsdale to Nashua, N. H. to visit relatives. When he was suddenly taken ill on the train the conductor wired ahead for a physician and Dr. Perry ordered him taken to the hospital. He will be able to leave soon, either for home or New Hampshire.

Funeral services for Miss Celina Grenier, 56, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Demers, in this city were held Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at St. Joseph's church, North Grosvenordale. Miss Grenier was a former resident of North Grosvenordale and while there made her home with a sister, Mrs. George Vosper, who died some time ago. She has

WEEDS AND PESTS

It is an interesting complaint which a resident of Toledo makes in a letter to the Toledo Blade in which he calls attention to the fact that notice was given in the spring that owners of lots would be required to cut the weeds thereon during the summer or bear the expense of having the work done by the city. He offers no objections to such a policy but he complains that the notice has not been lived up to, that the weeds have grown in keeping with expectations, that they have not been disturbed, except in a few cases, by either the owners of the property or by the city and the result is that they are not only going to seed for the perpetuation of such crops but they are a decided detriment to the good looks which the people of the city desire cultivated.

Weeds are said to be for no other purpose than to keep man busy. They are a nuisance as viewed from many angles, but no more attention seems to be paid to living up to Toledo ordinances in regard to them than is paid to the state law in this state concerning wild carrot.

A trip through the country shows how great the neglect is in respect to this pest. Broad fields of Queen Anne's lace are to be seen to such an extent that it might appear that it was being cultivated with as much interest by the land owners as a field of oats or buckwheat. And yet according to the law land owners are expected to get rid of such a nuisance, not only for the good of their own land but for a protection to their neighbors. Occasionally there are those who recognize the value of eliminating the wild carrot to the extent of burning the entire crop in fields where it predominates, but more often is the case that it is allowed to flourish as if it was a benefit instead of a detriment.

Human nature seems to be just about the same in Toledo regarding the undesirable weeds as it does in Connecticut concerning the outlaw, wild carrot, and we have no doubt the difficulty of getting action is not so different elsewhere.

ACTING ON OUR RESERVATIONS

It is only a few days now before the representatives of the nations meet in Geneva for the purpose of considering the acceptance of our reservations in connection with the vote to adhere to the international court of justice. Some of the nations have already indicated their approval but the most of them are awaiting the outcome of the Geneva meeting when it will be determined whether we become a member and that Europe was ready to welcome us on most any terms that we might set forth. After a long time we have spoken and now it remains to be seen whether it is preferred that we come in under the reservations or remain outside because of them.

The reservations are expected to speak for themselves. They represent the sentiment of congress in that respect and they are due to be considered as such. The desire has been to have an official interpreter of the reservations sent to Geneva to explain these reservations but none will be there. Whatever may be done in an unofficial manner is another matter. Through such a channel it is possible for the situation to be properly handled.

If the other nations are desirous of our entrance into the world court on our own terms the opportunity to back up that feeling by real action will be afforded next month. It is clear to the other countries what difficulties were experienced in getting congress to sanction adherence under the existing reservations. Refusal to accept them or an attempt to have them modified would mean throwing the whole matter back into congress, a step which would of course be heartily welcomed by those who have so persistently opposed all moves in that direction. This as the other nations give consideration to the reservations, which it is necessary for them to approve or reject, they must consider the chances of having such a step by this country actually turned down at home through the reopening of the whole question.

JAPAN'S EMIGRANTS

For a long time Japan has opposed the outspoken expression of countries on this continent against opening our doors to immigrants from certain countries across the Pacific. For that reason there is bound to be much interest in the latest expression from Japan to the effect that its emigration policy in the future will be changed and that it will devote its efforts to send its people to points where colonization is not opposed.

This indicates a recognition of the fact by Japan that it can see no chance of having its views accepted on this side of the Pacific concerning its emigrants and that it is time to give heed to the problem of providing for the surplus population in other directions.

This decision comes at a time when there is nothing but good feeling between this country and Japan, and the disposal of that matter should have the effect of creating even better relations, for with that should go much of the uncertainty and in fact that chief basis for agitations which has so long prevailed. The western coast never permits itself to overlook that question and as long as Japan endeavors to bring about a change of views in this country it will continue to be a live topic, ready to be fanned into flame at the least pretext.

The chance for Japan to send its surplus people to Formosa, Hokkaido and other Nipponese territories has always prevailed but the persistent effort to get them where it was made clear they were not welcome has been maintained. For this reason the right about face is of particular significance. It should do more than anything else has to check agitations, too many of which have been entirely baseless. Japan may not be satisfied with the immigration laws of this and other countries but it shows that it accepts them and will govern itself accordingly by sending its emigrants elsewhere.

STRANDED AMERICANS

There are those who are always ready to take chances and overlook protective measures. They undertake much more than is justified and then are obliged to look to others for assistance. Sometimes it is to be had but at other times it is not, and through failure to anticipate just such possibilities they find themselves in positions which are not pleasing but which might have been prevented.

This is the plight of the 800 or more Americans who are stranded in Paris without funds and unable to get jobs. They went to Europe with the expectation of being able to get back. They neglected that important provision of buying a round trip ticket and having spent that with which they may have planned to buy their passage back, and being unable to get work, they are in an unenviable predicament.

This places a decided strain upon organizations which deal with just such cases, especially when the individual has no resources to tap on this side of the water, and it illustrates the folly of placing too much dependence upon uncertainties.

The situation for many has probably developed through the fact that no arrangements were made in advance for returning home and when passage was sought it was impossible to be accommodated because of the rush of westward travel. Such a situation is overcome by those who looked to the many details and possibilities in advance. Could work be obtained this delay might be easily bridged but that is a corner which would not have been turned if the chance of getting steamship passage when wanted had not been taken.

The stranded Americans are not likely to be caught in such a predicament again but there will be plenty of others who will fall into the same difficulty unless the unheard of happens.

SENATOR FERNALD

Maine has produced some great men and sent them to Washington where they have established nation-wide reputations. In such a list Senator Bert M. Fernald would probably not be classed but he had nevertheless for the past ten years given a conscientious and sensible representation the United States senate. He added strength to the upper house of congress and was a strong administration supporter, although there were times when his views ran contrary thereto and he was not afraid to so express them.

In the senate as throughout his life he was a hard worker. Just what that means can be best illustrated by the manner in which he overcame his weak physical condition as a youth and through persistent care and training gained robust health and became a skilled athlete. He wrestled with a run down farm in an equally successful manner and he applied the same sound principles to politics. Interest in which did not develop until the latter years of his life. His record at Washington shows clearly how strongly he adhered to his convictions, a characteristic which was well known at home through his administration of the governorship.

That he will be greatly missed in Washington goes without saying. Such substantial and reliable members never drop out without leaving a place which it will not be easy for another to fill but Maine will have occasion to look back with satisfaction over the excellent service which he rendered to state and nation even though he was not a Blaine or a Dingley. He was a man who added character to any office which he held.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

Betty's thrill over the car that Uncle Bob has just given her is positively amusing. She actually pets it. She cannot get out or in it without giving it a rub or pat.

"You really love it, don't you, Betty?" I asked the first day she took me out in it.

"I certainly do," she replied, "and I wish to keep it looking new just as long as possible."

"When are you going to let me drive it?" I asked laughingly.

"That's a matter that as yet I haven't considered," she replied, also with a laugh, but I felt a little hardness in her tone. It seems to me unjust that Betty, who would never have met my Uncle Bob if she had not been a friend of mine, is so unwilling to share with me the things he gives her. Before he married her, when I was a little girl, he was the most generous of uncles, but now I no longer receive checks or gold pieces from him at Christmas or on my birthday, and I know that it is all Betty's doing.

I did think it small of Betty not to offer to let me drive her car, especially when she knows that I simply adore driving and that it is the same make as the one I helped Dexter Haines buy, and that I am quite familiar with it. Yesterday morning, when I was coming home from my golf lesson, I saw the car standing in front of our house. To my great surprise I found the door unlocked and the key in the ignition. On the impulse of the moment I jumped in and started it. I meant just to take a turn in the neighborhood, but I saw Polly Gray on the corner and I asked her to get in, which she did with alacrity.

"This is what I call service," she said. "I was just thinking I'd be late to my appointment with the dressmaker, and now, Lucile, if you can run me out there it will be a boon. I didn't know you had a car."

"I haven't a car yet," I answered.

"Oh, just trying it out? Dell, it's a beauty. I hope that you keep it."

"I hardly think I will," I said smiling and enjoying my own little joke, for it was fun to have Polly think that I could have an automobile if I wished.

"Betty," I said when I got home, "you're a careless little chauffeuse. Do you know that you left your keys in the car?"

"Oh, yes, I know it, and it's been stolen," she burst into tears. "Isn't it terrible? That lovely new car."

"Cheer up, cheerie, your car is right out in front."

"Out in front?" she rushed to the door, and again began to weep, tears of joy I suppose. I often wonder how Uncle Bob can endure such a lachrymose person as Betty. I handed her the keys.

Mother gave me a searching glance. I saw that she was angry, so I spoke first.

"Betty, dear, when I found your machine in such inviting shape with the door open and the keys there, I thought I'd just run around the block and teach you a little lesson, for you should be more careful. But I met Polly Gray and when she asked me to take her to her dressmaker's, of course, I could not refuse, and I did run in to see her new frock. I didn't like it at all. It's so—"

"And we have all been distressed because the car was stolen," said mother bitterly. "We've telephone the police and Bob, and it was just too bad of you, Lucile, to drive away with it in that high-handed manner. Poor little Betty has just been ill about it. You certainly owe her an apology."

But Betty ran and jumped into her car and drove away before I could say another word, and I heartily hoped that the incident was closed, but in the evening Uncle Bob telephoned that one of the fenders was badly bent and he wished to know how it happened just as if that would do any good! He said that Betty was heart-broken about having her beautiful new machine matred. She certainly has Uncle Bob hypnotized.

Father says that I must pay for the repairing of that fender, which I think is very unfair. It certainly is not my fault that the traffic conditions are such that even a cautious driver cannot get through a jam without being bumped.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

NO SPARE PARTS

By ROBERT C. BRYAN, M. D.
Richmond, Va.
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

The human body is the most delicate and beautiful piece of machinery known.

Stop to think of its marvelous development — vision, hearing, taste, smell—properties which inanimate objects cannot possess. And stop to think of the lack of attention and care which this wonderful machine receives from you.

The cheapest and smallest piece of machinery, a plow point, is scraped and cleaned before using; all bridges and large structural works are constantly being painted, oiled and parts replaced, because of the wear and tear of the elements and from the mere fact of their existence.

The engineer oils his locomative at regular stops; advertisements bristle with the importance of lubrication of automobiles, and repair shops and foundries work merrily on to replace the worn out pieces which, even with the greatest care, give way under daily strain. And yet the human body is allowed to run, year after year, without supervision or overhauling—a disregard which would not be given the cheapest monkey-wrench.

You can buy any part of the most expensive automobile or the finest repeating split-second watch ever used in Kentucky, but there is no store which sells a finger, an eye, a kidney, or indeed, a small section of an artery, or a small snip of human skin for the repair of some simple little scratch.

With the practical control of many infectious diseases (which formerly decimated the populations of certain countries), the use of antitoxins to combat disease in its early stage, the wonderful advantages of selected cases for surgical operations, it would seem that a hearty co-operation on the part of everyone would soon increase the span of life even more.

But scientific research, organizations and talks are of no avail unless you and I express a desire for the positive health which it is possible to have. In the co-operation between the individual and the medical profession, the health examination, or yearly overhauling, is the cornerstone, because it will, in most instances, detect impending disaster, which may be prevented or permanently cured.

School children have an enforced investigation of their eyes, teeth and throat. They are vaccinated and other precautions are taken for life and health. Yet on reaching maturity, these grown up children take liberties with their bodies apparently basking in the false opinion that the human frame cannot wear out. A periodic health examination by the family physician will prevent much illness and add many years to life.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

In electing Prof. Arthur Keith as its president for next year the British association for the Advancement of Science has chosen from the medical profession the man upon whom to bestow this signal honor. Besides being a recognized authority in the science of medicine Professor Keith has a world-wide reputation as an anthropologist. His education was received at Aberdeen university, University College, London, and Leipsic university. He has been Hunterian Professor of the Royal college of Surgeons, secretary of the Royal Anatomical society of Great Britain and president of the Royal Anthropological institute. Similar societies in America and on the continent have also bestowed honors upon him. Professor Keith has written extensively for scientific publications and is the author of numerous books dealing with anthropology.

VALENCIA

"Valencia, in my dreams it always seems
I hear you softly call to me,
"Valencia, where orange trees forever
Tempt the breese beside the seas."

Commerce reports add a third line to the now popular song which proclaims the Spanish city a paradise of love and romance. The third line being:

"Valencia, two new bridges, sewer system, city hall and central market"

For Valencia has embarked on an ambitious program of public improvements, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The music of the song is like the city," the bulletin continues. "The band crashes into the opening measures with every brass and every drum, then levels down to a thin little melody before it recovers courage. The city of Valencit greets the visitor with a blare of prosperity.

"But the music changes and one catches as an interlude and undertone the refrain of old Valencia. Moorish life, to which gardens were more important than cigarette factories, has survived more strongly in this third city of Spain, it is said, than any other in the Peninsula. Darker eyes and deeper complexions are met with on Valencia's streets than in Barcelona, to the north. Irrigated orchards that are more like gardens than groves still mark Valencia's country side away from the busy hubbub of the port. 'The scent bottle of Andalus' the Moors called it. Spaniards know their city of 256,000 people as 'Valencia del Cid.' Thus do they surrender the city once more to the Cid, a Robin Hood bandit, who is quite lovable at a distance of nine centuries.

"A practice in harmony with the old Valencia can be witnessed every Thursday morning at 10 o'clock before the Door of the Apostles, main entrance to the 500-year old cathedral. Here meets the Tribunal de las Aguas, the Court of the Waters.

"The Tribunal's court room is the pavement, open to the blue sky, and has been for five centuries. The judges' bench is a sofa, upholstered in green. It appears from some mysterious hiding place. Following the judges' rule, comes the bar of justice, a portable iron railing. And in due course seven judges. But how can these men judge? They have no long black cloaks. They have no wigs like the English judges. They have not professionally serious faces. They are dressed like peasants, in Sunday black with black felt hats. Indeed, they are ordinary peasants elected by the peasant water users of the Huerta or gardens of Valencia's countryside.

"Every American who has had any contact with the furious contentions which have marked the history of irrigation in the United States, will be interested in the procedure and the remarkable history of the Tribunal de las Aguas of Valencia.

"'El'obr'il el. tribunal' announces a peasant official of the court. The court is convened. The plaintiff, a peasant in person, makes his statement to the court. An interruption brings a fine. Then the defendant, also a peasant, states his side of the case. One judge announces the verdict of the court. There is no appeal from the decision. Neither the governments of Spain nor of Valencia have any part in the court, yet they honor its acts. None of its decisions is ever recorded. No lawyers are permitted to appear before the Judges of the Waters. They are men who know whereof they judge. They know what effect their rulings will have on the families concerned. They use water to grow oranges, olives and rice. One who watches the judges depart, the raiting and sofa disappear, feels that there is a finality in this justice inherited from the Moor. Prosperous orchards and farms throughout the irrigation district give evidence that it is also successful justice.

"'Papel y tinta y poca justica,' goes the proverb of the peasant. 'Paper, ink and little justice.'"

Stories That Recall Others

Set it Wrong

A story that is more or less of a classic among editors is that of the irate poet who bursts into the sanctum in big rage.

What's the matter?

"Matter enough," he fumes. The first line of my poem to my son should read:

My son, my pigmy counterpart!
Here's how you printed it:
My son! My pig; My counterpart.

Insistent Creditors Came First

Two members of the African Baptist church called on old Uncle Mose for a contribution to the church.

"Ah'd sho' like to he'p you ladies out," Mose began, "but Ah's got so many yutha debts."

"But you owe something to the Lord too," one of the solicitors remonstrated.

"Yassum, das right, Sistah Jackson but he ain't begun to push me yit lak some o' these yeah white folks what Ah owes."

SHOULD HUSBANDS DO HOUSE WORK?

How Mrs. Dyer Solved the Problem.

Mrs. Mildred Dyer was lucky. She had a good-natured husband who helped her with much of her housework. Because she was in ill health for five years, it was often necessary for him to do this. But it bothered Mrs. Dyer. She felt that he had to work hard enough anyway. The time he spent in doing her work was needed for his own. She determined to find the road to better health.

She writes: "I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply wonderful. My health is better than it has ever been. I am getting stronger and gaining in weight."

The Dyers live at Redlands, Calif., Route A, Box 183.

How often does your husband have to do your housework? No matter how willing he is, no woman feels comfortable about it. Perhaps you, too, will find better health through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

AS OTHERS SEE IT

Municipal Gas and Current (Waterbury American)

Holyoke's municipal gas and electric plant, described as the banner municipal plant of Massachusetts, has reduced the price of electricity to 3 1-2 cents per kilowatt-hour to large consumers with corresponding rates for smaller consumption. These are thought to be the lowest prices in the country. The price of gas has already been reduced to 85 cents. Excellent water power and efficient management are given as causes for the plant's fine showing.

Explains Covered Bridges
(Brockton Times)

President Coolidge tells the party that accompanied him to his old home in Vermont, who were puzzled over the covered wood bridges they found up there that these structures were built as they are for protection from the weather, from rain in summer and snow in winter. That is the explanation made in the country where such bridges remain. None of them are built any more. The original idea was that the life of these structures would be prolonged by roofing them over.

They are an obstruction in that they shut off some of the most delightful views from the traveler and they are not economical. The roof keeps snow from covering the floor of the bridge and heavy teams cannot be hauled through them unless snow is shoveled in to reduce the friction of traffic. In every town in northern New England that has a covered bridge the annual report will show a charge for "snowing bridges." This charge, in the course of years probably has amounted to more than the saving effected by putting on a roof.

Whether or not the towns have learned their lesson, it is a fact that no bridges are now being built with roofs over them.

LOCKERBIE STREET OF RILEY'S DAY DOOMED

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—(AP)—"Such a dear little street ... nestled away

"From the noise of the city and the heat of the day"

But the Lockerbie street James Whitcomb Riley wrote about thirty-nine years ago no longer is nestled away from the noise of the city. And have disappeared as the city's residential line receded, eating Lockerbie street within a dilapidated downtown district.

"The cool shady coverts of whispering trees.

"With their leaves lifted up to shake hands with the breeze"

To Riley the Lockerbie street residence of Major and Mrs. Charles L. Holstein was home for more than forty years. There, a wanderer, he penned his "Songs of Childhood" and others. And there in 1916 he died. But before Riley died the street was being given over to cheap rooming houses and the oak and maple shade trees were going fast.

The Holstein home now is Riley memorial and the desk and other mementos of the poet's occupancy still remain. Time and the elements have seared their marks across the old aristocratic, two-story mien, giving it that like Riley, tattered, whimsical, hanging within arm's length of the past. Its shabby neighbors have left the poet's words:

"Which in all its wide wanderings never they meet

"With a resting place there save Lockerbie street."

The tourist seeking the Riley haunts finds Lockerbie only a block long not far from the business district. The pavement has been neglected and now is rough and broken. Soot has stained every building and the few trees that remain are a pathetic reminder to those who knew Lockerbie street when Riley immortalized it in poem.

NEW LONDON, Aug. 25.—Bessie King, a Colchester woman who has been at work in making clothes in that town, and Samuel Slutsky, a New York labor agitator, have been trying to stir up discord at a garment shop on Bank street, and have twice been arrested in a week or so for a breach or the peace. In fact they had a complaint against them adjourned until holds them to good behavior. Yesterday afternoon they were arrested the second time and this morning they were given a hearing in court. They were represent by an attorney who secured a delay in the hearing of the case this morning, and that resulted in a postponement of the hearing. The couple are under a bond of $300 each to appear later. Judge Prince is of the opinion that this pair will conform to law or take the consequences of a continuance of their conduct. There is understood to be no objection to the offenders leaving the employment with which they are not satisfied, but there is serious objection to the pair interfering with other workers who are satisfied with their jobs and the wages paid. The Blom silk mill was closed by such agitation as is being attempted now, and there is a determined feeling among the people of the city that more of the sort of tactics that closed the Bloom mill will not be tolerated here.

BILL LIBRARY AT LEDYARD HAD ACTIVE YEAR IN BOOK CIRCULATION

Leaden skies and occasional showers failed to darken the day for those who assembled at Ledyard Center, Wednesday, for the annual Bill dinner, over 300 people, many from out of the state, assembling on the green beside the Ledyard Center Congregational church to enjoy the pleasures of renewing old acquaintances and to listen to the excellent service in the church.

The meeting of the Bill library trustees took place at the library at 10.30 o'clock in the morning, President William L. Allyn presiding. The report of the librarian, Mrs. Billings T. Avery, was one of the most interesting ever received by the trustees, in part covering the following: During the year closed the town took the first advantage of the state library grant, to obtain which, the town appropriated an equal amount to that of the state, or $100; of which $50 went to the library at Gales Ferry and $50 to the Bill library. Books were selected by the association book committee. Besides books purchased through the double appropriation additional books were purchased at a cost of $30.50, with money from the Henry Bill and Billings T. Avery Jr., memorial funds.

Many of these books are being used by the school children in their class work, the teacher being held responsible for the books during the loaning period. This saves the town money which would otherwise have to be provided for purchase of books for school reading.

In addition to the books mentioned, costing $30.50, a number have been received from Mrs. Joseph Selden, Mrs. Frederick Bill and Amos Avery. The circulation of books was about the same as in the previous year, 567 books being taken out and 1 130 magazines, which, if figured at the rate of six to each card issue, means that 5,202 persons have enjoyed the privilege of using the books and 6,780 persons the use of the magazines.

The report of Treasurer Billings T. Avery showed expenses to be $199.56 for the dinner and $234 for the purchase of the new tent to replace the one destroyed two years ago. Library expenses totalled $279.66, the sum of $139.68 being used for books, $45.50 for magazines and $153.13 for insurance and running expenses, a total expense of $738.62.

Funds at hand include $5 206.53 in ch. Henry Bill fund, three bonds valued at $1.000 each; 30 shares of New Haven railroad stock, value not figured, the Billings T. Avery Memorial fund of $250.57, interest of steel bonds, $288.27, interest on New London gas and electric bonds and Delaware and Hudson bonds $642.22, and interest on New Haven railroad stock $539.50.

Election of Officers

The election of officers resulted as follows: President William L. Allyn; vice president and treasurer, Billings T. Avery, vice president Charles A. Gray; secretary, Frederick W. Burton; executive committee: William L. Allyn, Billings T. Avery, Joseph A. Clark, Charles A. Gray and Frederick W. Burton (new members), trustees, William L. Allyn, Billings L. Avery, Frederick W. Burton, Joseph A. Clark, Everett Gallup, Jacob Gallup, Charles A. Gray, Charles S. Hewitt, Joseph E. Holdridge, Rev. A. E. Kinmouth, Rev. W. F. White, all reappointments; Samuel E. Holdridge, Earl B. Geer and Rev. G. F. Goodenough, newly elected members.

A resolution was passed in memory of Deacon Isaac Gallup Geer, vice president and member of the executive committee, whose death occurred during the past year. Deacon Geer at the time of his death was longest in continuous membership in that body and stood among the leading citizens of Ledyard. Printed resolutions of respect, in memory of John Miner Gray, late trustee and member of the executive committee, were also received.

Programme Carried Out

Following the library meeting the annual public meeting was held in the church auditorium, the program opening with a selection by the Grange orchestra? Mrs. William L. Allyn, pianist; Harry Hanks, Fred Doolittle, Miss Phyllis Hanks and Frederick B. Allyn, violinists. The address of welcome was given by Rev. Giles F. Goodenough, pastor of the church after which prayer was offered by Rev. W. F. White or Trumbull, former pastor of the church. A quartet selection, Fiddle and I, sung by the Grange quartet, Miss Phyllis Hanks, soprano, Mrs. William L. Allyn, alto, Harry Hanks, tenor and Frederick B. Allyn, baritone, was followed by two delightful baritone solos, Deep River, (negro melody by Burleigh) and At Dawning, (Cadman) sung by Frederick B. Allyn. The address of the day was followed by another orchestral selection and a quartet number, Soldiers Chorus from Faust, (Gounod) after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Goodenough. Announcement was then made the annual Bill dinner would be served on the green beside the church.

Address By Rev. Howe

The address of the day was by Rev. Chester B. Howe of New London, who spoke as follows:

The pessimistic writer of Ecclesiastes expressed his sentiments on books in the oft quoted words, "Of making many books there is no end: and much study is a weariness of flesh." This sounds like the complaint of a school boy near the close of the school year. The many books must have been relatively small when we consider that the art of printing had not been discovered and all books were written by hand. And yet, in spite of this handicap, there were great libraries in those ancient days. The search of the archaeologist has unearthed the library of Ashurbanipal, ruler of Assyria in the seventh century before Christ. Tens of thousands of clay tablets were systematically arranged on shelves for easy consultation. These contained the official archives together with the choicest religious, historical, and scientific literature of the Babylonians and Assyrians. From these records it is possible to reconstruct in considerable detail the life and thought of that ancient empire.

The Chinese are another people who have books dating back over three thousand years. They have one history of their country in 3,264 volumes. They have one encyclopedia of best literature which contains 22,937 books. Think of the scene in some family when a good wife, yielding to the arguments of a book agent, signed up to buy such an encyclopedia of best literature. The Chinese have one biographical encyclopedia of 1,628 volumes, 876 of which are devoted to famous women. When we look at Chinese script we marvel that such volumes could be written and it seems a miracle that they can be read.

We are under great obligation to those who founded libraries in ancient days. Fortunately some of these have been preserved, buried under the sands of time. The hand of the vandal, however, has burned manuscripts which would be of untold value today. If we could have the library of ancient Alexandria we would have material of first hand information to help us interpret our Old and New Testaments. The burning of a library, either through accident or through vandalism, is one of the worst tragedies of civilization.

The founding of a library is one of the most far seeing and beneficial acts. When Mr. Henry Bill, in 1865, founded the library in Ledyard he performed a service whose value it is impossible for us to estimate. The original investment of between $3,000 and $4,000 has brought rich dividends to this community. The first catalogue contains the names of 1,013 volumes of standard works. There was also a Sunday school library of 250 volumes. Thus Ledyard, through the far sightedness and the generosity of Mr. Bill came to have the most complete town library in the state.

Since 1867 our country has witnessed a quickening of interest in libraries. One of the interesting features of our towns is the library, often a beautiful memorial building. My summer vacations are spent in a little New Hampshire town where a generous son of the town has built a memorial library. As I have come to know the people of the town I have discovered how widely the library is used. It is not only an auxiliary to the schools, but is in very truth an educational institution functioning among all the inhabitants. Such I expect is also the history of the Bill library here in Ledyard.

In celebrating the founding of a local institution we do well to think of it in relation to the whole nation. The books in this library are a part of the 70,770,608 books in the public libraries of this country. The total seems amazing and yet it is over fifty million short of being one book for every inhabitant. The yearly value of the products of the printing presses of this country is over two billion dollars, in 1924 there were over 9,000 different books and pamphlets published. Of these number only about fourteen per cent were fiction of eager interest to children it is apt to remain so through their lives.

What a marvel a book is! There is nothing commonplace in it, even in a day of radios. Take up that best selling book, the Bible. Someone has recently called it The Book That Nobody Knows. Our ignorance in reading it is astounding. Turn to the Book of Isaiah. Read the first chapter. You are listening to the voice of one who spoke over twenty-five hundred years ago. You think the radio is wonderful because you get a voice from Europe. Well, you can travel to Europe in a few days and talk to the person face to face, but Isaiah speaks to you across the centuries. Take a volume of poems by Tennyson. Turn to the poem In Memorial. This was written seventy-six years ago. In these verses you follow the struggle of a soul whose day has been turned to darkness by the death of a dear friend. You feel the thrill of his faith as he begins: You follow him through to the end and you have had fellowship with one of the great souls. There has been no static, not quitting in by your neighbors in the mystery and wonder of the hour. You have followed another's thought. He has talked to you over the years.

Then turn to the last poem in the volume. It is the poet's farewell to life. He is signing off. You are thankful to know such a great soul and to hear his farewell. You thank God for the glory and honor which is ours. Finally his thoughts and to be able to comprehend them gave the reader. You are grateful for books and libraries. You pay your tribute to men like Mr. Henry Bill who have helped to make books available to others. You echo the words of the pessimist and say "Thank God for the many books which give us fellowship with the master spirits of mankind."

ROTARY WANTS BOYS TO OBTAIN EDUCATION

With Alfred G. Bliven, chairman of the boys' work committee, in charge of the program for the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel the members of the club enjoyed two good talks on boys' work Dr Alfred Richards was the first speaker of the afternoon and outlined the plan of Rotary International regarding boys' work Dr. Richards in his talk said that we all owed something to our own boys, our neighbors' boys and the boys of the community and it is a duty that we should see that they are given the best advantage to make something of themselves.

Rotary International, said Dr. Richards, is very much in favor of the "back-to-school" movement and urges all Rotary clubs to try and get the boys who have left school to return for a better education. Among other things urged by Rotary is vocational training for boys and girls, the playgrounds, a physical department in all schools, encouragement of sport athletics and the instilling of good sportsmanship in the boy.

Mr. Bliven in his talk said:

I had the pleasure with a dozen Rotarians to visit two schools, entering the class rooms when classes were in session also making a thorough inspection of the Mt. Pleasant street school in the morning and the Falls school in the afternoon.

The conditions at the Mt. Pleasant street school were naturally in A No. 1 condition as this is a new model school.

At the Falls school things were much different. Had many of you men known of the conditions in that school, you would have been surprised. No such thing as sanitary conditions were seen anywhere. After our inspection the members who visited this school registered complaints in person to the school board and obtained results which were most gratifying.

This day certainly paid the men who gave their time, and without doubt more such visits would be very beneficial not only to the parents but to the school.

During the past few years we have had the pleasure of sending crippled children from our city to The Newington Home, and this is surely a wonderful piece of work. I think all of these children have been helped very much it was only last year we had the pleasure of having one of our boys who was discharged from The Newington Home come back to our club and thank the members for the benefits which he received while there. I doubt very much if anybody in this club fully realized what this meant to this boy and his family. To us in Rotary, it was satisfying just to have done a good deed.

We have again this year made a pleasant vacation for two boys by sending them to the Boys' camp at Beach Pond for two weeks. I hope this custom will be carried out by this club many years to come.

Your club has not been asleep in the matter of playground. A few of your members have been trying to locate a new playground in the city, but up to the present time have not been as successful as they had hoped, but they are still working on this matter which is still possible to carry out.

In the spring we are going to ask your assistance during Boys' week to help this committee foster a field day on the Academy campus similar to the one held two years ago, this field day is a big job and many will be asked to donate prizes and hope we will have your full cooperation.

At the business session President E. A. Harris presided and matters of club attendance were discussed. Charles A. Saxton was elected manager of the baseball team with Emery H. Davis as captain. The ball team will play the Hartford team at Lennox, Mass., during the fall conclave for the championship of the 20th district.

Among the musical features of the meeting were solos by Frank E. Murdy, Frank Aubrey and Walter LaFountaine and a duet by Henry J. LaFountaine and his brother Walter. Frank Aubrey acted as song-leader. There were several guests at the meeting including A. P. Hitchcock of New Lebanon, N. Y. a former Norwich boy. Charles Stearns of Albany brought the regards of Harry Clarke, a former member of the Norwich club.

FOUR CANDIDATES FOR STATE LEGION COMMANDER

The Connecticut department of the American Legion with its annual convention opening in New Haven this (Thursday) morning faces a keen contest for state commander. At least four candidates will make a bid for first honors in the department. Three of these candidates are vice-commanders, Kenneth F. Cramer of Wethersfield will go into the convention with probably the united backing of the of Hartford county, Stanley Dunn of New Haven hopes for similar support from New Haven county and W. Parker Seeley of Bridgeport is apparently the Fairfield county choice.

In addition to these districts vice-commanders there are two Meriden possibilities, W. S. Alexander and Dr. Dr. I. S. Otis, both former commanders of Meriden post. It is expected that at least one of these two will be placed in nomination. It is also possible that Leroy Downs of Norwalk, a former vice-commander, will enter his name.

State Commander Harry C. Jackson of New Britain, who has led the Legion in a most successful year, will not run for re-election.

Schweikert's Resignation.

Superintendent Robert T. Hurley will submit the resignation of State Policeman Frank Schweikert, who has been on duty at the Groton barracks, at the next meeting of the state police commission with the recommendation that it be accepted. Schweikert, who has been a member of the force for about three years, is to return to his home in Bridgeport, where he has a place in a private business, it is reported.

OLD AND NEW UNITED IN THE SCENIC EAST

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)— The history which is intermingled with scenic parts of New England is found in closer perspective in the states along the eastern seaboard. Here are mementos not only of the Revolution but of the Civil war.

Washington represents the modern tourists' Mecca, but Gettysburg, located nearby, annually attracts a million visitors to view the waters of Plum Run which were red with blood, Little Round Top, and Devil's Den. Situated at the crossing of the Lincoln highway from the West and Black Bear trail, running north and south, Gettysburg attracts one of every three automobile parties traveling these routes.

Revolution Scenes

Journeying, for the sesqui-centennial has proved a magnet. It is the home of Betsy Ross and Independence hall. Valley Forge is twenty-three miles northwest. Protected by a reservation of 3,400 acres the campaign site of Washington's army has been preserved, as has the house where he lived. A memorial chapel contains many other relics.

New Jersey's Resorts

New Jersey also has its battlefields chief of these being Princeton. Trenton was the landing place of Washington's troops that crossed the Delaware, and near to Princeton is Nassau hall, where the continental congress first met.

Here also are clustered some of the best known summer resorts. Atlantic city is the largest, but Asbury park, Long Branch and Cape May are among the leaders. The Kittatinny mountains and the land adjoining are dotted with small lakes.

Myriad Lakes

The northern section of New York state contains the Finger lake radiating from a "palm" of land. Its waters include Tauchanock Falls, the highest east of the Rocky mountains.

In this neighborhood are located several universities, the largest of them being Cornell and there are many relics of pre-prohibition days when the country's finest wines were stored in warehouses which still stand. Prolific vineyards once were cultivated in the fertile soil.

Fish Hatcheries

Another staple attraction of New York is the state fish hatchery at Caledonia. At the westernmost tip of the state is Niagara Falls. In the northeast and central east are the Adirondacks and Catskill mountains which abound in lakes and resort centers.

Many visitors annually take a steamboat trip up the Hudson river where between New York and Albany the palisades form rockribbed walls for the river such as are not found elsewhere.

One-sixth of all the employes in the Swedish civil service are women.

CONTEST PROMISED IN REPUBLICAN CAUCUS OVER STATE DELEGATES

At a meeting of the republican town committee which was held Tuesday night, with Judge Arthur F. Libby as chairman presiding, the names of candidates for the several conventions who are to be presented in the republican caucus Friday night were discussed, and it developed that there is to be one contest in the caucus, when the names of the four candidates as delegates to the republican state convention are presented.

In accordance with the usual custom of having the senator and the representatives who have served in the current term act as the state convention delegates, the town committee endorsed Senator Lee Roy Robbins and Representatives George C. Engler and Charles W. Cassidy, with Dr. George Thompson, for state convention delegates. The opposition to this group will present the names of Charles W. Burton, Mrs. Arthur Harvey Lathrop, and John E. Bowman, Jr. with the name of Dr. Thompson. The four delegates who are chosen by the caucus will elect two delegates at large.

For the senatorial convention the names of delegates to be presented are understood to be Arthur L. Peale, Weston C. Pullen, Frank I. Royce and William S. Murray.

There are also four delegates to be chosen by the caucus for the congressional convention and four for the probate convention, but the names of those proposed were withheld Wednesday night by Chairman Libby on the ground that it was not known yet whether the persons proposed would consent to serve.

Judge Libby stated at the town committee meeting that he would have no further association with the committee on which he has been a member for several years past and part of the time as chairman.

The caucus will elect a town committee and it is predicted that a very general change from its present membership is likely to be made.

KAMPF'S SINGLE IN FOURTH GIVES WARRIORS SECOND TIE WITH E. C. P.

For the second time, the E. C. P. and the Warriors battled to a tie game, Wednesday evening, each team scoring one run in five innings. Just a week ago, on last Wednesday, these two teams staged a 3 to 3 tie, also in five innings. A win last night, would have clinched the league pennant for the Power team, as they need only one victory to win the flag.

Manager Holland put his strongest lineup on the field, in an attempt to clinch the flag. Lefty Dugas was on the mound and although he pitched fine ball, one run scored by his teammates was not quite enough. Dugas allowed but three hits, and fanned seven. Two of the hits came together in the fourth inning, however, and were responsible for the one run scored by the Warriors.

Couture also pitched a fine game, holding the Power team to five scattered hits and fanned two. Couture was especially strong in the pinches, turning back the opposing batters several times, when men were on bases.

The Power team got off to a one-run lead in the first inning. With one out, Whitney singled over second, and stole second. Shefflot flied out to Jackson, but Dugas hit a long double to left, sending Whitney across the plate. Murphy singled to short, but Goldblatt closed the inning with a fly to center.

In the fourth, the Warriors tied up the game. Tombari doubled to left as a starter and scored on Kampf's single to center. Kampf took second when Greene fumbled his hit and took third on a passed ball. Jackson hit a grounder to second, and Kampf was caught at the plate, Cimikowski to Shefflot. Bill Burns popped to Dugas, and Jab Burns closed the inning with a grounder also to Dugas.

The E. C. P. had a chance to score in the fourth, when Goldblatt tripled over second base as the first batter, but Cimikowski, Smith and Greene, went out in quick succession, leaving Goldblatt stranded on third.

In the fifth, the Warriors made a final bid for the game but could do nothing with Dugas in a pinch. Fitzgerald leading off, walked and took second on a wild pitch. Courbois went out Dugas to Murphy, and Couture and Hamel fanned.

Whitney led the hitters with two hits, one of three tries, while Jackson, Fitzgerald and Hamel featured with catches in the field. The score:

Tonight's Game

Another day has passed and still the E. C. P. has not clinched the pennant, simply because those young Warriors and Holland's league leaders to another tie game. Whether it is fate that has interfered twice in as many times during the past two weeks, and assisted the Warriors in holding the E. C. P. to a tie preventing them from cinching the pennant is a question but whatever it is the Power Co., still has to win a game to put the old pennant on its staff.

Tonight they will have this opportunity when Hollands team plays the Yantic nine for the second time in two weeks, and oh what a game it should be. Any one of the three thousand that witnessed the Yantic-E. C. P. on last Thursday night will remember the most thrilling, heartbreaking game ever played on the Duwell field and which the E. C. P. finally won in the seventh inning with two men away. The fans on that night left the field dazed to themselves, their nerves all shot as a result of the seven innings of suspension that they had gone through while the E. C. P. was defeating Yantic 2 to 1.

Tonight Mgr. Peckham and his ball tossers will again come to grips with the Power company and it is almost safe to gamble that the fans will get as much kick if not more out of the game than they did last week, as the Yantic fans are backing their team to the limit to walk through the Power without being rumored that several high priced men being signed up in his valiant last attempt to stop the E. C. P.

The probable E. C. P. lineup will be Shefflott catch, Simcox pitch, Murphy first base, Cimikowski 2nd base, Barry shortstop, Yerrington or Whitney third, and Smith, Goldblatt, Barry, Greene, and Hall in the outfield.

The Yantic lineup is not known except that the battery will be "Cannonball," Gill Jones on the mound and Hamel behind the bat. The game will start at 6:30 sharp.

More About That Game

Sporting Editor:

My attention was called to an item in this morning's paper, saying the Spruce Lodge boys were in the right. Not knowing whether you wrote the item after hearing their account of the story or not, I personally write you, to give the full details.

On last Saturday evening the game was called off by B. Steinman, claiming that the team refused to give any guarantee. Sunday, at about 10:30 a. m. I Steinman called me and informed me that he wished I would get my players together and come up to "Cannon Hill". Fitchville, at 2 o'clock that afternoon, as his team wanted to play mine, the Sachems, and that the guarantee would hold good. I accepted. On our arrival at Spruce Lodge, the boys there claimed they knew nothing whatsoever about a game between them and the Sachems. At about 3:15 p. m. the Steinman brothers appeared and things started to take on a different appearance, as men started to get into baseball suits. We then started for Cannon Hill and at about 4:15 p. m. Mr. I. Steinman had a team together and we started playing; that is after the Spruce Lodge men selected one of their number to umpire. When the umpire called play ball the manager of the Spruce Lodge team, I. Steinman, and the umpire came to me and asked me if I brought baseballs with me and I stated yes. They asked me to put them in the game and I told them that the home club was the team to furnish the baseballs. They claimed they had none, so I, through the sport of the game, put two new ones in and the game started. During the game four umpires took their turn on the field and after standing highway robbery for the first five innings, we put up a kick and the fourth one took to the grandstand. Another, who was still worse took his place. After the Sachems were retired, they started onto the field and the fans started walking away. The umpire called play ball, but the Spruce Lodge boys were on their way back to their camp. Meeting Mr. I. Steinman, I asked him about the guarantee and what he said you would not print, or no sportsman would say. So I know you and the public can judge who was right: The Sachems.

Yours in clean sports,
JOHN McBURNEY,
Manager S. B. B. C.

CARDS OUT IN FRONT AGAIN BY BEATING BRAVES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25—(AP)—It's off again on again in the three cornered fight for National league leadership. The Cardinals, who yesterday got knocked from their first place perch by splitting a doubleheader with Boston, today trimmed the Braves 4 to 3 in a thrilling 11 innings battle and regained the coveted position. Hafey, batting for Southworth, singled in the 11th frame with the bases loaded and won the game. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati both lost today. Score:

REDS WINNING STREAK IS BROKEN BY GIANTS

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 25—(AP)—Cincinnati's winning streak of ten games came to a stop today when Hugh McQuillan outpitched Carl Mays in a hurling duel, New York winning, 2 to 1. Three snappy double plays helped the Giants. The only time Cincinnati broke through was in the seventh when the first three men to face McQuillan singled but in attempting to sacrifice, Dressen hit into a double play. The score:

BROOKLYN BREAKS EVEN BY BEATING PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25—(AP)—The Brooklyns managed to make an even break in the four-game series with the Pirates by annexing the final contest today by 2 to 1. UHLE BLANKS YANKS FOR HIS 21ST VICTORY

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—George Uhle, Cleveland pitching star, won his 21st victory of the season here today when the Indians blanked the New York Yankees in the first game of a double-header by 6 to 0. It was the second shutout recorded against the Yankees this season. The first shutout was tagged on the Hugmen by Tom Zachary of the Browns July 18.

Uhle allowed eight scattered hits in the triumph which was his fifth in a row over the Yankees.

The contest was played in a steady drizzle and the second game was postponed on account of rain. As this series marked the last appearance of the Indians in New York this season, the postponed game will be played off in Cleveland when the home club visits that city next month. The score:

TIGERS HIT HEAVY TO TAKE TWO FROM BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—Detroit went on a batting spree today and hammered eight Red Sox pitchers about Fenway park to take both games of a double-header, 11 to 4 and 7 to 6. JARVIS WILL PITCH AGAINST GIANTS SATURDAY

Manager Troland of the Taftville A. A. announced Wednesday night that he will pitch Lloyd Jarvis against the Elm City Giants at the Providence street grounds on Saturday. Jarvis in the first game with the Giants early in the season held this slugging outfit to two lone hits while Lefty Buckland was pounded for 13 hits in the last game, ten of them being for extra bases.

Cannonball Smith will again be on the mound for the Giants and this dusky hurler is second to none when it comes to semi-pro pitching. The Giants will put on the same team that played here a few weeks ago and the people who saw that game know that the Giants are a neat ball club. Manager Troland will send his regular lineup up against the Giants with the exception of Gauthier who is unable to play and his position will be filled by the best shortstop available.

JOHNSTON WINS HIS MATCH BUT IS HANDICAPPED BY SEVERE COLD

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25—(AP)—An attack of grip which confined him to his room this afternoon threatened to force the withdrawal of William M. Johnston from the Newport invitation tennis tournament.

Johnston complained of a heavy cold when he appeared on the Casion courts early today for a fourth round match against Dr. Carl Fischer of Philadelphia. There was no indication of impaired stroking in his play, however. The little Californian swept through his test with battering forehand drives to a decisive victory 6-0, 6-3.

After the match Johnson's temperature increased and he was ordered to bed by his physician, Dr. Truman L. Saunders. At his room in the La Forge hotel, Johnston expressed confidence that he would be able to go through with his scheduled quarter-final match tomorrow morning against Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass. His friends were less optimistic, however, that he would be able to complete the tournament.

Johnston's illness caught the veteran internationalist apparently at a point where he was just beginning to round into championship form for the approaching Davis cup struggle and the national championship.

He had come through the early rounds of the Newport event with three brilliant victories, defeating Nathaniel W. Niles of Boston, Hugh G. M. Kelleher of New York and Fischer with a minimum expense of energy.

Paralleling the impressive march of the far west star and giving increased promise of a final round struggle between the two rivals, William T. Tilden reached the quarter finals with Johnston today. The national champion smothered the drives of his Lehigh university protege, Neil Sullivan, under a barrage of torrid clouts to win easily at 6-2 6-2.

Earning the right to match strokes with Tilden tomorrow, Cranston Holman of Leland Stanford university triumphed over Arnold W. Jones, former Yale star, 6-0, 6-4, while Dr. George King of New York filled the remaining bracket in the upper half of the draw by eliminating Julius Seligson, 16 year old conqueror of Watson M. Washburn, yesterday, at 6-4, 6-4.

Chapin gained his bracket opposite Johnston in the lower half by putting out the flame-thatched Texan, Louis Thalheimer, 6-4, 6-0, while the eighth place in the quarter finals was taken by James Davies, former Leland Stanford athlete, after a two hour struggle, against Francis T. Hunter, seeded New York player, 4-6, 7-5, 8-6.

Davies, making his first appearance in eastern competition since 1923, amazed the gallery with his sensational recoveries and gave indication of extending his quater final opponent, Brian I. C. Norton, of San Antonio, who earned his bracket yesterday, by putting out Lionel Ogden of California.

Facing Dr. King in the upper half tomorrow will be Manuel Alonso, who also won his fifth round match yesterday.

The largest gallery of the tournament gathered for the Seligson-King battle as a result of the New York junior's unexpected victory over Washburn yesterday, and the spectators were rewarded by prolonged and exciting rallies, with King's hurricane net attack finally breaking down his youthful foe's steady backcourt defense.

The high spot of the day's play, however, was a terrific battle between Hunter and Davies. A gripping uphill battle carried the Pacific coast player to his hard-earned triumph after Hunter had held leads of 4-1 and 6-5. Davies triumphed in the final stages of the match, staved off defeat by remarkable returns with Hunter needing only a point to settle the issue. Then he mustered all his resources to tie the score and rail out the victory with a final break in his service at love.

Play in the doubles competition also reached the quarter finals, in spite of rain which pelted the steaming players throughout the afternoon, with Tilden and Chapin, White and Thalheimer, and Norton and Voshell among the victorious teams.

COOMBE HILL, Surrey, England, Aug. 25—(AP)—Charles Sweeney, the tall, hard hitting American boy from Connecticut today greatly improved his chances of winning the boys' amateur golf championship by defeating L. R. Patey on the last green.

The sultry weather today seemed to suit Sweeney, who as everybody noticed has many of Hagen's mannerisms in putting.

Expenditures, totaled $24,271.98, withcash on hand amounting to $1,694.15 for a total expenditure of $25,966.13. The net debt of the district Aug. 25, 1925 was $3,557.49, net debt Aug 25, 1926, $3,805.85, showing an increase of $448.36.

The report of the board of engineers was read by the clerk.

Treasurer Whipple moved that the tax of 15 mills be assessed this year, the same as last, and it was so voted.

Fire Chief Egger advocated the raising of the tax 1-2 mill saying that they had a bill coming the next year for $5,000. for new fire alarm system and that the switch board already installed was not satisfactory and the completion of the new one would run over into the next year.

Chief Egger spoke of the necessity for new pumper. Maurice Laing moved that the board of Engineers purchase a motorized pumper and that $14,000 be appropriated.

C. J. Murphy objected, saying that the district was already in debt enough and that there were but 60 calls during the last year. Chief Egger claimed that the debt was small compared to the town of Westerly debt, which was over $1,000,000. The vote was passed.

Chief Egger called attention to the necessity of a pumping place along the river as trouble was experienced when pumping from the bridge. He said that William A. Wilcox of the Barber Memorial building, on High street was willing that a dock be built in the rear of the block, and would donate the stone. Also that a similar place be provided between the Briggs block and the Westerly Textile plant on Main street. The meeting voted that a committee be appointed to cooperate with the engineers, to study and formulate a plan for better protection along the river front and to report at a later date. The committee will be named later.

The condition of the Westerly Fire station was discussed when Chief Egger said that the wooden building was a fire trap and that the floors need attention. It was voted that the above committee should take the matter under consideration.

The sixth in the summer series of concerts by Westerly band, C. O. Gaslit, director, is scheduled for this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock in Wilcox park.

Pa Stickleback.

Motherhood has all along
Been glorified in verse and song.
But you'll look long and you'll look far
To find much glory given pa.
—Pa Stickleback.

If any one had told Reddy Fox that he would spend his time watching a little fish less than three inches long he would have laughed. But he did just that thing. Whenever he had nothing else to do he went over to a certain little pool on the marsh where he could watch, down in the water, Pa Stickleback and his nest. You will remember that on his first visit there he had seen Pa Stickleback bring Mrs. Stickleback there. She isn't called Ma Stickleback, because she doesn't deserve the name. Reddy saw her go into the nest which Pa Stickleback had built, and after a while come out and swim away. That is the last he saw of her. But Pa Stickleback didn't swim away. Goodness no! He posted himself right outside one entrance to that nest and the way he guarded it was beautiful to see. If another Stickleback anywhere near, even though that fish might be twice as big as Pa Stickleback those spines on the latter's back stood right straight up, and he darted at the stranger so fiercely that besides the stranger was glad to get away.

Pa Stickleback was really quite handsome. You see he had put on his very prettiest colors when he went courting Mrs Stickleback. He was red-dish underneath and quite well up on the sides. He was very proud and very alert, and he had very good reason. You see, Mrs. Stickleback had left some precious eggs in that nest, and he didn't intend to have anything happen to them if he could help it. Once Reddy saw another Stickleback approach. It looked to him very much like Mrs Stickleback. In fact he was quite sure it was Mrs. Stickleback. But Pa Stickleback chased all her sex fiercely as he had at any of the other swimming folk who had approached. You see he knows Mrs. Stickleback through and through. Although as a mere fortunate thing some folk could look to be more beautiful than she, not one could look to be more beautiful to Pa Stickleback.

Now I have told you that there are two doorways to that little nest. Pa Stickleback kept guard in front of one entrance, and with his fins he kept a little current of water going right through that little nest, in one entrance and out the other. That was to keep the water clean and pure. If an egg got washed out, he would hasten to push it back in. Pa Stickleback was on the job every second. The wonder was that he got enough to eat. But he did. At the same time he managed to keep those eggs from all harm. Reddy never went over there, no matter what the hour of the day, that Pa Stickleback wasn't right there, looking as if he had a chip on his shoulder every minute. You know, that is just a way of saying that he looked as if he were all ready to fight every minute. He was, too! And proud! Why, Pa Stickleback was as proud of that nest—full of eggs as anybody could be. He might be anxious for fear some harm would come to them, and worried for fear they wouldn't hatch, and tired of all the time keeping on watch, but he certainly was proud. He was so proud that you only had to look at him to know it.

POETRY

The Barren Moors

On your bare rocks, O barren moors,
On your bare rocks I love to lie;—
They stand like crags upon the shores,
Or clouds upon a placid sky.

Across those spaces desolate
The fox pursues his lonely way,
Those solitudes can fairly mate
The passage of my loneliest day.

Like desert islands far at sea
Where not a ship can ever land,
Those dim uncertainties to me
Are something veritable stand.

A serious place, distinct from all
Which busy Life delights to feel—
I stand in this deserted hall
And thus the wounds of time conceal.

No friend's cold eye, or sad delay,
Shall vex me now where not a sound
Falls on the ear, and every day
Is soft as silence most profound.

No more upon these distant wolds
The agitating world can come,
A single pensive thought upholds
The arches of this dreamy home.

Within the sky above, one thought
Replies to you, O barren moors;
Between, I stand, a creature taught
To stand between two silent floors.
—William Ellery Channing.

To the Chicory

(Sometimes called the "dustflower," "poor man's coffee")

Darling little blossoms blue,
Like bright bits of sky
Dropped beside the dusty road
To delight the eye,
With fond welcomings we greet
Your return again,
Even though your coming speaks
Of the the summer's wane.

June brought us her roses red,
Beauteous to behold,
July came with lilies fair—
Hearts like burnished gold;
Humble flower of the dust,
Yet of heaven's own hue,
To console us for their loss,
August gave us you.

Like some lovely soul are you,
Blossoms of the dust,
That has kept its purity
As a sacred trust
Spite of evil's mirk and mire
Hedging it around—
Innocence with virtue clad
And with beauty crowned.
—Luella C. Poole in Boston Transcript

HOLLOWAY'S CASE IS CONTINUED TO SEPT. 13TH. AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 25—The case of alleged embezzlement of $3,644 in which Harry Holloway, an employe of the H. L. Handy company, is accused did not reach a trial this morning in the police court, as Holloway was not able to appear. He was represented by council who asked for a continuance and gave as a reason the physical incapacity of his client. Holloway, it is understood, underwent an operation for appendicitis some time ago and in lifting a quarter of beef he strained himself, so that he is under the care of a physician. There were some fifteen witnesses in court today, several of them coming from Norwich, and who were aroused from slumber to get them here. They are understood to be the chief witnesses for the state and to be familiar with the transactions in which the alleged embezzlement occurred. They will testify to the contentions of the complaint against Holloway. It is understood that the defense will be an absolute denial of any wrongdoing and will claim that the apparent shortage comes from the method of keeping accounts. It is represented that credits belonging to supposed debtors were not allowed on the books of the complaining company. Holloway's friends assert that he will be able to explain all when the case comes to trial. The adjournment was to the 13th of September.

Three drunks were presented for prosecution. They were picked up during the night when they were found helplessly intoxicated. Fines of $5 were imposed in each case, but execution of judgment was suspended. The men arraigned are John J. Foley, Larry Duffy and George Ney.

Carl Noren, a driver for the New Haven Dairy company, was charged with reckless driving after he had run down a child in Main street near the old mill. The child was injured so that he was taken to the hospital, yet was detained there but a short time, as the injuries were such as might be treated at the child's home. The accused asked for a continuance of the hearing till the 10th of September and that request was granted. Noren was held in a bond of $200.

George A. Holmes, of Uncasville, was charged with reckless operation of an automobile. The police said he was driving a car in which he was accompanied by a five-year-old child, and that Holmes was intoxicated. Warden Sweezy noticed the irregular driving of Holmes and secured his arrest. He was not prosecuted for driving while intoxicated, the admission being that though Holmes was under the influence of liquor when taken into custody he was not drunk when driving the car. He was fined $50.

Orthe Miller, a sailor on submarine S-19 took an automobile from the base that belonged to a buddy without any authority to use it. Miller was found by Sergeant Murphy driving the car in this city without having any registration and without he having an operator's license. The officer was of the opinion that Miller had drank considerable liquor, but he was not accused of having operated the car while intoxicated. He was fined $20.

Mrs. Julia Carver Kiely, about 55, died suddenly of heart disease at her late home, 17 Belden street, last evening. Mrs. Kiely, who was the widow of John J. Kiely, is survived by a daughter, Miss Catherine M. Kiely and a son, Richard W. Kiely, and by two sisters, Mrs. Annie Sullivan, of Belden street, and Mrs. Adolphus Burke, of Garfield avenue. Mrs. Kiely has been suffering with high blood pressure for a long time, but yesterday she was in as good health as she had been for many weeks. She performed her customary household duties uncomplainingly, until late in the afternoon, when she suffered a recurrence of heart trouble and the family physician was summoned. Mrs. Kiely was prescribed for, but she died during the night. She was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and the auxiliary of Division, No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The city marshal of Gloucester, Mass., communicated with the New London police this morning requesting that Mrs. Beatrice Perry Diamond, Main street, be notified that her mother was close to death at Gloucester. The police were unable to locate Mrs. Diamond, nor her husband, who was until recently a member of the United States Coast Guard, stationed at local section base, 4, state pier.

Michael Barca, 8 Elizabeth street, was arrested by Patrolman Clarence Martin this afternoon charged with driving his automobile while his license was under suspension. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel suspended the license last week for Barca's violation of the motor vehicle law and it had not been returned to Barca.

Mrs. John Griffin and infant daughter, of 30 West Pleasant street; Miss Alice Piasecik, 280 Main street; Mrs. Esther Williams, Pequonoc Bridge; and Edward Swinsky, 16 Hill street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Helen Austin, of Williams street, employed in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, who is having her vacation of two weeks, is now at Bretton Woods, in the White Mountains.

Stephen Ganos, of Bank street, is in Philadelphia, to spend a week with friends. He is making the trip by automobile.

Charles Myers, colored, formerly of Potter street, this city, who escaped from Norwich State hospital, Preston, yesterday afternoon while a patient under observation, was arrested on Tenth street, East New London, shortly before last midnight by Sergeant Murphy, who found Myers roaming about the street. Later a guard from the hospital came to New London and took charge of Myers.

G. H. Bottomly, attached to Submarine S-50, stationed at the submarine base, reported to the police this morning that yesterday afternoon while crossing Bank street at the corner of Montauk avenue, he was struck by an automobile, the owner of which he did not know. The automobile, which carried Connecticut registration, N-8709, knocked Butterfield down and caused injury to his left side and damage to his clothing.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the licenses of Louis Gaitano, 11 Pequot avenue, and William F. Driscoll, 17 Home street, suspended. The commissioner also ordered the license of Andrew Trigni, 653 Bank street, recently suspended, returned to the owner.

Employes of the Crown theatre last night detected a strong odor of gas escaping from one of the stores of the building. Investigation revealed that in closing the store for the night a cock to a small gas pipe had been left open and allowed the gas to fill the store and gradually make its way to the lobby of the theatre.

GOT FRESH WITH POLICE, BAY STATE MAN IN TROUBLE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 25.—Joseph M. Feldman, 91 Hefreshoff street, Roxbury, Mass., may be a wiser man when he leaves New London tomorrow than when he arrived here this afternoon. A short time after his arrival in the city, Feldman drove his car to State street where he parked it but in doing so he failed to comply with the city ordinance, which prohibits the parking of automobiles a distance from the curb greater than a foot. Traffic Officer Frank Linehan detected the violation and as the automobile would block the passage of trolley cars, Feldman's auto was tagged. Usually in such cases, a nonresident is released on a first offense with a warning to heed the traffic signs and adhere to the city's regulations, but Feldman when he appeared at the police station was inclined to be surly and abusive. Instead of being released with a warning, Desk Sergeant Frank Howard ordered Feldman to furnish a bond of $10 for his presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Feldman then became real abusive and declared that he had not parked his automobile a foot from the curb and the matching of a bond was a "hold-up." Desk Sergeant Howard then decided to permit Feldman to have cause for believing that a "hold-up" game was being resorted to, for the sergeant increased the amount of the bond to $25. Feldman departed from the police station in a rage and immediately started to secure the return of his money and make it possible for him not to be in court tomorrow. He was unsuccessful, however, for what influence his friends had, if any, did not bring about any change in the situation, so Feldman will be presented for trial in the morning.

The wine and home-brew beer, many cases, seized a week ago when federal agents and local police raided the residence of Victor Frederick, 33 Walbach street and which has been in storage at the police station, was removed today to the post office building, where the federal agents have an office, by Prohibition Enforcements Agents Harry W. Avery and Stanton L. Briggs. Frederick was held in bail of $1,000 yesterday for trial in the United States district court at New Haven next month, when presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran.

Frances Countryman, 83, widow of George Owen, died last night at her son's residence on Main street, Niantic, after an illness of three years. Mrs. Owen is survived by two sons, George H. Clark of Niantic and Charles A. Clark, Utica, N. Y.; two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Ferguson, Chicago and Mrs. Grace A. Williams, Utica; a sister, Mrs. Alida Griswold, Perry, Iowa, and a brother, C. E. Countryman, St. Petersburg, Fla. She was born in Starkville, N. Y., and resided there the greater part of her life, moving to Niantic about 13 years ago, following the death of her second husband.

Mr. Joseph Sadlasky and infant daughter of 32 Perry street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

State legionnaires of the Loyal Order of Moose are to meet in Moose hall, this city, next Sunday afternoon when a class of about 100 candidates will receive the initiatory degree.

George Russell and James Dillon, apparently friends, became intoxicated this evening and then engaged in a fight on State street. Both were arrested by Patrolmen Ernest Upperman and Lawrence Feeley, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace.

Rudolph C. Gladu, of Waterford, was arrested this evening charged with breach of the peace. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Gladu, it is claimed, has been absent from New London and Waterford several months. This evening he returned to this city and went to the Hartford Rooming house, 26 Green street, where he interviewed Elbert Berube, who, Gladu claimed, had accused him of the theft of $10. The interview resulted in a fight. When the battle ended both Gladu and Berube walked to the police station where Berube made complaint against the former. Gladu practically admitted the theft charge, especially as he did not make a denial of the accusation.

Seventeen new voters were made today and tonight, at the meeting of the board of registration for that purpose. Those made voters today and those made at a meeting of the board a week ago, brings the total number of new voters to 92. Another meeting of the board will take place Oct. 7. The voters made today and who are eligible to vote at the annual city elections next month, are Helen J. Danz, 242 Ocean avenue; Nicholas J. Danz, 243 Ocean avenue; Jame Daly, 20 Montauk avenue; Edmund R. DeLuca, 36 Moore avenue; Thelma J. Douglas, 26 Raymond street; John J. Dowling, 141 Blydenberg avenue; Charles T. Enos, 233 Crystal avenue; Charles J. Frick, 18 Reed street; Hilda A. Grane, 343 Jefferson avenue; Alice E. Grane, 343 Jefferson avenue; Jeremiah Kenyon, 207 Jefferson avenue; R. Wheeler Hewitt, 19 Bellevue place; Carrie H. Hewitt, 19 Bellevue place; William L. Knox, 20 Squire street; James M. McCarthy, 134 Montauk avenue; Patrilk J. Sullivan, 76 Harrison street and Lucy C. Smith, 135 Huntington street.

Reeves, of Prospect street.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE CHILDREN AT LOCAL FAIR

Secretary Gilbert G. Raymond has received word from Fall River, Mass., that a merry-go-round is to come to the New London County fair to be held in this city on Sept. 6, 7 and 8, and thus provide the best of amusement for the little fellows. This feature of the fair always makes a hit with the youngsters.

Another pleasing notice to the young folks will be that the Ambler Farms of Bellingham, Mass., will bring Shetland ponies and goat teams to the fair this year, thus assuring rides on the real horses as well as the wooden horses of the merry-go-round.

Seven feature acts of vaudeville and a balloon ascension with triple parachute drop make up an ideal program of entertainment, which, when added to by the three fast horse races daily, and the hundreds of exhibits and midway attractions, makes up a list of entertainments, never before surpassed at the Norwich fair.

The specials for Labor Day, the Better Baby contest and the American Kennel club licensed dog show should attract hundreds. Babies to 18 months are admitted to the baby contest, mothers admitted free with their babies. All entries must be in by 4 p. m. on Monday for this contest. Bank books started by the Norwich Savings Society are being offered as prizes.

Special for Tuesday is the concert of St. Joseph's Champion Boy Scout band of Willimantic, while on Wednesday comes the athletic events by the Duwell club.

Palace Theatre

The management of the Palace theater has contracted exclusively for the Famous Paramount program of motion pictures for the coming season, in addition to many road shows films that are now running on Broadway, New York. Among these is what is considered the greatest motion picture of all time, The Big Parade, which is now in its fortieth week at the Astor theater, New York. The opening motion picture attraction at the Palace Sept. 5th has been definitely set owing to the popular demand for the famous star, Thomas Meighan in his latest and greatest picture Tin Gods. The all star cast supporting Mr. Meighan includes Renee Adoree, the star of the Big Parade and the beautiful Aileen Pringle, the other film entertainment will consist of the popular Our Gang comedians featured in their latest picture, The Fourth Alarm, the Pathe news which will be shown at the same time that it is shown in the biggest cities, an innovation for Norwich. Other short reel novelties complete the film program, the pictures being selected are from the pick of the motion picture market in keeping with the aim of the Palace management to give the Norwich public the best.

Palace Theater

The mere announcement that Anne Nichols' perennial Abie's Irish Rose will be offered to the patrons of the Palace theater for an engagement of three nights with a matinee on Saturday beginning Thursday, Sept. 2nd will no doubt be welcome news to the theatergoers of Norwich and vicinity, who have waited for the coming of this wonder play of the age, which has taken the whole country by storm.

"Abie" is justly termed the phenomenon of the speaking stage, for since its premiere, now nearly six years ago, it has broken all world's records for lenghty runs and financial returns, and established more precedents than any other play ever written, not excepting those of the immortal bard, since the passing of the Marionette theater or Puppet show, a matter of some 500 years back.

Originally produced in Los Angeles, California, in 1920, where it ran in one theater 42 weeks, it nas since played 32 weeks consecutively in San Francisco, after which Miss Nichols' brought the play east, its premiere in the metropolis having been on May 22nd, where it is still playing to uniformly large business at the Republic theater.

Since then, the celebrated author-producer has had five other companies playing in different parts of the country continuously, the runs being, 58 weeks in Chicago, 32 weeks in Boston, 26 weeks in Pittsburgh, 28 weeks in Cleveland, 26 weeks in Detroit, 17 weeks in Cincinnati, 17 weeks in Toronto, Can., 15 weeks in St. Louis, 14 weeks in Kansas City, 14 weeks in Columbus, 11 weeks in Buffalo, 10 weeks in Montreal, 8 weeks in Rochester, 6 weeks in Syracuse, 7 weeks in Atlantic City, 8 weeks in Birmingham, 5 weeks in Providence, 4 weeks in Utica, 4 weeks in Scranton, 3 weeks in Hartford, and to say nothing of the numerous places in which it has played three nights or a week.

The sale of seats will open at the box office on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, but there will be no reservations taken over the phone.

Coming to the Breed

The Road to Yesterday, made under the personal direction of Cecil B. DeMille, is the product of a wealth of literary talent. The picture will be presented at the Breed theater next Sunday for a three days' run.

REACTION IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Stiffening of call and the time money rates brought about another sharp reaction in today's stock market. Operators for the rise continued their ineffectual attempts to revive bullish enthusiasm by bidding up selected rails and specialties, but the higher prices merely increased the volume of offerings, closing quotations disclosing a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 4 points.

Bearish sentiment was rampant in the financial district, despite such favorable trade news as the report that steel mill operations and demand were being maintained at an unusually high mid-summer rate and the crossing of the million mark by freight car loadings for the 13th consecutive week. Persistent rumors of an early increase in the Boston and Philadelphia federal reserve re-discount rates, while impossible of confirmation, undoubtedly led to the heavy liquidation of stocks on the theory that such action would lead to a further restriction of funds for stock market purposes. Professor Ripley's magazine attack on the failure of corporations to supply their stockholders with full information concerning earnings and assets was another "excuse" advanced for the selling movement.

Persistent liquidation of U. S. Steel common, which sold down to 146 3-4 as against the record high of 150 5-8 established only eight days, was attributed in some quarters to selling for the account of a large New York estate, but this report also lacked verification. At the closing price of 147 1-2, steel was off 2 points on the day. An attempt to rally the market in the late trading by bidding up General Motors also fell flat, the stock closing fractionally lower at 206 1-2, as compared with an early high of 208 1-2, and yesterday's high of 214 3-4. Sharp recessions also were recorded by such recent favorites as Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Commercial Solvents B., Sloss Sheffield Steel and Woolworth. Cuba Company broke over 3 points to a new 1926 low at 33.

Standing out against a background of declining prices was the sensational gain of 13 points in Warner Brothers Pictures A., which touched a new high record at 50, as against a low of 12 earlier in the year, on buying influenced by the success of the vitaphone, a new form of talking motion picture. U. S. Rubber common also moved counter to the general trend, closing over 3 points higher at 62 7-8.

Rail shares offered strong resistance to pressure, with a late spurt of over 3 points in Delaware and Hudson on the announcement of a new plan for segregating that company's coal properties, as the individual feature. Steady accumulation also was noted in the northwestern issues. Commodity prices pointed upward. Active wheat futures advanced a fraction of a cent a bushel on buying influenced by reports of a prospective European shortage of the commodity. Cotton advanced moderately on reports of adverse weather. Raw sugar was unchanged but coffee futures yielded slightly.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent and then advanced to 5, the first change since August 10. Banks called about $20,000,000 in loans during the day. Time money rates also stiffened, being quoted at 4 3-4 to 5 per cent instead of 4 1-2 to 5. Prime commercial paper ruled firm at 4 1-2 to 4 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling showed a further recession of 1-8 of a cent to $4.85 but French francs held relatively steady just below 2.85 cents. Widening of the spread between the spot and futures rates on Italian lire was one of the day's features, traders reporting that Italian banks, presumably acting for their government, were buying spot exchange against the sale of futures as a stabilization measure. German marks made further recovery on the removal of the post-war "peg", being quoted around 23.88 1-2 cents. The new Austrian coin, the "pengoe", has not yet made its appearance in the local foreign exchange market.

QUICK-THINKING BUS DRIVER RAN VEHICLE INTO BANK; BRAKES FAIL

Quick action on the part of Fred S. Costello of Springfield, driver of the Springfield-New London bus, which passed through Norwich shortly after 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, saved the ten passengers from possible serious injury, when the bus was driven head-on into a bank at the westerly side of the road at the brow of the hill leading to the Poquetanuck drawbridge.

The force of the blow was softened considerably by the soft dirt in the bank but the passengers, who had no time to protect themselves, were thrown forward against the seats, several of them sustaining painful injuries. In the front seat was thrown riding in the front seat was thrown against the brace of the windshield receiving a bad scalp wound, while several others suffered cuts and bruises from contact with seats in front. The passengers were Springfield and New London people enroute to the latter city.

The accident happened when the driver arrived at the brow of the hill leading down past Happyland and onto the drawbridge. Workmen were engaged in repairing the bridge and a truck was parked on the hill near the bridge. With traffic coming against him the driver of the bus threw on his brakes and immediately found that they had little effect in slowing the heavy bus. He swung to the right endeavoring to make a small laneway but seeing this was useless drove headon into the bank.

The passengers after receiving treatment from a doctor who passed by, were taken on to New London by private cars passing the scene. The bus had the front axle and radiator broken and also some damage to braces beneath the frame.

At the time of the accident the bus was not travelling fast and this fact probably saved the passengers from more serious injuries. It was stated that the bus had travelled for many miles over roads newly tarred and oiled and that this probably caused the brakes to slip when applied.

Although not mentioned in connection wit hthe accident, a number of autoists who had passed over the Military highway earlier in the day stated that they had also been forced to apply brakes suddenly upon reaching the brow of the hill. They gave the reason for this that the danger sign was standing north of the bridge, but near the foot of the hill, and was not visible until automobiles had reached the crown of the hill and were soon on the sharp incline to the bridge, a thing which required good braking power to bring a fast moving car to a standstill for one way traffic.

The William R. Frisbie Co., of Norwich took charge of the wrecked bus and towed it from the highway to a place where repairs could be made.

66TH ANNUAL WIGWAM IS HELD BY MOHEGAN INDIANS

In the leafy bower, constructed of white birch saplings and as large as a small hall, the Mohegan church conducted its 66th annual wigwam Wednesday with a large attendance and good patronage all through the day and evening. The wigwam stood across the front of the church and entrance was gained to it by a doorway through the boughs, where the real Indian atmosphere was supplied by Lemuel Fielding (Chief Occum), who took the tickets and was arrayed in the regulation Indian headdress of feathers and deerskin leather suit.

Chief Occum's birthday corresponds to the annual wigwam date, so that he received many congratulations upon reaching his 66th birthday.

Inside the wigwam was a busy scene, as the various booths displayed their attractive wares, and at noon the dinner tables were well filled, where clam chowder, succotash, sandwiches, cake and ice cream and the distinctive Indian dish, vokeag, which is made from ground corn, were served.

Around the wigwam were held many fine looking quilts and on the fancy work table were the Indian novelties, including wooden spoons and bows and arrows, made by the Mohegans, and beaded moccasins which are manufactured by the Penobscots. At one corner was the fortune tellers tent, where an Indian princess, Mrs. Albert Fielding (Princess Tayah Moose) revealed the mysteries of the future.

Tickets were sold at the door by Miss Gertrude Harris and the cashier for the wigwam was Miss Gladys Tenta Quidgeon. Mrs Edwin C. Fowler and Burrell H. Fielding were in charge of the dinner and other departments were as follows: Candy—Mrs. Harry Francis; cake—Mrs. Gertrude Harris, Mrs. Delana Skeesucks, Mrs. Lloyd Harriss; grabbag—Mrs. N. Eugene Hamilton; ice cream—Miss Winifred Quidgeon, Mrs. Courtland Fowler, Miss Edith Strickland and Ernest Hamilton.

The proceeds of the wigwam, which is continued through today (Thursday) go for the benefit of the Mohegan church.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER SUE FOR AUTO INJURIES

Miss Annie M. Coffey of Occum, who was riding with Russell B. Starkweather of Plainfield in his automobile on the night of March 11, 1926, has brought suit against him for $6,000 damages for injuries she received when the machine hit a pole on the curve at the Sacred Heart church at Norwich Town. Papers in the suit were filed Wednesday at the office of the clerk of the superior court in this city.

The plaintiff makes the claim that Starkweather was driving at a reckless rate of speed when rounding the curve and he was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine, so that he pulled off the road and his automobile hit the pole, throwing Miss Coffey through the windshield. She was taken to the Backus hospital where she was a patient for two weeks. She suffered severe and permanent lacerations on face, neck and body, severe nervous shock and the ligaments of one leg were torn. As a result of her injuries she has permanent scars, and will be lame and incapacitated, she claims.

Mrs. Annie Coffey, the mother of the young woman, also sues Starweather, asking $3,000 damages, on the claim that she has been obliged to spend large sums of money for medical attendance for her daughter and that she has also lost the wages of her daughter who had a position at which she earned $12 a week at the time she was injured.

The suit is returnable in September.

Up From the Sea in Ships

Within the memory of this company, ninety years nex year, the romance, the adventure, the promise of wealth that lay behind the saying "down to the sea in ships" has been fulfilled, has ceased, has reversed itself. Today it is the men who come up from the sea in ships that bring the wealth, the romance, the added comforts into our lives.

Can you picture Norwich without the Thames, without the ships that come up from the sea to bring us the world's commodities, to save us untold dollars in transportation charges, to bring us a touch of the romance that will always live in the sea?

Stop in at our yards some day and watch the ships that come up from the sea. For ninety years they have been coming to our docks to help us deliver to you coal, lumber and building supplies more economically than if they came by rail.

COOLIDGE AT PLATTSBURG MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Sixteen Thousand Citizen Soldiers Carried Before the President the New Colors of the Citizens' Military Training Camps—Massed Bands Played "The Star Spangled Banner" While a 21 Gun Salute Boomed Out for the Commander-in-Chief.

PLATTSBURG BARRACKS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Citizen soldiers—16,000 strong—passed in review before President Coolidge at Plattsburg barracks today.

Carrying for the first time before the commander-in-chief the new colors of the citizens military training camps, the second regiment to be trained here this summer and comprising youths from New York, Delaware and New Jersey, swung down the parade ground and by the canopied reviewing stand under which the president stood for the ceremony.

With the president on the stand were Major General Charles P. Summerall, commanding the Second Army Corps area, and staff officers attached to the president and to the general. At the head of the regiment was Colonel John H. Hughes, commanding the regiment and post. All the troops were in field equipment, the new colors with their blue field, United States coat of arms and the embroidered words "Citizens Military Training Camps" waving proudly above them in the breeze of a clear sky.

It was the first appearance of Mr. Coolidge at a public function since he left Washington on his vacation more than seven weeks ago and as he came here by automobile from his Adirondack camp more than six miles away he received a warm welcome from the citizens. Entering Plattsburg, he passed the memorial to Commodore MacDonough of the War of 1812 that was unveiled a week ago, and upon arriving at the military reservation found drawn up at present arms, the regular 26th Infantry that won fame in France with the First Division in the World war.

The massed bands of the 26th Infantry and the Citizen Military Training camp regiment played "The Star Spangled Banner" while a 21 gun salute boomed out from a field battery as he alighted from his automobile to enter the home of Colonel Hughes and be greeted by the post commander and General Summerall. Leaving the commandant's house in a few minutes, Mr. Coolidge proceeded a hundred yards to the reviewing stand and after the review entered his automobile for a drive through the company streets and an inspection of the camp. Upon entering a mess hall just before regular noon mess he found the tables ready for the men and the food nearly prepared. He indicated his interest by obtaining from Mess Sergeant James Harison of the 26th Infantry the menu for the meal, the sergeant emphasizing with pride the lemon meringue pie that was listed for dessert.

Mr. Coolidge then returned to the commandant's house, for a luncheon as the guest of Colonel Hughes. Those present in addition to General Summerall included Colonel S. A. Cheney, military aide to the president; Lieut. Col. R T Finey, executive officer of the citizens military training camp regiment, and Major James F Coupal, personal physician to the president. Mr. Coolidge left after the luncheon for the Adirondacks as a 21 gun salute again rang in his ears.

CARDS NECESSARY TO VIEW THE BODY OF VALENTINO

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Barred doors today failed to discourage a crowd from gathering at the Broadway funeral parlor where the body of Rudolph Valentino lies pending the funeral Monday.

There were, however, no trampling thousands such as besieged the establishment yesterday and Tuesday while the doors were open to permit the public to view the actor's body as it lay in state.

The only untoward event today was when a few dozen persons tried to rush through the doors while an eight-foot funeral wreath, sent by the United Artists corporation, was being taken into the parlors. Police quickly dispersed the onrushing group.

Only a few persons viewed the body today. Those having cards signed by S. George Ullman, who was Valentino's manager, were the only ones allowed to enter.

Mr. Ullman had ordered the doors closed to the public last midnight after he had watched the vast crowd that jammed the streets and had reached the conclusion that the spectacle was "sordid, irreverent and morbid." Approximately 50,000 persons had viewed the body yesterday.

Today it was found that hangings in the parlors had been ruined and bits of gilt ornaments chipped off and carried away as souvenirs by the members of the crowd that swarmed into the place before the doors were closed.

GIRLS ON STRIKE TO BE SENT OUT TO SOLICIT FUNDS

MANVILLE, R. I., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Girl operatives are being sent in automobiles on a tour of Rhode Island mill centers to solicit funds for support of the strike at the Manville-Jenckes plant, which has been in progress since August 18. This, leaders say, indicates a long drawn-out struggle between the owners and employes of the cotton mill.

After a conference with strike leaders and mill heads today, Richard B. Brown, federal conciliator, remarked that "both sides are acting like schoolboys in this matter." He deplored the tie-up caused by "petty differences." The refusal of the management to discharge three non-union loomfixers is the only point at issue.

G. M. GUNN UNDERGOES AMPUTATION OF LEG

MILFORD, Aug. 26.—(AP)—George M. Gunn, 75, of Golden Hill street, Milford, who has been in St. Raphael's hospital, New Haven, since his last birthday two weeks ago, was operated on today for an infection of the leg, an amputation being necessary.

Mr. Gunn is well known in financial and banking circles as president of the National Trademen's bank of New Haven, and the MHford Savings bank. Formerly a state leader in democratic political ranks, Mr. Gunn served as state senator and representative from his district.

Dr. William Verdi performed the operation on Mr. Gunn this morning.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS IN SESSION IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Convening here from all parts of the country a half hundred official representatives of 40 class one railroads are in session at the Biltmore hotel today under the tentative convention banner of the first annual railroad motor transport conference, the object of the three day gathering being discussion of the problems confronting those roads which have established subsidiary passenger bus systems.

Permanent organization of the conference is in progress into what leading delegates term will be a clearing house composed of class one railway memberships for the study of motor bus problems, for the mutual combating of competition and for national standardization of the bus industry. They predict and say they will welcome national regulation and control, declaring this will be for the protection of both themselves and the traveling public.

In diverting much of the transportation business of the country "from steel to rubber," the railways represented here today take the position that the time has come for a country-wide comparing of notes, pooling of experience and mutual dissemination of observations and studies carried on by the individual companies operating subsidiary motor bus systems.

SAYS FEAR OF LAUGHS MAKES POOR PUTTERS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26 (AP)—Fear of ridicule keeps many a poor putter over a hundred thinks George Turpie, professional of the St. John's Gold club here.

"Most golfers would have better luck getting their putts down if they used only one hand," suggests Turpie.

"They refuse to let one hand do this work and in most cases actually have the hands pulling against each other as they hit the ball. All of us have had the experience of nonchalantly hitting the ball with one hand after a hole has been won, and we would doubtless be amazed if we stopped to think how many of these carelessly putted balls have rolled straight in the cup."

CLOUD DISPENDING TEST PRONOUNCED SUCCESSFUL

HARTFORD, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A cloud dispersion test, called one of the most successful since the "rain making" experiments began, was made over Brainard field this afternoon under the direction of Dr. Francis Warren, who is conducting the experiments. A naval plane broke up three clouds varying in length from three fourts of a mile to two miles and then attacked a big cloud bank with good results. There was no precipitation as the clouds were termed 'dry.'

Lieut. De Long Mills of the navy, who piloted the plane, took up 600 pounds of sand which, electrically charged, was hurled against the clouds.

STEVENS AND CARPENDER REMANDED WITHOUT BAIL

SOMERSVILLE, N. J., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Henry De La Bruyere Carpender and Willie Stevens, charged with the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were remanded today by Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker without bail to the county jail to await grand jury action.

State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, declared he was undecided as to what steps he would take for the convening of a grand jury to investigate the charges against the defendants. Whether he will ask for a special grand jury or await reconvening of the regular grand jury on the third Tuesday of September, will be decided after a conference with Justice Parker upon return of the latter from his interrupted vacation on Sept. 8, the senator announced.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the murdered minister, who is free in $15,000 bail on the same charges, will retain her liberty.

"She waived hearing," Mr. Simpson said, "and was admitted to bail by Chief Justice Gummere, and was not bound by the testimony taken at the preliminary hearing of Carpender and Stevens."

"You use long words and long sentences, but they have little meaning," he continued. "Education does not mean passing examinations. Your students are turned out, like machines. There are thousands of lawyers and only a few hundred artists. Who cares for lawyers? Who wants them?"

Six Miners Were Killed by Explosion

In Soft Coal Mine at Clymer, Pa. — Four Injured and Forty Entombed.

CLYMER, Pa., Aug. 26—(AP)—A terrific explosion swept through the Clymer Number 1 mine of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal corporation here this afternoon, claiming the lives of at least six miners, causing serious injuries to four others and entombing forty, whose fate had not been determined tonight.

Practically all hope for the entombed men was abandoned tonight after Dr. W. E. Dodd, company physician, explored the mine as far as possible. He said the blast caused widespread devastation and that the tunnels were so heavy with gas that no human could survive. He said that within the slope, under piles of rock, he saw the bodies of six miners. Some were badly mangled while others, he said, bore no marks, indicating that they were victims of the gases.

Volunteer rescuers, who entered the gas filled slope in their heroic effort to rescue the entombed underground toilers, were driven back time and again. Before the deadly gasses became heavy in the dark recesses, the rescuers succeeded in bringing out four bodies. Two others were located under falls of rock and dirt. Four men, near the mine mouth, were found to be alive. They were brought out and rushed to the Dixonville hospital, where they were reported unconscious and in a critical condition.

While rescuers held little hope for the entombed men, A. J. Musser, vice president and general manager of the company, said he had hopes that some of the men unaccounted for had succeeded in sealing themselves into rooms before the gas penetrated to them.

TWO MEN SHOT BY A DEMENTED MAN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Two men were killed and two others were wounded tonight when a man believed to have been demented ran amuck with a shotgun at Roosvelt road and Michigan avenue, near the Illinois Central station. The man killed one pedestrian and wounded two others before he was slain by a bystander, according to first reports.

The maniac first appeared in the train-shed out of which a crowded Michigan Central train had just pulled. Approaching Joseph Edwards, passenger agent of the Michigan Central road, with a repeating shotgun in his hand and without a word levelled the gun at Edwards and wounded him, possibly fatally.

Next he made for Timothy Lynch, a special policeman, who fled through the station warning crowds of travelers to run for their lives as the mad man pursued.

While hundreds of men, women and children sought refuge, the maniac's attention was attracted by Frank Miller, another special policeman.

He chased Miller into the train-sheds, then vanished to appear again in Park row, where he fired two or three shots into the air, bringing panic to the street.

Traffic in Michigan avenue, a few feet away was thrown into confusion. Special policemen and traffic officers made toward the maniac who continued to fire. He spied a waiter in a nearby restaurant and fatally wounded him, then wounded another. A storekeeper who had procured a gun then went into action and it was his shot that killed the maniac. The man was partly identified as Joseph Mazza, 40.

GIRL PREFERS PILLAR OF FIRE TO HER HOME

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Charging that her daughter was being kept against her will at the headquarters of the pillar of fire, a religious sect at Sarapath, near here, Mrs. Ruth Marshall of New Haven, Conn., today walked into the tabernacle with a state trooper while the annual camp meeting was in session and demanded that the girl be released.

The daughter, Ruth, aged 20, was found at the camp meeting but denied that she was kept against her wishes, declaring she was much hapier there than she ever had been at home. The mother was referred by state police to the Somerset country prosecutor, but could not reach him tonight.

Mrs. Marshall said her daughter was a graduate of the Connecticut Normal school and had attended a pillar of fire seminary. The girl left her home two years ago, police were told. Since that time, Mrs. Marshall said, funds forwarded her were taken away from her by members of the sect who swayer her through hypnotic influence.

Flagg, known along Broadway as "52 Per Cent Flagg," Because of his boast that he could earn his clients "one per cent per week," collapsed in his chair while Deputy Attorney Winter was questioning him about his methods of selling bonds for the Manhattan Life building, in which the questioning was being done. A doctor was summoned, but Flagg died a few moments later.

Winter said Flagg came to his offices in apparent good health, but was excited by the summons. Flagg's employes had been notified that he was "wanted" and when they told him he rushed to the offices of the Bureau of Fraud Prevention in a taxi.

TWO YOUTHS EXECUTED IN SING SING PRISON

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Two 19-year-old youth were executed in Sing Sing prison tonight, one on the verge of collapse, the other facing the electric chair with a jest.

John Garguilla, convicted in Manhattan of killing George Kindian in his grocery store during a hold-up, was plainly nervous as he went to the death room, hoping almost to the last that the governor would commute his sentence.

Cosmlo Brescia, sentenced in Brooklyn for killing his cousin, Giovanni Pilliegio, went to his death laughing. "I might as well die sitting up in a chair," he said, "as lying in bed."

COL. ROOSEVELT OUTLINES DUTIES OF LEGIONNAIRES

At Convention in New Haven Col. Roosevelt Advised Members to Combat Spending of "Colossal Sums" in Primaries and Elections—Would Oppose Attempts Towards Religious Solidarity Politically—Warns Against Disarmament by the United States While Other Nations Remain Armed.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 26.—(AP)—With Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as the guest of honor, the eighth annual convention of the Connecticut department, American Legion, opened here today and will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

The opening session, attended by Legion members from all parts of the state, was held in the armory, with Commander Harry C. Jackson, presiding. The delegates were welcomed to the city by Mayor John B. Tower and the welcome on behalf of the state was given by Lieutenant Governor J. Edwin Brainard. Congressman John Q. Tilson extended a welcome on behalf of the United States and the response was given by Vice Commander Stanley Dunn, of the Legion.

Colonel Roosevelt was the principal speaker of the morning and outlined the various duties, as he saw them, the Legion faces in present day conditions.

The practice of spending "colossal sums of money," in state and national primaries and elections, was characterized as an evil by Colonel Roosevelt and he urged Legion posts throughout the country to take some stand in the matter.

"In many of our municipalities," Colonel Roosevelt said, "there has existed and still exists, corruption. In many states and in the nation, in primaries and elections, colossal sums of money are spent. We know that this practice is evil. The Legion can, and should, take a stand in the matter. No one can with justice say a stand of this sort would be partisan. Anyone who thinks straight would proclaim it as patriotic.

"We should oppose all attempts towards religious solidarity politically. Protestants must not vote for a Protestant simply because he is a Protestant; Catholics must not vote for a Catholic simply because he is a Catholic; Jews must not vote for a Jew simply because he is a Jew. Action of this sort is un-American and to guard against it is the duty of the Legion."

On the question of preparedness Colonel Roosevelt said that: "The Legion should back to the limit an adequate army and navy and fight those foolish people who believe that disarmament on our part would work for peace."

"Disarmament on the part of the United States," he continued, "while other nations remain armed, would work for war and not for peace, and we know it."

A dinner was given to Colonel Roosevelt by department and convention officials at the Union League club at 1 o'clock and during the afternoon the colonel visited the hospitals at Allingtown.

A banquet was given at Hotel Taft by the ladies' auxiliary of the Legion tonight and again Colonel Roosevelt was the guest of honor and one of the speakers.

Various forms of entertainment were furnished for the delegates during the afternoon with many of the Legion members spending the afternoon at Savin Rock.

Others were at Yale field where the New Haven Junior American Legion team, Post 47, defeated the New Milford Legion team, 17-6 6 in a seven inning game. It was the first game in the elimination matches to decide the winning team in the state American Legion junior baseball league.

New Britain will play Ridgefield at Yale field tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and the winners of today's and tomorrow's contests will meet at Weissepark tomorrow afternoon to decide the championship.

The score of today's game follows:

New Milford	0 1
New Haven	17 12

Brutx, Travaglin and Mitchell; De Lucia and Caporale.

The programme of the first day of the convention came to a close tonight with a series of boxing matches at the armory.

Colonel Roosevelt at the banquet tonight emphasized the need of training the young manhood and womanhood of this country to a realization of their responsibilities as citizens of the United States.

"We must remember that our children will be partners in the United States, and equal partners," he said. "Our mission should be, if only from a selfish viewpoint, that we should strive to make all our children as good and self-respecting as possible."

The toastmistress was Mrs. Lucy M. Edwards, department president of the American Legion auxiliary. Other speakers were Past Commander Edward Kelly, of Bridgeport; Rev. Daniel Strickland, chaplain; Harry C. Jackson, department comander; Danny Edwards, department president of the Spanish War Veterans; Mrs. Mary Coyle, national vice president; Mrs. George Dobson, of Newark, N. J. and Mrs. Edward Devol, of Providence, R. I., national chairman in membership.

Practically all of the speakers told of work going forward in the training of the boys and girls.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICE FOR SENATOR FERNALD

WEST POLAND, Me., Aug. 26—(AP)—A brief and simple funeral service for U. S. Senator Bert M. Fernald, who died at his home here Monday, was held today in the little country church of West Poland. Representatives of the state and nation joined with old friends and neighbors and the final honors to the dead and later followed the casket, to its resting place in the village cemetery adjoining the church.

Governor Ralph O. Brewster was present as official representative of the state of which Senator Fernald once had been governor. Three members of the U. S. Senate, Senators Hale, of Maine, Butler of Massachusetts, and Moses of New Hampshire, were there to represent the nation. Neighbors and friends, many of whom had been lifelong associates of Senator Fernald, filled the small auditorium.

If had been Senator Fernald's last wish, when he knew that death was near, that his funeral service should be brief. He had requested that the song service be omitted and that his family and friends be spared the strain of a lengthy ceremony. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. James F. Albion of Brunswick, and consisted of a prayer and a few words of eulogy.

Flowers filled one side of the little church from wall to wall, and towered above the casket, over which C. L. Keene, brother-in-law and business partner of Senator Fernald, had stood solitary guard since members of the family said their final farewells at the home a few hours before.

Veteran employee carried the casket from the church to the grave on a nearby hill top overlooking the Fernald farm and homestead.

SHERIFFS BREWED BEER IN COUNTY BUILDING

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Deputy sheriffs have been brewing what they call beer in the County building. This was disclosed by Sheriff King F. Graham today when Martin Walsh, Thomas M. Donahue and Thomas A. Browning at whose stores cans of malt extract were seized recently, were arraigned in municipal court.

He admitted that his deputies have been mixing yeast and sugar with this syrup in the rum-room in the County building, and that his report of the analysis of the matured beer will be interesting. The cases were continued until September 3 for a hearing.

LONDON TYPIST FAILS TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Another woman has failed in the attempt to swim the English channel. Miss Mercedes Gleitzer, London typist, entered the water at Folkestone at 3 o'clock this afternoon in her second attempt of the season and the fourth in all, and was obliged to abandon her task after having swum seven hours. She was then ten miles from the coast.

It was found that the tide was carrying the swimmer back to the coast, and she accepted the advice of the pilot, who said she would be only wasting time and energy if she continued. Miss Gleitzer landed fresh and avowed she would have another try.

HELD ON CHARGE OF MASQUERADING AS WOMAN

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 26—(AP)—Attired in women's clothing, Patsy Prelo, who says he came here recently from Springfield, Mass., was arrested today by state reservation police while cavorting on the rocks of the rocks of the Second Sister Island, a short distance above the Horseshoe Falls. Prelo is held for arraignment on a charge of masquerading as a woman.

Prelo told police he put on the feminine garb to have his picture taken. He carried a camera. Motorcycle Policeman H. A. Collins, who arrested Prelo, said he first saw him on Monday crossing the bridge leading from the mainland to Green Island. Collins said he suspected the "woman" was a man but demurred accosting "her" in fear he was mistaken and might incite "her" wrath if "she" really was a woman. Today he spied Prelo again on the Island and got such a good view that he was convinced of the masquerade. Prelo ran when he saw the officer but Collins caught him after a short chase.

Forty-five years old and will set up Prelo had few, if any, feminine traits. He told police he was employed in an aluminum plant here and labored every day on the metal pots.

TAKING TESTIMONY IN SYMINGTON DIVORCE SUIT

BELAIR, Md., Aug. 26—(AP)—Disregarding injunction action in New York by Mrs. Ida May Symington, attorneys for Thomas H. Symington were taking ex-parte testimony in Hartford county circuit court today in Symington's suit for absolute divorce filed last July 7. Symington's counsel said the temporary injunction obtained by Mrs. Symington to prevent Symington taking further steps in Maryland courts pending settlement of the suit in New ork would be ignored. Mrs. Symington instituted suit for absolute divorce against her husband in New York in 1924. Mrs. Symington has filed no answer on the Hartford county suit.

Testimony was heard today by Judge Walter Preston, Attorney General Thomas Robinson, of Maryland, chief counsel for Mr. Symington and Stevenson A. Williams, associated counsel, placed Mr. Symington on the stand today. He testified that Mrs. Symington had told him that they should be divorced. Mrs. Mary Garber, who testified she was employed by Mrs. Symington in her East Sixty Third street apartment in New York in 1924, and Miss Bessie Williamson of Newark, N. J., former maid employed by Mrs. Symington, were also on the stand. Testimony largely paralleled previous testimony heard in the New York suit.

STORRS FAMILY MEMBERS INJURED IN AUTO BUMP

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 26.—Four people were injured and two cars were badly damaged, in the collision of a Flint touring car operated by Herbert A. Gillette, of Spring Hill, Storrs, and a Buick seven-passenger touring car driven by Bernard Cole, of Mansfield Center. The accident happened at the entrance to Cole's driveway, 400 feet south of Dunham's store in Mansfield Center about 8 o'clock last night. The injured are Mrs. Wayne L. Storrs, injured vertebrae, blow on head and cuts about the face; Mrs. Bernice Knapp of Bridgeport, a visitor at the Storrs home and sister of Wayne L. Storrs, gash four inches long on skull and bruises; Wayne L. Storrs, cuts on hand and body; Herbert A. Gillette, dislocation of two ribs, severe cuts on knee and bruises of both hands and forehead. The two women were occupying the rear seat. The Flint was proceeding toward this city bearing the party of four. Cole came out of his driveway and the front of his machine struck a terrific blow into the side of the Flint, at a point near the right front door. The Flint turned over once on the shoulder of the road and then rolled over again down a five foot embankment. Only the fact that the rear top brace was of steel saved the women from more serious injuries, the brace supporting the overturned car over their bodies. Mrs. Storrs was rendered unconscious. The various cuts resulted from the breaking of the glass of the winter enclosure on the car. The top was demolished. The front of the Buick was badly damaged, the front axle and springs being twisted. Mr. Cole was the sole occupant of his car and he escaped injury. Milk that he was carrying in the car was sprayed over the road. State Policeman Edward R. Burns of the Stafford Springs barracks was summoned and the investigation is being continued until the exact extent of the injuries sustained is determined.

Getting its start in an argument over the possession of an innocent five-cent piece, a case of assault developed and was heard in police court Thursday morning, finally being continued for two weeks by Deputy Judge Russell A. Andrews, with a word of caution to the belligerents. Mrs. Alice Dazy was the defendant and Mrs. Agnes Juras, acting for her daughter Helen Juras, sixteen years old, appeared as the complainant. One of the younger Juras girls and a young son of Mrs. Dazy got into an altercation over a nickel which had been paid the Dazy boy for rags sold a peddler. The children were in argument and Helen Juras started to straighten things out. She alleged that Mrs. Dazy struck her with a stick on the head and neck, knocking her out for fifteen minutes. A police officer when called found the girl lying on the ground and complaining of having been assaulted. Mrs. Dazy denied striking the girl, but admitted having pushed her twice. Mrs. Probost of the Stone Row and Mrs. Angell, another neighbor, testified that Mrs. Dazy did not strike the girl with a stick.

Frank Parker Jr., of South Coventry pleaded not guilty to charges of driving while under the influence of liquor and of reckless driving when in the Columbia town court Wednesday night. The case marked the closing of an investigation by State Policeman Clifford Willis of the Stafford Springs barracks of the collision of Parker's car on the night of Thursday, August 12, with a horse and wagon driven by Henry Watrous, in Columbia. Parker denied he was intoxicated, stating that he did not see the team until close to it and his efforts to avoid a collision were futile. Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins polled the charge of driving while intoxicated. For reckless driving he imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $30.13 which was paid. Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke prosecuted.

The ability of a woman driver saved Mrs. Alma Brenston, of Corona, L. I., her two women companions in her Hudson coupe, Tuesday evening, when the machine plunged down a 20 foot embankment near Barber's Village, South Coventry. Mrs. Brenston was turning the car around in the road to return for a supply of gasoline. The right front wheel got off the edge of the highway and with presence of mind the woman steered the machine so that it followed a straight course in its hasty flight down the embankment. It came to a stop right-side up and after being hauled back onto the highway needed but a few minor repairs. The occupants, who were on their way to Woodstock, were not injured. An investigation was made by State Policeman Clifford Willis, of Stafford Springs barracks.

How shipwrecked whalers marooned on an uninhabited island in the Antarctic circle for over two months resorted to cannibalism, eating the flesh of comrades they had killed, and many other interesting and sometimes gruesome incidents encountered in the governmental revenue service were graphically described by Dixon VanZandt in his concluding talk on "Life Before the Mast in the Early Nineties," at the Exchange Club meeting, Wednesday night. Mr. VanZandt was on the revenue cutter for twenty-one months. He also served before the mast on a sailing ship which rounded Cape Horn three times. Edwin P. Hayes, who leaves about the first of September to make his home in Charlotte, North Carolina, gave his valedictory to the members. Rev. Dr. A. B. Patten, pastor of the Torrington Congregational church, was the guest of Rev. T. Hauthorn Jones and he gave a fine talk on the objectives and accomplishments of service clubs.

Vito Sante, employed on a road building contract in Chaplin, pleaded guilty to a violation of the local traffic ordinance by driving his car to the left of the silent policeman at No. 2 mill of the Thread company, at the session of police court Thursday morning. Judge Andrews nolled the case, on payments of the costs of $5.16.

The funeral of Patrick Sullivan was held from his home in Stony Creek, Thursday morning, with a requiem high mass in St. Theresa's church in that parish at 8 o'clock. There was a large attendance and beautiful floral tributes. The funeral cortege arrived in this city at one o'clock Thursday afternoon, and burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Paul Bartlewski of St. Joseph's church, this city, near the committal prayers. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

The winding curve on Spring Hill, Mansfield, caused three accidents in which drivers unfamiliar with the road suffered their automobiles to skid on the wet surface. The first car was a Ford, which collided with a maple tree in the yard of Judge Lewellyn L. Storrs residence, causing a little damage. Next came a Buick touring car, which skidded and turned over in the yard and the third was a Pierce-Arrow machine which left the road and went down an embankment, later being driven back to the road through the fields, after adjustments had been made. Although the damage to the cars was slight the occupants were pretty well shaen up.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

WHEAT CROP OF NORTHERN HEMISPHERE

A wheat crop for the northern hemisphere about the same as last year is still indicated by revised forecasts for the crops of the United States, Canada, Hungary, and other countries reporting to date, says the United States department of agriculture. The estimates total about 2,264,000,000 bushels as compared with 2,227,000,000 bushels for the same countries last year. The 16 countries included produced 97 per cent of the total crop of the Northern Hemisphere last year. The latest condition reports from European countreis not yet reporting definite forecasts still indicate crops smaller than last year. These reductions may reduce the production of the northern hemisphere below what it was last year.

The estimate of the Canadian winter wheat crop as of August 1 amounted to 16,122,000 bushels compared with 23,780,000 bushels last year according to reports from the dominion bureau of statistics. The forecast of the spring wheat crop is 300,855,000 bushels. This indicated wheat crop of 317,000,000 bushels is nearly 33,000,000 bushels less than the forecast as of July 1 and 94,000,000 bushels less than the estimated crop of last year.

NEW U. S. POSTER ON PIGS

Showing the advantages of raising pigs in pastures and sanitary hog lots, a new poster, just issued by the United States department of agriculture, briefly explains the system of swine sanitation developed by federal specialists. Under the caption, Roundworm control and better pigs, one side of the poster contrasts a runty pig with healthy, thrifty pigs both pictorially and by concise text. The reverse side of the poster explains the life history of the roundworm and its journey through the pig. Five photographic illustrations show steps in the development of this serious parasite.

The poster is intended for distribution chiefly in localities where roundworms of swine are troublesome and among students of swine parasites. Copies may be obtained free on application to the department so long as the supply lasts.

TESTS FOR SILAGE CROPS

Almost any forage crop has all the chemical requirements to make a good silage. The only requirement, therefore, says the United States department of agriculture, for a palatable forage crop to make succulent silage is that it be cut when the moisture content is right. If cut when the moisure content is too high the silage will be water-logged or the soluble feed materials will be lost by drainage. If the moisture content is too low and water is not added, the silage will not be succulent and will not pack well enough to prevent the inflow of air and the growth of molds.

This general conclusion is the result of experiments conducted in the laboratory by chemists of the bureau of dairying in which corn, sunflowers and sudan grass, all cut at various periods of growth, were ensiled in tuts 3 feet in diameter and 4 feet deep. The investigations included a study of the chemical composition, keeping quality, changes during fermentation, and losses in food materials while in the laboratory silos.

Corn for the test was cut at four different stages of maturity—(1) when 20 per cent of the ears were in the dough stage and 80 per cent in the milk stage (2) when 40 per cent were in dough and 60 per cent in milk, (3) when 80 per cent were in dough and 40 per cent in milk, and (4) when 80 per cent were in dough and 20 per cent in milk. Study of the resulting silage showed the fourth stage to be the best time to cut corn for silage. At this stage there was the least loss of feed constituents in the test silos. This fact, coupled with the good score made when the fourth-stage silage was opened, indicated that the best corn silage results if cut when the ears are 80 per cent in the dough stage and 20 per cent in the milk stage.

Sunflowers are generally cut when too immature, according to the results of this study. These tests indicated that any stage between the time when all plants are in flower and before the petals fall is equally good for this crop.

A study of the growing plant and the resulting silage showed that Sudan grass cut either at the early blooming stage or at the middle to late blooming stage makes very satisfactory silage.

RUM RUNNERS RETURN TO SPUDS AND FRUIT

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J. Aug. 26—(AP)—Rum runners are picking berries and hoeing potatoes, while the decks of their slim, swift craft, once piled high with smuggled liquor, are daily buried beneath catches of fish and clams.

There is virtually no ridicule any more of the government's attempt to stop rum smuggling in Sandy Hook

Lost To Speed Boats

The percentage turned against the rum runner when the first coast guard boats capable of fifty-two miles an hour were put into service. A dozen fast chasers, of one kind or another, are on duty and seven of them keep nightly vigil over the short stretch between Sandy Hook and Fort Wadsworth.

The liquor boys admit their day has passed and every indication supports them. Many of their boats are now used in the fishing trade, others are idle and some abandoned.

Water Front Idleness

Boat yards here, and in Leonardo, Keansburg, Belford and Highlands, no longer hum with activity. Single screw pleasure craft are taking form on the ways but there is no hurried demand for yachts with Liberty engines and triple screws.

Time was when any boat with a "one-lunged" engine was good enough for the Jersey fisherman. Today he operates the speedy craft left over from the days when the "boys" made four trips a week to Rum Row.

Side Roads Quiet

Leons do Lagoon is quiet at nights There is no sputtering of speed boats in and out of the quill marshes and heavy trucks no longer idle rumble on side roads. Belford creek, once a thriving artery of the liquor front, is not disturbed by one boat a night.

Many of the rum runners tried their hand at gambling before they went back to fishing and hoeing. One of its many times in Florida, and another big operators multiplied his profits other has taken up quarters in the Bahamas, but with the profits of most of the others it was a case of "easy come easy go."

WHITE HOUSE "BUTTON" IS OF GOLD STUDDED WITH NUGGETS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Whenever a famous exposition or ceremony is opened at long range by the president of the United States he uses a gold electrical key studded with precious nuggets, the only instrument of its kind in the world.

Four presidents — Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge—and one First Lady, have touched the key's handle to signal the commencement of expositions and other projects of national importance.

When not in use, the instrument is carefully guarded by its owner, Edward W. Smithers, chief telegrapher at the white house, who has been on duty there since the day after the battleship Maine was blown up in 1898. It was given him by President Taft, who used it for the first time in 1909 to open the Alaskan-Yukon Pacific exposition in Seattle. The key was specially designed for that occasion, being mounted upon a slab of Alaskan marble, inset with Alaskan nuggets, and presented to Mr. Taft at that time by George W. Carmack, discoverer of gold in Alaska.

Probably the most unusual touch ever felt by the instrument was that given at three o'clock on a new year's morning, when Woodrow Wilson, clad in pajamas and bath robe, descended the stairs of the white house to signal from the east room the opening of the San Diego exposition. The year 1915 had reached Washington three hours before, but the president's touch caught the year 1914 in San Diego in its last dying gasp and caused the big fair grounds to burst into a blaze of light as the old year passed out and the new year arrived.

Another big event which the gold key was a part occurred in 1913. As the key was pressed by President Taft on that occasion, the waters of the Pacific and the Atlantic met for the first time in the Panama canal. The electrical impulse sent out from the white house caused the explosion in the big waterway which blew away Bamboa dyke, removing the last obstruction between the waters of the two oceans.

President Coolidge used the key to put the machinery of the $57,000,000 Skagit hydro-electric plant in Seattle in motion, and Mrs. Coolidge used it on two occasions to open women's meetings far from Washington.

Smithers is extremely proud of his possession. He keeps it stored away at his home, but many sightseers who have heard of the unusual historic relic insist upon adding it to the list of famous things in Washington they can tell of having seen with their own eyes.

"Just the other night," Smithers said, "four men from Oklahoma drove up to the house about midnight to see the key. They wouldn't leave until I got up out of bed and showed it to them."

Thunderstorms

Thunder and lightning go together, and when most of us see the lightning we are ready to shrink from the thunder. The air between two clouds charged with electricity, or between a charged cloud and the earth, is subjected to an electrical strain or pull. When further resistance is impossible a discharge takes place and this may vary from invisible lightning to a violent, rushing discharge that all can see. As this discharged electrical force is sent dashing through the air it heats its to the point of luminosity and the flash may last from one three-hundredths of a second to a second. Authorities explain that the thunder sound is but the crackle of the electric discharge, but the sound may be reinforced and prolonged by refractions and reflections from adjacent clouds and other objects. Frank Waldo, in his book on elementary meteorology, gives this explanation of thunder and lightning, and also explains thunderstorms.

Such storms are most likely to occur in this latitude during June, July and August. They are local, progressive and atmospheric disturbances. First, dark clouds appear lying low, usually in the west. The air becomes warm and sultry as the clouds mount nearer the zenith. Banks of clouds are built up and the first thunder is heard before the main cloud reaches the zenith. The first rain begins shortly thereafter. The interval between the first thunder and the rain varies from a few minutes to 30 minutes or more. Occasionally there is thunder and lightning, but no rain. Rain, however fall somewhere, as a result of such disturbances.

Such storms often are ushered in by gusts of wind known as squalls, but these rarely continue after rainfall is under way. The thunder is loudest and lightning strokes most frequent soon after the rain begins. The last thunder normally is heard after the rear edge of clouds has passed the zenith and the storm then is known to have passed on. Thunderstorms seldom last more than two hours but such storms may follow each other so closely that they appear to be a part of the same disturbance in this latitude thunderstorms usually move to the east.

The last of the great classics of the English racing season, the St. Leger will be run at Doncaster on September 8. In this connection it is interesting to recall that the St. Leger was first run 150 years ago, in the year of American independence. The event was named after a certain Col. St. Leger, who at that time lived at Park Hill, Doncaster; it was he who suggested the race, but little did he and his friends think that they were founding a turf event which should assume such importance. For many years past the crowd gathered for the St. Leger is second only in point of numbers for a flat-racing event to the great Derby at Epsom. From all parts of the United Kingdom special trains bring tens of thousands of racing enthusiasts to Doncaster for the great event.

Oh! What A Relief

Stomach Sufferers Cannot Help But Recommend Pepsinic Seltzer.

People who have used Pepsinic Seltzer claim that it is the most wonderful remedy for relief of Gas, Acid conditions, Indigestion and Nausea that they have ever used and simply cannot help but recommend it to their friends. If you have pains around your heart, in your side or in your back, you may think you have heart trouble, Appendicitis or Kidney trouble but it's often gas that causes distress, or if you have Nervous Indigestion from strain of responsibility, nervous or temperamental nature. Pepsinic Seltzer is a most remarkable remedy and can be obtained in Drug Stores. Absolutely safe for children.

Rich

in flavor . . . that's why Quaker Oats entices youngsters

THE way to make children like oatmeal is to give them the kind they like.

Thus millions of mothers insist on the Quaker brand. Children who ordinarily don't like oats, take readily to this rich and toasty kind.

Quaker flavor is due to exclusive milling processes which took some 50 years to perfect. Processes, too, which retain much of the "bulk" of oats, which makes laxatives less often needed.

Thus protein, carbohydrates, vitamines and "bulk" are combined in making Quaker Oats an excellent food balance.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. Thus makes the richest breakfast the quickest.

The price is the same as for ordinary oats. When a substitute is accepted, you alone are the loser.

When I think of the long hours many woman spend over the washboard in a hot kitchen, I wonder how they ever stand it. They ought to try Rinso—just once. Why, all you have to do is soak the wash in the nice, creamy Rinso suds, then rinse, and all your hard work is done. You don't even need a washboard because even the grimiest spots get clean as can be with just a tiny rub between the hands. Rinso is a real money saver because the clothes don't wear out so fast when they're washed this way.

MRS. PHILIP RANA,
26 Peck Street,
Norwich, Conn.

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

What Mrs. Philip Rana, 26 Peck St., says:

This quick safe way soaks wash whiter saves hours of scrubbing and boiling

A GLEAMING, sparkling whiteness that you could never get the old way—no matter how hard you rubbed! The whole week's wash snowy and spotless, without touching a washboard!

It's so easy this way. You just soak—rinse—and your work is done. Dirt and stains float off by themselves. Clothes rinse the whitest white you ever saw!

Even the grimiest hems, cuffs, edges come snowy-white with just a gentle rub or two between the fingers. No longer do you need to rub, rub, rub until those parts are worn threadbare. Of course clothes last longer this way!

Just use Rinso on washday

That's all—just use Rinso instead of bar soaps, chips or powders. With this amazing granulated laundry soap you can do the week's wash at home—in half the time—with absolutely no hard work.

You don't even need to boil the clothes, unless you like to. Rinso sterilizes, too!

Rinso gives thick, lasting suds even in hardest water. Contains no acids, bleaches or harsh chemicals to injure white clothes or fast colors. Saves hands from getting washworn.

Try it—just once! You'll never rub and scrub in the old-fashioned way again. Get Rinso from your grocer today. For economy and best results, follow easy directions on package.

And in washers, too

Because it is efficient and safe, and because it gets clothes whiter and brighter, Rinso is highly recommended by the makers of 28 leading washing machines.

DANIELSON

PLANS GOING FORWARD FOR PUBLIC BAND CONCERTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 26.—Plans are being completed for a series of band concerts which the residents of Danielson will have an opportunity to hear on the Davis park this fall. These concerts are the result of the concert fund established in April by the Rotary club for procuring bands to come to Danielson to give the residents concerts. The fund has swollen until it now in enough for several concerts this fall. The Chamber of Commerce is highly in favor of it and more subscriptions received will enable better bands to be secured. The committee in charge has dates pending with several organizations that are sure to please the community.

BIG FURNITURE VAN SKIDS AND OVERTURNS

DANIELSON, Aug. 26.—A large Pierce Arrow furniture van, owned by Frank W. Davey of Pawtucket skidded on the wet pavement of upper Reynolds street hill last night, while en route to Hartford, and turned over on its side. The big truck was full of furniture when the accident happened, near the top of the incline, in front of the home of Ezra Burgess. The van got over to the side of the road too far and tipped over. It was impossible to right the truck so it was left there with its load until Thursday morning when another truck came here and the disabled truck was unloaded and the furniture carried to its destination. As far as could be learned Thursday, no one had been injured in the accident and the furniture was damaged but very little. A few small pieces were broken. The truck was repaired and removed under its own power.

A team of horses owned by William S. Brown went falling in the Quinebaug river recently when they got out of control of the driver, an employe of Mr. Brown, and backed over a 35-foot embankment. Outside of a cut received by one of the animals on the leg the horses were uninjured. The driver finally got the animals disentangled from the broken harness and led them safely home, but it was necessary to draw the vehicle down the river a distance to a place where the bank was lower and the wagon could be drawn out with block and tackle.

A story has been told around here of an employe of the New Haven road narrowly escaping death when he fell from a freight train switching near Young Brothers' lumber yard on Mechanic street, Wednesday. Only quick action in rolling off the track saved him as he fell on the rails directly in the path of the moving freight.

There is a possibility of the fans witnessing a Putnam-Danielson baseball game this season, according to rumors Thursday. It has been customary in former years for the Danielson and Putnam baseball teams to end the season with a series, but for a number of years the game has experienced a noticeable lull in enthusiasm. The twilight league, which was organized early in the season with six teams has done considerable in bringing this sport back to the forefront in this community. The fans have become enthused with the old-time spirit and are crying for a fast team made up of local boys. Many have shown a great deal of prowess in the game during the local league contests and a good team could be picked up from its members.

The B-H Silk Sox of Putnam have developed into a real fast nine and are sure that they can uphold the honors for Putnam if there is any manager wishing to make arrangements for such a contest.

The slating on the north wing of the high school addition is nearing completion and all work is being rushed forward hoping to have this part of the structure ready for use by September 2nd, the date set by the school committee for the opening of the schools.

The coming Saturday, August 28th, is to be Danielson's big day—Dollar Day—a semi-annual event here. All reports lead the Chamber of Commerce to think it is to be a big success.

Jack Fenny, formerly of Dayville, has concluded his duties with the Mansfield tavern, of Mansfield, Mass., where he has been employed for some time as watchman and night clerk. He has returned to Waltham, Mass.

Heiress In Humane Work

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 26—(AP)—Love for animals which twenty years ago out-weighed the prospects of a pleasurable social life, gave the Wisconsin Humane society a "Lady Bountiful" in Miss Lenore Cawker, rich heiress, who this year promises to give Milwaukee a new home for stray animals.

The new home, which Miss Cawker will build entirely out of her own funds, will cost approximately $20,000. It will provide for two automobiles, a truck, an ambulance, and an operating room, besides the space devoted to the entertainment of stray animals.

Miss Cawker, when a young debutante, read of the cruel treatment of animals in the city pound, and the proposal to build a high fence to keep children from seeing the animals killed. Miss Cawker visited the pound and, immediately turning from social duties, she threw her entire energy into the work of the Wisconsin Humane society. Among her first acts was the opening of a home for animals in her father's spacious stables.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain

How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

PUTNAM

CHILDREN'S HOME MATRON INJURED IN PECULIAR WAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 26.—Mrs. D. C. Park, matron of the Children's Home, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital for treatment to her heart caused by a fall. A week ago she fell, striking on her left side. She paid little attention to it until but a few days ago it began to be painful and she finally called a physician, who sent her to the hospital.

PAUL MAILLOUX DROWNS WHILE FISHING WITH FRIENDS

PUTNAM, Aug. 26.—Paul Mailloux, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Mailloux of Grosvenordale, was drowned late yesterday afternoon, while fishing with friends at Grosvenordale pond. His body was taken from the water by companions and a physician was sent for, but efforts to resuscitate the child were unsuccessful.

The first charter meeting of the musicians of Putnam and vicinity will be held in Odd Fellows' hall Sunday, August 29. Thirty-four musicians have signed an application for a charter in the national organization, the American Federation of Musicians, and many more are expected to join at the meeting Sunday.

Leon Robbins, age 23, of East Thompson, who is employed on the state road at Swansea, caught his right hand in the gears of the steam shovel while oiling it and crushed three fingers and the thumb. He was taken to the hospital at Fall River and it was decided necessary to remove them at the hand joint, leaving only the little finger on that hand.

Alfred Bonneville of Woodstock avenue, will go to Providence September 5th, to resume his studies at the Rhode Island School of Pharmacy. This is the last year of his three year course. Mr. Bonneville was graduated from the Putnam high school in the class of 1923 and has been employed at the Gagne drug store since.

In city court, Mesial Bassinelle pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs of $62.50 for keeping liquor with intent to sell. He paid his fine and costs.

The statement that only members of the order were admitted to the Ku Klux Klan meeting at Woodstock fair grounds Monday evening is denied. Putnam people who went to the meeting through curiosity were admitted to the enclosure without question; others were refused. But it is a safe assertion that one-fourth of those in the grounds were not members.

Before Judge Archie Macdonald, Jr., John Sabourin was found guilty in city court of intoxication. He is a persistant violator of the law in this respect. When he heard the sentence of six months, Sabourin, who is a harmless individual, seemed to droop but when the judge continued, "but I will suspend sentence for six months during good behavior," the man revived.

Friends in Putnam of John Higgins of Ellmville are interested to know that his application for membership in the state police force has been accepted. He has taken his examination and expects soon to go to the Ridgefield barracks where a training school for new members of the force is conducted by the department. Mr. Higgins has been employed for several years by the Connecticut company as a motorman and at the sub stations at Putnam, South Windham and Dyer Dam.

Putnam friends have received word from Clarence A. Boyce that he is comfortably situated at West Hartford. The bank building that is to be the home of the new West Hartford Trust company, of which he is the executive officer, is nearing completion. Mr. Boyce is superintending its construction.

A case in the city court, in which Harry Kosy of Eastford was charged with breach of the peace, created considerable amusement. It was alleged that Kosy used profane and abusive language to Morris Fisher of this city after the latter had refused to pay Kosy some money due him. On the witness stand each related the language of the other. Two witnesses supported each side of the story. The court dismissed the case.

Cadet Allen Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer of King street has gone to New York to spend two days before returning to his studies at the United States Military Academy at West Point. Cadet Thayer has been spending two months' vacation in the city and returns to begin the third year of his training.

Naman Goodspeed of Scarsdale, N. Y., who was taken suddenly ill and had to be removed from the State of Maine express train to the Day Kimball hospital, was able Thursday to leave that institution. His son, a resident of Fitchburg, Mass., came to Putnam by automobile and took his father with him for a visit at Fitchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Boomer of Winsted, formerly of this city, are the guests of friends here. When in Putnam, Mr. Boomer was part owner of the clothing store of Colt, Boomer company, which was moved to Winsted.

Mrs. Kenneth Ballard and little son, John Vincent, of Winthrop, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Ballard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Mann of Brooklyn, N. Y., are the guests of Mr. Mann's mother, Mrs. J. Harry Mann.

Mrs. Merle Fish and son, Delmar, are guests of Mrs. Edward J. McKenna in Lowell, Mass.

Miss Eleanor Carpenter is spending her vacation at Bar Harbor, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Tourtelotte and Mr. and Mrs. Harmon French and their families have returned from an outing spent at York Beach and Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

"ACROSS THE SECRET" IS BEACH TO MANY CHICAGOANS

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Few other cities in the world have such a large bathing beach as Chicago.

"Just across the street" for countless thousands of bathers, its fifty miles along Lake Michigan bring it almost as close as the bath tub.

Doffing street clothes, donning bathing garb, most of Chicago's bathers skip from home to he lake in a very few minutes. There they may taste all the pleasures of a seaside resort, except salt. Extremes of style and color in bathing suits and beach umbrellas meet.

Some days a quarter of a million bathers crowd them, a continually surging panorama of color, hundreds leaving, crossing Michigan avenue or other adjacent Lakeside streets, and hundreds of others coming.

Stretching such a great distance along the city's lake front, they offer the poor as well as the rich the joys of bathing. From Chicago's "Little Italy" for instance, it is but a brief trip to a northside beach, and on the south side the beaches lie very close to the humbler homes.

When trouble is brewing it takes more than hot air to kill the germ of optimism.

FALL ELECTIONS WILL SHOW TREND FOR 1928

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—The sound of the tocsin will soon reverberate in primaries and elections to be held in 12 north and middle Atlantic states—New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and the New England states—the echo of which may still be heard in the first skirmish of the presidential campaign of 1928.

Apart from the regular coast to coast congressional campaigns politicians with a weather eye to windward are watching for events in New York where the electors will choose a governor and other high state officers as well as a senator. Gov. Al Smith is still the big unanswered question. Whether he will consent to run again probably will not be known until the convention late in September.

He has declared that he is not a candidate, notwithstanding the pressure on him to make the race. The democrats also will name a man to succeed to the senatorship of James W. Wadsworth whose term expires. The republicans have indicated that they will name Wadsworth to succeed himself.

Prohibition is very much to the fore in New York where the voters will pass on a memorial to congress to amend the prohibition act so as to permit each state to determine what shall constitute intoxicating liquor under the law.

Keen interest centers in the senatorial election in Pennsylvania since it was disclosed before the Senate investigating committee that nearly $3,000,000 was spent in the primaries in which Congressman William S. Vare was chosen. He ran on a platform that advocated the modification of the Volstead act. William B. Wilson, secretary of labor under President Wilson, is the democratic candidate for senator. He ran as a dry in the primary. John S. Fisher, republican, will oppose Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, democrat, in the gubernatorial contest.

Massachusetts looks for a quiet primary in September 14 but plenty of action in November. Primary filing indicate that there will be no opposition to the renomination of Senator William M. Butler and Gov. Alvan T. Fuller by the republicans or to the nomination of former Senator David I. Walsh by the democrats as Butler's opponent.

Butler is chairman of the republican national committee and a close friend of President Coolidge. William A. Gaston, of Boston, is favored for the democratic nomination for governor. Thirteen republicans and two democrats seek renomination in the primaries.

The fight which United States Senator George H. Moses, president pro tem of the senate, is making for the republican nomination for senator overshadows all other contests in the New Hampshire primary on Sept. 7. Moses is opposed by former Gov. Robert P. Bass, once a progressive party leader and James W. Remick, former justice of the New Hampshire supreme court. Robert C. Murchie, a Concord attorney, and Albert W. Noone, have filed papers for the democratic nomination for senator. Gov. John G. Winant, republican, is opposed for renomination for governor by Huntley N. Spaulding, chairman of the state board of education. Mayor Eaton D. Sargent, of Nashua, has no opponent as the democratic nominee for governor.

The four congressmen from Maine all republicans, are candidates for re-election to be held September 13. Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, republican, seeking a second term, is opposed by Ernest L. McLean, democrat, mayor of Augusta.

The race of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, ardent exponent of states rights, for a third term for governorship, is the outstanding feature of the Maryland September primary in which Gov. Ritchie is opposed by William M. Maloy, former chairman of the public service commission. United States Senator Ovington E. Weller is being opposed for renomination by Representative John Philip Hill, leader of the House "wet bloc."

United States Senator Porter H. Dale will be unopposed for renomination in the Vermont primaries on September 14. The only primary of importance is the three corner race for the republican nomination for governor. Three candidates are in the field: Lt. Gov. Walter K. Farnsworth; John E. Weeks, state commissioner of public welfare and Max L. Powell.

A United States senator and five congressmen and a full state ticket are to be elected in Connecticut in November but party conventions to name the candidates have not been held.

There are no major offices to fill in Delaware this year. One member of congress is to be elected.

Rhode Island has yet to hold her state convention and no candidates for congress or state offices have been announced.

New Jersey elects 12 congressmen while six congressmen are to be chosen in West Virginia in the fall elections.

The poor may be always with us, but the miser is closer.

FEW BUFFALOES ROAM OLD STAMPING GROUND

FT. PIERRE, S. D., Aug. 26—(AP)—In a gulley on the Missouri river's western bank a few hundred buffalo nestle lazily where once roamed thousands of their kin.

They represent the remainder of the old Scotty Phillips herd, once the largest buffalo herd in captivity and the source of almost all the buffalo to be seen in American parks and preserves.

Early To See Extinction

Phillips, an Indian trader and a rancher of a generation ago, was the first to take practical recognition of the fact that the buffalo was dying out. He established a herd of the shaggy beasts on his ranch here, and with his halfbreed wife cared for the animals until the herd numbered many thousand, and was virtually the only buffalo herd, wild or tame, in the United States.

Since the death of Phillips some years ago the herd has been largely dispersed, and parks and reserves in a dozen states have established herds of their own by acquiring animals from the ranch here. Circuses and carnivals also have been good customers.

The Phillips herd now numbers less than 2,000, but each fall the ranch is the scene of a big buffalo hunt, in which sportsmen from throughout the country participate.

Once Herd of 300,000

Pioneers of western South Dakota recall many interesting tales about buffalo hunts of bygone days. The most famous was at Buffalo Gap, S. D., socalled because there, at a pass through a mountain chain, the buffalo would congregate at the migrating season, sometimes to the number of 300,000.

The buffalo hunter's greatest peril laid in the danger of being uphorsed in the path of a buffalo stampede. The animals, running forward, would never swerve from a straight line. Occasionally the buffalo would charge a mounted hunter, but the animals are easily outridden if a path of escape is clear.

Likelihood that the buffalo ever will become extinct has virtually passed. A hardy animal, the buffalo will live and flourish in captivity. He is difficult to transport by train, however, and most of the shipments of buffalo from the Phillips ranch have been made on passenger trains schedule, longer trips proving fatal to many of the beasts.

County Hospitals

Do most states in the Union have at least one hospital in every county? Reports for 1925 show Connecticut, Maine and New Hampshire were the only states that did have at least one hospital for community use in every county. About 10 per cent of the New York counties were without such hospitals. The worst record was shown by Georgia, almost 70 per cent of the counties being without ordinary hospitals.

Japan Likes Electricity

Japan ranks third in the list of countries so far as the number of electric light in use per 100 houses is concerned. United States and Canada only exceeded Japan in this respect at the time of the last survey. Japan now is electrifying some of her railroads, having electrified its street car system as the principal cities.

TONIGHT'S CAUCUS

Tonight the republicans of Norwich are to hold their caucus for the selection of delegates to the several conventions that will be held this fall, and also to select members of the town committee.

Just because it means only the picking delegates doesn't mean that it should be neglected, or that the task should be entrusted to others as is too often done.

The caucus means the beginning of the fall campaign and it is well that the individual should start at the beginning to see that the political machinery is properly tuned up in accord with his views. It is folly to wait until some thing has been done that displeases and when the campaign is most over send up a shout about what ought to have been done, when the time for indulging in that kind of shouting is before or during the caucus.

Negligence never pays. This is quite as true of a caucus as it is of failure to respect danger signals. Conditions get into a deplorable state because of the lack of interest in the part of the individual. There has been too much apathy, too much of that spirit of "Let George do it," too great a disregard for the interests of the many who are concerned and it is time for the Norwich republicans to recognize the situation and put an end to it.

Let the start begin at the caucus and let it be kept up throughout the campaign. There is no reason why it should peter out even after the decision has been made at the polls, and it will not if there is displayed the proper amount of interest which each individual should show and an organization is effected that will keep in constant touch with conditions throughout the year and not solely during the election campaigns.

There should be a large and representative gathering of republicans tonight to handle the business of the caucus, decide whatever contests may arise and give the campaign a start that will gain momentum as it goes along.

Get out to tonight's caucus.

AIR TRANSPORTATION

Because it is possible to carry mail by airplane does not always mean that the venture is a success from the economic standpoint. Without a doubt the flying machine renders a service that is much quicker deliveries might be made over wide stretches of country of water if airplanes were employed, but because better service is possible does not necessarily mean that such a change would be advisable from a financial point of view. It costs money to transport mail through the air and it has been found from experience that there is not enough demand for such service to meet the additional cost of it.

In other words the situation is such that contractors who are handling the mail by airplane are not making a profit, though there is no question but what such was expected when they made the successful bid.

Whether time and the value of such service will result in an increase in that business in decidedly uncertain. Naturally hopes will run in that direction but Postmaster General New points out that "Contractors are learning that to be successful they must carry passengers and express and it is not long before some one puts in a full service of that character. It is not true that all the contract air mail lines are losing money, but it is true that most of them are, and most of them must so long as they depend upon mail alone."

At the present time the government operates some of the air lines while others are under private control, and it is noted that of the latter there are some which are already engaged in the business of carrying passengers. They are meeting operating expenses and something besides and they furnish reason for the claim that the success of other lines will depend upon the provision of equipment that will make passenger and express business possible. This seems to be the logical development of the air service, whether contract air mail lines branch out into such service or whether lines furnishing the passenger and express service bid for and get the contract to also handle the mails.

DEALING WITH STICK UP MEN

In the effort to reduce crime much stress is being laid upon the importance of keeping firearms out of the hands of those criminally inclined.

For the purpose of discouraging those criminally inclined, who depend largely upon the display of firearms to carry out their schemes, courts are recognizing the need of imposing substantial sentences. They are in fact demanded by new laws as a protection to the public.

Reason for these steps is well illustrated by the case of young man in Washington who, having held up a huckster at the point of a gun and dangerously wounded him when he refused to obey, declared after being caught, "If the poor simp had thrown up his hands as others have done, I wouldn't have shot him."

We have come to a fine state of affairs when in order to prevent our anatomy from being shot full of holes it is necessary to comply with the commands of a highway robber who employs a death dealing weapon to enforce his demands.

It is just such cases as that which have caused legislatures and judges to take the position that such individuals are potential murderers and should be treated accordingly. Such cases have been steadily increasing. To treat them with leniency because of the age of the person wielding the gun gives no protection to the public. Neither does it relieve that nothing very serious can be expected in the way of a sentence, and if a sentence is received the leniency of parole or pardon boards can be employed to escape even light penalties, it can be expected that there will be repetition of such highwaymen's acts and that more will be encouraged to go into such business.

The need is to discourage such practices, and if fewer sentimental tears are shed over such public menaces and they are judged as ready to become murderers if not permitted to rob right and left a decided change for the better could be expected. Gun toting and gun using deserve rigid discouragement.

TESTING THE BOARD

Hardly had the railroad labor board been legislatured out of existence and replaced by the board of mediation under the Watson-Parker law before there was business for it to handle. The conductors, switchmen and trainmen of the eastern roads made demands for an increase in wages. The demands did not meet with the approval of the carriers and they were referred to the board of mediation for the purpose of endeavoring to get an adjustment.

The board has wrestled with the problem without succeeding. Mediation efforts have failed so far as mediation is concerned but through the work of the board it has been agreed that the demands would be submitted to arbitration. Perhaps because this has been done reluctantly on the part of the railroad men Chairman Winslow of the mediation board regards the result thus far as a decided achievement.

This should mean a settlement of the matter according to the facts. The purpose of the railway labor board was to bring about a fair adjustment for such matters and the prevention of the disastrous effects of a strike. The same holds good concerning the mediation board and now the test is actually under way as to the value of this new strike preventing agency.

When the head of the trainmen declare the future policy of the organization will depend upon the "degree of justice received" it is to be hoped that the organization will not rely upon its own judgment solely in determining what that degree of justice really is. Arbitrators must of necessity give consideration to more than one side of the matter.

DANGEROUS PERSONS

It was not long ago that a young man who had threatened another person escaped from an insane institution in New Jersey and, according to the charge committed murder. About the same time another person, who had sworn to take the life of another managed to get away from a New York institution and true to his word he devoted his efforts entirely to accomplishing his purposes, and succeeded.

Now an escaped insane asylum inmate has gone to a pittsburgh bank, demanded $2,000 under threat of annihilation and when refused kicked a hand satchel and caused an explosion that killed himself and a special officer and caused injuries to a score of others to say nothing of the wrecking of the bank.

In all these cases life would have been saved and murder prevented had there been proper restraint for these individuals, who it would seem should have been regarded as dangerous, and possibly that same prevention might have been obtained had the escapes been followed by prompt and diligent searches for the persons known to be at large.

In the case of at least one of this trio the claim was made that little or no attempt at capture and return was made, the institution having no means of continuing such a search, but if that is the situation in all instances there is no further need of a demonstration to bring about a correction of such a condition. The public should be protected against such persons and there is no time when that needs to be better recognized than when those dangerously inclined are known to be at large. If the institutions themselves lack authority demands should be made upon other agencies which have.

ROMANCE

"Romance is dead!" solemnly pronounced the young woman who was entertaining her favorite caller. "Absolutely as dead as old King Tut's mummy. And, what's more, it's a mighty good thing, don't you think so, Edward?"

Her favorite caller was of a romantic turn of mind, however. "I do not think so," he replied severely. "And I certainly hope you're mistaken, Angeline. What made you think so, anyway?"

"Well, I was glancing over some old-time novels this morning," laughed the young woman. "And I got a distinct shock. Of course, I've known all along that romance went out with petticoats and long hair, but I never realized how much until I read those old novels.

"You know very well, Edward," she went on, settling back comfortably against the fireside chair, "that a writer can't say the things he used to say and get away with 'em. Why, in the old days all heroines were known by two definite things—their long beautiful tresses and the soft swish of their gowns."

"Bobbed hair is just as pretty," stated the romantic young man, letting his eyes rest convincingly upon her head. "The way the glow from the fireplace lights up your hair, Angeline—"

"Nonsense," the young woman hastily interjected. "You know that if Brother Jimmy, with his mop of red just my own shade wre to sit here, it'd look just the same as mine. Any man who wasn't bald would. To be romantic-looking hair has to be long, and come down to the waist in rippling curls—"

"Help!"

"Well, those were the exact words of three nineteenth-century novelists," she defended. "Imagine poor Walter Scott coming back here and trying to fill five pages and a half with a description of his heroine's get-up! Why, the modern girl can put all her clothes into a four-by-six-inch handbag.

"One of the old gentlemen of the last century wrote in one place: 'Guy de Vere heard the alluring swish of Lady Irmintrude's gown as it softly rustled across the velvet carpet.'

The romantic caller burst into appreciative laughter. "Well, your skirts don't sweep the velvet carpets. That's true, Angeline. You women haven't been sweeping sidewalks and streets for so many years now that our street cleaners will be out of jobs if you put on long skirts again."

"Yes. And what there is of our skirts doesn't rustle, either, Edward. Why, there was a time when the height of any girl child's ambition was to grow up so she could wear two or three silk taffeta petticoats that rustled every time she moved. One measured one's social status by the louder one rustled. And now—well, you didn't even hear me come into the room, did you?"

"I knew you were here, Angelina," the romantic caller assured her. "You know, one sort of feels those things, without—"

"Well, you certainly couldn't hear them," the young woman hastily laughed. "Because we modern, unromantic women wear rubber heels instead of the beautiful click-clickety heels that our mothers wore. Three inches high and the width of a silver half-dollar! Fancy that. I'm sure I don't know what the ladies of the 1800's would think of our big feet. They always prided themselves on their tiny—"

"Gosh, Angeline," said the romantic caller, glancing at her small, fawn-colored shoes, "yours are little enough to satisfy the most exacting old dame of the crinoline minuet period. Why, sometimes when we're out walking together I have to look down to make sure you've got 'em with you; they're so tiny. And, anyway, as judge of this court, I rule that your arguments are all out of order. You started out to prove that romance was killed, and you haven't even got the corpus delicti to show for it!"

"Why, Elward!" gasped the young woman as her caller suddenly threw himself on his knees before her. "Of all things. Just like the old-time heroes."

"I'm going to show you," stated the young man sternly, "that all that piffle about long hair and style don't mean a thing. Because right here on my knees I vow I love you, bobbed hair, short skirts and all. And if that isn't romance—but hurry and say yes, or these new trousers'll have to go to the presser's tomorrow—"

"I knew romance was dead," laughed the young woman a second before she said "yess."—Exchange.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWNS

By ARTHUR H. RUGGLES, M. D.
Providence, R. I.
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

For a long time past the term "nervous breakdown" has been used to cover a very great variety of ills associated with the nervous system.

It is a rather pleasant but meaningless diagnosis that often glosses over more or less serious diseases of the central nervous system. In fact, it is used so loosely and so generally that it is a term that covers almost all the ills flesh is heir to, ranging from simple fears, up to and including as serious a disease as general paresis, an organic disease of the brain, fatal in its termination, unless early and intensive treatment is started.

There is always a cause for nervousness. Sometimes that cause is entirely the result of an impaired physical condition; for example, goitre or anemia. At other times, it is due to some physical cause such as fear or a morbid feeling of inferiority.

Two groups of cases are often hidden under the term "nervous breakdown". One is the psychoneuroses, those functional disorders of the nervous system often having a psychic cause which can be remedied, if not entirely removed. In the other group are those more serious mental states leading to mental diseases of great severity, such as dementia praecox, a mental disease developing about the adolescent period and tending to progress toward great mental deterioration.

Every year more than 50,000 new patients are admitted to the mental hospitals in this country. If that rate does not diminish—and there is very little present evidence that it is diminishing—there will be admitted to those hospitals, within the next ten years, 500,000 sick persons.

It must be that those 500,000 persons are now in our community. It is a well known fact that many of the mental diseases that take people into hospitals occur in the second and third decade. Therefore, it becomes obvious that a large proportion of the 500,000 or more potential patients for the mental hospitals are actually in our schools and colleges.

It is also known that many of them are said to be suffering from "nervous breakdowns" for which a trip to the country, a change of occupations, or sedative drugs are being given; when, with expert advice, the true nature of the disorder could be determined, and if prompt remedial measures were instituted, cure could be effected. In those cases where cure cannot be effected, certainly much can be done that should tend to make such persons, less liable to need hospital care and more capable of adjustment in the community.

For many years we have gone along apparently content to wait until mental damage was done and then to institute custodial care for such persons. The Gorgas Memorial Institute wishes to stress the fact that in common with all physical ailments, prevention is the keynote to success in dealing with disorders of the nervous system; and there is reason to believe that with their early recognition many psychoneuroses and many mental diseases can be prevented.

But they can only be prevented if we thoroughly investigate the causes of nervousness, call things by their real name and cease masquerading mild nervous disorders and more serious mental ones under a comfortable disguise in the form of "nervous breakdown."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Eugene R. Grace, who reaches his fiftieth birthday anniversary today, is president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and one of the outstanding figures in the steel industry. His career has been rather unusual in as much as his entire business life has been devoted to the Bethlehem company. On leaving college in 1899, with a degree as electrical engineer, he immediately took a job as operator of an electrical crane, from which point his advance was rapid, becoming president of the company in 1912, at the age of thirty-six years. He was born in Goshen, N. J. While his prominence in the financial world has been more or less obscured by the conspicuous figure of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem corporation, Mr. Grace is recognized as one of the ablest men in the steel industry.

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

Most "Control is Absurd. First Analyze Needs Carefully. Accurate Record of Accidents and Vehicle Count Necessary.

There are few cities that have more than the most elementary knowledge of the character of volume of traffic which flows through the streets.

This is a marked contrast to the practice of even the smallest railways of the country. Common carriers base their schedules and methods of operation very carefully upon a study of traffic requirements.

One of the first steps, therefore, in the development of a systematic and modern system of street traffic control should be the collection and analysis of street use.

The necessity and value of the traffic survey is witnessed by the fact that such a study is being carried on in New York city under the supervision of the Russell Sage Foundation, and in Chicago through the cooperation of the city council and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The need for an accurate traffic survey is just as important in small cities as in the larger ones. An annual analysis of traffic requirements serves as an accurate basis not only for the drafting of suitable traffic regulations, but also as a basis for planning work, street development and business location. It will pay for itself many times over in these advantages incidental to traffic control.

A traffic survey in a city of average size should include the following: a count of all vehicles entering and leaving the city by the principal highways. Vehicles may be classified as passenger automobiles, motor trucks, horse-drawn vehicles, street cars, and motor busses. The count should be kept during an average day, in order that the period of heaviest demands may be determined.

In addition to the count of traffic entering and leaving the city by the principal highways, the larger cities will find it useful to make counts of traffic entering the central business district.

The amount of parking in the principal business district is an important factor in traffic control, and therefore a study should be made of the number of cars and the average length of time they are parked.

In the larger cities it will of course be necessary to make more complicated studies of the types of traffic, the movements at various intersections, the speed of vehicles on different routes, and similar factors.

The survey of the street accident situation is one which should be carried on continuously. There is no city too small to find value in the keeping of accurate records regarding the location of causes of street accidents. Forms and instructions for this work can be obtained from the National Safety council in Chicago.

The census of vehicular traffic is neither difficult nor costly. In the smaller cities it can easily be directed by some member of the engineering department, and high school boys or members of the Boy Scouts can be used as observers.

What Are You Here For?

If you've never made another have a happier time in life,
If you've never helped a brother through his struggle and his strife;
If you've never been a comfort to the weary and the worn,
Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of morn!

If you've never made the pathway of some neighbor glow with sun,
If you've never brought a bubble to some fellow's heart with fun;
If you've never cheered a toiler that you tried to help along
Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of song!

If you've never made a comrade feel the world a sweeter place
Because you lived within it and had served it with your grace;
If you've never heard a woman or a little child proclaim
A blessing on your bounty—you're a poor hand at the game!

IN THE DAYS NEWS

"TOY HORN" STARTS ALL EUROPE'S TRAINS

The familiar "All aboard" of American railway conductors and any suggestion of a vocal equivalent is lacking on European trains, says a communication to the National Geographic society from a recent traveler on the continent, issued as a bulletin of The Society.

"You may travel for weeks," says the writer, "before you realize that each starting of your train from a station is preceded by the faint little half-hearted toot of a horn. Then you grow to listen for it and to marvel at its impotent sound, almost lost among other noises, and its potent results.

"When I learned of the horn's existence I set out on a still hunt for it, but it always managed to escape me. If it looked on the left of the train it sounded on the right; if I searched at the front, it sounded at the rear. It seemed almost a fairy trumpet.

"Then one day on a slow-moving accomodation train in Italy I saw it. The conductor, or whatever he may be called, was walking along the platform of a drab way-station in Istria, jauntily swinging what at first I took to be a shiny little swagger stick. Then I realized that it was the horn, the device that starts thousands of trains in Europe each day. I bolted to have a closer look at it; but its custodian raised it to his lips, blew a little blast, and disappeared through an open door as the train, responding to the magic sound, got under way.

"It was only the view of such a horn I had in more than a month. But the same type of instrument is used in the various countries; for the same weak little signal comes to your ears, whether you are in France, Italy Austria or England.

"The horn is made apparently of brass, is about eight inches long, is slightly curved, like an old-fashioned hunting horn, and has a somewhat flattish, oval cross-section. The sound it produces is like nothing so much as the toot of a child's cheap toy horn some six weeks after Christmas when it has been battered about and has lost its pristine 'beauty' of note."

They Make Lisle Goods and Wear Silk

Recently the young women employed in a Rhode Island factory turning out lisle thread hosiery sought a raise in wages of 10 per cent. The manager said he would like to raise the pay of every girl, but that there were no orders in sight except the ones they were working on. The spokesman for the girls then promptly gave him this advice. "Go out and get more business."

According to the manager's story he then replied: "I will raise every girl in the shop who, this minute, has on a pair of lisle thread stockings, whether they were made here or not." He didn't have to raise any wages, since all the stockings worn by the employes that day were silk.

This incident may cause smiles among those not interested in the manufacture of lisle thread hosiery. But it really represented tragedy rather than comedy. For neither employers nor employes enjoy seeing a decreased demand for their products. It may be argued that the employes of this hosiery factory ought to wear lisle instead of silk. But would the employer's wife and daughters be willing to make this sacrifice, too? If not, why not? The employer gets his money from the business of manufacturing lisle thread hosiery just as truly as the employes do.—Worcester Telegram.

BLACK PT.

DO YOU KNOW

that Connecticut, with its 120 miles of coast line, is all developed with the exception of half a dozen good properties? That there are less than 5,000 lots which can be purchased in future sand beach developments?

The state has over 300,000 families today. Less than 3% of these people own a shore cottage. The remaining 97%, or 291,000 families, have less than 5,000 lots to distribute among them.

Add to this the great population of New York City, which is gradually spreading this way and absorbing all available shore land, and you can realize what the future holds forth.

What a great change is coming in future years. How rapidly prices will advance!

Will your children be barred from owning a "cottage by the sea"? Will the high prices of the future keep them from ever owning such a place?

You are the one to answer this question and the answer must be made now. This is not the time to hesitate.

Youth and life and laughter, Boating, Tennis, Fishing, Swimming — that's the seashore.

Today, at Black Pt., you can buy lots as low as $300, $400 and $500, and on very easy terms. Buy one or more of them now. Every lot faces a rocked and oiled road, has electricity and artesian well water is piped down every street. There is a club house for property owners, clay tennis courts and a 300-foot pier. Over $98,000 has already been spent on public improvements.

MARKED CORNER OF THE LEBANON FIVE MILE

Oct. 12, 1705, John Prentis and John Plumbe county surveyors, being there unto empowered by the general court, surveyed the eastern and southern sides of the "Lebanon Five Mile" and established the boundaries thereof by marked rocks and trees. The rocks remain, the one in Goshen plainly marked L. V. M. C. and the one in Hebron three-quarters of a mile from the southwest corner of the North Pond with the letter L still legible upon it. The starting point of Prentis and Plumbe was "a great whight oak tree standing or supposed to stand two miles from the river called Williamtick also Showruckitt, marked being the northeast corner." From this point they run south southwest five degrees west precisely five miles to the southeast corner, the rock in Goshen above. From thence west northwest five degrees north, six miles and forty rods to the southwest corner near North Pond in Hebron. As we said before, the rocks remain, but what can we say for the "great whight oak tree." "Men may come, and men may go," and trees remain for generations, but even they have limitation to their existence. So it was with the "great whight oak." still the tradition lingered as to its location. During the preparatory stages of the famous North Pond controversy in 1889 the location of this corner was settled by Chas. E. Chandler, civil engineer, in the employ of P. W. Turner, who measured to the Willimantic river, passing through the village of South Windham and ended a little north of it, thus verifying the remembrance of an old Lebanon resident then living near this corner. Its location is upon Babcock Hill, a short distance east of the very antiquated and unused schoolhouse still standing. The surveyor's note book states that it is nine feet east of the east barpost, at an entrance to Briggs land just east of a wall running southeasterly from the highway, and two feet from the south wall of highway. Since the passing of the "great whight oak," how long ago none can tell, the corner has remained unmarked and unknown, till in the afternoon of the 20th of this month, a small company of antiquarians consisting of Town Clerk Charles J. Abell and John A. Spafford, he of Bridgeport and Lebanon, and F. Clarence Bissell of Hebron and Hartford, kindred spirits in historical lore, descended upon that corner. After solemn incantations and mystic rites known olly to and appreciated by the initiated, an iron pipe was implanted and surrounded with a pile of stones then settling for another generation at least the location of this last corner of the "Five Mile."

NOTHING SURE YET ON COAST GUARD REMOVAL

That, as yet, no definite step has been taken to remove the coast guard academy from New London to New Bedford or other location, has become known in New London, following the arrival at the academy of its commandant, Commander H. D. Hinckley, who returned after a three months' cruise aboard the training ship, Alexander Hamilton. Commander Hinckley stated that nothing definite would be known for probably a month or more. He said that Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, was expected in the city over Labor day and that possibly something might be known by that time.

Commander Hinckley said that Admiral Billard and other officials of the service had fully inspected the various sites that have been mentioned, and examined carefully the advantages offered by each. He said that the local situation had also been thoroughly studied, but as yet it had not been decided as to whether the advantages of the New Bedford and other sites would eclipse those offered by the present location to a degree sufficient to warrant the removal of the institution, which is the only one of its nature in use by the coast guard.

WILL SOON FINISH LAFAYETTE ST. WORK

In about another week it is expected that the work on the new roadbed in Lafayette street from the town line near Williams stret to Backus hospital corner will be completed. There has been considerable delay this week through waiting for the arrival from New Haven of a barge load of two-inch crushed stone, which has been weatherbound in New Haven harbor by the succession of easterly winds which made it unsafe for tugs to leave the harbor with their tows. But this barge load of 740 tons has now reached, here and about half of the cargo will go onto the Lafayette street work, the other part going to to the city's Boswell avenue job.

The workmen of Contractor Lowell Wilcox have been putting the large stone on the Williams street end of the work this week. When finished the street will have a fine stretch of 1,900 feet of eight-inch bituminous macadam which should wear for many years.

CONNECTICUT TROLLEY CO. CUTTING DOWN ACCIDENTS

Connecticut company street car accidents were reduced eight per cent. in 1925 compared with the figures of the previous year, according to figures just compiled by the American Electric Railway association. This is an average of only one accident for approximately 4,000 car miles. Of the accidents in which street cars were involved in 1925, nearly 60 per cent. were collisions with motor vehicles in which the automobiles in one manner or another were traveling on or across trolley tracks.

Carelessness on the part of trolley passengers in boarding and alighting from the cars was reduced 11 per cent. in 1925 as compared with the figures on the same type of accidents in 1924, the car-riders apparently having become well educated in exercising caution in entering and leaving the trolleys. Street railways devoted much attention last year in attempting to reduce this type of accident and were apparently successful to a large extent.

BOYS AND GIRLS BUILDING ERECTED AT STATE FAIR

The new boys and girls building now nearing completion and which will be ready for this year's Connecticut state fair is the first step in the management's permanent plan of development.

The building is 72 feet square of brick and steel construction and two stories high. Because of the short period of time in which to construct the building this year only one unit of the completed building was built. The finished building will be 72x200 feet and will have an auditorium kitchen and offices in one end.

The building is located immediately to the left of the automobile entrance in what is known as the recreation area.

In deciding upon what building should be the first erected the directors of the state fair decided unanimously that the best way to show the citizens of the state that the state fair is being placed upon an educational basis was to erect a boys and girls building to be used by them exclusively. This step is also in line with their policy of encouraging and stimulating boys and girls to make their best better.

The first floor will be used by three junior organizations: The 4-H clubs, the junior achievement clubs and the Boy Scouts. The space has been alloted to each organization and the exhibits for this year's state fair are ready to be put in place.

The second floor will be used exclusively for dormitories and will be divided into sections for both boys and girls. The state fair is having as their guests during the week of the fair approximately 150 boys and girls who will live and exhibit on the grounds during the week.

This building will be available for recognized junior organizations for them to use during the year.

Grouped outside at one end of the building will be the outdoor exhibits of the boys and girls. The 4-H club members will have dairy calves, baby beeves, poultry and bees under tents. Adjacent to them will be the outdoor camp of the Boy Scouts consisting of seven tents where the boys will live during the week and in front of which, on their campus, they will give their demonstrations.

RISKO LOSES DECISION TO SWEDISH BATTLER IN HARD FOUGHT CONTEST

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Making his American debut, Harry Persson, Swedish heavyweight, champion, defeated Johnny Risko of Cleveland, on points in the feature bout of an all-heavyweight card at Madison Square garden tonight.

Persson received the judges' decision in a ten-round match that was close and hard fought. To many in the crowd of 10,000 that witnessed the bout, it seemed that Risko's strong finish in the last three rounds offset the Swedish boxer's early advantage.

Towering over the chunky Risko, Persson had a big advantage in height and reach, as well as 22 pounds in weight. In several rounds, especially the sixth and seventh, Persson rocked Risko with heavy rights to the jaw but Johnny absorbed these and came back to battle the Swede in the last three rounds with smashing left hooks to the head and rights to the body. He opened a cut under Persson's right eye in the eighth. Persson weighed 205 1-2 and Risko 164 1-2.

Monte Munn, sensational Nebraska heavyweight, knocked out Jim Sigman of Brooklyn, sailor scrapper, in less than two minutes tonight in a preliminary match carded for six rounds. Munn, brother of Wayne Munn, the wrestler, and a former member of the Nebraska legislature, added Sigman to the list of his victories in short order. Attacking fiercely, Munn dropped his opponent for a count of six in less than a minute, then followed with a right to the jaw that sent Sigman down in a heap. The finish came one minute and fifty-two seconds after the start of the first round. Monte Munn weighed 213 1-2. Sigman weighed 201.

Knute Hansen, of Racine, Wis., knocked out Alfredo Porzio, of the Argentine, claimant of the South American heavyweight championship, in one minute and seven seconds of the second round of a ten-round match.

Hansen, tall and rangy, sailed into Porzio from the start with a two fisted attack. The Argentine escaped without much damage in the first round but withstood a terrific battering from the tap of the bell in the second round. He stood up gamely under a heavy battering to the head and body, although groggy until a right smash to the chin sent him down. The referee stepped in to stop further fighting but it was not necessary for Porzio was out cold and had to be lifted to his corner.

Porzio, who has been training with Jack Dempsey, was making his initial American appearance. He weighed 202 1-2, while Hansen scaled at 209 1-2.

Bob Lawson, Alabama negro, gained the judges' decision over Sandy Seifert, Pittsburgh heavyweight, in a rough and tumble ten-rounder.

Seifert was punished severely in the closing rounds, suffering a gash over his right eye in the ninth round. Seifert weighed 183 and lawson181 1-2. Roleaux Seguera, Cuban heavyweight, lost the decision to Jake Warren, Harlem negro, in a four round bout, first of a card of heavyweight contests.

DARKNESS HALTS PLAY IN WESTERN OPEN

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26—(AP)—A record for prolonged endeavor on the golf links was set today in the Western Open championship at Highland Golf club where MacDonald Smith of New York is defending his title against 250 aspirants, many of whom were enmeshed in darkness before they could finish the first 18 holes of play.

The first round was made to extend over parts of two days, for, as the sun sank, such stars as Chick Evans, Al Watrous, Joe Turnesa, and John Farrell, still were far afield. The players stopped for the night and will resume their rounds in the morning.

Whether it was the slowness of play that deadened the keeness of the contestants or the precarious positions of the cups at the backs of the sloping greens that forced extra putts and approaches, the players for the most part did not score in a manner to frighten Bogey. The defending champion took 78 strokes, six more than par. He did not lack company, for few were able to get close to the splendid 69 scored by Gene Sarazen of New York.

P. O. Hart of Marietta added one stroke to Sarazen's card for his total of 70, which gave him second place. Hart had to his credit a splendid 33 for the incoming nine, where he made 3 birdies for a total of four sub-par holes. Laurie Ayton of Chicago and Francis Gallett of Milwaukee followed closely with 71 each, while Bill Hartshorn and Jack Hutchinson of Chicago, were only one stroke further back with 72 apiece.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago and Harry Cooper were well up in the list with 74 each, while James Manion of St. Louis and John Lehman of Gary, two amateurs, were able to tie with the redoubtable Walter Hagen at 75. Only one stroke behind were a dozen players including three amateurs, Eddie Held of St. Louis, trans-Mississippi titleholder, Densmore Shute, West Virginia champion and Douglas Casey, of the home club.

One of the most spectacular changes was displayed by Bob Craig of Louisville, who, after taking no fewer than 15 strokes, 12 above par, to reach the turn, came home in 34, one below par, for an 83.

On the basis of today's scores, a total of 158 for the two days' play should land the contestants among the 64 leaders who will contest the 36-hole finals of Saturday.

SUMATRA WINS FEATURE RACE AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 26...(AP)—In a good three heat battle, Sumatra, from the Ben White stable, won the $3,000 Cuyahoga stake for 2.07 class trotters, feature event of today's grand Circuit racing. Pearl Benboe from the Murphy stables, won the first heat but Sumatra showed the way home in the second and third heats. A bad streak in the third heat threw Pearl Benboe entirely out of contention. Worthy Harvester, driven by Marvin Childs, of Terre Haute, Ind., stood third best in the summary. The fast time of the race was the first heat, negotiated in 2.03 4-5.

Tommy Murphy, the Syracuse, N. Y., driver, had a field day winning the 2:16 trot in straight heats with the gray gelding, Dr. Strongworthy, the favorite; the three year old pace with Highland Scott, also a straight heat victory, and won a goodly share of the Cuyahoga purse with Pearl Benboe, which was driven by Harry Strokes.

DEMPSEY GETS BOXING LICENSE IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26—(AP)—Jack Dempsey Pennsylvania boxing license was delivered to Rickard's headquarters tonight by Robert A. Young, secretary of the Pennsylvania state athletic commission.

The card, a small yellow pasteboard, carries on the face side the license number, 8151, the applicant's nom de plume, "Jack Dempsey" and his signature, William Harrison Dempsey. His residence is given as Los Angeles and he is classified as a "boxer." The back of the card carries a passport photograph of the champion.

As Gene Tunney is already licensed in Pennsylvania it is pointed out there will be no hitch to the battle so far as official sanction is concerned. Dempsey's license will be handed to Rickard here tomorrow and he in turn will send it to the champion in Atlantic City by special messenger.

Today's ticket sale at the branch offices was announced officially tonight as $65,000.

CONNECTICUT BOY IS ELIMINATED IN ENGLAND

COOMBE HILL, Surey, Eng., Aug. 26—(AP)—It was with a sigh of relief that the gallery today saw Charles Sweeney, the American boy, eliminated from the contest for the British Boys' Amateur Golf championship. The American lad had developed into a distinct threat against British golfing honors. He seemed headed for the goal that Bobby Jones and Jess Sweetser had achieved when a bad bit of luck overtook him this morning after reaching the last eight. E. A. McRurie, a Scotch lad from Leventhistle, defeated him two and one. McRurie later won the semi-finals and tomorrow will play C. W. Timmis of Leasowe thirty-six holes for the title.

The large gallery of fond parents, admiring flappers and worshipping boys naturally were eager that the home boy win but they are paying Sweeney many compliments on his style and action. McRurie, his Scottish conqueror, was more accomplished golfer, at least on today's showing. Notwithstanding Sweeney lost one ball in the bracken and was robbed of one hole by a stymie. Sweeney's play today did not at all compare with the sterling golf he displayed on previous rounds.

Charles Sweeney and his younger brother Robert, were the only American boys in the tournament and they both represented Amterbury school, New Milford, Conn.

SENATORS WIN DOUBLE HEADER FROM CHISOX

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—Walter Johnson and Stanley Coveleskie, Washington's pitching veterans, each doled out four hits to Chicago today and the Senators won a double-header, 9 to 3 and 1 to 0, second game going ten innings. Johnson easily bested Red Faber in the first contest. Lyons, of recent no-hit, no-run fame, and Coveleskie waged a real battle in the nightcap, with the spitballer having the edge. Until the tenth inning only Kamm and Grabowski had hit safely and in the final frame both repeated but were unable to score. The winning run was forced in by a walk after McNeely's single, an error by Morehart and an intentional pass to Goslin had filled the bases. The scores:

ILL HEALTH CAUSES JOHNSTON TO QUIT IN NEWPORT TENNIS TOURNEY

NEWPORT, R. I. Aug. 26—(AP)—Ill health compelled William M. Johnston of California to withdraw from the singles competition of the Newport Tennis tournament today after three of his leading rivals for the Casino bowl had played through intermittent showers to win their quarter final matches.

Johnson's retirement from the event, the result of an attack of grippe which prevented his appearance on the court today, advanced Alfred M. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., to the semi-final round, where he will oppose Brian I. C. Norton of San Antonio tomorrow in the lower half of the draw.

In the upper half William T. Tilden, national champion, will face the former Spanish Davis cup player, Manuel Alonso, the two matches to be decided in three sets out of five.

Today's victors survived their tests without being exhausted, while Johnston was spending most of the time in bed. Hope was held forth by the tournament committee that "Little" Bill might be able to play Chapin tomorrow, and his match was tentatively put over one day, but Johnston later decided to default, confining his activities to the doubles. The California veteran also announced that he expected to play in the national doubles championship next week at Boston, with Edward G. Chandler as his partner.

Tilden has seldom electrified a tennis gallery with a more dazzling display of stroking than he discharged today upon the stout-hearted defense of Young Cranston Holman, Leland Stanford star, to bring off his fourth triumph of the tournament in straight sets at 6-4, 6-2. He held his powerful drives, his slashing chops and his tantalizing drop shots under such excellent command that there were few occasions in which he felt called upon to reprove himself with a characteristic Tilden comment: "Oh, Rotten!"

Hard, deep driving, supported by agile covering of court which left few openings for his opponent, gave Alonso a sharply defined edge over Dr. George King of New York, whose whirlwind net attacks yesterday cut short the rush of the New York junior, Julius Seligson. Alonso also scored in straight sets at 6-3, 6-2, earning the right to tackle Tilden in the semi-final round.

Norton's tennis at Newport has impressed observers as the most brilliant he has played since he came to this country several years ago and against his withering backcourt fire James Davies of California had few opportunities to thrill his gallery with the remarkable "gets" which upset Francis T. Hunter yesterday. The match was played in a drizzle, with the players sliding over the wet turf to make many of the returns. Norton winning by set scores of 6-4, 6-2.

The only approach to an upset came in the lone doubles match of the day. Holman and Lionel Ogden of Leland Stanford extending Tilden and Chapin to three sets before the national titleholder and his partner could pull out the match at 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Rain prevented additional doubles matches scheduled for today.

BRAINARD MEDALIST IN NEW HAVEN TOURNAMENT

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 26—(AP)—Spencer Brainard, of Branford, was low man in the qualifying round of the invitation golf tournament at the New Haven Country club today. He turned in a score of 71, which was two strokes better than that made by F. E. Bailey, of Westport. They were far ahead of the field, the next lowest score being a 77, made by R. B. Whittlesey.

Brainard not only was the low man of the day but his 71 score tied the amateur record for the course held by R. W. Nichols.

A wet, soggy course made it hard going for the golfers and poor scores were the result. The tournament will be continued tomorrow.

The scores of the first 16 follow:

Spencer Brainard, 71; F. E. Bailey, 73; R. B. Whittlesey, 77; C. C. Elwell, 77; George Smart, 78; W. P. Seeley, 78; R. W. Nichols, 79; John Sill, 79; R. M. Armstrong, 80; William Paterson, 82; K. Pa Stickleback Does His Duty.

Whenever you see your duty clear,
Go to it without thought of fear.
—Pa Stickleback.

Pa Stickleback not only says that, he does it. He is one of the best fathers I know. Yes, sir, if any father should be honored. It should be Pa Stickleback. He may be only a little fellow but he certainly knows his duty by his family and does it.

Reddy Fox kept watch of that nest in the little pool on the marsh. Many a time Reddy stole down softly to see if he might find

H Cady

He played right with those young Sticklebacks until they were old enough to take care of themselves.

Six weeks or more days after Reddy saw Pa Stickleback bring Mrs. Stickleback back to leave her with the children, Pa Stickleback disappeared. He was no longer on his nest. He was no longer taking great care of those precious eggs, that soon wouldn't belong to him when he looked into the water and saw what was going on. But he found it. Pa Stickleback was actually right down the side of that little pool. In other words, he was destroying his home.

Then Reddy discovered what it meant. There were a lot of little Sticklebacks! From each of those eggs had come a little Stickleback. At least they supposed they were little Sticklebacks. They didn't look any more like Pa Stickleback than most babies look like their fathers, which is not at all. But they were tiny fish, and Pa Stickleback was making a great fuss over them. So Reddy knew they must be little Sticklebacks. My, my, my, how Pa Stickleback did fuss about! He tried to keep those big eyes of his on all of them at the same time, and that was some task. To be sure, right at first those baby Sticklebacks were somewhat helpless. Babies usually are. These were no exception. So far as Reddy could see they did nothing but cling to the grasses and plant stems in the water. Pa Stickleback fussed about them and kept swimming around and around, and if so much as a shadow fell across the water, he would rush at it like a fury until he discovered his mistake. But baby Sticklebacks change, just as all other babies change. They began to get independent. Then Pa Stickleback's troubles decided. It was difficult enough to guard from danger a big family of children and keeping still, but there was nothing to the difficulty of guarding a big family of children never still.

But Pa Stickleback did it. He didn't have time for anything else, but evidently he felt that this was his job and he did it. He didn't allow any other finny inhabitant of that little pool to come anywhere near those little Stickle acks. He even drove away their own mother. But then, that was just as well. She didn't know they were hers. No! that that made any difference. It would have been just the same if she had known they were hers. You see, she was quite satisfied to let Pa Stickleback be both father and mother. And to outside was qualified for the job. He stayed right with those young Sticklebacks until they were big enough to take care of themselves. Then, I suppose he gave them his blessing and sent them out into the Great World where, of course, was that little pool on the marsh. Anyway, the children and Pa Stickleback, all three, had left there soon to make it of all. For just those few days Reddy had a good square meal.

JEWETT CITY

YOUTHFUL SWIMMERS DOING SURPRISING STUNTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 26—There has never been a season here when so much attention has been given to swimming as the present summer. Unheard of stunts by ten year old boys and girls are of daily occurrence at the Ashland Casino bathing beach. Mr. Chase tells of Mary Laframboise doing nine different dives and being ready for exhibiti onwork. Gene Shorey, only ten, is a wonder at diving, and with his trick bathing suit, is in a class by himself.

Besides delighting local audiences at the beach, he and his attractive aquatic trick, have been seen in many eastern Connecticut towns. Present activities and with swimmers negotiating the English channel, have caused some to recall local stunts of 40 years ago. At that time two local boys accomplished swimming feats, that then, were considered to be some performance.

Fred J. Miner swam across Baltic pond in its widest part, a little ways above the dam.

Walter B. S. Jeffers, swam, without missing a stroke from the "Nigger" bride to the Ashland dam.

At the one time swift tide at the Falls of the Quinebaug, all traces of which were obliterated by dynamite blasts when Aspinook was built, there was then a famous diving rock for the lads of 45 years ago. F. C. Whiting once made the dive from the upper level of the ledge, twenty feet, into six feet of water that ran like a mill race, as it shot from the natural stone spinway of falls.

The some falls, for rare scenic beauty found no equal in all the length of the picturesque Quinebaug. No photograph has ever been found to exist, which does justice to their wild grandeur. In the A. A. Young Jr. hose house, is a picture, in oil by Miss Alice A. Brown of the Falls of the Quinebaug, which preserves their unusual physical formations, true to their life of two decades ago.

Clambake Sunday at Quinebaug Camping grounds.—Adv.

Local people are hoping that St. Swithen will lay off his job in this section without delay. The rainfall so far in August has gone the limit. Old timers, say that when the ponds and swamps "fill up, early," look out for a stiff winter. Anything that will hold water in this section is full up right now.

It is of interest to Jewett City friends to learn that Donald C. Bliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Bliss, has been elected commander of the American Legion Post of Fair Haven, Mass. This post is in a flourishing condition.

Special dinner today at J. C. Restaurant, Main St. 50c.—Adv.

Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. Laura Barber, Miss Emma Hull, Mrs. A. H. Anthony, Mrs. E. B. Cheney, Mrs. J. H. Tracy and Mrs. F. I. Ray attended the church fair in Brooklyn, Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Frances Babcock, who has been spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Olsen, returned Wednesday to her home in Plainfield.

Mrs. Nettie Johnson has returned from an automobile trip with her daughter Miss Marian Johnson through New York state and Massachusetts.

All along the Griswold country roadsides now are to be seen the flat-topped cluster of the strong scented yellow taney, suggestive of some old New England homestead, beyond whose borders it has strayed. Local flower collectors who are making this handsome aromatic addition to their summer herbariums, are telling of its having been used medicinally since the Middle Ages. Doubtless if all the taney in bloom in Griswold today were brought together into one area, there would be a ten acre lot filled to the fences.

FRAUD BY AID OF THE LAW

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Did you notice that story of fraud in connection with the tuberculin testing of cattle up in Hampden county, Mass.? That's the county in which Springfield is situated.

According to the story, which is sent out by the Associated Press and is therefore presumably non-sensational, grafters in that county and perhaps several others have been buying up cows of little value known as "canners" for about $12 a head, having them condemned as tuberculous and slaughtered. Then a claim of $30 a head was put in for indemnity.

The first intimation of the practice, it is said, came when a federal inspector at the Brighton stock yards found there 60 Hampden county cows, marked as having been tuberculin tested and condemned. Something aroused his suspicion and he made an informal investigation, finding out enough to warrant calling the attention of the district attorney to the need of a more searching probe. How long the thing has been going on, how many cattle have been involved, and how much money has been got by the grafters, are matters yet to be ascertained.

There are several things about this tale which have interested me.

One is the allegation that these cows, called "canners," which can be bought for $12 a head. The other day a neighbor of mine who went out on a cow-hunt involving all the animals he could hear of for sale in four townships, came back reporting that he hadn't seen or heard of a cow which could be bought for less than $100. And he had looked at or looked over herds numbering several thousand. All, too, within 50 miles of Hampden county, Mass. Why, even three weeks old heifer calves weren't offered him for less than twice $12. I should much like to know what kind of four-legged "critters" those Massachusetts sharps could find at such a price.

Then too, that term "canners" makes me curious. Is it meant that the canned beef we buy is put up from nondescripts of that sort and value? In the old and unregenerate days, when law hadn't undertaken to make men virtuous over-night and in spite of themselves, a certain sort of butchers used to buy up old bulls and stags to slaughter and sell to the poor-houses and jails. But even they didn't can the stuff and offer it to the public marked, promiscuously. The poor-masters and jail wardens knew what they were buying. I am told that this sort of thing has ceased to be done any more, and that society's helpless wards are no longer fed meats not considered fit to offer other people.

Can it be that such meats are now being canned and sold on the open market? Meats from animals of such phenomenally poor quality that they can be bought for one-eighth the price asked for ordinary cows? If not, then what is the significance of that term "canners" as applied to $12 bags o' bones? Seems as if there ought to be some information about this afforded the buying public by the argus-eyed and infallible gentlemen who are governmentally appointed to act as guardians of the public's health foods.

Passing on from that point, please note that these "canners," which were bought for an average of about $12 and passed on to the state at an average of about $50, were tuberculin tested and condemned in between those two prices. It was that testing and condemnation which made possible the charging a $50 indemnity for them.

This can't reasonably mean that every "canner" bought at $12 had tuberculosis. The chance of such a thing would be infinitesimal and not to be taken by any business man, even if his business was that of graft. Yet they all bought up, eventually, at the stockyards, ear-marked to show that they had been tuberculin tested and condemned.

Eh?

Looks as if there must have been some sort of understanding between those engaged in disposing of $12 "canners" for $50 and those who tested and condemned them. An understanding, based perhaps on some sort of division of the $38 profit involved in the transactions?

This seems to involve the suspicion that somebody, officially acting as tuberculin tester, took bribes for making false reports. Or else that the tuberculin tests could be so manipulated as to produce fake reactions.

In either case,—or in any other possible case indeed, — it is clear that there is call for a complete investigation of the whole matter. District attorneys can't find any better occupation for their spare time than hunting down and bringing to condign punishment those who prey on the public, whether by robbing the public treasury or by debasing the public markets.

What do you think of all this fine-spun governmental regulation of public health and public manners and public morals, anyway? Including, of course, all the multifarious rules of a thousand boards of health affecting milk production and all the state and federal laws affecting meat supplies?

One of the fathers of the republic is on record as asserting flatly that the best government is that which governs least. That is, which interferes least with private initiative and private enterprise. On the other hand, in every populous community there are scalawags so callous of conscience and so criminal of soul that they'd just as soon sell milk from sick cows or beef from poison-fleshed animals as from any others. Such scamps must be restrained in some way, and there's no other so available as law.

If all the milk and meat dealers were as honest and as well-meaning and as careful of the interests of others as you and I are, there'd be no need of laws to control them than of laws to control us. Unfortunately there are some whom nothing but the fear of punishment will keep half-way decent.

Right there one runs up against the hardest proposition known to organized humanity: How to make laws which shall interdict the activities of criminals without restricting the liberty of better men?

Considering that no two men are exactly alike,—no more so in minds and morals than in faces and figures,— it would seem as if no absolutely just and perfect law could be made to cover more than one man's particular case. That is, every man would need a special law to govern him in all his ingoings and outgoings. This is manifestly impossible. Unless he could be trusted to make his own for himself and enforce it impartially upon himself. This, however, is exactly what the criminal can not be trusted to do. What then?

It is clear that laws must be general, i. e., they must be made of universal effect, and including an over-sight of those who don't need restraint or punishment, as well as those who do. This, inevitably, works occasional injustice on those who don't deserve it, and occasionally fails to work justice on those who do deserve it. In view of the limitations of our wisdom and of our power, such results can't be avoided. We must endure the lesser evil evil to attain the greater good.

But now comes in another complication. The administration and execution of these admittedly make-shift laws must be intrusted to agents and officials. There must be a lot of them, too. Inasmuch as we can't draft the services of archangels or even Haroun al Raschids for this work, but are compelled to take such as we can get from the common ruck, there are fairly sure to be some scalawags among them. No appointing officer or electing body is gifted with omniscience to read the hearts and know the purposes of all applicants for public jobs. The grafter and the bribe-taker will worm his way in, some how or other.

There's you have it. Admittedly imperfect laws, administered by manifestly fallible and sometimes faulty agents. Is it any wonder that the millennium is not yet in sight?

To come down to brass-tacks and back to our cows. No decent man wants to have the milk from sick cows sold to the public. No decent man wants the meat of diseased animals sold for food. Therefore, there must be laws to forbid it and officers appointed to enforce such laws. We can't get away fromthe irristible conclusion.

But who shall guard our guardians? Who shall spy upon our spies? Who shall watch the watchmen?

Perhaps most important and, apparently, most impossible of all, who shall prevent superficial and dogmatic faddists from imposing half-baked theories of sanitation upon a panicky public and getting their quirks and crotchets adopted as law?

I don't profess to understand all about the theory of the tuberculin test. But I have heard many tales of how, in practice, it has condemned cows which, on being slaughtered, disclosed no lesions due to disease. And the other day a Kansas city butcher, slaughtering a Hereford which had triumphantly passed all tests, found in her stomach eight brass shot-gun shells, 14 pistol cartridge shells, ten wire nails and a wire staple and a piece of a hack-saw blade. She was "apparently in perfect health." And I have seen several cows driven pasmy gate towards the rendering establishment, "apparently" in perfect health, with good appetites, bright eyes, sleek hair, and no symptom suggesting ill health or even discomfort, but which had been tuberculin tested and condemned.

I have a rather fixed idea that the tuberlin test is of considerable service in helping diagnose a sick cow's ailment. But that even such a test, when made by any other than a provenly competent and demonstrably honest agent, should be permitted to serve the death-warrent on any cow, regardless of other factors, seems a bit too czarish a sort of procedure.

When made by incompetent or grafting job-seekers it affords too much opportunity for injustice.

NOANK

Boat Horsefly, Capt, Mode Willm, took a party out for a sail to Fishers Island and where they had a clambake prepared by Cook John Sewgins. Mate Sam Carson won in the rowing race and received a gold pencil from the members of the party. The girls' swimming race was won by Miss Julia Cross, with Nellie Grant a close second. The party was on its way back to the village and half way across, Capt. Willbur had forgotten to look in his gasoline tank and the engine came to a dead stop. some of the best bread makers in New England began buying Dietz Bread

FOR they recognized in this loaf the same choice of ingredients, the same scrupulous care they had given to their own baking.

They found that this troublesome, time-taking task could be delegated to Dietz without in any way lowering their standards. Dietz Bread was at home with the other well-cooked foods on their tables.

During forty years the high reputation of Dietz Bread has not changed. For no loaf of bread bearing the Dietz name has ever been made of inferior ingredients or with relaxed care.

Every baking has been an attempt to realize the Dietz ideal—perfection in appearance, in nutriment, in texture and in flavor.

Now the new Dietz Bread—Better than ever!

THIS ideal Mr. Walter Dietz had before him in purchasing the Dolly Madison bakery and bringing it under his personal control and management.

For Mr. Dietz believes that the independent, locally owned and personally supervised bakery is best equipped to produce the kind of fine bread which will satisfy New England housewives.

In reorganizing the bakery, Mr. Dietz has had an opportunity to introduce improvements which make Dietz Bread better than ever.

A marvelous new type of oven, for one thing, which marks an epoch in bread baking. It insures more even, perfect baking of the delicious loaves and it makes possible two bakings a day so that Dietz Bread now goes to your grocer fresh from the oven twice each day.

RICHER, crustier, more evenly browned, with a texture fine and firm, yet so soft and fresh it seems to melt in your mouth—that's the new Dietz Bread in its new red and green wrapper with the homey farmhouse and New England maples. Get it from your grocer today and watch the pleased look on your husband's face when he eats it. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

YOUTH POSING AS BARON WAS HELD ON CHARGE OF PASSING BAD CHECKS

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The youth held here in connection with a bad check charge and who claims he is Baron George Exter Frederich Von Krupp, Jr., scion of the wealthy family of German munitions manufacturers, went under the name of George Adorgan at New Haven, Conn., last fall, when he attempted to enter Yale university, L. E. Farr, of Albuquerque, declared here today when he confronted the alleged baron.

Farr, a Yale student, declared the youth had issued worthless checks at New Haven. Several other Yale students identified "Von Krupp" as a youth they had seen in New Haven. They said they believed he had failed to gain entrance to Yale.

Simultaneously with this identification came telegrams from police departments at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Wilmington, Del., saying they held warrants for the arrest of a man claiming to be the son of the noted German family. The Krupp secretariat in Berlin has declared the youth to be an impostor.

The district attorney's office at Denver today refused to issue a warrant for the youth on a charge of passing a worthless check for $100 on a Denver automobile agency, on the strength of a letter purporting to be from Henry Ford, pending a check-up with the New York bank on which the paper was drawn.

Local police, after guiding the youth and his companion, Charles Taetsch, said they were inclined to believe the story told by the latter. "Von Krupp," they declared, told conflicting stories of his activities. In his possession were a number of newspaper clippings describing him as an "enemy of war," and quoting him as saying the Krupp factory in Germany was being put to the manufacture of implements of peace.

A telegram to the International Henry Ford and purported to be signed by the automobile manufacturer was among the effects. The lad says the automobile he is driving was presented to him by Mr. Ford. He gave his New York address as 355 Park avenue.

Taetsch who says he is a student of Brown university, at Providence, R. I., declares he knew his companion in the east by the name of Adorgan, but that when they started on their cross-country trip he used the name of Von Krupp.

Now is the time for the smart and economical woman to choose her winter furs—now, when prices are lower than at any other time of the year, styles are definitely established and choice is widest.

Never before have we had the opportunity to offer such a glorious array of pelts—squirrels, raccoons, beaver, seal, muskrat, caracul, marminks and nutria.

FUR—The Luxurious Necessity

Gone are the days when a fur coat was considered a luxury possessed only by a chosen few. Today, the smart woman realizes that a fur coat outlives a cloth coat by so many years that in the long run the fur coat actually costs less. To say nothing of the greater beauty and the joy of its possession.

Norwich lodge, No. 830, L. O. O. M., meets in Moose home.

TODAY'S EVENTS

One hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Long Island, one of the notable conflicts of the American revolution.

Italy today will commemorate the 350th anniversary of the death of Titian, one of the greatest of the world's painters.

Greetings to Charles G. Dawes, vice president of the United States, on the sixty-first anniversary of his birth.

The second stage of the political campaign in Texas will close today, preliminary to the holding of the run-off primary tomorrow.

A number of important amendments to make the United States bankruptcy laws more stringent are to come into operation today.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Moose Lawn Party

Special concert at Moose lawn party this evening, admission to grounds being free, should attract hundreds who are out for a good time. The various booths will have all kinds of offerings to delight those who care to patronize. Funds from the lawn party are to be used for state convention in Norwich in June 1927.

Broadway Theater

Take a trip to the Broadway theater, today or Saturday, if you crave real entertainment.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville is the most delightful and the finest seen at that popular playhouse in the summer season.

Picture fans and dog fanciers will be enraptured with the cleverness and almost human intelligence of the movie dog wonder, Alexander the Great. To pass by this opportunity of seeing this great novelty is really to be regretted.

And then came Baby Edna. Here is by far the cleverest child we have ever seen. Not only does she sing and dance but keeps all in laughter throughout. It is just wonderful to watch her.

The Southern Four were a distinct hit in Songs of the Southland. Their program includes every form of music from spiritual to the popular songs. The offering is of unlimited appeal.

Hunting and Francis followed with a new and good line of real comedy which easily held up the fast pace preceding.

The Zeida Brothers closing the bill should not be overlooked with their clever unique comedy aeriel frolics.

At last, the "different" western picture has arrived, according to the verdict of those who have seen Universal's, Chip of the Flying U, starring Hoot Gibson, now at the Broadway theater. The picture, while full of action, is not of the absurdly melodramatic variety and his role gives Hoot a chance to inject much comedy into his characterization. The supporting cast includes Virginia Brown Faire Philo McCullough, DeWitt Jennings, Mark Hamilton, Harry Todd, "Pee Wee" Holmes and others.

Palace Theater

The interest created by the announcement in yesterday's papers, of the coming of Anne Nichols' world famous comedy successes, Abie's Irish Rose to the Palace theater for an engagement of three nights with a matinee on Saturday, beginning Thursday Sept. 2d leads the management to believe that the house will not be large enough to accomodate all those wishing to see this idyllic comedy of love and tolerance with its one thousand hearty laughs.

The many inquiries as to prices, location, when the sale will open, and how long the box office will remain open has given the manager the impression that he better be prepared for a grand rush for tickets, and he has therefore taken the precaution to have plenty of help on hand when the sale opens at ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

Norwich is the first small city in the New England territory to offer Abies Irish Rose after its record breaking run of 32 weeks in Boston, which is the longest engagement ever played by any attraction, musical or dramatic in the Hub.

To all lovers of the clean and wholesome kind of entertainment, and to those who are inclined to be depressed, no better tonic was ever offered to restore one to his or her normal self, and make the world look brighter than this riot of laughter, which is discussed in homes, clubs, churches on streets, cars and over back fences.

Remember the sale of seats opens tomorrow at ten o'clock but no reservations will be taken over the phone.

Breed Theatre

"The Desert's Price," the William Fox production starring Buck Jones coming to the Breed theatre today and Saturday is a whirlwind western drama full of action and thrills.

The plot revolves around the dispute between the cattlemen and the sheepmen, coming to an entirely unexpected and exciting ending. There are some wonderful exhibitions of horsemanship. The scenic and photographic effects are beautiful, and the cast is exceptionally well chosen.

Supporting Jones are Florence Gilbert, Edna Marion, Earnest Butterworth, Arthur Houseman and Montague Love. W. S. Van Dyke directed the production.

Dorothy Phillips will be seen at the Breed theatre in the opening chapter of the Pathe serial, "The Bar-C Mystery," which is in ten chapters. It is an adaptation of a western story of adventure, romance and intrigue written by Raymond S. Spears. Wallace MacDonald, Ethel Clayton and Philo McCullough are featured in a cast that also includes Johnnie Fox, Viola Schram and Victor Potel.

Moose Big Lawn Party

Norwich Lodge of Moose will be on the map strong Friday and Saturday as all details for the lawn party and novelty dance are complete and all that is needed to make the affair a success is good weather and a crowd.

Steward J. T. F. Burns, chairman of the ways and means committee, was in Providence Wednesday to complete arrangements with the out of town boosters who will have charge of four booths. The rest will be handled by the members of the committee.

At 8:30 p. m. sharp, Hon. Milo R. Waters and others will make brief speeches after which his honor, the mayor, will press the button which will start the party going. It is expected that lodges from the surrounding towns will be represented.

The main attraction for Friday night will be a free concert during the evening by the Moose Novelty orchestra and it is expected that this will draw a considerable crowd. The special attraction for Saturday night will be free dancing throughout the evening.

A section of a "cannibal fir," forty-five inches in diameter, imprisoning a smaller tree nearly fifteen inches in diameter, has been added to the collection of forest curios at the Oregonian Agricultural college. The larger tree, which grew in the forest of western Oregon, is approximately 215 years old.

Norwich Produce Market

(Furnished by the Commissioner of Agriculture of Connecticut)

A half holiday in the stores and the quantity of produce offered and the buying were moderate. Few native pears were offered and no native peaches with limited supplies of shipped-in stock at $.75-$3.00. A few native plums sold for 14c-15c per qt. basket. Supplies of blueberries were limited at 20c-25c and blackberries very limited at 22c-23c.

Sweet corn is plenty with a good demand especially for yellow varieties, while limited supplies of shell beans and limas also meet a strong demand. Tomatoes are abundant and cheap and some housewives are starting their canning. Potatoes are somewhat higher with only moderate stocks of home grown being offered.

Broilers and light fowls are easy but heavy fowls and roasting chickens are scarce and continue firm. Eggs are also firm and show some advance on Conn. grades. Butter is firm with a little tendency to advance.

Calves are scarce and in many cases are bringing a little higher prices. Pork products are slightly easier and other meats steady.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

A new three three-day record for theatre attendance here was created during the showing of The Unknown Soldier at the Capitol theatre. The famous war picture was given under the auspices of St. Joseph's Boy Scout Band, champion juvenile band of New England. From its percentage of the receipts the band is receiving over $200, a substantial contribution to its coffers. Over five thousand people witnessed the photoplay and listened to the Scout Band concert under direction of Bandmaster C. N. C. Wheeler at intermission.

The present attraction at the theatre is Ben Loring's Oh Dearie Musical revue of 20 people. The revue is a top-notcher in leading musical comedies. Coming lobby magnets are such outstanding stage productions as The Green Hat, No No Nanette, Abie's Irish Rose, all of which enjoyed excellent runs in Boston and New York and last but not least the photoplay of photoplays, The Big Parade with all the special orchestra pit pharaphenalia.

FRENCH POET OR AUTHOR CAN PUBLISH FOR $30

PARIS, Aug. 26. (AP)—No poet or author need despair of finding a publisher in France if he can dispose of thirty dollars.

For this sum he can have his best efforts printed in a neat edition of five hundred copies of ninety-six pages, with his portrait on the flyleaf, under the general title of Poems Under the Lamp, or Pages Under the Lamp, as the case may be. Each copy is marked five francs, the price to the public.

Four hundred of the 500 copies, are given to the author to send to the press, put on sale, or distribute among his friends. The publisher keeps 100 copies, with the right to print further editions should the work prove a success.

If the price of 30 dollars is too much for the budding poet or author to pay in one instalment, he can liquidate his debt in 12 monthly instalments.

LONGEST ONE FARE RIDE ON CHICAGO STREET CARS

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—The longest street car ride in the world for one fare or seven cents may be had in Chicago.

From the south city limits, with its glimpses of green farms, to the north city limits at the edge of a forest, this ride is 37.3 tenths miles, and it takes about four hours riding. Eight transfers are necessary.

The route covers a variety of scenery. It passes Wolf lake south of the city, runs within two blocks of White city, an amusement park, passes near the famous Hull house, passes Douglas park, Garfield park, Humbolt park, and near Independence park.

Zigzagging a bit this course passes from country scenery through residence and back to the country.

YUGO-SLAVIA ASSUMING AUSTRIA'S OLD STATUS

BELGRADE, Aug. 26—(AP)—Yugo-Slavia gradually is taking the place of the old Austria-Hungary in the economic and political domain.

A wave of prosperity is sweeping through the new Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. Everybody is getting prosperous. Agriculturally, industrially and financially, the country is growing at a phenomenal rate. People's deposits in the banks have increased four-fold within the last eighteen months.

This year's government budget shows a big surplus. The crop promises to be one of the best in recent years. Foreign visitors have agreed that of all the Balkan countries, Yugo-Slavia seems the most promising. Something approaching political and social unity seems to have been achieved.

The country has been able to fund its debt of $63,850,000 to the United States, and negotiations have been under way for an adjustment of its war debts to England and France. Building and reconstruction operations are proceeding on a tremendous scale.

Belgrade's population has increased from 90,000 to 225,000. From a small capital in 1913, the Slav metropolis at the junction of the Save and Danube rivers has been transformed into a city of broad streets, splendid public buildings, fine homes, comfortable hotels, and immense government structures.

CONCEIVES DISCOVERY OF AMERICA BY THE VIKINGS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—How the Viking discoverer of America first set foot on the new continent is a freshly painted picture of American history which an author will soon present.

Two sagas offer nearly all that history knows of the Norse discovery of North America 500 years before Columbus—the Saga of Eric the Red and the Saga of Thorfinn Karlsefni. Imagination therefore has a place here as a handmaid to history, asserts Clara Sharpe Hough, author of "Leif the Lucky" to be published by the Century company.

In her romance, Mrs. Hough gives this conception of the Norse landing for comparison with the more familiar debarkation of Columbus:

"At sunset the Grey Gull took her way lightly through a surge of breakers to the sandy shore of an island that lay bright with verdure and fragrant after the cold smell of the sea.

"Now the old light was black in Leif Eriksson's blue eyes, as in his damp blue coat, his winged helmet on his head once more, he swung up the shingled incline where no shod foot had ever tracked before.

"Triumph was in the set of his broad shoulders and the swing of his step. Blood of his father and his father's father and all those who had gone before him sang a paean in his veins. He had found the new land—another new land, as Red Erik had come on the rock ribbed land beyond Britain. As earlier Vikings had found the Hebrides and Iceland. He, Leif the Lucky, was greatest of them all. His new land was furthest west.

"Turning to his followers, who stamped on damp and solid earth behind him and bent eager eyes landward, he flung an arm toward the green upland.

"'Seek water yonder,' he directed briefly. Thus the first speech made by the discoverer of the New World."

PARK STUDENTS LABOR FOR THEIR EDUCATION

PARKVILLE, Mo., Aug. 26—(AP)—Those who have pictured modern college life as a greased slide down the primrose path, overlooked one important factor in the situation—Park college.

At Park some 450 odd students—men and women—work for an education. They shovel coal in the furnaces, sweep up dormotories, wash dishes, plow corn, and willingly perform other so-called menial tasks in order that they may step out after four years into the business or professional world with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Each student who is accepted—and those able to pay their expenses are requested to go elsewhere—must work three hours a day for the privilege of obtaining an education. There is, of course, some time for recreation, but the college does not go in for intercollegiate athletics.

Park college was founded in 1875. Its charter is non-sectarian.

"Of course," said President F. W. Hawley, "the work part of our school is almost always stressed, but Park is not an industrial college. We give only one degree, the Bachelor of Arts, and the work program on the part of the students is merely a means to an end."

There are 1,400 acres in the school property, and the organization of student labor has been developed to a fine point. There are more than 20 buildings to be kept clean and in good repair. The central heating plant and the furnaces must be kept going; meals are served to nearly 400 students who board on the campus. Then there are the stock farm, the dairy, and the poultry farm to be looked after. The orchards and gardens must be tended, and the college has its own slaughter house, laundry and print shop.

Students at Park kick off the covers at 6 a. m., and breakfast is served at 6:30. Those who prepare the breakfast are up at 5 a. m.

Three superintendents supervise the men students' work, and house-mothers portion out the duties of the women.

Sufficient students stay through the summer to attend to most of the work, and their savings help meet their cash expenses for the following year.

There is such a thing as being too conceited about one's modesty.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Fan—Right after Christmas, Ferdie. She'll be so used to accepting things she doesn't want that she may accept you.—Boston Transcript.

Wift—Beginner's luck.—Nebraska Awgwan.

He—"Dya know that fish is brain food?"

How—"Naw; how come?"

"It takes knowledge to open a can of sardines."—Penn Punch Bowl.

"So you think you can stand the arduous duties of a variety actor? You know in our play we find occasion to throw you down a 30-foot flight of stairs into a barrel of rain water."

"I think I can stand it," said the hungry man. "I was employed as a rate collector for three years."—Weekly Scotsman.

A lady remonstrated with her colored maid for openly encouraging the attentions of the janitor next door. "Mary," she said, "don't you know that he is a married man?"

"Yes'm," replied Mary, "I know it, but—he's dissatisfied."—Oral Hygiene.

"I'm not very well satisfied with that parrot you sold me," said the customer.

"What's the trouble, lady?"

"You said it was a good talker and it never utters a word unless I give it half a dozen crackers."

"That's it, lady. I forgot to mention that that parrott is strictly an afterdinner speaker."—Exchange.

Workmen excavating at Milford, N. H., made a curious find. At some eight feet below the surface an old wooden aqueduct was encountered. This was found to hold fresh running water of good quality. The wooden pipeline must be at least 150 years old, as no record of such an aqueduct is known. The line was probably laid to supply Milford's first log cabins with water.

Signs on some of the omnibuses manned by volunteers during the London strike took on a humorous tone. Said one: "A stone in the hand is worth two in the bus." On an omnibus with all its glass gone was the remark: "I have no pane now, dear mother." One carried this warning: "The driver of this bus is a Guy's Hospital student. The conductor is a Guy's Hospital student. The policeman is a Guy's Hospital student. Any one who throws a brick will be a Guy's Hospital patient."

With the aid of an instrument lately devised, experts expect to learn more about whales and their habits. The contrivance is designed for firing darts, to which are attached silver-plated discs. These discs are four inches long and the darts two inches. The latter will be aimed at the blubber of the whale and will neither cause pain nor inconvenience. These identity discs will be carried by the steamer William Scoresby, the chief mission of which is to study whales. The date and circumstances under which each disc is used will be on the disc, and it will remain for those who kill the whales to make a report of the whales so marked.

OLD PAYROLLS SHOW VALUE OF PRE-WAR NEGRO SLAVES

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 26—(AP)—The warehouse of the Mobile and Ohio railroad has given up several payrolls made out to slave owners, the oldest having been made out and signed by Oliver Beers, former slave owner connected with the M. & O. in 1858, three years before the civil war.

They were "worth" $20 or $25 a month, according to their physical abilities.

In splendid handwriting, clearly legible despite its age, the names of the negroes in slavery, their masters and wages were written in separate columns on the unbleached paper.

JAPANESE STRIKE LOWER WAGES

TOKYO, Aug. 25 (AP)—For some time the Hiroshima Electric works has been experiencing bad business. The workers, realizing the situation, finally went to the management of the company and suggested that their wages be reduced. The employers, however, refused to make the cut, and the employes then insisted that they be permitted to do more work. This also was refused until the employes threatened to quit.

The company hesitatingly acceded, and now every worker appears at the fatcory one hour earlier each day. In the meantime business is declared to be on the mend and the management states that it will be in a position to raise wages soon.

NEW LONDON PLAUT-CADDEN STORE DAMAGED BY FOURTH STORY FIRE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26.—The New London branch store of the Norwich firm, the Plaut-Cadden company, 224-236 Bank street, the largest furniture store in New London, was threatened with serious damage by fire this afternoon, when a lively blaze, undoubtedly caused by a careless employe of the company, was discovered on the top floor of the big four story brick structure. The fire was confined to the fourth floor and the damage will not exceed $1,000.

The fire was noticed shortly after 3 o'clock by an employe of the company, when great clouds of smoke began filling the building. The blaze was located in a large stock of mattresses and was burning briskly. An employe rushed to the fire house of Allen Hook and Ladder company, opposite the furniture store and fireman manned a hand extinguisher and started fighting the fire. A still alarm to fire headquarters caused Acting Chief Thomas Shipman and Niagara Engine company to respond. The blaze was still burning and threatened to become more serious when the firemen arrived there and a line of chemicals was stretched to the upper floor. After playing the chemical on the mattresses about ten minutes the fire was subdued, but not until the mattresses had either been destroyed or damaged as was a sewing machine and several pieces of furniture and beds. The floor and one wall was also damaged. The fire originated, in the opinion of Acting Chief Shipman, from a lighted cigarette or match carelessly dropped on one of the mattresses, igniting the inflammable material and burning unnoticed until the smoke began to fill the building.

LEE TAI IS ARRESTED— HAD OPIUM IN HIS ROOM

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26.—Lee Tai, Chinaman, employed at Peck's restaurant, and residing at 113 Golden street, was arrested early this morning by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen George Labous and Thomas Kenefeck and William Carson, federal narcotic agents, charged with violation of the Harrison act. Tai was presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran this afternoon. The case was continued to next Friday and Tai furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his presentation on the latter day.

Tai had long been suspected of trafficking in opium. Within a day or two the federal officers received information that Tai had a quantity of opium in his possession. The officers went to Tai's lodging place and made a search of his room and found a small quantity of the drug. Tai admitted ownership of the drug, but declared that he had it for his own use, smoking.

Michael Barca of 8 Elizabeth street, was found yesterday operating an automobile. Officer Martin knew that Barca's license to run a car had been revoked so Barca was taken into custody. He pleaded guilty today, as alleged, but he represented that he was away from home when he was notified not to run a car and that though the notification was sent to his home he did not receive it. That did not square his offense in the eyes of the court. He was fined $100 and went to jail. He is the first offender of that sort to be penalized in a long time.

Dante Zaccarelli was fined $3 for operating a car without possessing a license. He is a milk peddler from Waterford and in reality did have a license in his car though he had dropped it when he took cigarettes from his pocket and the license was wedged between the seat cushion and the back of the seat.

George W. Scott, colored, was charged with reckless driving, but when the matter that caused his arrest was explained to the court the complaint was withdrawn. The car Scott was driving was in collision with the taxicab of Domenick Gillombardo on Bank street near the Capitol theatre. It was disclosed that the road is very narrow at this point and that Gillombardo came out from behind another machine so quickly that Scott could not avoid the collision.

Elbert Berube complained to the police that Rudolph Gladu had made an assault upon him and Gladu was arrested. In court today the story came out and it was disclosed that Berube had secured a loan of $10 from Gladu and that in an effort to collect the money a row occurred. The men had worked together and the loan was made some time ago. Gladu had made repeated attempts to get his money and each time, he declared, he was put off with promises. He went to the rooming place of Berube last evening and there hot words led to an altercation that disturbed the public peace. Berube did not disclose anything about the loan when he made the complaint. Today Judge Prince listened to the story and decided that while Gladu was not warranted in taking the method he did pursue, there was provocation for the trouble. He suspended judgment in the case.

Joseph Feldman, a Roxbury salesman, parked his car on State street, near the corner of Main, and left it with the wheels extending more than 12 inches from the curb and not parallel thereto. This is a violation of a city ordinance so Feldman was ordered to appear in court to answer. He got a suspended judgment because he was frank in his admissions and because he expressed regret that he had unintentionally offended.

George Russell and James Dillon, a couple of stragglers, represented that they had been at work at the Griswold hotel and, coming to New London, sopped up a lot of booze that led to a row in the street. A third party was mixed into the trouble, but neither man could tell who the third party was nor why he got mixed up in the trouble. The story was so manifestly untrue that both the men accused were found guilty and were fined. They went to jail.

Simon L. Ewald has sold to Elmer E. and Annie M. Kenerson a tract of land off Norwood avenue, familiarly known as the Goddard farm.

Mary E. Davidson has sold to Harry Watchinsky a house and lot on Howard street.

Patrick J. and Ellen M. Murphy has sold to Maria Caponera Alviani the dwelling at 15 Ledyard street.

Russell Guthrie, 968 Bank street, made a complaint to the police last night that about 10 o'clock two men were discovered prowling in the rear of his home. A search of the vicinity failed to reveal the prowlers.

Mary Diana Montilla, 22, a charge at the State Farm for Women, Niantic, escaped from the institution last night and came to New London, where she was arrested this afternoon and returned to the farm. The young woman after leaving the farm made the acquaintance of Pete Mitchell, 44 Connecticut avenue, this city, who brought her to this city by automobile. The police, who had been requested to keep a lookout for the young woman, located Mitchell, who stated that his passenger alighted on Bank street, corner of Golden street and that he suspected she would try to get to New Haven, for she inquired of Mitchell when a train would leave for that city. The young woman, however, did not make the trip, for about 2 o'clock this afternoon she was picked up on Bank street by Traffic Officer William Corcoran and Sergeant John Cavanaugh. A guard from the farm came here and took charge of the young woman.

A team driven by Jack Berman, of Colchester, who had his daughter riding on the seat with him, was struck by an automobile carrying registration. 100-753, about 2 o'clock this morning on the Thames river highway bridge. Both Berman and his daughter were thrown to the highway and were injured slightly. The wagon was also damaged.

NIANTIC AND FLANDERS STORES YIELD WINE, BEER, ETC.

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26.—Ruby Prottas, proprietor of a Niantic general store, and Max Winisky of Flanders, were arrested this afternoon by state police officers charged with violation of the liquor law. At both places evidence of the violation of the law was found and seized.

Prottas is a former New London merchant and is well known here. Winisky is also well known in New London. Both had been suspected several months of having been engaged in the liquor traffic. Shortly after noon, a squad of three officers visited Prottas' store with a search warrant and raided the place. Only a small quantity of liquor was found and this was loaded into an automobile and taken to the state police barracks, Groton.

Following the Prottas raid, the officers went to Winisky's store and there they found a considerable amount of liquor for 20 cases of beer, alleged to contain more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol and about 70 gallons of wine were found stored in the store. This also was placed in an automobile and taken to the Groton barracks. Prottas and Winisky were presented before Justice of the Peace Charles Watrous, who held each in bail of $1000 for presentation in court next Monday afternoon.

BESSIE KING WARNED TO CEASE AGITATING

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26.—Bessie King might as well reach the conclusion that she will have to abandon the plan of interfering with the workers in a garment factory at 644 Bank street. Mrs. King came here from Colchester to persuade her associate workers that they are dissatisfied with their wages and to induce them to strike, unless paid a higher wage. She has been arrested twice and still is unpunished, other than by the annoyance her detention has caused her. She is under a bond to appear in the police court on the 13th of September but was taken into custody again and arraigned in the police court this morning. Her attorney claimed that under a decision of the supreme court Bessie could do just what she had been doing—picketing the shop without molesting the workers. The prosecutor held that the work Mrs King is engaged in is the sort that drove the Bloom silk company to give up work here and he said the Chamber of Commerce representative, James G. Hammond, had called this fact to his attention. The court decided that the accused had not committed a breach of peace, but warned her to keep within bounds in what she did, or proposed to do. The attorney for the woman held that she had taken legal advice and that she was well informed as to her rights.

Owen Murtha, of Squire street, who has been critically ill several weeks, is reported tonight as being slightly weaker.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Burke, married several days ago, have concluded a wedding trip and are residing on Squire street.

An automobile driven by Carl Albano, of 91 Truman street, and one driven by Louis C. Puovano, 39 Hamilton street, collided this evening on Main street, corner of Hill street. The former automobile was damaged. When the crash occurred for several minutes the street was blocked, trolley traffic being held up until the police arrived, after which the damaged automobile was removed.

John Murtha, former resident of New Lnodon, now employed in New York, returned to the latter city tonight, having spent a fortnight in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Baldelli, 25 Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach, left tonight for New York, from which city Mr. Baldelli will sail on a steamer for Italy tomorrow. Mr. Baldelli will spend several weeks in the land of his nativity. Mrs. Baldelli will spend a few days in New York returning to New London.

This evening Albert J. DiRocco, United States Coast Guard, local section base 4, state pier, made complaint to the police that a locker he maintains in the premises, 129 Main street, owned by Nicholas Haddad, had been forced open and a suit of clothes stolen. An investigation was made by the police, but the identity of the thief was not established, although it is believed that the theft was committed by a sailor.

Mrs. Thomas F. Dorsey returned to her home, 32 Neptune avenue, this evening after having spent several days with relatives in Providence.

Mrs. Albert Land, of 27 Church street; Arnold Winslow, 80 West street; Mrs. John Appleby and infant daughter, Old Lyme; Charles Kelburne, Ashcraft road, and Miss Annie Hertz, 23 Darrow street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

FOUR REPUBLICAN FIGHTS OVER SENATE NOMINATIONS

The 18th senatorial district comprising New London and the town of Groton is not the only one in the state facing a battle at the caucuses this (Friday) night over the selection of the republican senatorial candidate. At least three other contests have been reported to state headquarters.

In the 18th district the fight lies between Prosecuting Attorney Warren B. Burrows and Louis P. Allyn, both of whom represented the town of Groton in the lower branch of the legislature at the last session. Burrows, with the support of the regular wing of the party, is at odds on favorite to win the nomination.

In the 15th district, Waterbury republican stronghold, where nomination for that ticket is equivalent to election, Town Chairman E. W. Goss is opposing Harry B. Dow, former president of the board of aldermen, for the senatorial nomination. Goss is expected to win.

Bethlehem, as has been the case for the past few years as far as politics is concerned, is belying the peaceful connotation of its name, and promises a contest on the endorsement at the republican caucus of Representative Edgar G. Daniels, who is seeking the senatorial nomination from the 32nd district. Senator John Butler of Roxbury is willing to run again, and Representative S. McLean Buckingham of Watertown is also in the race.

In New Haven the Rev. Daniel W. Strickland, Congregational minister, is the Ullman faction candidate for the republican senatorial nomination in the tenth district, but must battle former Senator Hugh McCahey, the Willard faction candidate for the honor.

Two democratic senatorial contests have also arisen to date. In the 19th district, New Haven, Patrick Cunningham is opposing Senator Joseph Tone, and in the 16th district, Waterbury, Senator Joseph H. Lawlor is opposed by Attorney John F. Tobin.

QUALITY OF POULTRY DROPS IN 30 YEARS

The second day of the annual four-day automobile tour of the Connecticut Poultry association came to a close Wednesday night with a banquet at the Mohican hotel, in New London, attended by about 75 members of the association and guests. The tour started Tuesday on the North Coventry state road, east of Bolton Notch, and included a string of 42 automobiles. Besides representatives from the various poultry farms in Connecticut, delegates representing Massachusetts and New Hampshire were also present at the banquet.

For the most part, addresses delivered were of an impromptu nature. The speaker of the evening, John H. Robinson of Reading, Mass., associate editor of the Reliable Poultry Journal, who has studied conditions for a number of years of the kind of poultry raised in New England, said that "poultry in regards to quality is not as strong now as it was 30 years ago. The eggs, because of the quality of the poultry are not of the heaviest type, and here is where the poultry raisers lose both in egg and poultry raising. Because of this condition of affairs, the eggs raised are much too small, accounting for the numerous eggs in storage. It would pay to breed better layers which result in heavier eggs, bringing more money to the producers."

Professor Roy Jones of the Connecticut Agricultural college, who yearly arranges the tours of the association, outlined the plans for the World's Poultrymen's conference, which will be held in Ottawa, Canada, next year. He stated that over 10,000 were expected to attend the conference, with poultry dealers all over the world attending. From present indications however, he stated that of the 10,000 which are expected to be present, at least 6,000 to 8,000 will attend from the United States. Professor Jones urged the members of the Connecticut association to attend. "We must look ahead to the future," Professor Jones said, "and we must be equipped and prepared to keep our own with other poultry raisers in the United states and Canada."

Grant Jasper of Nashua, N. H., representing that state, issued an invitation to the Connecticut association members to visit his farm. He said that it was the fourth year he attended the tours arranged by the Connecticut association and enjoyed them immensely.

Mrs. M. J. Barry of Lisbon, manager of the Quaker Hill farm there, F. L. Kanahan and Walter T. Clark responded with short talks, and an entertainment given by Ye Colonial troupe of Norwich concluded the banquet.

The visit to the Branford farms in Groton, scheduled to be made late Wednesday, was postponed until Thursday morning. The delegates from there continued on their regular schedule, which took them to New Haven. A number of farms were visited on the trip to the Elm City, where the party rested over night and continued to Durham. The members then returned to their homes.

The program for the two days includes stops Thursday at Hammonnasset Beach, F. L. Perry's Guilford, W. W. Ham's Branford, Sagal Lou Farm, Branford, Hotel Garde in New Haven and on Friday Sperry & Barnes' packing house, Flick's live poultry market, the Peabody Museum, Yale university, West Rock, Gastler Brothers, Durham, Brookfield Farm, Durham, G. W. Roberts, of Durham and home.

20TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT WILL NAME COMMITTEEMAN

George E. Bradford of Montville, republican state central committeeman from the 20th (Shoestring district) has issued a call for the delegates to be named at the caucuses in the towns comprising the district Friday night to attend the state convention, to assemble at the court house at Norwich on Monday for the purpose of naming two delegates-at-large from the district to the state convention, and to decide on a state central committeeman to serve for the next two years.

It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Bradford will be re-elected to represent the district on the state central committee. He has been the committeeman from the important Shoestring district for a number of years and has served not only capably, but in a manner that has brought considerable recognition to the district. The 20th district, in number of towns, with 16 is the largest in the state and the committeeman from that district wields considerable influence in the state party councils.

The towns that comprise the district are: Bozrah, Colchester, East Lyme, Franklin, Griswold, Lyme, Lebanon, Lisbon, Montville, North Stonington, Old Lyme, Salem, Sprague, Stonington, Voluntown and Waterford.

RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The selling movement in the stock market which had been under way for about ten days, was halted today when operators for the rise resumed bidding for a wide assortment of stocks. The rally, which took place after a further stiffening of call money renewal rates was not associated with anything in the day's news although several more excellent July railroad earnings reports made their appearance. Speculators working for higher prices apparently decided that many stocks had been oversold, and succeeded in forcing active short covering throughout the list. Commission houses reported that public participation was on a small scale, the day's sales falling just short of 1,500,000 shares.

U. S. Steel common received better support on reports that pig iron producers in Northern Ohio were preparing for a protracted run through the winter months, closing 1 3-8 points higher at 148 1-2. Other steels improved fractionally.

Buying of railroad equipments shares was resumed on reports that several of the big systems were in the market for large quantities of rolling stock. Baldwin Locomotive and Pullman showing net gains of about 2 points each.

Price movements in the automobile group were erratic. General Motors closed 2 1-4 points higher at 209 3-4, after fluctuating between 206 1-2 and 210 1-8, and Yellow Truck was bid up over 3 points to 33 3-8, but Chrysler Dodge Brothers A., Hupmobile, Jordan, Pierce-Arrow common and Studebaker lost ground. Weakness also developed in some of the accessory issues, Stewart-Warner creaking nearly 5 points to 62 on a couple of sales and Ahlyes Wheel dipping to a new low at 29 1-2 and then rallying a point.

Wide fluctuations took place in Warner Brothers A., which opened unchanged at 50, advanced nearly a point, broke suddenly to 48, rallied to a new record high at 54 1-2 and then fell back to 48, off 2 points net. Buish operations were successfully conducted, however, in a number of specialties, including Brunswick Balke Collender, Consolidater Cigar Bushman, Foundation company, National Enameling and Texas Gulf Sulphur, the last named responding to an increase from $2.50 to $3 in the quarterly dividend. The Three Continental Baking corporation issues were admitted to trading and were in the brisk demand at prices above their final quotations on the New York curb market.

New peak prices for the year, or longer, were established in the railroad group by Omaha, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Union Pacific and Chicago Great Western preferred, while Canadian Pacific and Delaware and Hudson duplicated the year's highs. The strength of the northwestern shares was predicted on the belief that higher dividends are in store on some of those issues if that wheat crop comes up to present expectations.

Commodity markets were irregular. Wheat prices drifted lower on the absence of an export demand and cotton showed net declines of 14 to 29 points after having established new high levels for the season in the early trading on unfavorable weather reports. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee moved up 7 to 11 points on reports of a reduction in Brazilian crop estimates.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and Commercial paper rates held firm.

With the exception of German marks, which held firm above the recently "pegged" price, most of the principal foreign exchanges were easier. Demand Sterling sold below $4.85 for the first time in several months and French francs were quoted just below $2.85 cents.

CITY GAS & ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT CLUB CONDUCTS MERRY OUTING

Rain, and plenty of it, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the members of the Norgasgico club of the Norwich Gas & Electrical department, for Thursday was the day of the third annual outing and it was held at Red Top despite the weather.

By special cars or in private machines the members of the club left Norwich during the morning and early afternoon until nearly 200 employes with their wives and families were at Red Top ready for any activity that might be proposed. Sensing that the affair might become short circuited because of the heavy rain, the trouble men were sent out and by early afternoon had the weather under control, making it possible to hold all scheduled athletic events and the diving exhibition, although the annual married and single men's baseball game was postponed for another year.

At noon a delicious clam chowder was served and there was also plenty of ice cream and soda for those who desired it. Shelter from the rain was easily obtained at Red Top and a number of indoor games were enjoyed until the weather cleared and allowed outdoor activities to be started.

The first feature of the day was the series of diving exhibitions given by the Ashland Diving Troupe under the leadership of Prentice W. Chase. There were six members of the troupe, the Misses Mildred Mondor, Louise Segal, Mary Laframboise and Roland Guillett, Eugene Shorey and Mr. Chase. The exhibition diving included nearly 20 varieties and all were performed in a manner which won applause from the large audience. Features of the exhibition were given by Mary Laframboise and Eugene Shorey, two ten year old youngsters, who proved themselves at home in the water at all times. The Shorey boy performed many difficult trick dives, doing anything suggested by his audience, and in a way which caused no little merriment.

In addition to giving a fine exhibition of diving, Mr. Chase gave a clear demonstration of first aid and life saving work, using members of his troupe for the demonstration.

Following the diving exhibition the sports program was carried out under the direction of the athletic committee. There was keen competition in all events, several of them requiring second heats to determine the winner. The fat men's race provided considerable amusement for the spectators, even if it failed to do so for the two huskies who had to run the 50-yard dash three times. The first two heats resulted in a tie for second place but finally Harold Shannon took off his rubbers, and, by carrying less weight, came home the winner by less than a yard.

The various events with the winners and prizes received were as follows:

Women's Events

Needle threading race—Mrs. E. Tubbs, first, prize, butterfly serving tray.

50-yard dash—Mrs. Herbert Lawsence, first, prize, electric curling iron.

Barnyard golf—First, Amos Wheeler and Bill Austin, prizes, flashlights.

At the starting of the athletic events the bake had been put on by C. H. Briggs of Oak Haven, Lincoln Park and was ready at 7 o'clock. At this time all the officials of the company and President James L. Case of the gas and electrical commissioners led the way to the dining hall, music being furnished by D'Atril's Wauregan Hotel orchestra. E. J. Caron, leader and director. Earle Taggart immediately took charge of the singing part of the program and carried off his end of the program in true Lion style.

The musical program rendered during the banquet was most delightful, the choruses being sung by everyone in the hall.

While the banquet was in progress officials of the company were called upon for a song and cheers were given for all of them. President Case was called upon for remarks and briefly stated that the members of the commission believed the annual outing to be a fine thing for the organization. He closed by saying that the spirit of cooperation was most noticeable in the City of Norwich gas and electrical department and that he hoped, that all members would strive to make their department better each year.

The banquet served was one of the best ever enjoyed by the club, the menu including:

Clam Chowder
Soda Crackers Hard Tack
Steamed Clams
Pickles Drawn Butter
White Bread Rolls Brown Bread
Clam Fritters
White Potatoes Sweet Potatoes
Sliced Cucumbers Sliced Tomatoes
Chili Sauce
Boiled Onions Roast Green Corn
Broiled Lobster
Roast Native Chicken
Cigars Cigarettes
Watermelon

Another feature of the banquet program was provided by "Billy Mitchell, who rendered Animal Crackers and Could It, while both sections in the dining hall endeavored to prove themselves the best singers present.

The outing and bake was a decided success and all credit is due to those in charge. The committees for the Norgaseico outing were as follows:

Tickets: E. G. Taggart, chairman. M. J. Kirby; main eats (bake): W. W. Carrigan, chairman, R. B. Mather, H. A. Clarke, N. C. Pierce, W. S. Moon and E. G. Taggart, the latter being in charge of chowder and fritters at noon; waiters, E. A. Rich, chairman; sports: Paul Brumme, chairman. Archie Spalding, E. C. Tubbs, Joseph Moran, Charles Gevers, John Bowker and Herbert Hoffman; music: M. J. Kirby; finances: E. A. Rich; transportation: W. P. Stanley, James Killrow and N. C. Pierce.

RESTAURANT PROPRIETORS ARE SUED ON THEIR NOTE

To collect the unpaid balance of a note for $2,000, dated July 25, 1925, Frank Brozoe of Paterson, N. J., has brought suit in the superior court against Thomas Stavoos, Gregory Pappas and Athos Boondris, proprietors of the Sea Food restaurant in New London. It was provided in a bill of sale that the entire note should become due and payable if the premises were totally destroyed by fire or in case the premises were shut down by attachment or otherwise for more than 72 hours without the consent of Brozoe. Both of these conditions have occurred, it is claimed, because of a fire on June 28, 1926. There is an unpaid balance of $1,450 on the note.

The plaintiff also sues to collect $100 for a marble counter, sold to the defendants on May 15, 1926.

KNOCKED OFF WAGON, SUES TRUCK OWNER

Suit for $1,500 damages has been brought against the Howard Street Coal & Grain Co. of New London by Jacob Lubchansky of that city for damage done by a motor truck of the company, driven by Oscar Lee, when it struck the plaintiff's horse and wagon, standing on Howard street on July 8, 1926.

Lubchansky was perched on the seat of the wagon at the time. He hurt his right ankle when he jumped off, his horse's right forelegs bruised and the wagon damaged.

WENT TO PLAY TENNIS, BOYS HAVEN'T RETURNED

John G. Petty, 17, son of Mrs. Dorothy Petty of Poquonoc Bridge, and George Pollard, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard of School street, Groton, went out together last week Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock to play a few sets of tennis on the Groton Tennis club court in Baker avenue, Groton. They haven't returned to their homes yet. The only message received from them by their parents was contained in a brief telegram sent from the Western Union office in Providence. The telegram was received Friday morning and it contained the words: "We are all right. Don't worry." It was signed "John and George."

Since the two boys left without word of explanation, Mrs. Petty has taken steps to locate them. Their disappearance has been reported to the Y. M. C. A., in which John Petty is a member, and to state and city police departments.

As far as could be learned by their parents, George had in his possession 75 cents while John had $3.

When last seen, both boys carried tennis racquets. John is about five feet 10 inches tall, weighs about 145 pounds, has dark brown hair and wore a white shirt, blue serge suit and white tennis shoes. He also wore a class ring of the Drury high school, North Adams, Mass., where he was a member in the junior class. He carried a white sweater with orange trimming.

George has red hair, blue eyes, weighs about 130 pounds and is about five feet six inches tall. He wore a soft white shirt, grey trousers, white tennis shoes and carried a light brown sweater. He was a plain ring. He is a student at the Bulkeley school in New London.

COLCHESTER WOMAN SUES HUSBAND FOR SUPPORT

Two tracts of land in Colchester, belonging to Max Glass, now of Tampa, Florida, and his undivided half-interest in two other pieces of real estate in Colchester, have been attached in a suit brought against him for support of his wife, Lena Glass of Colchester.

She asks the superior court to order him to support her, as she claims he is able to do, and she asks that a proper portion of her husband's property to be placed in the hands of a trustee in trust for the purpose of insuring her support.

CLARA TURNER HAMMOND SUES BROOKLYN MAN

Clara Turner Hammond of New London, who was riding with her husband, James J. Hammond, in his automobile on the Lyme turnpike in Waterford on May 29, 1926, sues David P. Jones of Brooklyn, N. Y., for $5,000 damages in a suit brought in the superior court for injuries she received in an automobile accident.

The claim is that Jones ran into the Hammond automobile when he shot out in his car suddenly and without warning onto the Lyme turnpike from private premises, near Mossbroker's Corners.

Mrs. Hammond suffered general injuries to her hip, ankle, back and head, as well as nervous shock.

BEER AND WINE ARE SEIZED AT NIANTIC

Twenty cases of alleged beer, 40 gallons of home brew, and five barrels of wine were seized by the state police Thursday at the home of Max Winisky of Flanders as the police, continuing a crusade started Wednesday against the illicit use and sale of liquor swooped down on the Flanders house following reports that Winisky was selling liquor. Continuing their operations the police went to the home of Ruby Prottas of Niantic on alleged evidence of a sale and raided his home. No liquor was found but Prottas was arrested on a charge of selling liquor. Both will be presented in court Monday night.

BARRED FROM STORE, RENTOR BRINGS SUIT

Suit for $10,000 damages has been brought in the superior court by Frank J. Drozd of New London against Joseph and Emilja Rzepniewsky of Groton, claiming that they have refused to allow him to occupy premises, which consist of a store at 362 Main street, a bakery at 368 Main street street and a garage at the rear of the bakery in New London.

Drozd, it is claimed, had an assignment on May 7, 1924 of a lease of the property which Andrew Majesky and Adam Czopek had secured on Aug. 18, 1923 for a ten year term at the yearly rent of $720.

They laintiff occupied the premises and paid rent until Jan. 31, 1926, but on Jan. 16, 1926 the premises were damaged by fire so as to be unfit for occupancy. After repairs had been made by the defendants, about July 1, 1926, they refused to let the plaintiff occupy them or to accept the month's rent which he offered, and about that time they leased the premises to Andrew J. Majesky, doing business as the Bronx Baking Co. He still occupies the premises.

Drozd also brings suit for $10,000 damages against Majesky.

GRISWOLD MAN SUES FOR $4,500 DAMAGES

Joseph Sella of Griswold sues Kate Takmon of that town for $4,500 damages in a suit brought in the superior court because of injuries he received when he was run into by the Takmon automobile in this city on the night of January 6, 1926, at the junction of Central avenue and North Main street. Mrs. Takmon's son, Steve was driving the automobile and Sella claims to have been off the cement portion of the road when he was hit. He was knocked down and dragged along, sustaining injuries to his right jaw, chest, forehead, lip, teeth, right knee, right leg, and right arm.

FORECLOSURE ON FARM WHICH IS ABANDONED

Foreclosure of the mortgage on a farm in Lebanon is sought in a suit brought by Hyrnko and Dymtro Sawicki of Lebanon against John Braski and Mareck Olech, formerly of Lebanon, and Sam Litvin of New London. Braski and Olech, it is claimed, have abandoned the premises and their whereabouts are unknown. The farm is of 166 acres in Goshen Society, and the defendants have defaulted in the payment of an instalment of $150 on the principal and $282.50 for interest, due Aug. 6, 1926 on the original mortgage for $3,500.

C., representing the American Federation of Labor and John J. Egan, secretary of the Conn. Federation of Labor. Mr. Wallace who has been connected with the A. F. of L. for a number of years being a member of the legislative committee is well versed on the affairs of congress and should prove an interesting speaker. These speakers are here to arouse interest in the big union label campaign in Conn., which will be launched at the convention of the Conn. F. of L. to be held in Danbury, Sept. 7th to 10th. President Wm. H. Donahue has been delegated to represent the Central Labor Union at this convention which has the outlook of being the largest gathering of organized labor ever held in Connecticut.

SEEK RECEIVER FOR FORT GRISWOLD PAPER CO.

Suit for the appointment of a receiver for the Fort Griswold Paper Co., of Montville, has been brought in the superior court by Mary D. Goodnow of Norwich and David F. Goodnow of Pelham, N. Y., the former owning 1,620 shares and the latter 750 shares of the common stock of the company. It is alleged that the company is solvent but it has no ready cash to meet its obligations.

The company has an authorized capital stock of $100,000 in 5,000 shares of common stock at $10 par and 500 shares of preferred stock at $100 par. There has been issued 4,874 shares of common and 500 shares of preferred.

Postponed Dramatic Exhibition

CANNING TIME FOR SURPLUS FROM GARDEN

The weekly bulletin of the state department of health says:

With the growing knowledge of food values comes the realization of the need for vegetables and fruits in the diet, not only during the summer season, but throughout the year. There is little danger of these being left out of the diet when the supply is excessive as they are sufficiently attractive to recommend themselves for general use. Since the war these have increased in favor, largely as a result of the backyard gardens that sprang up at that time and have since continued. As one man expressed it "until we had our own garden we never ate vegetables. Now we cannot get along without them."

One of the good results of war time propaganda, too, is the wide spread custom of canning all surplus for the winter months. Many families have increased their garden area to include extra rows of vegetables for this very purpose. With the development of canning methods which preserve the natural textures and flavors, this practice has grown so rapidly that most families now point with pride each season to their share room of well filled jars.

The accepted method of canning vegetables is known as the "cold pack method." This consists of eight steps: (1) preliminary preparation of vegetables as to their respective kinds; (2) blanching (immersing in boiling water or steam for a short time), (3) cold dipping to arrest the process, (4) packing in glass jars that have been previously tested for leakage and defective sealing, (5) adjusting rubber rings and jar caps, (6) processing (immersing in boiling water or steam for length of time required for each type), (8) sealing (tightening covers), and cooling away from a draft of air.

EXTRAORDINARY WELCOME GIVEN GERTRUDE EDERLE

Triumphant Procession in Lower Broadway, New York, Brass Bands, Fluttering Flags, Showers of Confetti and Thunderous Shouts of Applause Greeted the Girl Champion English Channel Swimmer—Mayor Walker Presented Trudy a Scroll Commemorating Her Deed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.— (AP) —Gertrude Ederle was given homecoming ovation today such as New York has never before given a woman.

Packed throngs that witnessed her triumphant procession in the canyon of lower Broadway were estimated as greater than those that welcomed returning heroes after the World war. It was the day of days for the youthful swimmer who was the first of her sex to conquer the English channel, and in a time better than any man had ever achieved.

A triumphant parade, brass bands, fluttering flags, showers of confetti and ticker tape and thunderous shouts of applause marked her progress up the famous thoroughfare where great men of the world have passed to the acclaim of thousands.

The crowd gathered outside city hall, where Mayor Walker presented the girl swimmer with a scroll commemorating her deed, reached such proportions that 1,000 extra policemen had to be called to prevent serious trouble. Six women and children were injured when crushed in the mass of humanity. Fences were broken under the windows of the city hall, and the doors were stormed after they had been closed during the welcoming ceremonies in the mayor's chambers.

The reception did not end with the presentation of the scroll in city hall. Trudy's arrival at her home in upper Amsterdam avenue was the occasion of a jubilant celebration by her neighbors.

It was a great day for that neighborhood. Ederles turned out to the number of "42" sister, and cousins and aunts, not to mention uncles and brothers, according to one of them counting noses on the two tugs that bore the big reception committee down the river this morning. On the Macom, with the mayor's committee, headed by Grover Whalen, was Mrs. Ederle, with two sisters and two brothers of "Trudy", and a dozen or so of the closest of the clan. Mrs. Ederle, tearful and excited, declared herself "the proudest mother in the world today."

When the tug drew alongside of the Berengaria, just before noon, and the mother rushed across the gang-plank to meet her daughter, the young queen of the Channel declared herself "the happiest girl in the world today, to have Mom again!"

Although sirens shrieked on half a dozen encircling tugs, airplanes hummed overhead, fire-boats played all their fountain hose, speed boats passed and re-passed, bands played and crowds cheered in as mad a display as the harbor has ever seen, "Trudy" for the first few minutes of re-union clung only to her mother. "Gee, it's good to have you again, Mom—don't go," she cried, as with wet eyes she kissed her mother repeatedly. Together they faced the impatient battery of cameras.

Miss Ederle, a "water baby" to her mother 19 years ago, when she cried at being lifted out of her little tin tub, today was a very smartly clad, good-looking young mermaid.

A glance would scarcely serve to stamp her as an athlete of such prowess as to defeat channel waves and men's records at once. Her sturdy, but not over-large figure was clad in a simple blue serve suit, her attractive oval face framed in an orchid colored felt hat, becoming to her fair skin, bobbed brown hair and blue eyes. She wore grey stockings and shoes, and a pastel pastel scarf, and carried a modish French novelty doll under her arm. "Pop" Ederle, a plump, smiling rear guard, wore a new light grey suit of over-seas origin.

"I was only interested in swimming while I was abroad, up to the time I made the swim," Miss Ederle told half a hundred reporters who closed in around her to ask questions about her trip. "I had no time for shopping or sight-seeing or anything.

"Before I made the swim I trained by swimming an hour daily, and once a week, three hours.

"While I was swimming the channel I was sure I would succeed. After the first hour, it was rough the whole way, but I never wanted to come out of the water for a moment, and I felt fine when I got up on the beach.

"The criticism made that two tugs helped me in the swim by protecting me is absurd, and its maker has apologized to me. When the two tugs were one on either side of me I could do nothing, as I got the wash from both, so I had to ask them to get in single file.

"After I completed the channel swim everyone was simply wonderful to me —I can't tell you how wonderful. 'Gertrude, you're great,' Bill Burgess told me, and in Germany they couldn't seem to find enough words to tell me how wonderful they thought I was.

"But all I wanted after I made the swim was to come home—just as quick as I could, and get back to mom."

"Gertrude always was my home girl," murmured her mother, beaming.

Future plans and offers? Dudley Field Malone, Miss Ederle's attorney and financial backer, was on hand as a sort of master of ceremonies, jointly with Grover Whalen, and he refused to let her speak on this subject. He admitted she had received offers aggregating $900,000, including two stage offers of $100,000 apiece.

Marriage? "Oh, I'm not in any hurry." Miss Ederle laughed off that query. Once ashore, Miss Ederle made her way like a young crown princess through jammed streets, beneath windows showering torn paper and ticker tape in New York's traditional welcome. She stood in a new automobile given her, which, her mother said, "Gertrude will sit in, but not drive!—she'll have a chauffeur—some class to her!"

"When history records the great crossings," said Mayor Walker in his address of welcome at city hall, "of course they will speak of Moses crossing the Red sea, Cesar crossing the Rubicon and Washington crossing the Delaware, but very frankly your crossing of the English channel must take its place alongside of those."

"I did it all for America and for the American flag," Gertrude responded.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Any recommendations as to policies with reference to Mexico that James R. Sheffield, American ambassador to Mexico City, may make to President Coolidge, it was said today at the summer white house, will have great weight with the chief executive. No date has been set for the visit as yet but it will probably be soon. The ambassador who has come to this country for a vacation, was received by Secretary Kellogg or the state department Wednesday, and is understood to be planning a visit to Atlantic City before coming here.

In the opinion of the president, Mr. Sheffield is an able man and trained lawyer who has made an excellent ambassador and has handled a difficult situation in Mexico with great skill and discretion.

REGULAR REPUBLICANS WIN STAMFORD CAUCUS

STAMFORD, Aug. 27.—(AP) — The "regular" republicans won overwhelmingly over the so-called Lincoln Republican club faction in the republican primaries here today winning almost two to one.

The "regulars" elected the entire ticket, the Lincoln club failing to place even one candidate. The total vote was 4,599, a record for primaries in Stamford.

Following turmoil, recriminationn and hotly worded arguments earlier in the day, and when there intimations that the result of the primary might be the basis of an appeal to the superior court, a detail of 20 policemen guarded the polls tonight while the votes were being counted.

Of the total vote cast, the regulars received 2,410 straight votes and the Lincoln club 1,552 straight votes. The balance of the ballots were split.

Prosecuting Attorney Max Spelke, a Lincoln club republican, had intimated earlier in the day, amid arguments, that the entire primary action might be thrown into superior court. He said tonight, however, that he had not determined what action he would take, stating that he wanted more time to thing over the matter.

The campaign was one of the most bitterly fought contests in the history of Stamford.

41 BODIES RESCUED FROM CYLMER MINE

CLYMER, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The wrecked workings of the Clymer mine of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation tonight had yielded the bodies of 41 of the 44 miners who were killed late yesterday by a terrific explosion. Far into the mine picked rescue teams toiled incessantly to penetrate the tons of slate and rocks which formed the tomb of the three missing men. Hope was abandoned that any of them would be found alive and experienced rescue workers estimated it would require several days to extricate their bodies.

Nineteen bodies were brought to the surface today from the ill-fated slope and pieces beyond the ruin in forms of 22 of their comrades who had previously been found and taken to a makeshift morgue near the pit mouth. There Marion Putts, the village storekeeper, passing along the line of victims, recognized 26 of his friends, and relatives identified the other bodies.

OPPOSED TO DETECTIVES AS POLITICAL INVESTIGATORS

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A candidate for the republican nomination for U. S. senator from New Hampshire tonight made common cause with Governor John G. Winant against a reported investigation by detectives from outside the state of primary campaign expenditures here.

Bass, opposing Senator George H. Moses for the senatorial nomination, issued a statement "heartily endorsing the governor's action."

Reports have been in circulation that 19 detectives employed by a national non-partisan organization, have been making an investigation in this state. William H. Barbour, claiming to be the manager of the Community Protective Service of the William J. Burns International Detective Agency, Inc., is in charge of the inquiry.

Nicaraguan Protest Against Mex. Gov't

Filed With League of Nations —Alleges Aid Given Revolutionists.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 27—(AP)—The American continent suddenly and sensationally entered the domain of possible League of Nations' political activities, today, when Nicaragua filed a protest against Mexico, alleging a freebooting expedition by an auxiliary Mexican airship to help Nicaraguan revolutionaries overthrow the government.

Nicaragua in its note of protest does not request specific league action, but sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, has forwarded the protest to all the members of the organization, as well as Mexico, a non-member. The secretary general has also communicated to the Mexican government that, in accordance with the regular procedure of the league, Mexico may forward to the league members any communication which it may consider desirable in connection with the Nicaraguan note. The league covenant provides that non-members shall be invited to accept obligation of membership in case of a dispute between members and non-members.

This is the first time a Latin American dispute has come before the league. Consequently extraordinary interest has been created, as it opens the question as to what attitude the league will adopt in a dispute arising on the American continent, the covenant prohibits any action affecting the validity of the Monroe Doctrine.

CHARGES OBSTRUCTION IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Hall-Mills murder investigation was marked late today by the request by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson to Governor A. Harry Moore to take action against Fred A. David, on charges of obstructing the present inquiry into the crime.

On returning to his home at Jersey City tonight, Simpson telephoned this request to the governor, and later stated the executive promised to consult with the Middlesex county prosecutor.

David is chief of Middlesex county detectives, and as an instance of the acts of the detective, Simpson cited that David, although under oath during a preliminary examination, made no mention of a brooch pin found in 1922 near the scene of the slaying of the clergyman and his choir singer on September 14.

In a statement later made to the prosecutor, David said the pin had been turned over to a person who claimed it as his property. The late Azariah M. Beekman, then prosecutor of Somerset county had instructed him to surrender the pin and obtain a receipt, David said. The receipt was lost and he did not remember the name of the man to whom the pin had been given.

David today denied ever having possession of the calling card which the state asserted was found at the feet of Dr. Hall's body and which, it is declared, bore the fingerprints of Willie Stevens, who with his cousin, Henry De B. Carpender and sister, Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, the rector's widow, are charged with the murders.

MEXICO DENIES CHARGE MADE BY NICARAGUA

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Antonio Mediz Bolio, Mexican minister to Costa Rica and Nicaragua, who arrived here today from Central America, denied that the gun runner "El Tropical" is a Mexican boat, as has been charged by Nicagarua. A committee of Nicaraguans in Mexico City who are in sympathy with the revolutionary movement in Nicagarua, has also issued a statement saying the "El Tropical" is a Nicaraguan, and not a Mexican, boat.

Seno Bolio emphasized that the Mexican government has not intervened, nor will it interfere, in any way in Nicaraguan politics. He said there were many Mexicans of Central America, some of whom may be participating in the revolution as individuals, just as American aviators are doing, but this did not mean interference by the Mexican government.

Hot Contests in New Haven Rep. Caucuses

Regulars Succeeded in Carrying All But Four of the 33 Wards.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Republican caucuses in this city tonight gave a victory to their regular organization as against the faction which was led by Clarence G. Willard and which for the third time tested the leadership of Colonel I. M. Ullman.

The regulars carried all but four of the 33 wards which gives them overwhelming control in the conventions to be held tomorow night to name delegates to the state, senatorial, representative and probate conventions.

The main issue, however, in the caucuses was control of ward units through the chairmanships and the naming of members of town committee and state central committeemen from the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh districts. The results in this last mentioned respect forecast the replacement of Willard on the state committee to which he was elected two years ago after ward contests in which he fared much better than was his lot tonight.

The caucus results forecast the renominations of Senator Frederick L. Ford in the eighth district, of Senator George E. Hall, son-in-law of former Lieutenant Governor Dennis A. Blakeslee in the ninth, the nomination of Rev. Dale W. Strickland, a war chaplain, in the tenth, and of a regular organization man in the eleventh over Senator Harry Blakeslee who two years ago was with the regulars but meantime had cast his lot with the Willard faction.

In the eighth district former Judge A. McClellan Mathewson had been put forward from senator by the Willard faction who also were ready to run former Judge Arthur W. Chambers against Senator Hall in the ninth district had there been a close delegation.

In most of the wards there were contests over the permanent chairman and in all wards but one the primary check list was used on which the aggregate enrollment for the city had been figured about 20,000.

Most attention was directed to the 23rd ward over which for years former Senator and former State Highway Commissioner James H. MacDonald held away with little opposition ever offered to his continuance in office. Here, the veteran found many of his former workers and committeemen led by Colonel E. L. Isbell against him and in favor of Harry B. Kennedy, ward alderman and Foot Guard, who also was championed by Theodore Blakeslee, brother of the former lieutenant governor.

In the small ward room nearly five hundred electors crowded and after a skirmish at the opening the balloting was begun, in which Kennedy was the winner by more than a two to one vote. This forecast dropping of MacDonald from the town committee of which for many years he was chairman and many times led the republicans to victory in the city and state elections. In this ward more than 450 persons voted out of 1095 on the primary list.

NO PROSPECT FOR ENDING BRITISH MINERS' STRIKE

LONDON, Aug. 7—(AP)—Publication of the report of the proceeding of yesterday's meeting between the miners and the government shows there is not the slightest rift in the deadlock which has lasted for seventeen weeks. There seems to be no prospect of a termination of the coal strike except by the process of attrition, though sectional breakways by the miners from the stand taken by their leaders or exhaustion of the miners resources. The miners' representatives had nothing new to propose at the meeting and the government had nothing to concede.

Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, flatly refused to consider a renewal of the subsidy to the miners in any shape.

Very frank talk was indulged in. A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners federation, characterized Chancellor Churchill's attitude as "brutal." Herbert Smith, president of the federation announced.

Mr. Churchill had advocated an eight-hour day and the combining of district and national settlement, which brought accusations from the miners' delegates that he was espousing the owners' cause. He also declared that the government no longer needed to buy foreign coal, because it was coming in freely at the rate of 10,000,000 tons weekly.

Later a propeller was brought here aboard another plane, the wings were repaired and the men flew back to Mitchel field.

You Are Looking at History

The hawker of yesterday who cried his wares in the public places is now but vaguely remembered—swallowed up in yesterday's 7,000 years.

Today the news of goods for sale becomes an indelible record of human achievement.

You may read the extraordinary tale of progress in transportation in America in the files of the newspapers, and you may read the startling story of the revolution in household economy and the emancipation of the American wife and home-builder in the advertisements of the last 25 years.

But in today's paper you find an even more amazing record—the advertisements of radio outfits, automobile equipment, electrical appliances, foodstuffs, clothing, medicines—things which have raised our civilization to higher plane than the world has ever known.

HAWAIIAN AIRPLANE HERO MEETS DEATH IN AVIATION

Commander John Rodgers, Who Had Warded Off Death in the Pacific Ocean, Was Fatally Injured When Land Plane Dropped Into Shallow Water of the Delaware River—Rodgers Was Pinioned in the Cockpit of the Machine for Nearly an Hour, Suffering Agony as Rescuers Worked to Free Him—Died in Naval Hospital Two Hours Later.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Commander John Rodgers, hero of the San Francisco-Hawaiian flight is dead.

The brave and resourceful navy flier who warded off death on the broad Pacific ocean was killed as the result of a drop in a land plane into shallow water of the Delaware river this afternoon. He was so critically injured that death overtook him in the naval hospital in two hours. He died at 5 o'clock.

Samuel Schultz, of Philadelphia, his mechanician, with a broken back, lies near death in the hospital of the Philadelphia navy yard, near which the accident occurred.

Eye witnesses differ on the distance the commander fell, but most agree it was between 30 and 150 feet as he was gliding to make a landing.

A naval board of inquest was immediately called and it was announced that no public statement would be made until a report was presented to the secretary of the navy and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

The famous commander suffered great pain and was unconscious at intervals, but he was able in the true navy fashion to give fragments of information to naval officers as his life ebbed away.

Commander Rodgers was just ending a flight from the Anacostia field, Washington, D. C., to inspect at the aircraft factory in the navy yard some new planes of the type used on the historic cross-Pacific flight. His coming here was known only to the immediate officers at the yard concerned in his movements, and many of the officers and sailors who happened to be near the river front of the navy yard did not know it was the intrepid Rodgers that was going to his death as the plane fell.

Every resource of the big yard was brought into play in the rescue. The commander was pinioned in the cockpit of the machine for nearly an hour and suffered untold agony as officers and sailors worked up to their necks in water to free him.

"Go easy, boys," he said. "I'm caught somewhere."

No further time was lost and the fuselage of the ship was literally torn apart to get the navy officer out. When he was freed and a brief examination made it was announced he had suffered only a broken leg, and a sigh of relief went up. Later it was cautiously stated that he was suffering greatly from shock and that a more thorough examination might show more serious injuries. No further word came from the hospital until the announcement that he had died. At first it was not believed, but naval surgeons sadly confirmed the news.

Recently it was announced Commander Rodgers would fly across the continent with a picked squadron of navy airmen, and that he would engage in practice in California preparatory to making another dash to the Hawaiian Islands.

Today the commander flew a land plane of the VE type. He followed the historic Delaware river on his way to the navy yard after crossing the state of Delaware. The Philadelphia navy yard's landing field stretches along the river for some distance and when the commander was sighted he was descending to make a landing on the broad stretch of grassy ground.

A few officers and men watched the arrival and saw the plane go into a slow glide. It was over the river and pointed toward the field. Suddenly it was noticed that something was wrong and before anyone could realize it, the plane shot downward into about three and a half feet of water and approximately 100 feet from shore.

Commander Rodgers and Schultz, strapped in their seats were unable to save themselves. When it settled in the river the cockpit of the plane was just above water. The shock of the fall broke the propeller. Water welled into the pit but fortunately Commander Rodgers and his companion were sitting high enough to keep their heads above the surface of the river and save themselves from drowning.

Officers, sailors and marines leaped into the water and floundered out to the rescue. Others tumbled into a 20-foot navy barge and pulled out to the wreckage. The first efforts to lift the commander out of the plane were unavailing, according to eye witnesses. The commander and his mechanician were conscious but their faces showed they were in great pain.

"Easy boys," Rodgers said as they tried to lift him. "I'm caught somewhere, go easy."

It was discovered that the engine of the plane was partly lodged against Rodgers' chest. While stalwart sailors and marines tugged and pulled at best they could in the water to free the commander, tools were hurried for and the men worked frantically with wrenches and saws. Despite their best efforts it took fully 50 minutes of labor to move the engine and release the wreckage from the commander's leg.

Schultz in the meantime had been lifted from the wreckage and was taken to the hospital.

A special stretcher used for airplane accidents was brought alongside the wreckage and sailors lifted him in their arms and placed him on it. A naval ambulance was waiting when Commander Rodgers was brought ashore. He was conscious, thanks to stimulants given him by members of the medical corps who rowed out to him.

EVENTS IN THE CAREER OF COMMANDER RODGERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Youngest of a long line of "John Rodgers" who have served with distinction in the American navy since 776, Commander John Rodgers, who died from injuries sustained today in an airplane crash at Philadelphia, won fame as the hero of an attempted non-stop flight to Hawaiia.

Forced down into the Pacific, he and others of the crew of the PN-9, No. 1, one of the seaplanes which undertook the flight from San Francisco bay in September, 1925, were rescued near their goal. They had been missing for nine days.

One of the pioneers in naval aviation, Commander Rodgers had been assigned to command of the Hawaiian expedition after brilliant service in the air service.

Born here, January 15, 1881, Rodgers entered the naval academy in 1899 after he had served during the Spanish-American war in Cuban waters as a member of the crew of the U. S. Columbia.

His first tour of duty at sea following his graduation from the academy began in 1905, being commissioned a lieutenant in 1908.

Aviation soon attracted the young officer, son of Rear Admiral John Augustus Rodgers, retired, and he became the second airman in the navy, qualifying as an aviator at the Wright Training School, Dayton, Ohio. He already had conducted experiments with man-lifting kites for use in the fleet for spotting purposes and later he won the Hearst prize as the first to fly across the United States, making the flight in an airplane purchased jointly with a cousin, C. P. Rodgers.

After a tour of aviation duty at the naval academy, Rodgers became the leading figure in establishing the air station at San Deigo in 1911. He then resumed duty at the academy, returning soon afterward to the general service.

He was promoted to lieutenant commander in 1916 while serving with the submarine squadrons, receiving the temporary rank of commander in 1918. At the close of that year he was placed in command of Division 10 of the submarine forces with the the United States Atlantic fleet. Cleaning up the allied and German mine strewn in the North Sea was his next assignment and in June, 1919, he served with the mine sweeping detachment. In December of that year he was executive officer of the U. S. S. Nevada, and the following November he received the permanent rank of commander.

After a tour of recruiting duty at Baltimore, Commander Rodgers in July, re-entered aviation, being given command of the naval air station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. It was while he was later commander of the U. S. S. Wright, tender with the aircraft squadrons of the scouting fleet, that Rodgers was selected to command the non-stop flight from the coast to Hawaii.

The day after the rescue of Rodgers and his crew on that epochal flight the aviator was appointed assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics, a post he did not desire but which he took only at the urging of navy officials.

Recently Rodgers was relieved of this assignment and given command of a new experimental long distance scouting squadron with a base at San Diego, but while on duty as assistant air chief he made a flight from Washington and Cuba and return. He also has been presented with a gold watch by The Associated Press in appreciation of the dispatch written after his rescue on the Hawaiian flight.

Rodgers looked forward eagerly to his command at San Deigo and his flight to Philadelphia today was for the purpose of inspecting planes under construction at the naval aircraft factory there for use in the squadron. Rodgers father and mother live at Havre De Grace, Maryland.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE HAS TWO ENGAGEMENTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who crossed the Atlantic eastward to break an engagement, rushed from the Berengaria on its arrival today to keep two "dates" one with a doctor and one with a dentist.

"I'm in a hurry," she told reporters who met her on the ship, "to keep two import dates. There's no more romance in life for me. There's no love, either."

Curiosity about the "dates" brought questions to which the actress replied: "I sprained by ankle embarking at Cherbourg, so I'm going to see a doctor. I've also been kept awake by an ulcerated tooth and I shall go to see a dentist."

The engagement she crossed the ocean to break was that between her and Stanford Comstock, Florida real estate operator, she said. "I'm still trying to find the right man, and if I do I'll marry him. Do not like to be called Countess Gosta Morneo, plain Peggy Joyce, if you please."

MEXICAN BUSINESS MEN FEEL RELIGIOUS BOYCOTT

MEXICA CITY, Aug. 27.—(AP)—In a statement issued today, the Catholic episcopate announces that the vatican and the Mexican episcopate "are absolutely united in an unyielding front, determined not to give up their firm, but peaceful efforts to secure religious liberty."

The boycott called by the league for defense of religious liberty, as a means for Catholics to show their displeasure over the religious laws, appears to be adding daily to the business depression.

Frederick A. Warren, of South Coventry, and Henry J. Flynn, of West Main street, are to be charged with violating the automobile laws in police court this (Saturday) morning. The trouble is the aftermath of an accident in which cars driven by the two men figured, on West Main street, Friday forenoon. Warren, operating an Overland touring car, swung out to pass another car and his machine crashed with a Dodge commercial car owned by Herbert A. Gillette, being operated by Flynn and coming from the opposite direction. Both automobiles were damaged, but there were no injuries to the drivers. Traffic Officer Grant Bombria found that Flynn did not have his driver's license with him, he stating that it must have been lost. He will be charged with that offense in court. Warren will be charged with reckless driving.

JEWETT CITY

CAPTURING WOUNDED BUCK NOT SO EASY PROPOSITION

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 27.—A big buck with a considerable showing of antlers judged at random to be as much as a 8-pointer, evidently wounded, is wandering about the heavily wooded districts in the vicinity of Voluntown. Yesterday forenoon, Bill Magel and a young man named Bitgood, were fishing for bass on Beachdale stream, between the mill by that name, and the Tanner bridge. As they proceeded along the river, which at this point is but little wider than a good sized brook, it began to rain, great guns. Just as they were talking of quitting for the day, and were about to make the last few casts, a little ways ahead Magel saw what he first took to be a cow, lying with its hinder parts in the water. Its head resting on some sort of a log a little ways above the water mark. Approaching with caution, and peering through the rain, the boatmen discovered it to be a deer. Bill got down on his knees in the bow, and figured to lean over the gunnale as the boat came near, catch the deer by the head, and capture him alive.

The skiff touched the bank and in an instant the would-be deer hunter grabbed his quarry by the horns. Something at once took place, on which the wild-west boys had failed to figure. The deer jumped up, and sprang into the air, making one of those leaps of which only a deer is capable. Bill Magel was there to stay, and, hanging on for desperate life, rode skyward with his game. When the descent came, the deer struck the boat, young Bitgood overboard. Bill Magel lost his hold and fell of into the river. Meanwhile the deer made across the narrow stream toward the nearby woods, but failed to reach shelter, for even as his would-be captors took note of his flight, he stumbled and lay down again in the thick brush and weeds of the swamp that borders the river at this point. The men being certain that he was wounded, molested him no further.

The funeral of Mrs. William H. Brown was held at her home, on Friday afternoon. The house was filled with relatives, neighbors and friends, representing the schools, church, Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter, D. A. R., Voluntown Circle of The King's Daughters and business people. Beautiful flowers filled the rooms. Rev. John Wright, of Merrimac, N. H., read passages of scripture and Rev. W. Reynolds of Lisbon, offered prayer, and delivered the eulogy. He also conducted the service at the grave, Rev. Mr. Wright pronouncing the benediction. "We May Not Climb the Heavenly Steeps" and "Lead Kindly Light" were sung by Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. George Sparks and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. Burial was in Jewett City cemetery, the bearers being William Barthol'e, of Plainfield, R. I; Parker Jr. of Westminster, Vt., and Samuel Cathcart, Jr., and G. H. Prior, of Jewett City. Relatives and friends were present from Westminster, Vt., Merrimac, N. H., Amherst, Mass., Washington, R. POETRY

Across the Night

Could I again but see you smile
The smile none could forget;
Once more might feel your glance beguile—
I'm dreaming of it yet!
'Twould lift the shadows from my soul
That fall and never flee,
My longing heart would reach its goal,
And angels envy me.

But, ah, my dream,
Is but a dream,
A dream of love—and you;
And should I live
A thousand years,
It never could
Come true.

If I could hear you sing as then,
Upon that night in May;
If I might list that song again
That sang my heart away,
Naught would I care for any bliss
In some far world they know;
Enough you loved me, Love, in this
As in the long ago.

So, Dear, I pray
My haunting dream,
My dream of love—and you,
For life too fair,
When I am dead
May then, Sweetheart,
Come true.
—Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

Moonlight In Italy

There's not a breath the dewey leaves to stir;
There's not a cloud to spot the sapphire sky;
All Nature seems a silent worshipper;
While saintly Dian, with great, argent eye,
Looks down as lucid from the depths on high
As she to Earth were Heaven's interpreter;
Each twinkling little star shrinks back too shy
Its lesser glory to obtrude by her
Who fills the concave and the world with light;
And ah! the human spirit must unite
In such a harmony of silent lays,
Or be the only discord in this night,
Which seems to pause for vocal lips to raise
The sense of worship into uttered praise
—Elizabeth Clementine Kinney.

Charles Heathcote, 22, of Bridge street, Springfield, Mass., was arrested by Springfield officers Thursday night and held for the state police of the local barracks, on a charge of theft of an automobile from Joseph Brule, of West Stafford. The latter complained to the officers yesterday that Heathcote, who had been working for him as a truck driver, had disappeared with his machine. Friday morning Officer Hulburt of the state police barracks brought Heathcote back from Springfield, and he is in the borough lock-up, awaiting a hearing in the borough court Saturday morning. Whether the charge theft of the machine will be made, or changed to taking an automobile without permission of the owner, has not been determined. Heathcote had been living in Springfield for some time before going to work for Brule in his charcoal fields. Yesterday he got into an argument with Brule and threw up his job, taking his clothing and Brule's machine to Springfield. As nearly as the state police can ascertain, Heathcote aggretted the action after arriving in Springfield and attempted to return the machine, but when a few miles from Brule's home he ran out of gas, and left the touring car standing in the highway, where later it was discovered. Until his discharge last November, Heathcote had been in the service of the United States as a marine. Criminal docket—State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly, vs. the liquors and vessels of James Salemeno, seized in the raid by Westerly police at his store, 78 Pleasant street, Saturday evening, August 14th. No one appearing to claim the same they were adjudged forfeited to the state and warrants issued for their destruction.

Civil docket—R. I. Garage vs. John W. Opie. Continued one week. James W. Burke vs. William S. Archie. Continued one week.

Criminal docket—State Thomas E. Brown vs. Raymond D. Main, 21, of Westerly. Ready. The complaint alleged the operation August 20th, of an automobile not equipped with at least two powerful brakes. A plea of guilty was entered. A second complaint alleged on August 20th the operation of an automobile on Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View, without first obtaining a Rhode Island operator's license. Defendant testified that he had driven a car three years and that he had a Connecticut operator's license. He said that he drove the auto for Frank Shippee and that he was not wholly responsible for its condition.

Albert Earl, inspector of the Rhode Island State Board of Public Roads, testified that he had examined the brake son the Ford ton truck, which was loaded with 18 cwt. of ice. Driven at a speed of 20 miles per hour, with a stop meter, it registered 150 feet with the foot brake applied.

Judge Williams imposed a fine of $5 and costs for the operation without a license and a fine of $25 and costs for operating an automobile without brakes.

State, William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. Albert House of Hopkinton. Defendant pleaded guilty to the operation of an automobile on Main street, Hopkinton, August 19th, without first securing a license from the Rhode Island State Board of Public Roads. He said that he had a Massachusetts license, had been only three weeks in the state but had held licenses in five different states. Employed at a Westerly garage and going home, he as picked up at the time of the general inspection throughout the state. He had intended to apply on that Wednesday but was so busy that he did not get time and was picked up that night. He was fined $5 and costs.

Main. Continued two weeks. vs. Edwin A. Clark. Continued one week. vs. Concetta Liotta. Ready. vs. Edward Liotta. Ready. vs. Arthur B. Prentice. Ready.

Attorney John C. Geary of New London entered a plea of nolo, withdrawing former plea of not guilty. When Town Solicitor Ferguson started to call Westerly Highway Engineer A. L. Leon to the stand as a witness, Attorney Geary said that to save time he would agree to the statement of counsel to the court. Town Solicitor Ferguson told the court that Prentice was driving an automobile on High street, while intoxicated, in a northerly direction, proceeding at a rapid speed when he collided headon with an automobile approaching as he passed out from in back of an automobile just ahead of him. He said the defendant went into the A. & P. store and asked the storekeeper to go and get his car away, admitting to him that he was intoxicated. Dr. M. H. Scanlon, being called found the defendant in the driveway south of the Immaculate Conception church and pronounced him under the influence of liquor. No one was injured in the other car, but the auto was damaged.

Attorney Geary told the court that he had witnesses that the operator was not intoxicated, but going at some speed struck an obstruction and was not in control of his car and that the defendant was severely injured. The only damage was to the man himself, a young man, reputable citizen of New London and not a wayward son. The defendant was insured and this was his first court appearance. Judge Williams said that relying on the representation made by counsel that he was convinced of all that had been said and that out of respect to his parents and to himself he did not think a jail sentence just. He imposed a fine of $200 and costs.

State, Thomas E. Brown vs. Ralph A. Wolcott. The defendant admitted sufficient evidence to convict, entering a plea of not guilty to reckless operation of an automobile.

Wolcott told the court that he was operating at thirty or thirty-five miles per hour on a very narrow road, saw a stone on the road's edge painted white and passing inside of it struck the Connor's car, an dat the time one passenger was riding on the door of the car and one on the spare tire at the rear of his auto.

Judge Williams said that he was under the impression that it was an hilarious party, though not a necessarily Bacchanalian one. He imposed a fine of $10and costs. Wolcott gave notice of an appeal and bonds of $500 were required for his appearance in the September term of superior court for Washington county.

State Thomas E. Brown vs. Tony Russo. Attorney Dunn informed the court that in this alleged assault case he had at the previous hearing been give nuntil August 30th. He now requested a bill of particulars. Judge Williams denied the motion for bill of particulars.

James B. Baker vs. Henry C. Gilmore. Continued one week.

William A. Burke vs. Elizabeth Ostman et al. Marked passed.

Criminal docket—William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. Joseph A. Meaghen of New Haven. The defendant was charged on August 5th with operating an auto on Main street, Hopkinton, when he failed to pass other than on the left of a car ahead. Meaghen pleaded nolo. The court declared the defendant discharged, not guilty.

State, Frank H. Brown vs. Edwin A. Clark. Set down for trial by agreement of counsel for September 3.

State, Thomas E. Brown vs. Tony Russo. Set down for September term of superior court for Washington county, third Monday in September.

In the afternoon session the nuisance case of Thomas E. Brown vs. Edward Liotta of the Black Coffee House was taken up at the adjourned court session at 1:30 p. m., continuing for the remainder of the afternoon.

Officer Fred Ferraro, testified to watching the Black Coffee house, 33 Pleasant street, its reputation being a place where liquor had been kept for sale.

OUR STATE PARKS

As a result of the record which has been kept of the number of visitors to the state parks in Michigan thus far this year it is estimated that the total will reach 4,000,000 by the close of the season, or a gain of about 60 per cent over last year. This shows evidence of much interest on the part of the people of that state in the state park system and the opportunities it affords for pleasure and recreation. Michigan has a total of 43 state parks and possesses sites for ten more.

The state park system of Michigan has undergone greater development than has the same effort in Connecticut. While we have something like 30 state parks, to say nothing of the state forests, it is a question whether the number of visitors thereto would equal in proportion to population the tourists visiting Michigan's parks, and yet there is much of beauty or historical interest to be found in connection with practically all of them.

Perhaps it would be well if the people of Connecticut knew a bit more about these reservations which have been obtained partially through the use of their money and for their benefit. Through them there is sure to be preserved some fine natural beauty spots which might otherwise be destroyed or commercialized and it is to me that the great army of automobile owners should manifest an interest in these great outdoor pleasure places. When they are seeking for some new place to go there isn't anything much more inviting than the natural scenery and picnic places which have been provided.

Every one of the citizens of Connecticut would have to visit a park several times, or several of them, in order to reach the record which is being made in Michigan but it is not so much to actual numbers as it is the display of interest which commands attention. Are the people of Connecticut as appreciate as those of Michigan of the advantages which have been provided for them in this particular direction? We hope so and perhaps in time there will be a chance to show it by figures or other evidence which seem quite as convincing.

DIVISION IN THE ISLANDS

How the Filipinos are straining every opportunity to create the impression that the Islanders are all committed to independence is well illustrated by the experience in Mindanao upon the visitation of Colonel Thompson, who is making a survey for the president.

There the Filipinos were bent upon convincing the investigator that even the Moros were urging legislation that would cast them loose from this country and endeavored to keep the Moros back in the country until a demonstration could be staged by the politicians and their friends. It didn't work, but it nearly resulted in a clash at arms in spite of the fact that agreements had been previously made to avoid any such trouble and for each side to appear simultaneously on each side of a reviewing stand.

The Filipino politicians are much opposed to the legislation which has been proposed in congress which would divide the Philippines so that in case independence was obtained for part of the islands it would not include the Moros, who appreciate and want to remain under American rule.

Regardless of the efforts to have the Moros ignored or to misrepresent their attitude, the expression by the 300 chiefs against the Filipinos cannot be gainsaid. They are much opposed to the idea of having Filipino officials and desire American. That of course explains why they strenuously object to the independence of the Philippines which would place them more closely than ever under the rule of the Filipino politicians.

The efforts of the politicians to cover this up simply indicates the extent to which they are ready to go to influence American sentiment concerning the feeling in the islands. It seems to be indicative of the treatment which the Moros receive and supports the contention of the latter that under Philippine independence there never would be peace in the islands. That attitude within coupled with what might be expected from without alone argues strongly against independence at this time.

THE MOTION PICTURES

You may not be aware of it through personal knowledge that the 30th anniversary of motion pictures has been reached this year but such is the fact. The beginning was in decided contrast to the art of today and it has been in later years that the greatest advance has been made, but the growth has been phenomenal and demonstrates all too clearly what an impression it has made upon and what a hold it has upon the people. Only because of that has the industry grown to its present proportions.

When we stop to think that every week 130,000,000 people go to the movies we can no longer hesitate over the question as to whether they meet with public approval. They have made serious inroads into other forms of entertainment. Theatricals have suffered severely at the hands of the motion pictures, which have gone through their ups and downs, their good and bad regimes, but are nevertheless meeting for the most part the requirements of the entertainment seekers.

How great a lead this country has taken in the promotion of the motion picture is shown by the fact that where in 1913 the United States exported 32,000,000 lineal feet of film, it exported 200,000,000 three years ago and is today furnishing 90 per cent of all the motion pictures used in foreign countries.

The size of the industry is indicated to some extent by the fact that each year this country gives employment to more than 300,000 persons and does an advertising business of about $,000,000 a year.

The question has often been raised as to how long the motion picture craze would continue. While no one has been willing to hazard a guess the business has been increasing to a surprising degree and there is no indication as yet that it has begun to approach the saturation stage. It has a grip upon the public which is not going to be easily shaken and for a 30 year old must be given credit for some rapidly to the front and is still going vigorously.

REDUCING THE WAR DEBT

Congressman Madden doesn't appear to be any more reconciled to the idea of paying off our war debt while we are in the best position to do so than he has been in the past. He thinks there ought to be no more tax cuts until the funding of the war debts is completed, but when that is finished he favors using of $150,000,000 interest payments each year for the purpose of tax reduction and thus let the wiping out of the debt extend over a long period of years instead of cleaning it up by the present arrangement in something like 25 years.

According to the view that Secretary Mellon holds, and which he has been carrying out, it is for the benefit of the country to cut down its fixed charges and to wipe out as fast as possible its obligations under the Liberty bonds. This means the elimination of a tremendous interest bill over a period of years, all of which means a distinct advantage to the taxpayer.

There is many a community which is maintaining just such fixed charges and bids fair to forever, the interest payments equalling the indebtedness several times over because the policy of dragging out the debt is adhered to.

It may appeal to some on first thought that the debt might be passed along to others, but that simply means that funds which would be utilized for debt reduction are going to be employed for other purposes, with such outlays permitting no relief for the taxpayers now or in the future.

The country has the best reasons for applauding the course that has been pursued by the secretary of the treasury, and there will be much surprise if it doesn't insist upon sticking to it. The nation's policy of clearing up its debts as rapidly as possible is the wise one.

CARS WITHOUT LIGHTS

Because he had been stopped by a traffic officer for having no lights on his car an automobilist relieved himself of this expression: "You've got a nerve to stop me for such a trivial matter as no lights." That resulted in the driver being sent to court with a charge as stated, and with it went the remark of the motorist, with a fine of $10 resulting.

It may be a matter of judgment as to whether the stopping of an automobile because it had no lights when lights should be lighted was trivial or not. Circumstances might alter cases but it would appear that this particular motorist knew he was not complying with requirements and seemed to think he ought not to be called to account.

There are times when lights suddenly fail. It may have been so in his case, but his remark did not indicate it. He seemed to ignore the danger that goes with cars without lights and apparently doesn't appreciate the necessity of something more than reminders for those who show little interest in having their lighting equipment fixed when attention is called to the fact that it is out of kilter.

It seems not improbable that he would not have been sent to court had he displayed a proper appreciation of his position with an unlighted car, a menace to all other users of the highway if not to himself and those with him. Perhaps he had been warned before and drove off with the remark, "Well, I got by then all right I should worry." There is no mistake made in complying with the regulations and in heeding all warnings and advice from authorities in connection therewith. The attitude of the driver as well as the absence of lights was decidedly at fault.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is contrary to nature in any of her departments to be static. Scientists are familiar with the expression that "nature abhors a vacuum." It is equally true that she hates dead levels, and does all that is possible to break them up. This is the reason why this earth of ours fairly revels in an infinite variety of features. In the process of development this old world of ours has undergone many changes. It was once in a very plastic state and it gradually settled down to one or extreme rigidity. We have also had the glacial period when the surface was covered with ice. At length this body of ice went on a mammoth excursion into the southland and never went back. We have also had the period of the beginning of animal life that went through almost infinite variations before ultimately man arrived. Nature has never been static.

Does not the same law of advancement apply to the inner life of man as well as to the outer world? It is very unfortunate when the mind of man becomes static—unfortunate for him and for all with whom he is associated. It is unfortunate when man writes the sinister words as plus ultra (nothing more beyond) on any achievement. Satisfaction with any accomplishment however high stultifies all ambition for further investigation. Where would we be today if some daring spirits of the past did not venture to assert that the earth was not stationary but moved upon its axis? It was a sorry day for the world when a few ecclesiastics browbeat their associates into affirming that the full revelation of God to his world had been given and that nothing more could be expected. It is as fatal to theology to be static as anything else.

Are we not really justified these days in talking about the foreshortening of distance? In her Journal, Abigail Adams, the wonderful wife of John Adams, expressed her dread of the long and terrible journey from Boston to the national capital. It required a whole week, but now the Colonial express which leaves Boston at 8 a. m. is due in Washington at 7 in the afternoon. Not only has distance been foreshortened but it has been made pleasureable by the introduction of luxury in travel. The old stage coach was an improvement over the chaise as to speed, but since then improvements have come galore. This comes to our minds frequently as we hear airships whirring above us traveling at the rate of a mile a minute. Years ago how an ocean voyage was dreaded but now it is regarded as a luxury. All this is due to the fact that distance has been foreshortened by scientific inventions.

At this season of the year the youth of the country begin to have a dim vision of the schoolroom. And that vision, doubtless, is greeted with every variety of human emotion. If youth could only look at it from the standpoint of future experience the effect would be vastly different, but this of course is impossible. But if the young could be made to feel that the schoolroom is almost as important as the air they breathe their feelings would be greatly modified. The schoolroom means work and hard work; it would be a dense failure if it did not. One wonders what would be the result in a single year if all students went back to the schoolroom with this determination, "I'll do my level best, at least." It is perfectly safe to say that education in all grades would be revolutionized.

Nowhere has greater advancement been made in the last 25 years than in rural community life. It not only suffered from lack of contact with the enthusiasm of city life, but the public forces it did possess were almost entirely unorganized. The consciousness of possessing a civic soul was not clearly defined. But modern inventions, especially such great public utilities as the trolleys and automobiles that practically made all country places suburban had much to do in stirring up this sense of community life. It is now possible for city people, while doing business in the city, to live in the country, and they have done much to create this new community sense. The remarkable rural community program that was carried out at Storrs on August 5th is in evidence of this. Twenty-five years ago they did not discuss such questions as Homes for Rural Communities and Recreation for Rural Youth.

There are many kinds of revolutions. Usually we associate the word with some political upset. But in this age we are having a variety of revolutions. In the staid old times in past New England history we never heard of a "revolution" in business. The principal industries were cotton and woolen manufacture, in which from time to time there were changes by way of improvements, but nothing so radical as a revolution. But as modern science more and more invented machinery that lessened manual labor, we began to talk more and more about revolution. This has gone on to such an extent that any comparison of an up-to-date factory with the old satinet mill of the early 19th century might truly be called a revolution. This also holds good along any line of human activity.

"And a little child shall lead them," is the opinion of Isaiah in regard to a certain state of society that has not as yet materialized. And it is safe to say will not be realized in the immediate future. His whole expression is this: "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them." If at present these two parties should lie down together the one would be inside the other including the little child. Not long ago a party consisting of father, mother and several small children took their auto for a picnic. Very soon one of the little ones grew angry over something, and began to scream, "I want to go home!" She kicked and grew red in the face, and knew that if she kept the tantrum up awhile she would win out, and she did. They all went home—and "a little child led them."

Don't be discouraged if September 1st doesn't find the usual work appealing very strongly. For the time being the weather may be very hot, or, perhaps you have not had a 100 per cent vacation. The effect of the annual season of rest and change does not immediately appear. Perhaps if it did it would not last very long. Look out for those plants that spring up in a single night: they are very apt to be equally short-lived. The vacation that gets right down to one's marrow is always a long time getting there, but when it gets there it holds on with splendid tenacity. It will create a certain reserve strength that gives itself out sparingly through the winter and spring. The more thoroughly one gets rested the longer will the effect of vacation last.

Moose Plugs Own Ears

In order the better to enjoy a breakfast of water lilies that happen to be below the surface of shallow lakes the moose has learned the trick of "plugging" his ears—which are immersed for half a minute or more at a time. Having much greater use of the muscles in this respect than the human, the moose simply folds back the outer integument so that it acts as a stopper over the sensitive inner ear.

HOW NEW ENGLAND CONFRONTS HER URGENT PROBLEMS

A friend of mine who writes books said something to me one day which I have never forgotten. He is an intensive worker and we hear only occasional mutterings from him as he goes about his business or studying people and affairs, jotting down a note here and there, discarding some material, gathering in other bits—never for an instant turning from the task before him. Then, one day I suddenly find myself the proud owner of his new creation, writes E. Kent Hubbard in The Financial Digest.

"Jones," I said to him once, "are the results of all the effort you put into this kind of work really worth while? Other people copy your stuff, possibly intending to credit you with it, but losing sight of its origin before long. Then you start all over again on something new. Isn't it discouraging? Do you believe it worth while?"

"Of course it's worth while," he said. "To produce something which others imitate is merely passing on another word for the things I believe in, and then, naturally, I feel that I must go ahead with something a little better, if possible, so that I may always be looked to for the newest and best in the things that I have selected for my life work."

I have not used his right name, but he is a New Englander and we might do well to adopt his philosophy as the philosophy of New England—"always to be looked to for the newest and best." Others may grow and others may advance in the fields of commerce, science, art and industry, but whatever they may be in these United States the things that they are and the things they are to become, whether they like it or no, are heritages from New England. From New England, money and brains have gone forth to create and develop new territory, then to move on and create and develop again, and lest we be found wanting, from the New England of today must come newer and better things, produced in newer and better ways for all the markets of the world.

Changing Conditions

Is New England old-fashioned? My answer would be "no." New England admires, and respects other sections of the country which they have brought to us and which we realize is so essential to our own growth and development. But to those in New England and outside who spend overmuch time in destructive criticism I want to point out that a young man who buys himself his first suit and takes what is offered by an up-to-date store deserves very little credit for meeting the demands of fashion as compared with the older man who discards his still wearable suit for something newer and better. Conditions the world over are changing rapidly, and New England's future and the future of every other section of the country depends upon its ability to adapt itself to those changed conditions with the least possible lost motion.

To manufacture an article which is no longer in demand, or to sell another article which is in popular favor by methods which sold a few years ago but which are not moving goods today is certainly neither good sense nor good business. This is the point which every manufacturer owes it to himself to bring out into the daylight and discuss and analyze from every possible angle, and it is because so many have recognized the necessity of this in Connecticut that our industrial condition here is in the sound and wholesome condition that we find it today. There is still much to be done here, however, as elsewhere, along these lines, and the next few months will see progressive changes coming to pass in many of our already widely diversified lines. It is true, as Roger Babson says, that "a better product and a cheaper way of making it are today's two best salesmen," but they cannot go it alone, and modern salesmanship is a science in itself and an essential one for those firms which are successfully to meet modern competitive conditions.

New England Council

It is to the everlasting credit of New England that it has not only recognized its problem but has taken prompt steps to meet it as a unit. The organization last year of the New England council as a result of the activities of the New England governors was a step of far-reaching importance, and although still scarcely past its organization stage, the council has already justified its existence many times over and is drawing to it the support of the ablest men of New England representative of business, agriculture and industry.

At the present time the council is cooperating with the department of commerce in a marketing and production survey of New England, which the latter is making. Wisely, it was felt that constructive steps to advance New England's interests could be taken only after exact knowledge was had of present-day conditions and their economic application. The analyses which will be made from the information sent in by manufacturers will present a complete picture of production and marketing trends in New England which will without doubt be of almost inestimable value to the individual manufacturer. These will show him what percentage of goods made here are sold in New England where the heaviest competitive points lie, managerial and industrial relations policies, sources of supply, costs, shifting in lines of production and numerous other features which will throw light upon his manufacturing problems.

Points of Attack

In agricultural matters the council already has under way a program of considerable scope. It is not necessary to comment on the fact that for a fairly long time agricultural conditions in this section were none too prosperous. Recently, agricultural conditions here have improved by leaps and bounds, but the agricultural committee of the council has recommended concentration on certain development phases which it believes to be essential as the first points of attack. The report of the committee, submitted at the recent meeting of the Council in Burlington, recommended that a New England Farm Marketing conference be held the latter part of this year for the purpose of furthering the committee's program for:

1. Quality production in New England agriculture, particularly of New England specialities.

2. Standardizing, grading and identification of quality products.

3. The application of the most modern methods to the marketing of such products.

Agriculture, which is so enormously important to New England, must learn a lesson from industry in the necessity of advertising quality and of putting out its products in an attractive form and under identifying trade-marks which will become synonymous in the public mind with the highest quality. Very few realize what an enormous quantity of Connecticut-grown apples are even now being shipped abroad and personally I believe that a better understanding of facts such as these and the publication of other agricultural and export figures would do a great deal to stimulate interest in a more scientific agricultural development in New England. As chairman of the Connecticut division of the council, I should be interested in seeing something of that sort undertaken here.

Power Problem

Results of the study of the problem of power conservation, consolidation an distribution already well under the leadership of the council will affect Connecticut as much if no more than any other state, and what has been done so far has as a matter of fact been watched with the closest interest by other sections of the country.

Already groups have been drawn together representing the governors of the six states, the power interests themselves and the council, and ultimately it is hoped to formulate a definite power program which will clarify situations now little understood by the general public and will assure for New England the greatest efficiency in development and service.

Opportunity

I do not carry my enthusiasm for New England as do some to the ridiculous point of believing that it is perfect or that it has not made mistakes, but I do believe that it needs a greater loyalty among its own people if it is to forge ahead as it must. I do know that never in its history has it offered greater opportunities than at the present day, and our young men of brains may well take advantage of the years of manufacturing experience which lie back of us in Connecticut to build newer and greater things upon the most solidly built industrial foundation in the world.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Elmer E. Brown, who today reaches the age of 65 years, has long been a conspicuous figure in American educational circles. He is a former United States commissioner of education and for the past 15 years has been chancellor of New York university. Dr. Brown was born in Chautauqua County, N. Y., just three months after the killing of his namesake, Colonel Elmer E. Ellsworth, who was the first federal officer to fall in the war between the states. Dr. Brown is a graduate of the Illinois State Normal school and of the University of Michigan. He studied a year in Germany. Early in his career he became professor of the theory and practice of education at the University of Michigan. Subsequently he filled a similar position at the University of California, which office he continued to fill until called to his present position as head of New York university in 1911.

Sunday Morning Talk

TEMPTATION

Temptation is that which puts to the test trials sent by God do this. A test is never employed for the purpose of injury. A weight is attached to a rope, not to break, but to prove it. Pressure is applied to a boiler, not to burst, but to certify its power of resistance. The testing process confers no strength, but when a sailor has to navigate his ship under a heavy gale and in a difficult channel or when a general has to fight against a superior force and on disadvantageous ground, both skill and courage are not only tested but improved. The test has brought experience, and by practice is every faculty perfected. So faith grows stronger by exercise, and patience by the enduring of sorrow. Thus alone it is God permits us to be tempted. As a tree that is exposed to the strong winds become more deeply rooted and stronger with every gale.

GOITER

By Alfred W. Hornbogen, M. D., Marquette, Mich. Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Among the large districts within our borders where simple goiter is most prevalent, is the region of the Great Lakes.

The incidence of this disease has been brought forcibly to our attention by the examinations of drafted men during the World war, in surveys made not only of children of school age, but also in some instances of the entire civil population of certain localities.

In the districts bordering on Lake Superior, one city showed that 54 per cent of the entire school was affected. In another, 67 per cent of all pupils in a large high school, and 90 per cent of all girls in a normal college showed some enlargement of the thyroid gland.

In the Lake Erie district, 54 per cent of all girls attending school in one city had goiter. In one district during the draft—9,615 of the young men examined were affected, and 1,894 of them were so weakened by the disease that they were unfit for service.

Goiter is most prevalent between the ages of 12 and 14, although some children are afflicted from birth. The periods of puberty, pregnancy, and the menopause are times when women are most susceptible to this disease.

Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine who lived hundreds of years before Christ; the North American Indians; the natives of Central Africa; as well as the scientific men of Europe, were all convinced that some property in drinking water was the predisposing cause of goiter.

Now it has been demonstrated by the American investigators, Marine and Kimball, that it is due to a lack of iodine in the system.

Our bodily supply of iodine is derived from the air we breathe, the water we drink, and food we eat. The absence of goiter on the sea coast is due to the fact that salt water is a great reservoir for iodine. Consequently the edible sea fish and plants, as well as the air, supply this essential element of the human system.

Compare with this the lack of iodine in the Great Lakes basin. In some districts iodine is almost totally lacking in the drinking water, in the soil, and consequently in the vegetables, grains and fish.

The treatment of this disease would appear to be very simple, but in view of the fact that there are several forms of goiter in which the administration of iodine is injurious it is essential that iodine be taken only on the advice of a well qualified physician.

Stories That Recall Others

Misunderstood

Audrey was visiting her grandfather while the veterinary was there attending to one of the horses, which had swallowed a silver off of a tooth. Audrey "listened in" on all the medical instructions and when she got home she exclaimed: "Oh, mother, one of grandpa's horses swallowed its liver."

Vanity

"Fashion is sure trying to scramble the seasons," remarked a young flapper the other day and she proceeded with her makeup on a street car. "In January I bought the cutest little straw hat, caught on the side with a bunch of cherries. And yesterday I bought this," and she jammed further down over a perspiring brow a huge black felt and tripped out in the blazing sun.

NORWICH NATIVE REACHES 91ST BIRTHDAY IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 28—Mrs. Nancy E. Coates, of 18 Forsberg street, a native of Norwich, Conn., who will celebrate her 91st birthday tomorrow, doesn't think the boys and girls of today are hopelessly bad. Some of them appear "kind of crazy," but others she thinks are "fine."

A "most dreadful thing" in her opinion, is drinking and smoking by girls, who "think it's smart to do fast things." She thinks the short skirts of today are a distinct improvement over the long, bulky skirts of years ago, although some are a "little too short."

Mrs. Coates said today that her biggest trial is her inability to read any more because of failing eyesight. And since her hearing is not as good as it was a few years ago she can not enjoy listening to another read. Her comfort is to sit and recite bits of poems and lines from the Bible. Whittier is her delight when her spirits are low, and it is to Longfellow that she turns when she is feeling well.

Although past the four score and ten years mark Mrs. Coates is able to dress and undress herself without aid. She walks and has taken several automobile rides this summer. She said today that she thought a few years ago that she would like to take in an airplane someday, but now she has lost that desire.

Unlike many aged persons Mrs. Coates does not wish to live to reach the century mark, for she dreads the cold weather and even now finds the temperature too low for comfort. But if the climate were warm she admitted she would like to live to be a centenarian. Despite the handicaps of deafness and failing eyesight, her memory is excellent and her interest in current events is notable.

Mrs. Coates was born in Norwich, Conn., and is the widow of Dwight T. Coates, to whom she was married at Westerly, R. I., in 1855, the couple living to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary before he died four years ago.

MAYOR OPENS CARNIVAL AT MOOSE HOME

Mayor Milo R. Waters pressed the button that flooded the grounds at the Moose home with light Friday night and formally opened the two-day carnival and lawn party.

The mayor was brought to the Moose home on Laurel Hill by an escort of the Women of Mooseheart legion, wearing their uniforms of royal purple and white which took the prize at the Meriden field day, who marched to the city hall and brought the mayor, his honor fro mthere, preceded by the Thermos truck carrying the Moose ideal orchestra, which had been giving a concert in Union square. The truck carried the sign: "We are going to Moose lawn party."

PROPOSING AMENDMENTS TO MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS

Suggestions for amendments to the motor vehicle law in the coming session of the legislature are beginning to be received at the state motor vehicle department from motor vehicles registrants and operators. Many of them are similar to proposals that have been before several recent sessions for action and been rejected for various reasons. Commissioner Stoeckel encourages people to offer what ideas occur to them and urges those who feel enthusiastic about the suggestions they offer, to appear before legislative committees in support of them.

A Torrington man has sent in a proposal calculated to reduce the number of drunken operators in the highways. He suggests that the law be amended to forbid filling stations to sell gasoline to operators who are obviously under the influence of liquor. A second suggestion is to have white lines painted in the middle of roads approaching narrow bridges which are barely wide enough to permit vehicles to pass.

From an active police court official has come a suggestion for a law prohibiting dealers of used cars selling automobiles with defective brakes. The suggestion arises from a number of arrests of operators for driving with unsafe braking equipment, and the statements of many of the drivers that the cars had been bought second hand.

The department's recent declaration in favor of a 16-year minimum limit for Connecticut motor vehicle operators instead of the present limit of 18 years, has brought many responses and started considerable correspondence, which indicates that the subject will be a live one in the legislature. The next session convenes in January.

TOWN COMMITTEE TICKET WINS OUT IN BIG REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The republican caucus Friday night filled the town hall with a crowd of between 500 and 600, a number standing around the sides and at the rear, and the predicted contest between opposing forces in the party came to light in the first nominations that were made, those for delegates to the state convention in Hartford, Sept. 13 and 14. What speech making there was only a few sentences and when the first test of strength came on the vote for second delegate to the state convention, Senator Lee Roy Robbins, who was endorsed by the town committee, defeated Charles W. Burton, who was nominated by the opposing forces. The vote was 400 for Robbins and 126 for Burton.

Judge Arthur F. Libby, chairman of the town committee, called the caucus to order shortly after 8 o'clock and called for the election of a chairman of the caucus. Charles L. Stewart was elected upon nomination by Fred G. Prothero, taking his place amid applause, and thanking the caucus for the honor it had conferred upon him. He reminded those present that this was a republican caucus in which only republicans would vote and he declared that it was stimulating to see such a number present, for if this interest were continued there would be no doubt about the result of the election.

Josiah Greenstein was elected clerk upon nomination by Representative George G. Engler.

State Convention Delegates

For first delegate to the state convention, Dr. George M. Thompson was elected by acclamation upon nomination by H. H. Pettis.

For second delegate Dr. Thompson then nominated Charles W. Burton and in opposition Herbert B. Cary nominated Senator Lee Roy Robbins, whom he styled the worthy son of a worthy father, which brought but a round of applause.

Chairman Stewart announced that in the interest of securing an accurate vote he would rule that the vote be taken by passing from left to right of the chair and he appointed Louis M. Crandall and Weston C. Pullen as tellers.

Chairman Stewart contributed to the orderly conduct of the caucus by requesting that the vote be taken in sections, according to the seating arrangement in the hall, and at the end of 15 minutes all had passed around and the tellers' count was announced by the chairman as follows:

Whole number cast	526
Necessary for choice	264
For Robbins	400
For Burton	126

The hall rang with cheers and applause as Mr. Burton promptly moved to make the vote unanimous for Senator Robbins.

For third delegate, Mr. Burton nominated John R. Bowman, Jr., and Judge John H. Barnes nominated Representative George G. Engler.

In making the nomination, Judge Barnes remarked that he had come home two days ago from Block Island where the sea was choppy, but he had learned it had nothing on the political sea in Norwich. He said he hoped to live to see the time when Norwich elects nothing but republicans. Several months ago he had the honor of nominating for mayor a Norwich man, who was a friend of his and who had attended every session of the last legislature. He saw no reason why George G. Engler should not go to the Hartford convention.

Necessary for choice	240
For Engler	378
For Bowman	101

Mr. Bowman at once moved to make the vote unanimous for Mr. Engler.

For fourth delegate Charles F. Wells nominated Charles W. Cassidy, "of the last legislature," and Dr. Thompson nominated Mrs. Elizabeth Lathrop.

As the vote was about to be taken as the others had been, H. M. Lerou arose and said he thought it was taking up too much time and ought to be by acclamation. This was voted by the caucus and when the vote on the candidates was taken it was evident that Mr. Cassidy was elected. Mrs. Lathrop at once moved to make the election unanimous for Representative Cassidy.

The other nominations in the caucus were made without contest. These were the following:

Congressional convention—Louis H. Geer, nominated by John W. McKinley; Earl Stamm, nominated by La Rue Bliven; Miss Barbara Allen, nominated by Weston C. Pullen; Walter M. Cowan, nominated by H. M. Lerou.

County convention to nominate sheriff—George H. Stanton, nominated by John H. Barnes; Charles H. Raynes, nominated by Webster D. Copp; Joseph Tomaino, nominated by Fred G. Prothero; Robert S. Stott, nominated by A. R. Manning.

Senatorial convention—Weston C. Pullen, nominated by W. M. Cowan; A. L. Peale, nominated by C. F. Wells; Frank I. Royce, nominated by Edwin V. Ross; William S. Murray, nominated by Howard Spalding.

Probate convention—E. W. Perkins, nominated by A. G. Bliven; George M. Charbonneau, nominated by Frank D. Davis; Dr. Charles D. Solomon, nominated by Paul Zahn; Miss Alice Stephens, nominated by Eben Learned.

Town Committee

For members of the town committee, Judge Nelson J. Ayling proposed a list of names to which that of Francis Beique of the fifth district was added at the suggestion of Judge H. H. Pettis.

The list was elected as follows and the caucus adjourned at 9:05:

First district—George G. Engler, Charles W. Cassidy, Henry H. Pettis, Josiah Greenstein, Mrs. Edwin F. Coit, Miss Alice Stephens, Mrs. Helen Zabriskie, Mrs. William A. Norton.

BOY RIDING BICYCLE HAS LEFT ARM BROKEN

William Fitzgerald, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Fitzgerald of No. 35 Hobart avenue, had his left arm broken just below the shoulder and received several minor bruises Wednesday night about 8 o'clock when his bicycle was struck by a Ford touring car owned and driven by Isidor Heller of Preston, R. F. D. 5.

Mr. Heller was driving out Main street and was turning into Hamilton avenu on his way home when his machine struck the Fitzgerald boy, who was riding his bicycle on Main street headed toward the city. The boy was thrown forcibly to the ground but was picked up and rushed to the Backus hospital by Charles W. Frink of Williams street, who was in a machine directly in back of the boy.

At the hospital Dr. W. T. Driscoll treated the boy's injuries and then took him to his home, where the fracture in the left arm was reduced. It is not believed that any permanent injury will result from the accident.

Mr. Heller made a report of the accident to the police and it is understood that he carris no insurance against accident.

The Ford was damaged to the extent of a bent left headlight and hood, while the bicycle had the front wheel broken and the left crank and pedal were snapped off.

Witnesses claimed that Mr. Heller made every possible effort to slacken the speed of his car when he saw that an accident was unavoidable.

LAK ESTREET PLAYGROUND HAD BEAC HOUTING

The Lake street playground held their annual outing at Ocean Beach on Friday with a large number in attendance.

The children left early in the day for the seashore on a special trolley car and were accompanied by mothers and guardians. Upon arrival at the beach the youngsters enjoyed a program of games which had been arranged for them and some lively contests were reported. A box lunch was served at noon after which the children returned to their sports with many taking advantage of the opportunity to go in bathing.

The start was made for home in the special car and the local playground delegation arrived in this city in the early evening, a tired but happy group.

Instructors John P. Murphy, Terrence Finnegan and Miss Irene Werth were in charge of this outing which was made posible from the proceeds derived from the recent carnival held at this playground.

MOHEGAN WIGWAM CLOSES— SUCCESSFUL IN SPITE OF RAIN

With the grit and perseverence of their ancestors, the Mohegan Indians, at their reservation below Norwich, overcame the handicap of rain, by holding their annual wigwam an extra day Friday and making a success of it.

For Wednesday and Thursday they had been obliged to gather up their stock and equipment and seek the shelter of their church, when the showers would catch them; but, not discouraged, they brought them out again Friday, made a brave show of novelties and goodies, had liberal patronage day and evening, ending with a well attended auction Friday night.

The date was the 66th birthday of Lemuel Miller Fielding (Chief Occum) known to many in this vicinity because of having been in the wholesale department of the Lee & Osgood store for 33 years, till his serious illness in the spring. Chief Occum, in brave's costume, took tickets during the wigwam and greeted many friends. He was assisted by Miss Gertrude Harris, plrited Victrola music was provided by Eugene Hamilton. Girls in gay costumes who aided in various ways were Misses Loretta Schultz, Gladys Tanta-Quidgeon and Gertrude Harris. A showy Indian costume was worn by Mrs. Albert Fielding, who is a member of the Mohawk and Chickasaw tribe.

As in other years, the kitchen was in charge of Burrill H. Fielding, assisted by Mrs. Nettie Fowler, Mrs. Harriet Quidgeon and John Quidgeon. Miss Gladys Tanta-Quidgeon was cashier. The novelty booth was in charge of Mrs. Mary Meech, assisted by Mrs. Loretta Fielding Schultz, and here were sold aprons, moccasins, baskets, bead work, holders, sofa pillows, wooden spoons, handkerchiefs, centerpieces, flowers, etc., and there was a guessing contest on a bean jar.

Mrs. Gertrude L. Harris, sold the fine cake for which the women of the tribe are famous, the candy was in charge of Mrs. Harry Francis, of Waterford and her son, Russell Francis. Mrs. Alice Storp, Hamilton gathered in many nimble dimes with the grab bag, ice cream and yokeag were dispensed by Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Fowler. Ernest Hamilton, Winifred Quidgeon and Edith Strickland.

Mrs. R. E. Burrows was at the head of the waitresses, Mrs. Hattie Cook, Ruth Quidgeon, Clara Francis and Kenneth Strickland. All the children helped, Virginia Meech, Ruth Harris, Sally Gilbert and Arthur Shepard aiding in disposing of a prize quilt and a fine centerpiece. Little Virginia Meech alone collected about $15 for this.

Missing from the leafy tent this year were the three sisters of the Henry Mathews family; Mrs. Ella Avery has died, while Mrs. Adeline Dolbeare and Mrs. Delana Skeesucks were too ill to be present.

The youngest member of the tribe, but who received the most attention, was Althea, the three months old daughter of Mrs. Lillie Quidgeon Strickland.

Notwithstanding the most unfavorable weather conditions, their friends rallied to the aid of the sewing society, the members of which give this annual wigwam, and there were good sales the three days of chowder, succotash, yokeag, cake, over fifty gallons of ice cream, sandwiches, soft drinks, etc. besides the needlework articles and handiwork in wood and beads.

Only once before can the older members of the tribe recall a year when teer was such bad weater, and then a thunder storm broke suddenly, sweeping down a large portion of their leafy tent. This tent, by the way, is principally the work of Burill H. Fielding.

BEAUREGARD CONFIDENT OF BEATING BRADLEY IN BOUT AT TAFTVILLE

Everything is all set for the first boxing show to be put on at the Parish Hall in Taftville by the Army-Navy club of Taftville next Wednesday evening. At a final meeting of the club on Friday night Matchmaker Beauregard said that his card was all set and that the forfeit money for the appearance of the boxers was all in and that the ring and all arrangements for handling a large crowd was complete.

One change has been made in the card. Jimmy O'Dowd of Danielson and Matchmaker Beauregard were unable to come to terms and Battling Eruck of Westerly has been signed to meet Young Butova of Norwich in the first four round preliminary. Battling Eurck has fought a number of times on the Westerly cards and is well known to local fans as a fast boy.

Al Beauregard writing from Camp Devens says that the soldiers are coming down strong to back their boy to the limit. The soldiers at Camp Devens went to Boston the other night to see Young Bradley and Kid Smoke in action and although the battle between these boys was the best on the card the opinion is that Beauregard will take the measure of the Holyoke boy in six rounds. In training for the bout Beauregard kayoed two of his 140 pound sparring partners in short order and he is hitting hard and fast. It is the opinion of those who have seen Beauregard in action recently that he is boxing better than ever and hitting just as hard, and many of Beauregard's friends predict that Bradley will go down to stay if the boy lands one of his haymakers.

Bradley on the other hand is equally as confident of taking Beauregard on Wednesday night and is depending upon his speed and clever boxing to pull him through to a decision. Bradley is one of the cleverest boxers of his weight in New England having been New England champion at one time, losing the title to Harry Goldstein in a close bout. Those who saw Bradley in action against Pinkie Silverberg at Hartford are of the opinion that Bradley will give Beauregard a tough evening.

The other bouts on the card are attracting much attention in the eastern part of the state as Young Conley of New London is a popular boxer and has been making a nice showing since he came here from the Pacific coast where he held the lightweight title of the Navy. Conley mixes punches with Red Mourdian of Bridgewater, Mass., a coming lightweight in the Hub city circles.

Scotty Carroll, another service boy from New London, is due to push feather with Kid Wagner of Taftville in th esix-round preliminary. The interest in this bout is keen as Kid Wagner, a sparring partner of Shiek Leonard and Al Beauregard is stepping fast and packs a terrific punch. Carroll has the experience and the general opinion is that Wagner has a sizeable job if he gains the verdict.

Jimmy Hanlon has been appointed a local boxing inspector and will officiate at his first card on Wednesday night.

SECOND GAME OF MARTIN AND ASHLAND SERIES SUNDAY

Raney at second, with "Chip" Dugas at third, "Joe" Kendricks will take care of the short field. In the outfield will be "Joe" Gilbert f. Raille cf. and Benjamin rf. "Lee" Gilbert and Weston utility.

The J. B. Martin lineup will be the same as in previous games with J. Murphy c, Pepin or Lemieux p, E. Murphy 1b, F. Murphy or F. Smith 2b, F. Giey 3b. De Celles ss. The outfield will be taken of by E. Joubert, W. Giey, J. Joubert and C. Krauss. Pepin utility.

HUDKINS POUNDS HIS WAY TO WIN OVER M'GRAW

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska "wild cat" smashed his way to a slashing victory over Phil McGraw, Detroit lightweight tonight in a bruising 15-round battle at the Coney Island stadium.

Hudkins carried off the decision with a sensational attack in the last half of the fight after he had been outpointed in the early half.

Although most ringside critics conceded Hudkins a decisive margin on points, the crowd did not receive the verdict with entire approval.

Essaying a come-back, Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, was battered to decisive defeat tonight by Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, in a 12-round match, semi-final.

Rosenbloom weighed 164 1-2 and Wilson 160.

RIVERVIEW CLASHES WITH MERIDEN NEW DEPARTURE

Continuing its quest for the state semi-pro championship the Riverview club hooks up today with the Meriden New Departure club in one of the most important games bearing directly on the state title. Three teams have a claim to the title, the teams being Riverview, Meriden New Departure and the New Departure team of Bristol.

Realizing the importance of this game Manager Curry of the Meriden team has secured the services of the six best players available, practically all former Eastern league players. The winner of this series will clash with the Bristol club for the title. Manager Zemke is also planning to put a strong team on the field for today's battle and has secured Tommy Burns for the second base position and Lefty Harrell for the initial sack. Mondi Normandin who has been out of the game with a strike wound will be unable to play and Dutch Rafus will take his place. Nap Liberty, who has also been on the sick list, will be at third again. West will probably be Manager Zemke's choice to do the twirling which will release Lefty Dugas for work in the outfield. Mills and Meyers will be in the other two gardens rounding out a trio of heavy-hitting outer defense men.

The lineups for today's game are as follows:

Riverview—Rafus ss; Liberty 3b; Mills lf; Meyers rf; Moore cf; Harrell 1b; T. Burns 2b Belair c; Dugas p, West p.

New Departure of Meriden—Massey 2b; Dwyer ss; Alexander lf; Zeilke rf; Hallback 3b; Hart 1b; Slater cf; Hackbarth c; Cygan p, Scott.

REDS HOLD PLACE BY BLANKING THE DODGERS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Cincinnati remained right behind Pittsburgh in the pennant race by scoring a victory, 4 to 0, over Brooklyn today. The Reds won solely through the splendid pitching of Eppa Rixey who led the visitors down with three hits and did not permit one of them to get as far as second base. The Cincinnati infield made three snappy double plays and Curt Walker pivoted a double play to Pipp after catching a foul. The score:

PITTSBURGH RETAINS HEAD IN NATIONAL RACE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates retained the lead in the National league scramble by blanking the Giants today, 4 to 0, Joe Bush yielding but four hits. The champions bunched five hits to score all their runs in the seventh. Florence, who tripled in the eighth, was the only New Yorker to reach third base. The score:

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Cardinals hope of winning the National league pennant was dimmed somewhat today when they lost the second straight game to Philadelphia 7 to 9. TILDEN WILL MEET CHAPIN IN FINALS OF NEWPORT CASINO TENNIS TOURNEY

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The battle of Newport, netdom's last major clash of racquets in singles competition before the Davis cup challenger round and the national championship, reached its final stage today with William T. Tilden and his youthful protege, Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., as its remaining survivors.

Both came through the semi-finals today in stirring uphill struggles, the national champion fighting two hours through a drizzle to overtake and defeat Manuel Alonso of Spain, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, and Chapin rallying from a first set defeat to triumph over Brian I. C. Norton of San Antonio, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

While the victory of Chapin, who received a default from William M. Johnston in the quarter-finals, furnished the surprise of the day's play, Tilden's grilling match with Alonso took a fashionable Newport gallery through one of the most bitterly fought duels ever waged on the historic casino courts. After being crushed in the first set, the former Spanish Davis cup player came back with a spurt of unbeatable tennis, against which Tilden's best efforts seemed wasted.

With the set scores standing two to one against him, Tilden saw the match slipping away as Alonso quickly ran off the first three games of the fourth set. Then the Philadelphia wizard made his stand.

With terrific service bolts and overwhelming drives, he swept the European star back to tie the score at 3-all and finally to save the set at 6-4.

The closing set indicated that Alonso had spent himself in a heroic effort to overthrow the champion in the early stages of the match. Tilden, still apparently strong despite his violent exertions of the four previous sets, went to ohis task of finishing the battle with all his guns. Deep, sharp-spining slices and powerful drives pushed Alonso back for four straight games before he could stem the tide. He saved his own service in the fifth, after which Tilden resumed his parade to victory.

The sun finally broke through the clouds to brighten the closing semi-final between Norton and Chapin. The former, by reason of his brilliant tennis in the early rounds, ruled a strong favorite, but after the first set, the New England youth put so much power his well directed drives and was so steady at the net that Norton was unable to break up his attack with defensive backcourt tactics.

BON TONS DROP LOOSE GAME TO THE SAINTS

The Bon Tons suffered another defeat in the Twilight league Friday evening, losing to the Saint Joseph's nine in an abbreviated contest 7 to 1.

Last night's victory puts the Saints in undisputed possession of second place with six victores and three defeats

As the score indicates, the game was loosely played and uninteresting. The Saints made a runaway of the contest scoring six runs in the very first inning. In this frame, the Saints batted entirely around, scoring their six runs on four hits, a walk and several errors. In the third, they counted once more on an error and a single by Stanley

The Bon Tons scored their lone tally in the third on two walks and an error.

Eddie Koslowski added another game to his long string of victories, allowing only two hits, while he fanned four. Snyder, on the mound for the Bon Tons did not pitch so badly, but errors piled up the score against him.

Benjamin and Stanley led the batters with two hits out of two attempts, each knocking out a double and a single. The score:

BIG BASEBALL BATTLE AT TAFTVILLE TODAY

The biggest attraction in this section over the week end will be the game today between the Taftville A. A. and the Elm City Giants of New Haven. These same teams played a few weeks ago and the Taftville boys were returned the victors. The Giants showed the fans that they have, without a doubt, one of the fastest teams in the state, having the best hitting bunch that have played in Taftville this year, connecting with Lefty Buckland for 13 hits, ten of these going for extra bases.

Manager Smith of the colored boys will send down the same team in endeavoring to get a victory over Taftville with Cannon Ball Smith doing the pitching. His man is without a doubt the best colored pitcher in the state and he feels sure that he can beat the local boys. Manager Troland will send his regular team after the colored boys with the exception of the shortstop, having secured a dark horse in place of Gauthier who will be unable to play. Lloyd Jarvis who held the colored boys to two hits at the beginning of the season will without a doubt draw the pitching assignment for this game with Eccleston behind the bat.

Arrangements are being made to handle the biggest crowd of the season, as Manager Troland is going to extra expenses in bringing this ball club to Taftville.

Taftville A. A.—Leo Jarvis cf, Lloyd Jarvis p, Yerrington 3b, Donn rf, Cardu 1b, Eccleston c, Tombari 2b, shortstop undecided, Gaudette lf, Buckland p.

Uncle David's Summer Boarders

We've been takin' summer boarders, they come down a week ago.
Thot I 'd make a little extry 'kind of on the slide, you know.
Had a piece put in the paper so's to let the people see
Just what kind of 'commodations we could give 'em, ma and me.
Pretty soon we got a letter from some people up in town,
Sayin' they had read about us, and would bring the children down

An' ma and me done lots of plannin' when we'd got the bargain made,
Jes' to how we'd use the money that the Summer Boarders paid.
Ma says, "Ma you've got to spend it, buyin' clothes an' things you need."
But she shook her head decided, an'
me answered, "No, indeed."
"You've been wantin' a new buggy and the barn needs roofin', too.
I won't touch a single penny, but I leave it all for you."

There is purty Mrs. Plimley with her little bits of feet.
That some how you're always seein'
an' her smile so awful sweet.
And there's Plimley with his golf stick an' his coat so red as blood,
An' th eir little darlin' daughter like
a rose just in the bud;
An' their little darlin' daughter like
I'd saw him first, I vow
We'd have took no summer boarders an' we'd still be happy now.

First a wheel ran off the wagon
smashin' things all up; but, oh,
Little Willie didn't do it. He's so innocent, you know;
Then we found the turkeys crippled bit with gtones 'n sticks 'n things.
But we couldn't blame sweet Willie, all
he hasn't is the wings:
There's a dozen broken windows, an'
the pumps all out of gear
And the chickens run for cover since dear little Willie's here.

Gates, somehow keep comin' open, so the pigs go tearin' loose
In among the corn an' taters rootin' round to beat the Jews:
Guess our fruit'll be a failure from the way its droppin' down.
My! I wish these summer boarders had to hurry back to town,
Then our farm most caught fire, Monday, burned a ton of hay; but oh,
Little Willie never done it! He's too good for that, you know.

Worst thing happend, though, when Plimley with his red coat on, went out
To the pasture, when the cattle had been left to browse about.
He was busy knockin' golf balls when our Jersey bull caught sight,
Of that red coat, and came tearin'
down the hill with all his might:
There were bags an' golf sticks flyin'
an' a man up in the air
Little Willie'd been an orphan if the fence had not been there.

Well, the doctor's very hopeful, thinks he'll pull the patient through.
He has bruises most all over, an' a broken rib or two.
And they say I'll have to settle, it'll be a whopping bill.
We've got through this kind of business, me and ma have had our fill.
I don't wish the town folks roasted,
but you know I'd te a-sin
But I've got a big sign painted: "No more boarders taken in."

The Prayer of Cyrus Brown

"The proper way for a man to pray,"
Said Deacon Lemuel Keyes,
"And the only proper attitude
Is down upon his knees."

"No, I should say the way to pray,"
Said Rev. Dr. Wise,
"Is standing straight with outstretched arms
And rapt and upturned eyes."

"O, no, no, no," said Elder Snow,
"Such posture is too proud;
A man should pray with eyes fast closed
And head contritely bowed."

"It seems to me his hands should be
Austerly clasped in front,
With both thumbs pointing toward the ground."
Said Rev. Dr. Blunt.

"Las' year I fell in Hodkin's well
Head first," said Cyrus Brown,
"With both my heels a-stickin' up,
My head a-pointing down:

"An' I made a prayer right then an'
there—
Best prayer I ever said,
The prayingest prayer I ever prayed,
A-standing on my head."

MAKING PIECRUSTS AND SHORT-CAKES

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: This time I will continue on the subject of pies, but specialize with the crust. We are all aware that any kind of pie, must have a good, tender, light well baked crust, to completely satisfy the taste. There are different ways of mixing the flour and shortening and each has her own favorite method. Experience is a good teacher, and by it we find our success. I have learned after trying several recipes my best results were by the socalled quick pie crust method.

I take one cup of shortening, put into the mixing bowl, pour over it one half cup of boiling water, beat it with a fork, till all dissolved, then add three cups of sifted flour, with a little salt and half a teaspoon of baking powder. This will make four crusts or for two pies. I use a large spoon for mixing, until it can be handled on the board. Use plenty of flour, on board and rolling pin while rolling out and the thinner it can be rolled the better. In my early days of housekeeping I thought the pie tin needed to be greased, the same as cake tins, but I later learned that is not necessary. After putting in the filling and placing on top crust I put on little daubs of butter, thin sprinkle on sugar. This will make the crust more flaky also adds a sweetened flavor.

I regret to learn that Sister Ethelyn does not have success, with the cloth binding for juicy pies. It has never failed with me and several of my friends who do the same say it works all right. I think good pie crust depends largely on its material the same as any other product of baking or cooking. There are various kinds of shortening on the market now, all claimed to be good, but I have always used the plain best quality lard. There is also a difference in flour, but I do not use the strictly pastry brand. I find the King Arthur is suitable for all purposes. Just at this time, when most fruits are in season, the short-cake becomes popular. I have an excellent recipe that I would like to send along. I received it from a friend in Ohio, so I have named it

Ohio Shortcake: Sift together 2 cups of flour, 3 level teaspoons of baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon of salt. Rub in 4 tablespoons of butter, or substitute, add 3 tablespoons of sugar. Mix with milk, to a soft dough. Divide in to two parts, roll out each to the size of the baking tin to be used. Grease the pan well, lay in one part, smear with lard or butter, and place on the other part. Another good way to keep the two parts from sticking together is to put a well greased paper between. I use the paper that baker's bread comes wrapped in. Bake in a moderately hot oven, and after removing, split the cake while hot. Put the lower part onto the china platter, spread with butter and add the fruit and sprinkle with sugar. Place on this the other layer or crust, inverted and repeat the same, butter, fruit and sugar. The variety of shortcakes, do not equal that of pies, although some fillings may serve for both. Personally I am very fond of applesauce for a short cake. Cranberries also make a good shortcake, later in the season.

Eliza Jane: I have used Smith's insecticide for fleas on my cats, with good results. It is guaranteed by the manufacturer to be perfectly harmless to the animals, on which it is used. This preparation is a fine powder, comes in a box and has perforated top to be used as a shaker. This insecticide is made in New Haven, Conn. Hope you will try this and your cat be rid of tormenting fleas.

I would suggest Club No. 1 wait until October for the first meeting in C. of C. hall.

RECIPES TO SAVE

Dear Cornerites: Just a few recipes to put in your cook book for future reference.

Iced Chocolate Mint: Make a rich sweet chocolate, melt 1-2 dozen peppermint creams and add to the chocolate. Fill a glass with crushed ice and 3 fingers of cream and pour the chocolate syrup over the ice.

Russian Cheese Pie: 1 cup grated cheese, 1 tablespoon chili sauce, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1 cup milk, 2 egg, 1 teaspoon grated green pepper, 4 olives chopped fine, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Mix cheese seasonings, milk and well beaten egg. Pour this mixture in a pastry shell, made like tarts. Put cross bars of pastry over the top, and bake in moderate oven 450 degress, until custard is firm. Serve cold.

Cost of making 25 cents; time 20 minutes.

Sandwich with Lobster Fillings: 1 cup of ground meal, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 pint of milk, 1-3 cup peanut butter.

Beat egg until light, boil the milk, add the salt, then the meal slowly. Add the other ingredients and stir well. Pour in baking pan (well greased) and brown. Cut into square pieces, split while hot butter and put creamed, lobster or chicken. Shrimps are also nice.

GUESS WHO.

MY FAVORITE SALADS

Dear Social Corner Friends: If fruit salads were less delicious than they are, or less unwholesome, the neglect of them in many households would not be so surprising. However, when once the habit of including fruit salad in the menu has been formed by an enthusiastic housekeepr, and approved by her family, it is seldom discontinued and the house mother who lacks time to prepare both salad and dessert, will frequently serve some fragrant combination of fruit and green vegetables and omit heavy pie or pudding from her lunches and dinners.

A quickly made fruit salad that is exquisitely delicate, consists of pears peeled and quartered, with white grapes cut in half and seeded. Two or three slices of the pears, according to the size of the fruit, are arranged upon a little mound of lettuce leaves and a teaspoon of the grapes, are heaped upon them, a little mingled oil and vineger or better, still, oil lemon juice, three parts of oil to one of the acid, is sprinkled upon each portion, and mayonnaise (made without mustard) is passed in a separate bowl with the salad. For a company luncheon, a few pieces of maraschino cherries may be used to decorate the salad.

Many housewives who are familiar with the apple, nut, and celery combination known as the Waldorf salad are unaware what an extra dash of flavoring is added to this dish if the meats of the black walnut, are used instead or those of the English walnut; which are usually associated with the salad. Again using the apples, celery and nuts an excellent variation of the Waldorf variation is made with the addition of cubes of pineapple.

Apples, celery and grapefruit combine well. I like this when prepared in the following manner. The shaddock, or grapefruit, should be free from the pith, and served in rather large pieces. A quick and easy way to prepare this fruit is to cut it in half and scoop out the contents of each little section with a pointed spoon.

A salad which can be used as a salad and dessert. We have served at company luncheon. You can serve it at a little dinner.

Lemon Jelly Salad: Make a lemon jelly the night before (according to your favorite recipe.) I take small cups, (egg cups are nice for this purpose) and rinse them with cold water. Pour the liquid gelatine into them. When the liquid begins to set drop into it orange, banana and white grapes.

Then have little mounds of lettuce hearts on each plate, and turn one of the jelly forms out upon it. On each jelly shape put a tablespoon of mayonnaise (without mustard).

A Novel Salad: This recipe was given by a well known chef.

Orange, tangerine pulp and grapefruit in a single salad. These are served with the juices from the fruits without any addition.

Two tablespoons of the pulp are heaped in the center of a nest of white lettuce leaves for each portion.

Red bananas, peeled, dipped in French dressing, rolled in walnut meats. (I put them through the meat chopper) are served with more of the dressing poured over it. In making the dressing use 1-4 as much vinegar as lemon-juice and have just as much seasoning to make it palatable.

The California cherries make a truly wonderful salad. Split each cherry open, remove the stone, and with a blanched hazel nut tucked into the place of the pit serve three or four cherries on a lettuce lear with French dressing.

Did you ever try to make this salad, which is charming to the eye as well as delicious to the palate? Put white grapes with nuts into halves of grapefruit shells, from which the pulp has been removed, and have the shells arranged on lettuce leaves. The dressing for this can be made with mayonnaise without the mustard.

Cream cheese stirred soft and smooth with raspberry jelly that has been warmed to soften it and served between the little crackers make a nice sandwich.

THE BEAUTIFUL WILD FLOWERS

Dear Editor and Corner Friends: I've been wondering if the Social Corner sisters who have autos and can get out into the highways and byways have noticed how beautiful the wild flowers are at the present time.

I have no auto but have been taking the same trolley ride each week and have never before noticed so many flowers of a kind massed in one spot.

One meadow is yellow with the Indigo blossom, another pink with hardhack. The Turk's cap lilies are lifting stately heads and the pleurisy root with its flaming orange blossoms is beautiful enough for the most fastidious one's garden.

One morning during my ride of nine miles I counted 41 different flowers from one side of the car, and I could give each one either its common or botanical name.

My rides commenced in November when all was bare and dreary, but even then there were interesting things to see. One was an immense oak tree literally covered with oak balls. I have often seen a few balls on a tree and have been told they were caused by the sting of an insect. If that is true, thousands must have settled on that particular tree.

Nema's letter about the Indians was very interesting, and made one glad to think not all Indians were savage and blood thirsty.

May I ask Ethelyn what kind of a steamer she used to steam the puffs?

The recipe sounded so good I would like to try them but my steamer has holes in the bottom and that would not answer at all.

COMMITTEE AND VOLUNTEERS

Dear Social Corner Friends: We often hear the complaint no one helps but the committee, or even most of the providing and work is left for the chairman to do.

And many say, "I would be glad to help but they never put me on the committee or ask me to help."

Why not have the regular committee and an equal number of volunteer helpers each time.

Very few are situated so that they can be sure that health and strength and leisure will allow them to take the responsibility of seeing an event carried through successfully, but everyone does like to feel that they belong and that they have helped some. Because so few are physically strong and free from home cares the number who can serve on committees are few and necessitate those few serving often, so we say there are only a few in our community who will help.

While it is a fact that nearly every one would be pleased to help if it was so organized as to include the volunteer committee from the present and able to help that day: keep a list of the volunteer helpers and dates when each served, bringing in everyone in turn who belongs.

CRY BABY COOKIES

Dear Social Corner: Is it time to write again. Two weeks ago there were so few letters and last week the page was not full and yet there are so many new writers. Even if the old ones are best.

Club No. 6 met at Mystic and all enjoyed it, finding out the pen name and birthday of others. I'll take a book next time. It was a fine day, with dinner and program equally good, and ideal hostess and everybody wants to come again.

I was disappointed not to meet Black Eyed Susie. She does not know me or I her, but I want to. She'll wonder why. I'll tell her when we meet.

I have all its life read the Social Corner letters, and have tried many of the cooking recipes and found them good. I like to cook and I am a good cook (don't laugh) I am going to add I dislike housework and am a very poor housekeeper. Please won't some one try — Cry Baby cookies. Hubby says "keep the cookies jar full, and you need not sweep up," and I do it. I mean make the cookies.

Cry Baby Cookies: 1 cup sugar, 1 cup lard, 1 cup molasses, 1 egg, 1-2 grated nutmeg, 1 teaspoon ginger, cinnamon and salt. Pour a small cup of boiling water over 1 tablespoon soda, mix the above, add slowly 5 cups of bread flour, drop from spoon, bake in moderate oven.

Some one wants to know the name of the author of Man's love is of man's life a thing apart. 'Tis woman's whole existence." Byron wrote it. If it was ever true it is not now.

I think this letter long enough.

CLUB NO. 1 NOT TO MEET TILL SEPTEMBER

Dear Corner Friends: In reply to Eliza Janes inquiry, about starting meetings of Club No. 1 in September will say it has been thought best to postpone the opening till the second Wednesday in October as there are plenty planned for September.

1492: You said you thought you passed my house on one of your trips but you were not sure; I usually have yellow flowers in blossom from the earliest, fragrant Missouri currant and daffodils, yellow roses, iris, calendulas, primroses, honeysuckle, golden glow, the whole season through. Isn't that enough to identify any Corner sister?

I have discovered that by pinning long strings together before sending to the laundry they won't come home minus on aprons or dresses and by pinning any garment together that might otherwise be torn it save it from that fate.

THEODA.

DON'T FORGET THE CORNER

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Many of us do not write for the Corner as we ought, but I suppose we feel we feel we have an excuse for not doing so.

I presume many of you have been away while others are busy. Then, too, many of you have been sick, while with others sorrow has entered your home, also trouble of various kinds but we would a ll feel better if we wrote for the Corner more often, for we can express our sympathy to those who need it and it will help us to take an interest in others and thus take our thoughts away from our own troubles and from ourselves.

This has been a strange season, like the little girl who when she was good was very good, for when it has been cool it has been very very cool for summer weather. Still we have had a few hot days, for when it has been very very hot. But the hot days have been few and far between so much so that with the dry weather crops in this section have been very poor.

I wonder if hen thieves are busy your way. They are too much in evidence in this section. Earlier in the season they visited us again. It seems strange that they cannot be traced and punished to the full extent of the law.

Auntie No. 1: That promised letter has not arrived.

Theoda: Where art thou?

Whirlwind and others: You will hear from me soon. I have not been as usual but shall try to keep letters answered in the future.

I enjoy reading about your picnics and good times.

For some time I presume you will be busy filling your shelves with good things to eat during the winter.

Huldy: How are you? Better I hope I have not heard from you for some time.

I shall be glad to hear from any of you and oh, don't forget to write for our Corner.

Best wishes.

DIANA.

VISITING FORT TERRY

Dear Social Corner: Last Sunday we visited Fort Terry and believe me those boys were watching for the Gen. McHyde, all right. Our lads couldn't wait, but came across to New London to meet us. And enjoying the trip back to the fort and the meeting with the rest of our lads who couldn't get away. Say, but those boys are having a wonderful month, and they enjoy every minute of it.

They certainly turn out a fine, husky lot of chaps and we do appreciate the work put into the training those boys receive. So now we are home again, planning all sorts of times for the boys when they return.

How many of my friends think of saving seeds of perennials to give to others. If you have extra plants, rose bush branches and grapevines, just bend them to the ground, place a stone on them, and in a short time they send out roots, and can be cut from the main plant and make a nice presen: for someone who admires your plants.

ENJOYED MYSTIC MEETING

Dear Social Corner: Here I am again after three long months. Have enjoyed your helpful letters though I could not write. Through the kindness of Mila I attended Club No. 6's meeting at Mystic, had a delightful ride and enjoyed visiting with the sisters.

B. Natural our hostess for the day, gave us a hearty welcome and a royal good time.

Dear cousins from Norwich and Washington, D. C., come again. I have your napkin. Enjoyed your visit so much. Think often of

NANCY PECK.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I had a glorious time at one of your Social Corner meetings that was held at Mystic. B Natural certainly made us feel at home and I just couldn't help but wan: to be a member. Have taken for my pen name,

BOBBY.

MAKING APPLE PIES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am writing to thank Jennie and Cady for birthday cards they sent me although it is rather late. But "better late than never". Don't think I didn't appreciate them because I waited so long before acknowledging them. Have been very busy this summer as is the case with all of us in general

What good times Club No. 6 must be having with all the picnics they are having. Keep it up, you club members are helping to keep the Corner page full.

I see quite a little has been said about making Apple pies. I think it makes a difference about the juice oozing out if your apples are very juicy. In making a sliced apple pie put a good sprinkling of flour in the bottom of your pie before putting in the apples, then a very little on the top and then put your crust on same as for any other pie. I don't think you will then be troubled with the juice coming out. I do that way and am never bothered with a juicy pie.

I have had two very pleasing trips this summer, one was to Elizabeth park, Hartford, Conn., and two weeks later I went to Roger Williams park, Providence, R. I. The flowers at both parks were beautiful. Roger Williams park has a lot of animals which are interesting to see, and the drives are very pretty they have such beautiful trees and a wonderful lake. Such is a place to see the beauty of nature. If any of the sisters have not seen either park and get the chance by all means take it, for it is worth while if you like flowers.

How is that the annual picnic was omitted this year?

Here is a good way to make small cucumber pickles.

Small Cucumber Pickles: Clean the cukes, fill pint jar with them, then add one level teaspoon of salt, two level teaspoons of brown sugar, one level teaspoon of mustard, cover with vinegar. If vinegar is to strong use one third water with it. Best wishes for success.

KENSEY.

MISSES THE ANNUAL PICNIC

Dear Corner Friends: My continued silence does not indicate that I have lost interest in the Corner but procrastination and lack of writing mood is the chief reason. If not too late I want to thank all those that kindly remembered me by cards for my birthday.

We have had very few picnics this summer but I have enjoyed those I have been able to attend.

We had a wonderful time at Atlantic beach, it is a most lovely place for a picnic. We enjoyed the nice dinner and hospitality of Club No. 6. The splash in the surf was grand. With the assistance of Milky Way and Taxi to help battle with the strong surf and undercurrent it was a treat long to be remembered.

I wonder why we have had no annual picnic this year, as this is the first time it has been omitted. Some of the Norwich sisters said Student was intending to have it in Versailles as usual, but I have looked in vain for the notice of it.

It is a delight to read about the trips some of you have taken, describing the country and places of interest. To one with the wanderjust in their veins but can only see the wonderful scenes of nature through the eyes of others, their description is read with eager interest, what they hope in some vague way to see for themselves, some day. What faith we are endowed with to reach out after things, there is no perceptable way of attaining. The world is so full of wonderful beauty it seems too bad more people can't see mort of it. But judging by the traffic many are awaiting themselves of that treat by easier and cheaper mode of traveling.

Rural Aunty: You must have had a glorious time and Betsey Bobbit, too. I hope all the sick one are improving.

THEODA.

WOULD LIKE TO EXCHANGE SEEDS AND SLIPS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think it's high time I thanked Kitty Lou and Eclipse for their helpful suggestions on Varnishing a piano. I'm sure I'll succeed if I try either way..

Eclipse: Have you killed all the ants yet? Tell me if my hint helped you. Thank you for the favor you did for me. If I can return it anytime I will.

Kitty Lou: Thank you also for your favor and am going to answer your letter soon. If you knew how handy that dear little pin ball was to me on Aug. 4. I was on my way to the hospital and I noticed a run in my stocking. You know how comfortable that makes you feel. Well, I had slipped in a needle with thread on it that morning thinking I might need it and had put the pin ball in my purse. So I just slipped into the rest room and mended the run. Thanks to you, I once more felt like myself. That recipe you sent was great. Don't stop writing letters to the Corner or we're all lost. You write such helpful things. Expect to hear from me soon.

Ma of Greene Gables: I hope your son's wife isn't on my tracks, because if she is I'll hit the trail. What a blunder I made! I'm glad you took it that way. Some people would of thought I was ——?

Still when I wrote that I didn't think the head had affected me, ha!

Well, here's how it was. Mrs. B's daughter H. said she drove you from her mother's to that church you visited. That's what I meant, by saying I had the same driver, and she was driving me the day I waved to you. If ever I meet you personally I'll explain. So the joke's on me but as I'm Fuller Phun I enjoyed it too. If ever I go by again I'll accept your invitation and drop in.

By Jingo: Remember the lady that sold you a pair of play slippers for your oldest sonny boy that ripped out and I replaced them free? Now if you can picture who that was you'll have who Fuller Phun is. I sure did love both of your children as they were dears. I had one of my own then. Now I have two and I see you have one too. Congratulations!

Ann Tenna.: I don't seem to be able to place you. Please describe yourself a bit more. Better still drop in and I'll have a cup of tea for you and we'll talk it over as to who's who. What say?

I wonder if any of the sisters have seeds and plant slips to exchange? I have white, red, brick, and pink geranium slips I could give, and ivy in exchange for zinnia, phlox, baby's breath and sweet williams. In fact any of old fashioned flower seeds or roots would be welcomed. I also have gladiolus bulbs of several colors and hollyhocks seeds.

Have many of you been canning? I expect to do some next week; also make jelly.

Well, I didn't realize how late it was. I have to stop now to get dinner.

Best wishes to all

FULLER PHUN.

HOW TO CARRY A KEY

Dear Social Corner Friends: The Social Corner page grows so small every week, I thought a few lines would help out. Was glad to see so many Social Corner friends at East Killingly Old Home day. It has changed so much back of Hollyhock's house I hardly knew where I was and the beautiful flowers I saw there, too. Am glad she put in her recipe for sliced cucumbers, for I tasted some at the last Social Corner meeting and they were very nice.

A nice way to carry a key when you go out is to take a large safety pin, put it through the ring of the key and pin it to your dress or inside of your bag. I wish you might tell the one that lost the key. I found for I think it would be a help to her.

I think her name was Mrs. Chaffee.

How to treat poison from ivy. Bathe it in strong soap suds, then dry it and put on plenty of comfort powder to keep it as dry as possible. There is a watery fluid comes from it and the powder helps dry it.

Was glad to read Aries remedy too Am glad to hear. Places that you got home all right after that terrible shower.

I think Primrose would have gone if she had known how she was going to get home.

Best wishes for the Social Corner.

ROSALIND.

CLUB NO. 5 OPENS MEETINGS SEPT. 1.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is nearly time for our next meeting and I hope you all have had as good a time as I have. First we took an auto trip up through Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont, my husband and I, and got my mother (Ink.) Left Rutland, Vt., for Shelford, Vt., and came home by the way of Keene, N. H. Reaching Norwich after a 469 mile drive. We surely enjoyed every minute of it. Since then we have covered many miles nearer home. Two weeks ago we went to Woodbury, Conn., and scaled the Southington mountain which seemed to us had no end. Coming back it did not seem so long. The road was very good but what I would call a snake road. There are so many turns and crooks in it. If none of the sisters have taken this ride I hope you will for it is surely worthwhile.

Last Saturday we left here and went to Wendell Depot, Mass., taking mother that far towards home. Our only trouble on all these trips was a new brake and flat tire so considering everything we feel we have had quite some traveling for amateurs.

Please all come that can to the Buckingham Memorial, Sept. 1st. Club No. 5. Bring something good to eat and we will have some good times this next year. Success to the Corner.

ALTA.

LOVER OF CATS

Dear Social Corner Folks: If not too late I want to thank the editor for my yellow slip. It was a surprise to me but very welcome. I do so much enjoy the Corner letters as I do the meetings and picnics although have not been able to attend either for a long time but hope to in the future. I expect to have a vacation next week if nothing happens. I suppose all the sisters have had theirs before now. I have some beautiful flowers. We had to cart lots of water early in the season to keep them alive, but for the past few weeks there has been plenty of rain and they certainly look fine. I am a great lover of cats. There has been quite a little about them in the Corner lately. Now we have two lovely kittens and three old cats one a stray one which seems to make her home around the yard. I could always make great pets of them and they follow me everywhere. I could never see how any one could be unkind to dumb animals. Evelyn Burr is fond of cats and dogs and takes great care of them. The last I knew she had seven cats to care for. She is a very busy woman and takes great care of house, garden and all things that come her way. Bur is busy with company and many other things. Hope she will be able to attend the meetings this fall. A sister spoke about attending a grange meeting with me long ago. Well I used to attend many a grange meeting at our own grange and elsewhere and met and made many friends but I cannot seem to place her. Make yourself known, sister. I hardly ever go to grange meetings now. I like the grange and always did but it seems things have grown so different now and I just stopped going. I belong to the Rebekahs and have attended pretty regularly the past year. We have a big order and I enjoy the meetings very much. I'm pretty late sending this letter but am hoping it won't find the waste basket. I am as ever

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

GREETINGS FROM KOCHIE

Dear Social Corner Friends: Last weeks page was not so full as usual and as it is vacation time perhaps that explains why. Very excusable.

I myself have only returned from a ten day stay at Oakland beach, R. I., where I enjoyed the sea breezes, and met a number of old friends, and also made a few new ones.

Peggy Alder: Was awfully glad you call'd while on your trip. Only regretted that you could not have stayed longer. Glad you arrived home safe and sound, and no worse from your journey. Come again and plan on staying longer. I certainly did enjoy your letter of Aug. 21st.

Balsam Fir: What are you doing these days, trying to keep the home fires burning? I for one have to kindle one these evenings. I for one never knew of an August so cool as this in the evenings. Perhaps my blood is getting thin, or in other words I was born too long ago. Nevertheless, something is wrong either the weather or me.

Cretia: Those facts you wrote in your last letter were very interesting indeed. I bet you haven't found out who is who yet?

Dear Me! where is Rural Auntie? Came by your house the other evening but the hours were so small I didn't dare to disturb your peaceful slumbers and as old Elizabeth runs so smooth and still, you would think it a new improved Wheeler and Wilson, but never the less, it's only one of Henry Ford's. I sometimes think I will name it White Wings for it always carries me safely home.

Cakkie: What are you up to? How are the huckleberries this season? Rather slim in quantity and size down my way. Am in hopes the season will be long enough so I shall get a berry johnny cake, before frost gets them all.

Grandma Gray: I am glad you enjoyed your trip to Lord's Point. Let's hearf from you again.

Writers, cheer up, and let's hear from you. With best wishes.

KOCHIE.

ANTIQUES

Dear Social Corner Friends: Am glad that Cretia wrote the letter telling us the prices of some antiques. I have three or those prints by Currier and Ives one of the American Homestead, Antelum, Ti.: Sale of the Pet Lamb. Several dealers have seen them and offered a small sum for them; it does not cost anything to keep them, so I was more than glad to learn their value. Thank you, Cretia.

I have The Wonderful Albino Family that Barnum was exhibiting at his museum away back in the sixties. I've been told there is a story about The Sale of the Pet Lamb and would like very much to read it. Will some one tell me where I can get it?

JOAN.

DOING HER BIT

Dear Social Corner Sisters: See all must be on a vacation so will try and do my bit.

American Girl: I got a drop of machine oil on some work and tried your way of pressing between two blotters It worked fine. Good thing to know.

I want to thank a Willimantic sister for a birthday card, which came many months ago. Don't remember the name as the card has got mislaid Please excuse me, sister, I have thought of it so many times.

Theoda: Was by your house July 25th and saw some one had run over one of your chickens. It seems so some drivers do like to run over everything they can.

E. M. R. C. P.: What has become of you, haven't seen a letter from you in a long time?

When peeling apples to keep them from turning brown put them in water that has one teaspoon salt to quart of water, drain off water and apples can stand for many hours and not turn brown. Hubby always peels my apples for pies the night before and they don't get brown treated this way. And with apples for canning use salt water. They will be as white as snow.

ANNA Z.

TWO DELIGHTFUL MEETINGS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been said that "out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh," and so I just cannot wait another minute without speaking of our last two meetings—that is of the Shore Line club. I may add another word to what has already been written about our meeting with B. Natural in Mystic, but it would only be an addition for several sisters have already written of our splendid time and their praises were none too high.

And certainly we have only the highest praise and commendation not only for our sister, but for those other loyal and true spirits who made that good time what it was. Yesterday in response to another invitation we journeyed to Green hill and there enjoyed the hospitalities of sister Green Hill and her dear mother.

The weather was fine and the drive lovely. Although we were near the Milky Way we didn't see any stars. Possibly because of the fog. We greatly enjoyed every minute of the day.

After a most sumptuous repast at midday we enjoyed a stroll on the beach. The scenery was fine and all too soon came the time for departure. We certainly shall look forward to another invitation and may all be spared to meet there again, as I saw no name on the cottage I would suggest the name—Welrkit.

We were very sorry not to see there, Rebecca, Lucille Drew, Cosmos, and ed, but perhaps they again feared a shower.

Well, here comes the post man and I will have to close, wishing every member health and happiness.

DOROTHY BRADFORD.

PICNIC ARRANGED FOR SEPT. 2

Dear Corner Editor, Sisters and Brothers: Here is a little surprise for you. Zany and I have been talking picnic for quite a while but the weather man has been giving out such freaky weather we have not had the courage to go ahead with one until now. So this is an invitation for you to meet at our home on Thursday, Sept 2nd and with a good day and a good crowd think we will all have have a pleasant time. Please bring dishes and something for the dinner. Am leaving the program part up to those who come, so hope every one will have something up their sleeve to keep us busy for a time.

To Delilah Deal and all other shut ins I extend sincere sympathy.

TWICE TWENTY, (Club 4.)

Dayville, Conn.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: Have taken the Bulletin many years and read the Social Corner letters and found them interesting and get helpful suggestions also. B Natural, who is a good friend of mine, invited me to the Shore Line club meeting and to assist her on the program which I was pleased to do. We had a large attendance and a most enjoyable time. B Natural must have been tired that night for she worked hard to have every one get acquainted and enjoy the day. For one I hope they meet here again and that many new members will be added from Mystic and that Club No. 6 will have a large membership.

The name of Social Corner is correct for all are so friendly showing a Christian spirit toward each other. Would like to become a member and have a pin. Will take for my pen name,

MUSICIAN.

DENNEY JOINS CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I had the pleasure of attending the Shore Line club meeting by an invitation from B Natural one of my best friends and certainly the members are sociable and all trying to be kind and friendly and I hope to attend more meetings. I have been interested in the Social Corner for years and am glad the Stonington sisters have got a club started. I would like to join and have a pin. For my pen name will take

CORN OYSTERS

Dear Editor of Social Corner: Would just like to answer Joan's question. No, I do not belong to the Virginia Reel or Round Robin and have never seen my pen name in print only as I use it myself. I am sending a recipe for Corn Oysters: Six ears of corn cut from the cob, two eggs, two tablespoons flour, pepper and salt. Drop by spoonsful on a hot griddle and eat with good butter. They are delicious. Try it.

ANN TENNA.

PICKS NAME OF ANOTHER

Social Corner Editor: I would like to become a member of the Social Corner. Please send me a pin. I will take for my pen name, INEZ.

(There is another member using this pen name so it will be necessary for you to select another. Please do so at once and it will be listed.—Social Corner Editor.)

GOOD CAKE AND SAUCES

Dear Social Corner Members: If you wish a good cake and some sauces try these:

Five Minute Cake: 1 1-2 cup flour, 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, pinch salt, 2 eggs.

Sift all but the egg together five times add 2 eggs 1-2 cup sweet milk, 1-3 cup shortening creamed, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat all together five minutes, bake in moderate oven.

I use one egg in this cake oftener than I do two. When I use 1 egg, I use 3-4 cup of milk and 1 3-4 cup of flour.

Caramel Sauce: Put one cup of dark brown sugar in a frying pan and stir on the fire until brown, if you like a strong caramel flavor or till a light brown if you like a delicate flavor. Add one cup boiling water, and simmer 15 minutes. Set away to cool.

Lemon Sauce: 1 cup of sugar, 1-3 cup water, rind and juice 2 lemons, yolks 2 eggs.

Boil all together sugar, water, lemon juice, grated rind for 20 minutes. Beat the yolks of the eggs. Put the basin containing the boiling syrup into another of hot water and stir in the eggs.

German Sauce: 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup water, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoons butter, 2 of brandy or 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Boil the sugar and water for 15 minutes. Beat the yolks of the eggs, and stir them into the boiling sirup. Put the basin in another of hot water and beat the mixture with the whisk until it begins to thicken. Then add the butter the whites of the eggs, beaten to a stiff froth, and the brandy. Stir one minute longer and serve betwen slices of stale sponge cake.

Gingerbread is sure to be popular if prepared as follows: Cut in fairly thin slices, butter and place between them chopped raisins and preserved ginger syrup or orange marmalade are also delicious for the purpose

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Cold weather, unusual for August, with reports of light frosts in Colchester, caused no little concern among farmers in this section a half century ago. The beaches also felt the sudden change in climate as people began to start for their city homes.

News from The Norwich Bulletin of 1876, is reprinted in part as follows:

Monday, August 21, 1876—Announcement has been made by railroad officials that the rate of the fare to Philadelphia during the "Connecticut Week" at the centennial has been reduced to $6.25, not $7.25 as previously announced.

The east end of Preston bridge will probably rest on the new abutment on Wednesday of this week.

It is reported in many sections of the city that the corn crop has been ruined this year because of the drought.

Porpoises are now seen quite frequently in the lower part of the Thames river.

The contract for building Music hall at Danielsonville has been awarded. Clark and Walker are to do the mason work and Underwood and Brown the wood work. Their joint bid was the lowest, $24,595.

A young Norwich man writes home that Bergen tunnel by actual measurement is 22 and a quarter kisses in length.

Tuesday, August 22, 1876—A Voluntown agriculturist has learned how to make use of the Colorado beetle. This past week he turned his turkeys into the field literally covered with the potato bugs and they made short work of the bugs. It is said that this man did the same thing last year and as a result got rid of the bugs and in the meantime fattened his turkeys for the Thanksgiving table at practically no cost for feed.

Saturday morning while Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Haskell and child were riding down Laurel Hill, near the bridge, their horse became frightened and dashed the carriage against the iron rail of the bride. They were all thrown out and Mrs. Haskell was injured. Dr. Carleton pronouncing the injury not serious. The carriage was completely demolished and the horse found its way back to the stable.

New open cars are now being operated on the routes to Bean Hill and Greeneville. These cars were bought by Mr. West from a Philadelphia company and are lighter and more neatly trimmed than the old cars.

At a late hour last night there was every indication of a frost and gardeners were busy protecting flowers and vegetables from the effects of the unprecedented change in the weather. The cold wave is also sweeping over New York and Vermont.

The thermometer registered 54 degrees at Eastern Point yesterday morning. Cottagers are beginning to leave the shore in large numbers due to the cold weather.

Last evening on the streets nearly every other person was wearing an overcoat and the favorite speech was, "How cold is it?"

Wednesday, August 23, 1876—The good people of Mystic and vicinity having claims against the United States arising from the burning of the ship B. F. Hoxie by the Florida, have just cause for congratulation upon the pleasant termination of their suits. The judgments in their favor, amounting to nearly $100,000, have been paid to their attorney, Col. Allen Tenny of Norwich.

Farmers hereabouts are making hay while the sun shines, and while the ready demand for wool and lambs is already over their clip.

At New London last evening the court of common council passed a resolution authorizing the granting, so far as the city had the right to do so, to the Stonington and Providence railroad, to use the waterfront of the city at or near the foot of the parade, for a railroad ferry, for such term of years, not exceeding 28 years, and for such compensation as the council may determine to the advantage of the city.

George W. Brown of Black Hill, Plainfield, is dead, a son is in serious condition, a neighbor seriously ill and Mr. Brown's wife slowly recovering from the effects of something not understood. Mr. Brown on Tuesday started to clean out a cistern (used for sewage drainage.) When he was at the bottom, some ten feet down, he was seen to fall prostrate. His oldest son went down to aid him and he fell prostrate. A younger son rushed for help and a neighbor went down. Before he could rescue the two men in the cistern, he too fell prostrate. Mrs. Brown then tied a rope about her body and neighbors lowered her into the cistern. She tied ropes about her son and the neighbor and the three were pulled out. She then went back for her husband and before she could be pulled out she became insensible. What caused the four people to lose consciousness is not known.

Thursday, August 24, 1876—People who desire to conclude a trip to the Falls by a visit to the model cotton mills located thereat, esteem themselves happy if they can put themselves in charge of the gentlemanly superintendent of the card-room, Mr. Burns, whose courteous explanations render the mysterious working of the machinery as plain as they can be made to the non-...

Colchester farmers report that their corn has not been damaged because of the drought but that some ears were damaged because of the light frost Monday night, something very unusual for the month of August.

Ice has been plentiful in the city this summer and $5 has provided an ample supply of this necessity for the average Norwich family.

T. T. Wetmore has just completed a new Howe truss bridge in Fitchville to replace the one washed away by the great freshet on the 26th of March last.

A sure sign of cool weather is the starting of numerous whist clubs in various sections of the city.

Friday, August 25, 1876—A correspondent writes the Bulletin that he possesses a bound volume of the Norwich Packet: "Printed and Published by John Trumbull, near the meeting house." The first copy in the book is dated July 28, 1791, No. 905 and the last February 13, 1794, No. 1,039. The book was purchased in Scotland, Conn., and the papers contain many proclamations by George Washington. He writes that all his copies of the Norwich Packet are in excellent condition.

The old Windham county courthouse has been very satisfactorily fixed up; which fact Brooklyn people will duly make use of as an argument for the retention of their burgh as the country-seat.

The country roads in the vicinity of the city are well patronized of late, and the livery stable keepers are reping a rich harvest.

Saturday, August 26, 1876—An extra mail left the postoffice last night for the passengers on the schooner Marietta Smith, now en route for the centennial. Messrs. Gardiner, Backus and Randall will be happy to realize, when they receive their mail at the Transcontinental hotel, that they have left a large circle of friends behind them.

The No. 4 Hose company has installed a shooting gallery in its house and will have some trials of markmanship shortly.

The Hayes and Wheller club of Greeneville has been organized and its president is James Gilmour. A flag raising is to take place and there will be addresses by Hon. John T. Wait, Col. Allen Tenny, Senator Brown and Col. Joseph Selden.

Plainfield town authorities are up in arms against the county authorities who are responsible for dragging cases into the higher courts and thus taking money from the town. All cases decided in the Plainfield court and then taken to Brooklyn have come out the same as at Plainfield. The money goes to the county however and not to Plainfield. There is danger of a war between town and county officials if the practice is continued.

Several croquet clubs are to go to Plainfield next month to compete for the state championship. Norwich will probably be represented.

MYSTIC

OLD MYSTIC M. E. CHURCH NOTING 75TH ANNIVERSARY

(Special to the Bulletin)

MYSTIC, Aug. 27—The Old Mystic Methodist church members have been preparing for months to observe its 75th anniversary. They have painted the church and parsonage.

Man's early inclination toward art frequently found expression though examination of various forms of nuts and his drinking vessels were fashioned in imitation of the halved cocoanut or some other hard shell protecting the kernel. In India ancient dippers were made of nutshells, and specimens of antiquity are now on exhibition at the Indian Museum, South Kensington London. King Henry VI possessed a silver vessel made like a nut in 1425. Chinese carvers still work artistic devices on nutshells. In Tibet Buddhist priests often possess rosaries comprising more than 100 beads, all made from carved nuts.

Reddy Finds Some Jelly

Before a puzzle hesitate,
Lest it your temper irritate.
—Reddy Fox.

There had been a storm. All the little folk who live along the seashore know that after a storm many strange things are likely to be found on the beach. So, as soon as the storm was over, Reddy Fox and Jimmy Skunk were prowling along the beach to see what had been washed up by the waves. Many a good meal had they found there, brought in by the waves.

Reddy walked over to examine this

But this storm hadn't brought in much in the way of food. It didn't matter much, because Reddy wasn't really hungry. He was more curious than hungry. It was fun to poke about and see what he could find.

Presently, as he was trotting along, he came to something that seemed to him very queer. It looked for all the world as if somebody had dropped a saucerful of rather soft lemon jelly on the sand. Reddy sniffed at it, but that didn't tell him anything.

"This is queer," said Reddy to himself. "Now what under the sun can this stuff be? I never have seen anything like it before. Hello! There is some more over there."

Reddy walked over to examine this. It was just like the other. The only difference was there was a little more of it.

"What are you looking at?" inquired Jimmy Skunk, coming up behind Reddy.

"I don't know," replied Reddy. "I don't know what it is. What do you think it is?"

Jimmy walked all around it and eyed it suspiciously. Then, rather carefully, he put out a little black paw and touched it. It felt just as it looked; that is to say, it felt just as jelly would feel if you should put your finger in it. Of course, Reddy and Jimmy didn't know anything about jelly. If they had known anything about jelly, I am quite sure that they would have suspected right away that somebody had been along that way and spilled that jelly. But after they had traveled along the beach a little farther they would have wondered where under the sun so much jelly could come from. You see, the beach was literally covered with these little jelly masses.

Reddy was the first one to discover that they were more than clear jelly. He discovered one that was lying on the sand perfectly flat, and he could see something like a cross on it, just as on the Pond Collar he had seen a star. This led him to suspect that perhaps these masses of jelly were not at all what they looked to be. He went down to the water's edge to see if he could see any in the water. At first he didn't. Then he saw one just being washed up by a little wave. He hurried over to it. It looked just like the other little jelly masses. It didn't move, but lay perfectly still just where the wave had left it.

Reddy sat down and scratched his head thoughtfully. Could it possibly be that that thing was alive, or ever had been alive? Jimmy Skunk joined him. Then they talked it over. They looked all around for some one to ask questions of, but no one was in sight. Finally they decided that it was a waste of time to just sit staring at these things. So they went off to hunt for other interesting things. But all the time, in the back of his head Reddy was thinking about those jelly masses. They perplexed him. "I certainly have got to find out what they are," said he.

COMMON LAW WIFE TAKES POISON IN A NEW LONDON ROOMING HOUSE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27. — Miss Gladys Alexander, 33, of Providence, common-law wife of Elton H. Logan, Louisville, Ky., committed suicide this morning by swallowing the contents of a vial containing cyanide of potassium. Miss Alexander ended her life following a quarrel with Logan because he absented himself from their rooming house, 250 Montauk avenue until a late hour. The father of Miss Alexander came to New London this morning and claimed the body.

Miss Alexander and Logan, together with C. L. Crews and Miss Alberia Doherty, both of Hartford, came to New London about three weeks ago and entered into negotiations with an organization here to produce an amateur play. Logan and Miss Doherty secured accommodations at the Montauk avenue house as man and wife.

Last night, shortly before midnight, Miss Alexander was in her room awaiting the arrival of Logan. When he appeared he was accompanied by Stanley Woods of Bridgeport. Miss Alexander took Logan to task for remaining away from her the entire evening and the quarrel became heated. Finally, Miss Alexander, who had been seated on the bed, rose and walking across the room to a bureau, took the bottle of poison from her handbag and drank its contents. She soon collapsed from the effects of the deadly poison and a physician was called, Dr. Julian G. Ely responding. When the physician reached the house Miss Alexander was unconscious and in a dying condition. The ambulance of Lawrence-Memorial hospital was summoned, but hardly had Miss Alexander been carried into the ambulance when she expired.

But little is known here of Miss Alexander and Logan, for they came to New London unknown and for the sole purpose of producing the play next month.

MRS. SULLIVAN DIES DURING SISTER'S FUNERAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27.—The funeral, of Julia C., widow of John J. Kiely, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including a delegation of members of the auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hiberians. A high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. At the close of the mass Edward F. Murray sang, "Some Sweet Day." The bearers were Richard Kiely, Cornelius Donohue, John Sheehan and John Kiely. The committal prayers in St. Mary's cemetery were read by Rev. Father O'Callahan.

While the funeral of Mrs. Kieley was being held, her sister, Mrs. Annie Carver Sullivan, wife of Michael Sullivan, 17 Belden street, died, following a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Sullivan is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Edward Hume and Miss Margaret Sullivan, both of New London, and a son, Stephen Sullivan of New York. Mrs. Sullivan had been ill about four months, but when her sister's death occurred, Mrs. Sullivan left her sick bed and was about her home a day, when she was forced to return to bed. Her condition from that time rapidly became worse until the end this morning.

Rofford Bogue and Joseph Connor were in the police court this morning charged with a breach of the peace in having mixed things up with Policeman Henry Sylva and Edward Riordan. The cases grew out of the conduct of young men loitering about the restaurant known as "The Coffee Pot". Last midnight Officer Sylva was passing along Main street and saw Bogue in a doorway. He attempted to drive him away, but Bogue resisted and finally put up a fight with the officer. The police officers have been told, because of the many complaints that have been made, to keep the section where the Coffee Pot is located, clear of loafers and loiterers. It was in carrying out this order that Bogue was told to move along. Sylva grabbed Bogue and the latter broke away and went to the opposite side of the street where an automobile was at the curb. Sylva followed him and took him into custody. Connor was standing nearby and urged Bogue to break away. The officer told Connor to go along to the police station and informed him that he could be made one of. Just then Officer Edward Riordan appeared and he sought to assist Officer Sylva, but Connor ran. Connor was pursued and was found in a vacant lot at North Bank and Douglass streets, where he was lying down. He said some one put him there. Officer Riordan said that night after night the loiterers about the Coffee Pot had been complained of, declaring that people had been insulted as they passed. The police had been told to clean up the gangs found loitering there.

Officer William J. Riordan told the court that complaints were made nightly by persons annoyed when they passed the Coffee Pot. The police had driven loiterers away, but as soon as the officers move on the loafers return.

Bogue declared in court that Sylva did not push him, nor did he tell him to leave, but said he would split his head open if he did not get away. He said he broke away from the officer to escape the latter's club, as he feared he was to be attacked by the officer. Bogue said that when he came from the Coffee Pot he saw a Ford car across the street and recognized parties in the machine. He was to ask to be taken home. Sylva asked him how many times it was necessary to tell him to keep away. Bogue declared that a middle aged man attempted to say something and that Sylva ordered the latter away also. Connor denied that he did anything other than to ask Bogue what the trouble was about. He then was told that the same thing would be done to him. The accused young men were sentenced to jail. Bogue for 30 days and Connor for ten days. Bogue appealed and gave a bond of $350 for appearance in the common pleas court. Connor went to jail.

Mrs. William Bolles and infant son of Uncasville; Mrs. Antonette Cerato, Niantic; Miss Edith Nichols, Westerly, and Miss Marian Spicer, Niantic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

An automobile driven by J. H. Earl, warrant officer, stationed at the United States Coast Guard state pier, and an automobile driven by J. F. O'Connor, 21 Ocean avenue, collided this evening on Main street, corner of Masonic street. O'Connor's auto was badly damaged. Earl was arrested by Patrolman Clarence Wells on a charge of reckless driving and did not have an operator's license. Earl will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

Edward Porter, sailor stationed at the submarine base, is a patient at the base hospital suffering from lacerations of the head and leg, received this morning through being struck by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop after hitting the man. Porter and a companion alighted from a bus north of the base, about 2:15 o'clock and were walking to the base when the automobile struck Porter and then speeded away. About 2:30 o'clock Patrolman William Manice reported at police headquarters that an automobile owned by J. E. Keon, New York, had been brought to the Monte Cristo garage and instructions were given to store the auto for the night and have it washed, with explicit instruction to see that the blood was removed from the running board. Keon is a guest at the Hotel Mohican and state police are making an investigation.

RAIDS ON 22 PLACES— WOMEN AND MEN CAUGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27—One of the biggest liquor raids ever made in New London was that of this afternoon when state police from Groton barracks, Hartford and Centerbrook, together with local police swooped down upon 22 places where liquor is reputed to be sold and arrested the proprietors of the respective places, or their employes. The raids were conducted under the supervision of Sergeant Clifford Gorgas, of Groton barracks, with about 50 officers taking part, and were most successful, although tonight four warrants have not been served, because of the failure of the raiding officers to find the man accused.

The raids are the result of evidence against the places having been obtained by two stool pigeons, imported here for the purpose of putting a stop to the illegal sale of liquor throughout the city. The stool pigeons, it is claimed, purchased liquor in the places conducted by the arrested men and women, or else received liquor from the traffickers on the street, or in automobiles.

But little liquor was found, considering the number of places raided, but in but two or three instances was liquor of consequence revealed by a systematic search.

The accused are Bronistan Makovitch, 33 Potter street, proprietor of the Homestead Lunch; John O'Neil, Mystic, public service operator; Abe Katz, 29 Linden street; Joseph E. Dlugeleiach, 76 Potter street; Roger Jukes, 50 Federal street; Larney Brewer, Douglass street; Charles Howard, 170 Bank street; Joseph Poretta, 47 Summer street; Anita Viaum, 15 Smith street; Mary Dryinoski, rear 311 North Bank street; Michael Costello, proprietor of the Garden of Italy, Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach; Harry Houtz, proprietor of a club room, 3 Railroad avenue; Armando Montali, Smith street; Nick Stanatin, 32 North Bank street; Arthur Messer, 31 Summer street; John Marino, 3 Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach; Helen Woodstock, Adelaide street; Clotilda Frausini, 59 Goshen street; Francesca and Santena Lafemina, 44 Smith street; Elizabeth Gusti, 50 Walbach street; Joseph Carey, employed at Hotel Winthrop, and Victor Frederick, 33 Walbach street. Each furnished a surety on his or her respective bonds of $1,000 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, except O'Neil, Brewer and the Woodstock women.

Brewer, who resides at a house frequently raided, a few months ago was stool pigeon for the police for he obtained evidence by which a number of houses and stores were raided and their male or female proprietors heavily fined in the police court. He is colored and has been an habitue of the tenderloin a long time.

The greatest quantity of liquor was found in the Houtz club room, such a quantity that a truck was brought into service to convey it to storage at the police station. The liquor consisted of cases of beer, alleged to be three and three-quarters per cent. also whiskey and alcohol.

It is understood that some of the evidence obtained by the stool pigeons was secured during the final day of the Connecticut State Firemen's association convention in this city last week. firemen expected to be and should be As it is a known fact that the word was passed along several days before the holding of the convention that the supplied with liquor, many took advantage of the top and sold openly, both at and away from the beach, where the field day and feasting of the firemen took place.

Shortly after 2 o'clock and after Judge S. Victor Prince and Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky had signed the warrants for the arrest of the accused and a search of their respective places, the state police officers, accompanied by a member of the New London department, started simultaneously to raid all of the 23 places for which warrants, either personal or otherwise, had been issued. Within a short time prisoners and evidence was being brought to the police station. Not until 4:30 o'clock were the raids concluded and then because of four of the alleged distributors not being located.

At the Hotel Winthrop, where, it was expected, a large quantity of liquor and beer would be found, less than two cases of beer, the alcoholic contents of which has not been determined, was all that was found, no whiskey being located in the search of the hotel.

At the residence of Messer, who has long been sought by the local and state police in an endeavor to obtain a conviction against him, the house was entered by force in the absence of Messer and his wife. When the pair returned at 3 o'clock, they found the officers in possession of the house, with a couple of bottles, though doubtful as to their contents, being taken as evidence.

The Woodstock woman, had with her when arested two children, neither three years of age, and they were locked in a cell with the mother. At 9 o'clock tonight the woman secured a surety on her bond, as did O'Neil, leaving Brewer the only violator to remain in the station house over night.

Another arrest was made this evening, when Mrs. Lillian Pozzello, 79 Woodbridge street, went to the police station and gave herself up, her arrest making the 23rd. Mrs. Pozzello was absent from her home when the raiding force went there, but an occupant of the house admitted them. They found some home-brew beer and departed. When Mrs. Pozzello returned home this evening and was acquainted with the fact that officers had been there seeking her arrest, she went to the police station, accompanied by a bondsman and after being booked was released.

Strand Theater

George Walsh, the screen's leading exponent of athletic American youth is announced as the headliner Sunday night only at the Strand theater when he is presented in the latest Chadwick production entitled American Pluck.

The comedy element is very strong in the picture and Tom Wilson and Leo White furnished a great deal of the fun. Tom Wilson's black face characterizations are among the screen's most laughable creations and he runs a close second to the star of this picture.

An excellent cast surrounds George Walsh with Wanda Hawley as the fair princess.

It is safe to assert that there will not be a dull moment at the Strand theater Sunday when George Walsh occupies the screen in American Pluck.

A new he-man hero who seems destined to leave a trail of broken hearts strewed along his primrose path to stardom appears at the Strand theater as the second feature Sunday, when Let's Go, Gallagher, featuring Tom Tyler, F. B. O.'s new western find, is given its local premier. From its first showing in Hollywood the production has been hailed as uncovering a star of the first magnitude. With a magnetic personality couchsafed to few, a wonderful smile, a magnificent build and a striking resemblance to George O'Brien, Mr. Tyler cannot fail to land and land hard with picture fans who are always looking, and usually in vain, for a new face in the heroic roles of action pictures.

Broadway Theater

Riotous comedy, as fast and furious as tabby in a catnip bed, and with a strong undercurrent of humanness giving it a reality that a torrent of humor itself often misses, comes to the Broadway theater for a four day run starting Sunday as the first feature when The Nut Cracker, starring Edward Everett Horton, enjoys its premier in this locality.

If The Nut-Cracker isn't what the public wants, then there is no way to entertain it! With such players as Mae Busch, Harry Myers, Tom Ricketts and others in support and with the rattling, risible-tickling ingredients which Frederick Isham has furnished in the story, Mr. Horton steps out to topple the crowns from the brows of the screen's greatest comedians. And he just about does it!

Incidentally, Director Lloyd Ingraham has injected into the production an originality of treatment and a Watch-your-step tempo which proves delightful

A new flapper story makes its bow to the delighted public in the new production, Two Can Play, appearing as the second feature at the Broadway theatre, with Clara Bow, Allan Forrest, Wallace MacDonald and George Fawcett.

Clara Bow is her usual flippant self, but is in a situation which requires considerable tact and mental agility to handle. Two men are wooing this capricious lady, and whe the three are marooned on a desert isle, she is in considerable of a quandary to pick the winner. How she does what she does, and who proves the best man is told in a new and exciting manner, calculated to thrill the most blase of moviegoers.

The picture was adapted from Gerald Mygatt's amusing Saturday Evening Post story by Reginald Fogwell, and directed by Nat Ross.

Breed Theater

Perhaps the most sensational train wreck in the history of motion pictures is that provided by Cecil B. De Mille in his first personally directed picture production released by Producers Distributing Corporation. A firm believer in the screen doctrine that the end justifies the means, Mr. DeMille caused to be built a duplicate of the K-4 passenger engine, with 12 driving wheels seven feet in diameter and a length overall of eighty feet As far as is known, no ponderous engine such as this has ever been made especially for one scene in a photoplay, but the results achieved fully justified Mr. De Mille's insistence upon realism despite expense.

The story of The Road to Yesterday, which features Joseph Schildkraut, Jetta Goudal, Vera Reynolds, William Boyd and Julia Faye, and which comes to the Breed theater for three days beginning Sunday, is one of unusual dramatic power. The principal characters are traveling in a Pullman coach and at night, suddenly comes a crash, the hiss of escaping steam, dense smoke, shrieks of terror and as this chaotic scene fades away, it is replaced by the peaceful old English tavern of the early 17th century on The Road to Yesterday.

Reincarnation is the theme of the story and it has been handled by Mr. De Mille with all the subtle artistry for which he is famous. For the train wreck scene, a special track was built and as retakes were impossible Mr. DeMille stationed a battery of cameramen strategically so that when the spectacular tragedy occurred, it was filmed from every angle. Not a worth while feature of the sequence was eliminated.

The Road to Yesterday is based upon the play by Beulah Marie Dix and E. G. Sutherland which scored heavily throughout the country 20 years ago. The screen version was made by Jeanie Macpherson in collaboration with Miss Dix. It was filmed especially by Mr. De Mille for Producers Distributing Corporation release.

When two women talk the subject of their conversation is often conspicuously absent.

Palace Theater

Beginning Thursday evening, Sept. 2nd theatergoers will have an opportunity to witness the first appearance in this city of Anne Nichols' delightful comedy of love and tolerance, Abies Irish Rose, which opens at the Palace theatre for 3 night and Saturday matinee and indications point toward a record breaking engagement for this phenomenon of the stage, which comes to us with the same cast and production which established a record run of 11 weeks at the Majestic theater, Buffalo, N. Y.

The records established by this attraction in all large cities of the United States and Canada has made more theatrical history than any play written, to say nothing of the precedents it has made which will no doubt stand as a mark for ages to come.

In the exploiting of her play Anne Nichols' has shown veteran producers that a woman can handle the business reins of a great organization and at the same time introduce more new ideas in booking and promoting than was ever believed possible, for the runs of Able will attest this.

To miss seeing Abie means missing the comedy treat of a life time for as one dramatic critic wrote in his review: "If you can't get the best laugh of your life out of Able, see a doctor at once."

The regular box office sale will be open on this Saturday at 10 a. m.

Worcester will have a $2,000,000 theater, according to papers filed at the registry of deeds transferring ownership of real estate at Main and Central streets to the 261 Main street corporation, a subsidiary of the Arthur S. Friend companies and the Marcus Loew companies of New York.

OCCUM & VERSAILLES

OVERSEERS FROHMANDER LEAVES TOTOKETT CO.

The Bulletin's Occum and Versailles correspondent writes: William G. Frohmander who has been for the past 12 years, with the exception of a few months spent in the service during the World war with the Totokett Manufacturing company, concluded his duties with the company at the close of business Wednesday. For nine years he was overseer of weaving. Mr. Frohmander accompanied by his family are planning to take an automobile trip through the south.

In the resignation of Mr. Frohmander the company will lose a capable employe and one ever thoughtful of those under his charge.

Mr. Frohmander was presented a purse of money by the employes of the weaving department, at the closing hour Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frohmander will be missed from the social and church activities of the village. Both are members of Versailles M. E. church and church school. Mr. Frohmander is a teacher of a boys' class in the school and a member of the choir. Mrs. Frohmander for several years has been the efficient superintendent of the cradle roll of the church school.

Mr. Frohmander has always been interested in village enterprises and ever ready to help in whatever project was being carried out.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.— (AP) —Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which was featured by a revival of strength and activity in the oil shares. Week end profit taking was rather heavy in the general industrial list but offerings were well absorbed, closing quotations disclosing a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 7 1-4 points. Business, however, was in reduced volume, total sales of 1,806,200 shares being the smallest in about a month.

The day's business news was largely bullish in character. The weekly mercantile reviews reported further improvement in most lines of industry although heavy rains over a widespread area have retarded fall buying in some lines. Reviews of the oil industry called attention to the fact that a record volume of gasoline was being handled at firm prices, no important reduction in tank wagon prices having been made this year. Last year several of the large refining companies cut prices in August, with the prevailing quotation then several cents a gallon below the current prices.

Rails made further response to the unusually favorable July earnings reports, the combined net income of the first 40 class 1 roads to report being nearly 30 per cent above that of July 1925. Atchison and Southern Railway established new high records for all time at 151 1-2 and 123 3-8, respectively, while Union Pacific and Great Northern preferred touched their highest levels in a year, or longer. Atchison's net income last month almost doubled that of July last year, $8,446,943 against $4,724,336.

Buying of the oil shares derived some stimulus from the publication of the semi-annual report of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, showing earnings of $5.56 a share, exclusive of any earnings of the Lago Petroleum and Transport company in which it was a major interest. Resumption of active bidding for the General Asphalt issues sent the common up five points to 90 3-8 and the preferred up 7 1-4 to 135 1-8.

Baking issues developed another outburst of strength under the leadership of Continental Baking A., which jumped six points to 93. Heavy accumulation of the tobaccos sent Consolidated Cigar, Congress Cigar, Reynolds B. and Tobacco Products A. to new high levels for the year. Amalgamated Leather responded to the publication of an unusually favorable semi-annual report by crossing 20 to the year's high. New 1926 peak prices also were attained by Brunswick Balke Collender, Howe Sound, Union Tank Car, White Sewing Machine and several others.

Call money held firm at 5 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. Commodity prices were mixed. Active wheat futures dropped about 1 1-2 cents bushel on speculative selling influenced by more optimistic estimates concerning the size of the Canadian crop. Cotton rallied in the early trading in sympathy with an earlier advance in Liverpool, but realizing sales reduced the gains, closing quotations being unchanged to 4 points higher. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound, and coffee prices advanced moderately.

Foreign exchanges fluctuated within a narrow trading area, sterling yielded, however, to the pressure of grain and cotton bills, the demand rate ruling 3-16 of a cent lower around $4.84 11-16. French francs were firm above 2.85 cents on buying influenced by the improvement shown recently in the weekly statements of the Bank of France. German marks were firm above the recently "pegged" price.

TAFTVILLE

Professor and Mrs. Adolph Dugas and family of Webster, Mass., are guests of Mr. Dugas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Prime Dugas and family of South A street.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grandy of Pratt avenue are spending the week end in Boston, Mass.

Mr and Mrs. Lamond Hindle and son Master Edmond H Hindle of South Third avenue have returned from a stay of several days at Asbury Park, N. J.

The Parkwood Sunday school's conference held under the auspices of the United Workers in Norwich, Friday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms in the Hopeman building, was attended by a record number of teachers and their pupils. The women of the village and the small children are realizing more and more the importance of these conferences which are always in charge of a physician and nurses, and are showing their appreciation by attending them in number.

One of the most severe automobile crashes ever known in this vicinity occurred Friday afternoon at the point where the car tracks of North Second avenue crosses Providence street. It was impossible to pass over this road at the rate of any speed, without almost being thrown through the car of the unprepared who were not acquainted with the danger spot and attempted to cross the tracks without use of their brakes got an unpleasant surprise. There will be less danger of breaking the springs of cars now that the trouble has been removed.

A well known man who resides on South B street and is spending his vacation on Block Island is sending his friends pictures of a group of swimmers, and it is possible for those who know him to distinguish him in the crowd. Although his friends know that he possessed considerable skill as a swimmer they did not realize what progress he had made until they saw his picture among the best swimmers at Block Island. Some of them remarked Friday that they would not be surprised now if he announces his intention of trying the English channel.

Mr. and Mrs. Beard Donnelly have taken a house on Norwich avenue.

MAKES FRAUD CHARGE OVER SIGNING DEED

A claim of fraud against Vincenzo Figmagnaro, alias Vincenzo Figmagnaro of Norwich in a suit brought against him in the superior court by Domenica Genese of Norwich. She asks $500 damages and to have a certain deed to real estate on Main street, this city, set aside and the property re-conveyed to her.

The plaintiff claims that on July 2, 1926, the defendant induced her to sign a document which he represented was a paper necessary to be executed in connection with the payment of interest on a mortgage on the real estate. The plaintiff, who claims to be entirely ignorant of the English language, signed the paper, which was in fact a warranty deed of the real estate, through which the plaintiff has been deprived of the use and profits of the real estate which are reasonably worth $40 per month.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich Grange, No. 172 met Wednesday evening with Worthy Master Mrs. Ida E. Richardson, presiding. Brother Staubley in behalf of the grange presented the newly weds, Brother and Sister Jones a gold piece. Mrs. Fanning in behalf of the grange presented the new grange baby a silver spoon.

Next Tuesday afternoon the auxiliary will meet with Mrs. Stanton, 37 Hamilton avenue. The lecturers program was in charge of the Home Economics committee, Mrs. Louise Riggins chairman, Mrs. Ivy Peckham and Mrs. Ethel Rodgers.

It comprised the following:

Piano solo and encore, Mrs. Faith Ryan; A Talk on Cake Making and a Recipe for a Grange Cake, Mrs. Clarence Smith; a recitation and encore, Between Two Loves, by Catherine F. Brown; a piano solo and encore, by Mrs. Ryan; the lecturer's report on Her trip to the New England Lecturers conference in Orono, Me., was given as follows by Mrs. Althea Brown: the Connecticut lecturers all spent Friday night at the Agriculture college at Kingston, R. I. Saturday morning escorted by state police at 40 to 45 miles an hour we visited Roger Williams park and met the Rhode Island lecturers. The cars made an impressive sight, each carried a large banner on the rear with the words New England Grange Conference, Orono, Me., and the American flag fluttering from the front of the car.

Proceeding through Providence where we were given the right of way we headed for Cambridge. At Wrentham we saw the large duck farms where thousands of ducks are raised. In Dedham there were a few near accidents due to the wet pavement, such as a New Jersey car turning around twice and backing into a trolley car. Arriving at Cambridge at noon we visited Harvard college. Due to the short stop made there we could not visit all the buildings. We did go through the museum at Agassiz hall and see the beautiful glass flower presented to the college for the Ware family. We were pointed out Longfellow hall, where his daughter Alice still lives. After a delicious dinner at The Georgian we went to Durham, N. H., where we spent the night. Sunday morning, over 100 cars conveying 600 members of New England grangers, left for Portland, where the advance guard of the party of which we were one attended a special service arranged for them at the First Baptist church at noon, at which Alonzo S. Bisbee of Deering grange was the speaker. The main party escorted by seven state police, were late getting in and went directly to the new $10,000 hall at Deering grange, where dinner was served.

By the way, this hall is on the same plan as the one at Pachaug. Later in the afternoon more than 200 of the party enjoyed a sail among the islands of Casa Bay in the Strait Pilgrim while others went for an automobile ride around the city. In the early evening the entire party proceeded to Brunswich where they were entertained for the night at the dormitories of Bowdoin college. The state lecturers who are promoting the conference remained at Portland and at 9 o'clock broadcasted a brief program of speeches and music from station W. C. S. H., Congress Square hotel. The originators of the lecturers conference which is now in its 15th year, Prof. Charles Wheeler at Storrs, whom you all know and the Maine State Lecturer Merle J. Harriman were two of the speakers. Mr. Harriman explained that the purpose of the conference was a closer acquaintance on the part of the grange lecturers and a discussion of their problems with the opportunity of visiting the state agricultural colleges and learning what is being done there. Mr. Wheeler spoke on Cares.

The duty of the grange according to Arthur McDaniel of East Barrington, state lecturer of New Hampshire is to promote 100 per cent good Americans who will be loyal to themselves, to their families, to society, and to their God. The Community Service was the topic emphasized by State Lecturer Goodwin of Melrose, Mass.

Mrs. Whitham, our state lecturer, spoke of our trip from Connecticut to Maine and Mrs. Rodman, state lecturer of Rhode Island, told of her trip from Rhode Island to Portland.

A Connecticut granger quartet consisting of Mrs. Alice Willoughby, of Scotland, Our Worthy Master Mrs. Ida Richardson, Nelson Smith of East Hartford and Charles Wheeler of Storrs sang the "Shogy Shoo". Past Master David Carr of Raynham Center grange, Mass., sang the Players Perfect. Miss Laura Perkins of Groton was the accompanist.

We arrived at Brunswick at night, the drive from Brunswich next morning to Belfast through Camden overlooking Penobscot Bay was one of the most beautiful drives we had in Maine.

Belfast city park, where we were welcomed by the mayor and other city officials and grangers and given luncheon, is most beautiful. At Orono, we found 200 Maine grangers and lecturers awaiting our arrival. After getting settled for our three days stay there we were entertained by Penobscot Pomona grange. The formal assemblage of the New England grange lecturers was opened by State Lecturer Herraman, Tuesday morning. A. W. Laurence, Vermont state lecturer, was in charge of that state's program, which took as their topic the Grange in Legislature. Among the notable speakers was National Lecturer L. O. Martin. His views on the subject, and they seemed to be the majority, were that too many laws were enacted. Less Laws and Better Enforcement of Those on the Books, was the keynote of his speech.

The second period of the afternoon session was conducted by the Rhode Island delegation led by State Lecturer Mrs. Walter Rodman, their subject being Dramatic.

She spoke of the different kinds of dramatics, comedy, tragedy, etc., and their effect on the human mind and argued for everything which would tend to improve the morals and intelligence of all grange members. In the evening the grangers, over 800 in all, had the pleasure of hearing Governor Ralph O. Brewster boost Maine agriculture. He said no New England Yankee ever undertook to sell a horse, or a second hand automobile or a farm by turning down the corners of his mouth. Pessimists will sour any soil that they touch. We need the sunshine of optimism and the fertilizer of confidence in the agricultural possibilities of any state. Following his address, "Agriculture's Three Horse Team" was the subject of the address by L. J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio, our national state master. The component parts of the team, he said, were organization of the church and the school, or in other words organization, religion and education with understanding and good will as the evener, or in farmer English, the three horse hitch.

Tuesday afternoon's session was devoted to Connecticut, whose topic was Grange Fairs. A paper read by Mrs. Whitham, state lecturer, told of the origin and growth of our fairs. A talk by Mertin Bartlett master of Pomona grange, and a paper by our worthy master, Mrs. Ida Richardson, followed by a round table discussion, completed the program.

Dr. Whiting, St. L. of N. J., in his talk, touched upon better homes and a strong spiritual influence as helpful to grange work.

The first program Wednesday morning was given by New Hampshire Patrons whose topic was Courtesy. S. L. McDaniel said in part: Courtesy like charity may hide a multitude of sins, and also like charity, should begin at home. Of all human characteristics, courtesy will beyond doubt, yield the best financial returns. This was followed by the Massachusetts period, the subject of which was The Grange and the Citizens of Tomorrow. S. L. Angier Goodwin's first point was the necessity of constant work on the part of the grange. Its success in this line depending in large measure on the will to do. Another point was that the spirit of welcome should always be apparent and that all should cultivate the principle of living up to the highest standards, and though changes will occur great truths will not change and so be a little more tender to the children and try to make them happy and learn the best way to train them for the future.

Maine had the afternoon period whose topic was The Grange as a Community Centre. State Lecturer Harriman announced that the subject would be taken up in a round table discussion. Thursday morning an early start was made for Aroostook county. At Houlton the largest grange in the U. S., we were greeted by the band and city officials who gave a royal welcome. The city decorated with flags and cards welcoming the granges were in all the store windows. The scenery from Houlton to Presque Isle was very beautiful. From Island Falls we had a fine view of Mt. Kaladin. Our party had never ridden over a wash board road for any long stretch and just at that time could not appreciate the good roads of Maine. Presque Isle has the largest potatoe acreage in the world. Walter R. Christie has 1,100 acres of potatoes growing, 500 acres in one piece. For miles and miles all you can see are these enormous fields of potatoes and grain. Away in the distance are the hills covered with pine forests. The beautiful blue sky with the little white floating clouds made a picture never to be forgotten.

Friday morning, escorted by state police we went to Grand Falls, Canada. There they were building a large electro plant, running a tunnel 24 ft in diameter and one-half mile long through the solid ledge to the falls. At present 400 men were working. Next week they said, they would have at least 1,000 on the job. There were 101 automobiles in line and each was sworn to keep in line so no one had a chance to purchase anything but ice cream cones.

Saturday morning a return trip to Orono was made. On the way we visited the Gordon Black Fox ranches. These ranches valued at over $1,000,000 was sold to Mr. Gray of Old Town for $350,000 at auction. There were 5,000 foxes at ranch we visited. During our trip we met several kinds of small animals such as rats, squirrels, bears, and porcupines and we picked wild blue berries, red raspberries and gooseberries.

Our food was delicious the whole trip. It was furnished by the different granges and each grange thought we liked beans; by the way, the beans were called Bean Hole Beans because they were baked in a hole in the ground. One sign along the way read: Try our Bean Hole Beans better than those baked in Hades.

During our stay at Orono we visited Lucern in Maine and went through the largest log cabin in the world. This cabin has 85 rooms. Another side trip was to Old Town, where we ferried across the river to Indian Island where we all purchased baskets.

Our trip from Farmington where we were royally entertained through the White Mountains was hurried but very beautiful. Some day if you ask me I will tell you our experience in going through Crawford Notch.

We saw Mt. Washington and the Old Man of the mountain, visited the flume, and then on through Franconia north to New Hampton where we were given supper and entertained with players from Boston. Tuesday morning we started on our homeward trip passing through Plymouth, Concord, Manchester, Nashua, Fitchburg and Worcester. I have not mentioned our beautiful drive Sunday around the Belgrade Lakes, or several other incidents that happened along the way, as I wished you all to hear from our Worthy Master and Flora. In as much as the trip was most enjoyed in every respect, beautiful scenery, good roads, courteous treatment everywhere, yet one would have to admit such continuous traveling for several days in succession was rather tiresome, especially winding up the last two days of the homeward journey by covering over 590 miles. The registration was Massachusetts 260; Connecticut 176; Rhode Island 73; Maine 214; New Hampshire 48; Vermont 35; New Jersey 17; total 831.

Three interesting slogans were presented, Mr. Tabers being "Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you." That by H. P. Demeter Gardner's was "Nothing less than the best is good enough for the Grange" and the Norwich grange slogan was "Nothing but the Best," which was telegraphed from John Fanning.

Farmington boasted that they could build a walk from there to Connecticut with their canned products and build a board walk to Connecticut.

Some of the unusual things we saw were the covered bridges, strawberries in haying time, the absence of stones in Aroostook county, fields of sunflowers among the grain and the dinner bells on the ridge boards of the houses to call the help to dinner.

MASONIC

The annual Grand Master's day will be held at the Masonic home, Wallingford, Saturday, September 25. There will be a program at 12:30, daylight saving time, with addresses by Grand Master Arthur N. Nash of Pawcatuck, Grand Matron Mrs. Grace E. Childsey of East Haven and others. Several musical numbers will be given. Basket lunches may be brought or box lunches may be secured from Mizpah chapter, O. E. S., of Wallingford. Coffee will be furnished free.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

Sachem Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at Buckingham Memorial, President Mrs. Maud A. Moody presiding. After the password had been taken the chaplain, Mrs. Annie B. Newton, read a passage of scripture and the members of the corps repeated the American creed. General orders were then read, after which Mrs. M. Florence Dean reported a good sum received from the reunion dinners. A vote was passed to hold suppers every second Saturday during the winter months.

President Moody and several members are planning to go to Cromwell Home on September 1st, for the annual home day. Members desirous of taking the trip are being notified to get in touch with President Moody. The meeting closed with the salute to the American flag and the singing of America.

"Your Child's Eyes"

The school child does not always realize the necessity of an education; the parents often fail to realize the necessary appliances for acquiring it.
The eye is our main avenue of education. Defective vision causes more school failures than any other one thing.
Your child may see well perfectly. But the one who indicates normal vision and does it with DEFECTIVE EYES, needs glass aid much more than the one who doesn't see so well.
We make a specialty of fitting the eyes of children and young people, guarantee an accurate and proper adjustment of glasses, and take care of the eyes until and after they reach maturity. Bring your child NOW for examination.

DOVER, England, Aug. 29.—(AP)—"This Star Spangled Channel of Ours" is the way the London Illustrated Sunday Herald heads its article chronicling Mrs. Corson's channel swim.

All the newspapers in the country feature the American woman's achievement and also give prominence to Miss Ederle's congratulatory telegram, as an example of the splendid sporting spirit of the first woman conqueror of the channel.

Dover really made more of a fuss over Mrs. Corson than over Miss Ederle. This was probably due to the fact that Mrs. Corson is better known, as she maintained her training quarters here for nine weeks, while Miss Ederle chose Gris-Nez, using Dover merely as a stepping stone on the completion of her swim. Mrs. Corson, too, landed here Saturday afternoon when the beach was thronged with holiday crowds, and she encountered thousands again this morning.

Mrs. Corson was up early after a sound sleep. She thought she would take a quiet stroll with her husband, but no sooner did she appear than she was besieged by crowds everywhere, hundreds begging her to pose for snapshots and honor them with her autograph. They followed her along the beach and about the hotels. Later she took a dip, but not for long, and when she returned to shore she repeated the remark of yesterday after recovering from her 15 hours' strain: "I would not attempt the channel swim again for a million pounds."

MRS. CORSON HAS OFFERS AGGREGATING SOME $200,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Arch Selwyn, theatrical producer, announced tonight that he has taken over the management of Mrs. Clemington Corson, formerly Millie Gade, the latest conqueror of the English channel.

Mr. Selwyn said that he would present tomorrow Mrs. Corson's challenge to race Miss Ederle around Manhattan Island. Miss Ederle's advisor, Dudley Field Malone, asks for an authorized challenge," Mr. Selwyn said. "I will send one tomorrow, with a stipulation that the race takes place within 30 days. We wish to hold it before the water gets too cold and Miss Gade will also have engagements to occupy her time."

If Miss Ederle accepts, Mr. Selwyn said, Walter L. Lissberger, Mrs. Corson's financial backer, will post a $25,000 bet on her.

The theatrical producer announced that Mrs. Corson will sail for New York next Saturday. Sometime during the week, he said, he will make public her theatrical, lecture or vaudeville engagements.

Mr. Selwyn said that Mrs. Corson had received offers aggregating more than $200,000 during the past 24 hours.

"One of them has come from the sesqui-centennial he said, "and she is going to accept it. I have engagements to meet 15 persons who will make offers and contracts tomorrow.

"I cabled Mrs. Corson yesterday to ask her if she would be willing to enter the Catalina Island contest in January, for which William Wrigley, Jr., has offered a purse of $25,000. I received a return cable saying in effect:

"'I will swim for the Catalina Island purse or any other contest that you have arranged.'"

MRS. CORSON DUPLICATES FEAT OF GERTRUDE EDERLE

DOVER, Aug. 29.—Mrs. Clemington Corson, a New York woman, 27 years old and mother of two children, swam the English channel, being the second of her sex to do it. Her time was 15 hours and 28 minutes, about an hour slower than Gertrude Ederle's record of 14 hours and 31 minutes.

It is noteworthy that both women who have beaten the channel are Americans, and in each case their time was faster than any of the five men who have accomplished this most difficult of all swimming feats. It is estimated that shifting tides forced Mrs. Corson to swim 40 miles.

But for her eyes becoming swollen because of the salt water, it is believed Mrs. Corson would have beaten Miss Ederle's record.

Mrs. Corson landed beneath the Shakespeare Cliff at Dover at 3:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, having plunged in at 11:30 Friday night at Cape Gris Nez. She achieved her conquest of the channel only after a desperate battle with the tide at the finish, when it appeared as if, in her tired condition, she would have to yield with victory in sight.

But true to her boast, when she landed in England early this summer, that she would swim the channel this year without fail, she successfully averted a repetition of her disappointing experience three years ago, when she had to give up after getting within a mile and a half of the English shore.

English newspapers are recalling with admiration that Mrs. Corson said, when she arrived at Plymouth early in June:

"You bet I will swim the channel. What do you think I have come over here for? What do you think I've left my husband and two children at home for? This isn't a pleasure trip. Gee! You make me feel homesick, asking if I can do it."

And Mrs. Corson has shown her English skeptics. Woman's superiority in water would seem to be established by the fate attending Frank Perks, an Englishman from Birmingham, who started at the same time Mrs. Corson did. He abandoned his attempt after 13 and 1-2 hours in the water, when within a mile of Dover. He was defeated by the same tide that defied the American woman overcame.

Walter L. Lissberger of South Norwalk, Conn., financial backer of Mrs. Clemington Corson, yesterday challenged Miss Gertrude Ederle to race her around Manhattan Island on a bet of $25,000. Miss Ederle announced here that she would be glad to consider the offer when it was made officially.

Mr. Lissberger said he had won $100,000 by Mrs. Corson's swim, having placed $5,000 with Lloyds at 1 to 20 odds. He said he would present $25,000 of this to Mrs. Corson.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN THREATENS MISS EDERLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Threatened with a nervous breakdown, Miss Gertrude Ederle, first of her sex to swim the English channel, today was confined to her home on orders of her physician.

Loss of sleep and excitement that attended her arrival home Friday, when the city gave her a record home-coming ovation, were responsible for the doctor's orders. Like many another person who attains popularity, she has found that the demands of an enthusiastic public tax her strength more than the actual accomplishment of her feat.

Dr. Robert S. Bickley, her physician, directed that no one should be allowed to see her or disturb her today. Dudley Field Malone, her legal advisor, said the young swimmer needed about 24 hours of sleep and after that, he was convinced, she would "be herself again."

"She has not had a good night's rest since she swam the channel," he said. "Every great athlete has a highly nervous system, and Gertrude has been on edge and in training for two years, with a constant ambition to accomplish her purpose. All she needs is a day of complete rest."

Four policemen were on guard outside the Ederle home in Amsterdam avenue to prevent intrusion or the gathering of a crowd.

In the company of her brother, Miss Ederle left for home tonight in her new roadster, the reward for the channel swim, to spend the night at the home of a relative. She will not return to her own home until late tomorrow, her family said, when she will prepair for the neighborhood block party to be given in her honor.

Miss Ederle will go to the family cottage at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., Tuesday and is expected to remain there for a week.

ANNUAL HARMONY DINNER AT DEMOCRATIC CLUB

BRIDGE PORT, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Mayor James Walker, of New York, deplored the disposition of some to vote from a religious stanpoint without regard to platform or candidates' ability, speaking this afternoon before 300 democrats who crowded the dining hall of Champ's Farm for the seventh annual harmony dinner of the fifth district democratic club.

Mayor Walker was given a tremendous ovation by the representatives of Bridgeport's democrats, of all factions, among whom the absence of Attorney John A. Cornell, the party leader here, was noticeable. Cornell planned to be in attendance, according to former Senator Archibald McNeil, the toastmaster, but word was received this morning that he was ill and would be unable to be present.

Bridgeport democrats, by their manifestations of approval found Mayor Walker to be amusing and interesting, and, he said it was his practice to be "himself." With reference to this tendency on his part he quoted the late former Sheriff Thomas F. Foley, of New York, who said: "While it may be a venial sin to kid the other fellow it's a mortal sin to kid yourself."

Speakers who preceded Mayor Walker, former Congressman Patrick E. O'Sullivan, of Derby, and former Mayor William E. Thoms, of Waterbury, pledged to him Connecticut's five delegates to the next democratic national convention for the candidacy of Governor Smith.

C. A. C. WILL BE COMPELLED TO TURN AWAY APPLICANTS

STORRS, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Connecticut Agricultural college will, in all probability, be compelled to turn away from its doors a number of Connecticut young men and women this fall. The law provides for a maximum enrollment of 500 students, while applications to register have passed the 540 mark.

Of these, 310 are old students and according to Registrar David L. Greene, this is a larger percentage of old students returning than in former years.

The entering class this year will be the largest in the history of the college, with approximately 240 applications already received. Of this group, 150 have been accepted by the colege and the remaining applications are pending.

In selecting applicants, the college will follow a policy inaugurated last year, when preference was shown to students who stood in the upper two-thirds of their high school classes. For students with poor high school records, the college will require that the applicants take inteligence examinations.

OGDEN L. MILLS LUNCHEON GUEST OF THE PRESIDENT

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, republican representative from the 17th New York district, who is prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination of a republican candidate for governor this fall, was a luncheon guest of President Coolidge today at White Pine camp, but it was said politics was not discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge in the morning attended the First Presbyterian church at Saranac Lake, as has been their custom Sundays since coming to the Adirondacks and heard a sermon by the Rev. George K. Newell, the pastor of the little church.

They were accompanied by their son, John, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Whiting, of Holyoke, Mass., who are house guests.

Large crowds applauded Mr. Coolidge as he entered and as he left the church.

Business Outlook Continues Bright

Freight Car Loadings, Bank Clearings and Pig Iron Industry Indicate a Prosperous Year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The month of August draws to a close with no appreciable slackening in the unusually high rate of mid-summer industrial activity. Although bad weather over a wide area has slowed up fall buying in many lines during the past week, the outlook continues bright with such reliable barometers as freight car loadings, bank clearings and pig iron production indicating a generally prosperous year.

Striking testimony to the current prosperity of the country's railroads was furnished last week by the July earnings statements, the first batch of which showed an average gain of nearly 30 per cent above the same month last year. On the basis of reports made by two score lines, combined net income of class 1 roads is reported to reach the record-breaking total of $120,000,000. An interesting phase of the situation is the fact that the percentage of gain in net income has been substantial greater than the increase in gross, due to the reduction of operating and maintenance costs through careful management.

The steel industry holds up well in view of the decline in building construction and cincreasing foreign competition revealed in the increased imports of pipe, steel rails and other finished products. This has been compensated in part, by increased exports o fthe English coal strike. The federreserve boards points out that automobile production in July was below that of the same month last year but this was undoubtedly due to the preparations for new models, which have since received a favorable reception from the buying public.

While the steady increase in crude oil production during the last month, or more, has aroused some misgivings because of the unsettlement caused in the industry by previous oil drilling booms, gasoline consumption has been maintained in record breaking volume, and the price structure has shown more stability than in years past. Moderate improvement also has been shown in the rubber and leather industries.

More activity was noted in the textile markets following the publication last Monday of the government cotton report, estimating a prospective yield of 15,248,000 bales on the condition of the crop as of August 18, or 373,000 bales less than the August 1 estimate. Wheat was shipped in large quantities from the farms to the primary market, causing congestion at some ports and a lower price trend in the futures market.

RODGERS TO BE BURIED IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY

HAVE DE GRACE, Md., Aug 29—(AP)—Commander John Rodgers was home today. The hero of nine days of drifting on the breast of the Pacific ocean in a cockleshell of a seaplane during the San Francisco-Hawaiian flight last year, who was killed in a short fall of a land type plane at Philadelphia Friday, was for the last timfe among the peaceful surroundings of Zion Hill, home to a long line of illustrious "John Rodgers" for a hundred years.

Sorrowing relatives kept vigil throughout the quiet Sabbath over the flag-draped casket, banked with blooms. Tomorrow the staid halls of the ancestral Rodgers homestead will echo to the solemn rites accorded the last John Rodgers to fall "in the line of duty."

Tuesday the nation wil claim its heroi dead with fitting honors, but until then officialdom was standing respectfully aside that a bereaved father and mother, in their own way, might bid farewell first of all to a son.

Services tomorow will be conducted at 3.30 p. m., with only the family and a few of the commander's closest friends in attendance.

The body wil then be taken to Washington, where it will be accorded burial with full honors in Arlington National Cemetery at 2 p. m. on Tuesday.

EVIAN-Les-Bains, France, Aug. 29—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, left tonight for Paris. He plans to spend several days in the French capital and will then proceed to England before sailing for home.

The secretary appears to be in fine health after his vacation. When motoring through the French Alpine passes yesterday his automobile was disabled, and Mr. Melon under a broiling sun was obliged to cover ten miles afoot. He arrived at his hotel none the worse for his adventure.

Financial Problems Discussed at Geneva

Subject Attacked With More Vigor Since the Arrival of Sec'y Mellon—French Situation of Crux.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 29—(AP)—The discussion of the financial problems of Europe, which have taken on new vigor since Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, came to Europe, has even now reached out unofficially to embrace the league of nations.

E. Parker Gilbert, agent for reparations payments, has consulted with Sir Arthur Salter, head of the financial section of the league, who directed the financial rehabilitation of both Austria and Hungary and played an important, though quiet role in the elaboration of the German reparations plan.

Mr. Gilbert was accompanied by Secretary Mellon, who, however, remained outside. Later Sir Arthur accompanied Mr. Gilbert downstairs and was introduced to the secretary of the treasury.

Sir Arthur declined to discuss the details of the visit except to say there was a general talk on the financial situation.

It is understood that financiers who have recently been conferring with Secretary Mellon at Evian-les-Bains regard the French financial situation as the crux of the whole problem of sound restoration of European finance, with, however, Belgium and Polan in more immediate pressing difficulties and requiring attention. There is declared to be a tendency to consider France's eventual attitude toward artificial stabilization of the Berenger-Mellon accord as the key to amelioration of the general situation.

All expedients are being formally discussed by talks with Secretary Mellon and others, and it is reported in Geneva that one practical step under consideration is the feasibility of floating German reparation railway bonds in the public markets, thus capitalizing one form or reparations security.

LEADER OF COAL MINERS ENTERS EMPLOY OF MAGNATES

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—(AP)—The union coal miners of Illinois have lost their chief of the past 12 years to a producing company.

After twenty years of work in behalf of the underground workers, with a present salary of $5,000 a year, Frank Farrington, president of District 12 United Mine Workers of America, has found more compelling with the considerations of his age of 53 years, a long-term contracts from the Peabody Coal company.

Such was the revelation following upon a demand telegraphed to Farrington in Paris that he come home to defend yourself or tender your resignation as president." Farrington, who is touring Europe, was informed further that his contract with the Peabody company and a letter and telegram from him to Jack Peabody were in the hands of John L. Lewis, president of the International Miners union, and would be placed before the district board. The board meets tomorrow at Springfield, Ill.

Farrington replied, according to the Paris staff correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, that he reserved the right to change his employment at his convenience and that he had done nothing to warrant the alternative demands made.

"A proper announcement will be made at the proper time," Mr. Farrington cabled.

He told the Tribune correspondent that he had booked passage upon the Majestic, sailing September 29 and "I intended to tender my resignation as soon as I arrived, in the first days of October."

Farrington said that by Lewis' choice they had been enemies many years, and that he consistently had opposed some of Lewis' ideas and methods.

He severely criticized Lewis' policies and accused him of responsibility for the loss of 155 000 union members.

ATTEMPT MADE TO FIRE MANVILLE COTTON MILL

MANVILLE, R. I., Aug. 30—An attempt to fire the Manville cotton mill of the Manville-Jencks company, was made at 12:45 o'clock this morning by some one among a crowd of about 500 striking operatives and sympathizers who gathered at the mill in protest against the arrival of strike-breakers yesterday afternoon.

Flaming kerosene-soaked rags, thrown into the designing room through windows broken by stones thrown by women, were extinguished by Chief of Police Michael Finn of Cumberland, who rushed to the scene with officers when notified by a little girl of the arson attempt.

After putting out the fire Chief Finn went into the crowd in search of the malefactor, and failing to find him, warned the crowd that if he caught the one responsible it would mean life imprisonment. This would be the case in event of a conviction, for Rhode Island law carries a penalty when the building fired is used as a dwelling, and the mill comes under that status while occupied by the strike-breakers, who came equipped with stoves and beds.

EARTHSHOCK WAS FELT IN WESTERN COUNTIES OF MAINE

In the Rangely Lake Region Boats Were Reported to Have Been Rocked on the Surface of the Water—In Oxford and Franklin Counties the Quake Was Preceded by Prolonged Distant Rumbling—In Some Towns Residents Fled From Their Homes—Earthquake Was the Third This Year and the Twelfth Within Two Years.

BOSTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Another earthquake, the third this year and the twelfth within two years, has jarred New England. This time it was felt in a belt running through western Maine toward Canada. As in most previous earthquakes in New England the tremors apparently were not severe enough to cause any damage to property or life. Reports indicated that the shock was felt simultaneously in Oxford, Franklin and Somerset counties and in the northern part of Androscoggin at about 4 p. m. yesterday.

No reports have been received to indicate that the tremors were felt in New Hampshire which borders Maine on the west. Whether or not the shock was felt across the Canadian border in Quebec is not known.

In the famous Rangely Lake region boats were reported to have been rocked on the surface of the water. In Oxford and Franklin counties where the tremors seemed to be strongest the quaking was preceded by prolonged, distant rumbling. The duration of the tremors varied from a few moments to three minutes. In some towns residents fled from their homes.

Earth tremors have been felt in New England from time to time, but in recent years were few and far between until the autumn of 1924. Preceding that date but four shocks noticeable to the inhabitants were reported in the New England region in more than four years. Two of these were in 1922 one occurring in New Hampshire and the other across the Canadian line near Edmundston, New Brunswick. In 1923 another shock was reported in New Hampshire and late in the year Waterville, Maine, felt earth tremors.

Beginning with the autumn of 1924 however, there was a series that apparently reached a maximum in frequence in 1925. Records show that on September 30, 1924, an earthquake believed to have originated in the maritime province of Canada, was felt on the Maine coast, the New Brunswick border and in Vermont. On January 7, 1925, eastern Massachusetts was jarred. Hard on the heels of this shock came the earthquake of Feb. 25 1925, felt over a million square miles in northeastern United States and Canada and classed by the department of the interior as "one of the great shocks that have affected North America."

This earthquake, which swayed the church steeples until the bells rang shook buildings and broke wires, was believed to have caused the death of a girl who died in a fire at Franklin, N. H., resulting from short-circuited wires. It was said by government geologists to have been caused by the slow return of rock beds to a position occupied before they were depressed by glaciers.

The subsequent shocks were of lesser intensity. The earthquakes and their dates follow: (1925) March 5 tremors at Goff Falls, N. H.; April 24, slight tremors in Androscoggin river valley at Lewiston, Me.; Oct. 18 tremors recorded by selsmographs in the St. Lawrence valley, New England and New York; Nov. 22, tremors in southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island; (1926, Jan. 1 slight earthquake in Boston and Middlesex county, Mass.; March 18, light earthquake in vicinity of Nashua, N. H and recorded at Harvard.

POLA NEGRI AT BIER OF RUDOLPH VALENTINO

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Pola Negri stood today by the bier of Rudolph Valentino. For an ohur she stayed by the casket, opened by special permission of the health department so that she might look upon the face of the "movie shiek" to whom she was reported to have been engaged.

Then, weeping and nearly prostrated, the Polish movie actress left the gold room of the Broadway funeral church where the actor's body has been lying for the past week. Her 3,000 mile journey ended, she returned to the Hotel Ambassador where she had rested for a few hours after her arrival this morning.

With the report that Miss Negri had entered the undertaking establishment, a morbidly curious crowd quickly gatheerd. When the actress was led weeping from the building, the crowd over-ran the police leine and one patrolman had to leap upon the running board of her limousine to push off several persons clinging to its side to get a glimpse of the grief-stricken woman.

Miss Negri was in a state of prostration when she arrived at the Grand Central station this morning after her trans-continental journey to attend the funeral tomorrow of Valintino. Attended by a nurse she went to bed immediately in her hotel suite.

BOMBING ATTRIBUTED TO TEXTILE MILL STRIKE

CLIFTON, N. J., Aug. 29—(AP)—Two homes were bombed in this town today, police attributed both of the occurrences to the textile mill strike.

The home of Mrs. Ellen McNally, at 106 Major street was damaged by a bomb made of dynamite placed in an iron pipe, which was thrown onto the porch at 3 o'clock this morning. Pieces of the pipe were blown through the house, part of the porch blown away and the window of Mrs. McNally's bedroom shattered but no one was injured. A dog which was sleeping under the porch was killed.

Mrs. McNally, and a sister, who lived with her, are employed in a mill affected by the strike.

Two bombs were placed on the porch of Joseph Ruggiero, at 15 Spencer avenue, whose daughter works in a mill affected by the strike. Two shots were fired into the house before the bombing. Only one of two bombs placed on the porch went off. They were made of dynamite wrapped in tape. The porch was slightly damaged.

ABOLITION OF CONSCRIPTION AS DISARMAMENT MEASURE

LONDON, Aug. 29—(AP)—On the eve of the important September meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva there has been issued to the world a manifesto signed by representative men and women of fifteen different countries, demanding abolition of conscription as the first step to world disarmament and invoking the aid of the league to initiate steps to declare conscription illegal, as proposed by President Wilson in the original draft of the League of Nations.

Most of the signatories are naturally of pacificist tendencies, but the manifesto bears the names of two German generals Von Deimling and Von Schoenaich. Among others whose names are attached are President Paul Oebe of the German Reichstag; Mrs. Annie Besant, India; Professor Albert Einstein, Germany; M. K. Gandhi, India, George Lansbury, M. P., England; Lord Parmoor, England, Arthur Ponsonby, England; H. G. Wells and Rabindranath Tagore, the Indian poet.

INCREASE IN USE OF TOILET PREPARATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—If the American flapper has decided to discard her vanity case and depend upon Old Sol for a healthy complexion, government statistics do not show it.

A commerce department report today placed the value of perfumery, cosmetics and toilet preparations produced in 1925 at $141,468,000, an increase of nearly 19 per cent, over the 1923 census figure of $119,237,060.

DEATH TOLL IN LOUSIANA HURRICANE REACHES 16

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Rescuers loaded with food, water, clothir and medical supplies today threaded their way through the low, wreckage strewn marshes in lower Terrebonne and La Fourche parishes to the relief of victims of the tropica hurricane of last Wednesday night.

The list of known dead stood at 1[6] with more than a dozen others missing. At least nine of these were believed to have perished, including seven persons who were aboard the tug Patton, which sank in the Mississippi river near Convent.

Two others, residents of a fishing camp on Felicity Island, were though drown by the waves which swep the island from the Gulf of Mexico Ten others lost their lives when the fishing camp was inundated.

Two persons were added to the list of dead as reports continued to come out of the sections isolated by the storm. The wind which whipped across the marshlands overturned a boat in Boudreux canal carrying three men with a portable motion picture outfi who had been conducting shows in the fishing villages along the Bayous. Two were drowned.

In at least one case an entire family was drowned by the deluge which swept over Felicity Island, a family of Naquins, man, wife and daughter, members of the fishing crew at the Dupont camp, lost their lives when their camp was destroyed.

At Houma, relief expeditions were formed to carry supplies into nearby settlements of Durac, Grand Gaillor and Bayo Terrebonne.

Ten bodies were brought into Houma last night, including that of Claude Dupont, leader of the fishing crew of Felicity Island. The nine others were Mrs. Mose Matthews, her two sons 4 and 12 years old, Dith Matthews, 16 Serita Matthews, 10, Leo Maquin, Mr and Mrs. Alex Nanquin and a baby.

Fields in the Point Ala Hache section still were under several feet of water. Salt water fish and shrimp could be caught today by hand and with dip nets in shallow pools.

FERGUSON DEFEATED BY MOODY IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Fergusons today accepted philosophically the verdict of Texas democrats in a history making political battle climaxed with the selection of Dan Moody, fiery red-haired attorney general, to succeed the Lone Star state's first woman governor.

The result of the battle was decisive Mr. Moody, 33 years old, who arose from an obscure county attorney to the democratic gubernatorial nominee in the span of six years, led Miriam A. Ferguson, incumbent, almost 2 to 1.

Latest returns compiled by the Texas election bureau from 238 counties out of 252 in the state, 95 complete gave:

Moody 459,526
Mrs. Ferguson 241,455

Democratic nomination in Texas is equivalent to election, and Mr Moody's victory assures his election next November.

Moody did not appear extraordinarily elated by his sweeping victory. He insisted it was no personal triumph as the people had determined to "put an end to Fergusonism."

Ferguson spoke philisophically of the reverse of his wife. Ferguson was elected governor in 1914, re-elected in 1916, impeached in 1917 for mishandling public funds, defeated for governor in 1918, defeated for president in 1920 when he was a candidate of a party, defeated for U. S. senator in 1922 and in 1924 led the fight against the Ku Klux Klan which resulted in the election of Mrs. Ferguson.

No statement was available from the governor. Mr. Ferguson is recognized as her spokesman in politics. Mr Ferguson said "within the next six months Moody, besieged by the hungry boys, with tongues hanging out for favors, will realize that being governor of this state is not one continual round of pleasure."

Asked how Mrs. Ferguson was bearing her defeat, her husband replied:

"My wife is a good sport."

It was found that during the terrific electrical storm which flooded this city between 6:45 and 7:30 o'clock Friday night, a bolt of lightning had visited the new Lake Home on Pleasant. The bolt struck the top of a sixty-foot pine tree ten feet from the southeast corner of the Home, and tore down several limbs and neatly chipped off a long strip of bark. The bolt then left the tree and leaped to the casing of the eaves on the southeast porch, doing slight damage to some ten feet of the woodwork. About fifteen lines of the local telephone exchange, affecting some eighty stations, mostly in the city, were put out of commission temporarily by the storm. Willimantic appears to fare badly, as two severe storms seemed to have met just over the city, causing fury in the elements. Few of the surrounding towns experienced the storm.

Bonnie Insinger, of Mansfield avenue, was fined $2 and costs, amounting to $9.55 in police court Saturday morning when found guilty of violating the city ordinance by digging and removing dirt on city property without having secured a permit from the superintendent of streets. Insinger got busy during the severe electrical and rain storm early Friday evening and dug a trench across a newly laid gravel sidewalk on Mansfield avenue. The man said that it was necessary for him to do this in order to keep his house from floating away. Superintendent of Streets Irvin M. Ford went to Insinger's home upon being informed that the man was digging through the sidewalk. He found that Insinger had not first secured a permit to dig on city land. Insinger said that he had intended to refill the hole after the water had drained off but he was taken into custody before he had a chance to do so. Others who testified to having seen the man digging or having seen the trench which was described as about ten feet long, four feet deep and three and one-half feet wide, were Alderman William E. Jackson, L. Handfield and Carl W. Tripp.

Ralph Syphirs of West Hartford, who has been employed by the American Thread company, residing with relatives at 27 Johnson avenue, this city, was arrested by the police here Saturday noon by request of the police of West Hartford where he was wanted for non-support. Police Officer Harris came to this city for Syphirs.

George Montie of 13 North street, was apprehended by Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley Sunday afternoon for operating an automobile which was not properly registered. Montie changed cars a few days ago and was running on the old markers. He will be in police court this (Monday) morning.

The road was very slippery from rains of the night before. Warren's case was nolled without costs. The charge against Flynn was nolled with the payment of costs of $5.15.

Albert Kelly, who claimed ownership of contraband liquor found in a raid at the home of his brother, Pete Kelly, at 27 Temple street, Saturday night, will be in the police court this (Monday) morning, to answer to a charge of violating the liquor law. Hanna was driving toward this city and at a point on the Stafford-Willimantic highway about opposite the home of Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews, a machine coming from the opposite direction suddenly swerved into his car which he was operating on the extreme right side of the macadam. The other car first struck with the left front hub-cap, then glanced off the base of the left front mudguard and crashed into the rear left mudguard, partly demolishing it. The state police have been summoned to investigate.

Saturday, a little after eleven a. m. three telephone poles in Sylvandale, which also carry the high tension wires of the local electric system, fell, partly over into the state road. The fact that the wires held kept the lines off the ground, also prevented the puncture of Charles Wolf's new house by one of the poles, which carried a heavy transformer. The lower section of the borough and Sylvandale were without power, until temporary repairs were made by the local electrical linemen. A trouble hunting crew from the So. N. E Tel. "ALL OUT FOR THE CAUCUSES!" IS THE REPUBLICAN SLOGAN

DANIELSON, Aug. 29—At the week end, republican party leaders expressed satisfaction at the good attendance at the caucus Friday evening and their hope that the attendance will be even greater when the caucus to name candidates for town offices is held, on September 9. If all the republicans of the town show an interest in what their caucus does, a leader said, there can be little ground for complaint with the nominations that are made. But if republicans do not get out to their caucus and it is dominated in a way to displease them—and it can be done by a comparatively small group of voters, given the chance of a small attendance—there will be little use to complain. The town committee slogan just now for republicans is "All out for the caucuses"! Party workers will be active in their effort to see that this slogan gets proper attention. One often hears the comment that this one or that one runs a caucus. The fact is that the voters can do as they like, if they are on hand and know what they want.

Sunday seemed to be sort of an off day, up to early afternoon for automobile traffic and the news insidentally that the traffic began to create. Somehow there seemed to be a lack of the rush that has been characteristic of a summer Sunday. Traffic officers reported little to claim their attention along the state highways and the same is true with borough officers. An explanation was that many people were saving their money and energy for the coming Labor day holiday season the last for many, until Thanksgiving comes along.

The coming week end will bring what will amount to another triple holiday—the Labor day period, marking, for many, the end of the vacation season and going about for some time to come.

Hot weather came back for another fling Sunday at people who have been complaining about the wet, foggy and dreary weather of the past fortnight. The mercury ran up to 85 degrees in Danielson Sunday afternoon.

Another hot weather story is that there are "spotters" in town, this gentry being of those who seek out persons who are engaged in violations of the prohibition act and liquor laws.

Miss Katherine T. Thayer of Worcester, after spending a week at Pleasant View, was a visitor Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter, of Cottage street.

William A. Matteson of Springfield spent the week end visiting friends in Danielson.

There is no program for the stated observance of Labor day in Danielson Dancing, theatre programs and such diversions will constitute the offerings for the day.

This week brings the last of the Thursday half-holidays for store forces in Danielson, and there was some question at the week end whether all of the stores that have been closing during July and August, on Thursday afternoons, would do so this week.

South Killingly will have its big day of the year on Labor day, which has been selected, as is customary, for the annual Old Home day gathering in that historic section of the town. It has an event that will attract people from near and far.

This is the last week of the long summer vacation for the pupils of the graded schools of the town of Killingly. They will be back at their studies Tuesday morning of next week, September 7. There will be at least a fortnight's delay in the reopening of the high school this year, because of the construction work going on there.

The postoffice will be on a holiday schedule of hours next Monday—Labor day—and the borough's banking institutions will be closed. Business here will be generally suspended for the day.

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 29—The Grosvenordale company, with mills at Grosvenordale and North Grosvenordale, mill villages just north of Putnam, has begun work on foundations for what will be the largest power plant at any mill in this vicinity, and one of the largest of any single company in New England.

An 8,000 kilowatt turbine, which will develop enough power for the two big mills now in operation, and sufficient left over to operate another mill of the same size, is to be installed at a cost of more than $250,000. The installation of the new turbine is expected to be completed by January 1.

It is stated by officials that the Grosvenordale company is one of the few plants of its kind to show a balance on the right side of the ledger during the textile depression of the last few years. At present parts of the carding and spinning departments are operating on a night schedule as well as a day one.

Agent John F. Reardon, formerly of the Falls Mills, Norwich states that with the continued demand of the special fabrics manufactured by these mills, operation will be continued and increased and the installation of the new turbine is made with this in mind. The turbine will take care of the power needs for many years to come, as it will supply 8,000 horse power. When the new power plant is completed the present one consisting of turbines and reciprocating engines will be discontinued.

WESTERLY

THE MOTHER OF PATRIARCA SURETY ON HIS BOND OF $1,500

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 29.— On complaint of Lieut. John E. Bayard of the Rhode Island state police, Raymond Patriarca of 161 Atwells avenue, Providence, was presented on the common law complaint, preferred by Attorney-General Charles B. Sisson for escaping from the lockup August 13th at Hopkinton. Patriarca was presented before Clerk Clark Saturday at 10 p. m. in a special session of the third district court. A plea of not guilty was entered. Recognizance in the sum of $1,500 was required for his appearance in third district court at Westerly, Friday, September 10th. His mother, Mary J. Patriarca of 161 Atwells avenue, became his surety.

Patriarca, taken into custody near the Richmond town house after an all-day search after his alleged escape from the Hopkinton town lockup at Hope Valley August 13, was held probably guilty of transporting and possessing liquor, by United States Commissioner Peter C. Cannon Friday and was held in $1,000 bail for action of the federal court.

Immediately after leaving the federal building, Patriarca was held in custody by Patrolman Walter E. Davis on request of the state police. Lieut. John E. Biard and Trooper Joseph Marceau of the state police arranged for the youth's second arrest and pointed him out to the traffic officer as he left the building.

The state police claim that Patriarca was driving the truck of beer, which had been hi-jacked at Ashaway early in the morning of Aug. 13, and that he was one of the two men who escaped jail at Hopkinton after being locked up there. The state police picked Patriarca up many hours later near Wyoming, with the result that he was turned over to the federal authorities for trial on charges of transporting and possessing liquor.

MAN LOSES A FINGER THROUGH WEARING RING

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 29.—Saturday, at Watch Hill, Samuel Gaccione suffered an injury which later required that one finger be amputated. Gaccione was lifting on a large galvanized can used for collecting garbage, and when the can slipped from his grip it caught in a ring on his finger and lacerated the member so bad that it had to be removed.

The Ahrens-Fox 900 gallon pumper of Westerly fire department, which has been recently overhauled, was taken Sunday morning from the fire station on Union street, down Franklin street, where the recently installed hydrants of the enlarged fire district were tried out. The baggage master on the Sunday express, west-bound from Boston to New York, leaving Westerly station at 10:45 a. m., Sunday, sustained injuries when he jumped back into the baggage car, striking his head against a shelf and knocking him to the floor of the car. The engineer hastened to the locomotive as the baggageman stepped hurriedly into the car. A large number of bundles of Boston Sunday papers were being transferred from the baggage car to a truck. The bell cord was pulled and the train gradually slowed up as the forward end was well over toward West Broad street. Other brakemen on the train, not knowing of the mishap to the baggageman gave a go ahead signal and the express gathered headway, proceeding toward Stonington, before the extent of the injuries to the railroad man could be learned.

PROBLEMS AT GENEVA

Once again the question of Ger- ... admission to the league of na- ... and the satisfying of other coun- ... which also seek a similar place ... the council will come up for de- ...

Last spring the endeavor to carry ... the plan that was arranged be- ... the nations at Locarno failed of ... accomplishment. There were other na- ... which believed that if Germany ... was to get a place in the league coun- ... cil they should also be favored, and until that happened they were opposed to Germany's being favored. In the end Brazil was the nation that actually objected and since then Brazil has withdrawn from the league.

Europe is desirous that Germany should be admitted to the league, but the habit of trading one thing for another has prevailed so long that they are not disposed to let any opportunities go by over there. The postponement of action until fall was for the purpose of endeavoring to smooth out the difficulties, to reconcile the peeved nations and to grease the ways for the admission of Germany into the league. How successfully that has been worked out will probably be disclosed this week.

Brazil is not going to be a stumbling block this time and some of the other nations are scheduled to get non-permanent seats in the council, but the contention of Germany has been that there were no provisions about its admission to the council whereby others would get similar places and it resented the inference that others were clamoring for admission in order to modify Germany's position thereon just because they were in a position to do so rather than because such was part of the bargain.

There is always keen interest as to what the league will accomplish among all nations, whether members or not, and the admission of Germany is only one of the many problems that will come up to be unraveled at Geneva.

THE CAUCUS RESULT

With an attendance at a caucus which exceeded anything for years when delegates were being made up for the state and other conventions, the republican caucus indicated the interest that prevails among the party members. The contest developed an enthusiasm, with both slates standing for the same results statewise, which should have its good effects in the campaign and election to follow.

The caucus is the place for the adjustment of differences of opinion and now that it is over and the expression of the meeting has been obtained it is time for unity of action. The verdict of the caucus has been rendered. It was a republican caucus and from the result there should be a greater getting together of the republicans for the success of the party's candidates this fall. Norwich wants no more repetitions of what took place in June.

Contests which serve to whet the interest are expected to be followed with the same spirit that was displayed by the defeated candidates when they moved for the unanimous nomination of their successful opponents. The judgment of the majority of a large caucus has been rendered, the protest which was contained in the opposition will unquestionably be given due weight and henceforth there should prevail the activity and the harmony within the party that will insure success at the polls.

There will of course be interest in the organization of the new town committee.

COMMANDER RODGERS

When Commander John Rodgers of the navy started out on the non-stop flight from California to Hawaii it was recognized that he was engaged in a perilous undertaking, but the belief prevailed taht it was carefully safeguarded by the character of the machines, supplies and the line of vessels placed at frequent point along the line of flight. Nevertheless he nearly lost his life when the supply of fuel gave out and he was obliged to float until he could reach land through his own efforts and those of searchers.

When he set out from Washington on an inspection trip to Philadelphia it was only a routine matter. There was no anticipation of danger. It was a flight that was on every day affair in naval flying annals and yet it was then that his machine crashed in shallow water and he received injuries from which death soon resulted.

The great peril oftentimes prevails when we least expect it. The untimely death of Commander Rodgers, a plucky, resourceful, efficient flier and leader means a distinct loss to the navy. Whether it can ever be determined what occasioned the fall is a question. Indications point to the possibility of a defect in the machine, which will be brought out by the investigation which is sure to be held if it lies within the power of the investigators to ascertain.

Such accidents illustrate the uncertainty which still prevails in connection with the operation of flying machines, but the number of such fatalities grows less each year and the hope prevails that science will make rapid strides in further reducing them.

When cities continue to show increases in taxation it furnishes evidence that little or no heed has been given to the fine example set by the federal government.

Four were killed and three injured when an auto was speeded around a sharp curve during a fog and struck a tree. Will that mean a recommendation for the removel of the tree?

Now that it is possible to bring airplanes to earth by parachutes, landing of passengers may be expected by such a method and the old song, "Put Me Off at Buffalo" may come back into favor.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Salt is an excedingly good cleaner for milk and basins.

When parsley is not obtainable for garnishing, use the tips from celery or finely sliced outer leaves of Brussels sprouts.

An ordinary steel nutpick is a handy kitchen tool. It can be used to remove the tops from milk bottles and the rubbers from jars.

Put castors on the bottom of a wicker linen hamper and save carrying the heavy baskt or bundle of linen to the laundry.

Do not leave your slip covers on all summer. Remove them occasionally to polish off the white film that collects on your furniture.

Before using paint, turn the can upside down for a few days. Then open and you will find the paint will be mixed more thoroughly.

Always keep your table silver in a compartment where it does not mix with steel knives or kitchen utensils, as silver is very easily scratched.

Balls made of seasoned mashed parsnips and rolled in ground peanuts and fine breadcrumbs are delicious toasted and served with white sauce. Garnish with parsley.

If the blade has become separated from the handle of a knife fill in the cavity with a paste made of three parts of resin and one of powdered pumice stone. Heat the prong of the knife until red hot and press into the paste.

Try using a paint brush instead of the ordinary duster when dusting carved furniture. You will find that the brush can get into all the crevices and you will get along much quicker than if you use a duster.

To clean a copper kettle cut a lemon in half, dip it in salt and rub the kettle with it. The kettle should be carefully rinsed in cold water and given a final polish with a clean soft cloth.

UNDERESTIMATED

So many people think of gelatine in just the light of a vivid mass, shaking and shivering at the slightest motion, when really a book of gelatine recipes would disclose a variety of dainty salads and desserts that would prove delightful changes for the family.

STOCKINGS FOR DUSTERS

Cut the feet off, and split open two pairs of discarded silk or cotton stockings. Sew the portions together and there will result an excellent dust cloth for the furniture or car.

"PAN BROILING"

We are often loath to use our broilers when we are in a hurry on account of the time it takes to clean up afterwards. A "pan" broiler is really very delicious and much more digestible than fried meat. Heat the pan very hot, using no fat. Place the meat in the pan and brown on one side. Turn and cook more slowly on squares in contrasting colors give an the second side until it is brown and the meat is done to the way you like it. Season after removing from the pan.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Hands usually become grimy when one is traveling, so slip a small manicure set into your handbag. Have a little bottle of nongreasy hand lotion to rub into the skin when your hands need freshening during the journey.

Always apply a poultice slowly. Have it smoking hot, but before applying it cover the skin with oil, and after testing the poultice on the back of your hand, put it on the patient. Cover with flannel to keep the heat from escaping.

Wash your face with oatmeal instead of soap and you will find that your skin is soft. Take a square piece of muslin and into it put about a tablespoon of oatmeal. Tie the muslin into a bag. Before washing this bag in a basin full of warm water, and as soon as the water is thick use it for washing.

Mothers who wish their children to have well-formed features should not permit mouth breathing, pouting, biting the lips or fingernails, picking nose or sucking fingers. If a child shows a tendency to frown, an oculist should be considered. Defective vision not only causes facial wrinkles, but it has a serious effect on one's general health.

FOR DRY SKIN

External treatments are helpful, but in most cases, they need to be supplemented. A change from soap and water to the use of cold cream for cleansing may work wonders for a dry skin; and a change from cream to soap and water will improve the condition of an oily skin. Thus, in cases where a mistaken cleansing method has been used, the substitution of a better method will prove very helpful. Perhaps no other change will be needed to make the skin normal, provided one is in good health.

BED MAKING

Your beds will look much neater and will be cooler if the bottom sheet is big enough to tuck under the mattress well. It is best to have sheets of two sizes and use the large for bottom sheets. If the top sheet is too large, it will drag unpleasantly.

TO FILLET FISH

Use a thumb tack or a fine pointed skewer to fasten tail of the fish to the table. Then bone the fish with a sharp knife. Fillets of fish are always more attractive than the plain whole fish.

TO KEEP ROSES FRESH

Whenever you have occasion to carry or ship roses for a number of hours without water, snip off the stems and immediately dip the ends with sealing wax. This keeps the moisture in the stems.

CREAM THAT WILL NOT WHIP

There is no feeling so hopeless as the one we have when the cream for our lovely dessert will not whip. Drop the white of an egg in with the cream and try all over again. It works like a charm.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Small narrow scarfs of crepe de chine in brilliant colors are worn with white costumes.

The smartest sweaters for sports show interesting blocked designs. Huge squares in contrasting colors give an effect of amazing chic.

Smart and practical tennis frocks are fashioned of polka dotted silks which have large coin spots of white on blue, red, yellow or green backgrounds.

Sports frocks of striped madras satins are generally worn by women at the smart resorts. This material is also used for children's frocks in two-piece style.

The smartest frocks for immediate wear are made of printed chiffon and have four pleated tiers applied in a diagonal line on the skirt. Sleeves are long and there is a narrow scarf.

Midsummer tailored costumes worn by the smartest women reflect the vogue of double breasted short coats of navy blue flannel of cheviot worn with white skirts. The hat is also white.

Advance models in millinery show the influence of Russia in both lines and details of trimmings. Many are made of velvet, which indicates a revival of this material for millinery purposes.

New sweaters which are very smart in pastel colors are knitted in an open work mesh and have the round mesh and the round neckline that distinguishes them from last season's models.

Envelope bags are still much in vogue. To be really smart they must be in the new 16-inch length. They come indifferent materials to match or harmonize with th costume.

The latest pearl necklaces are distinguished by unusual fastenings in back. On one the clasp is a circle of diamonds from which hangs a pear-shaped pearl. Another has an enameled motif in multi-colored effect.

At the moment one of the smartest color combinations is dark and light blue. It is particularly effective when exploited in the striped sweaters which are so smart. With these sweaters a square scarf of silk in light blue with darker blue is usually worn.

CHIFFON ENSEMBLES

A two-piece jumper frock of black or navy blue chiffon made on the most tailored lines and accompanied by a short circular cape of the same material makes a smart ensemble for midsummer wear in town.

BLACK AND GREEN

Black with touches of pale green is featured in some of the smartest new frocks. One particularly attractive model is of black lace and chiffon with a huge green flower made of feathers posed at the waistline on the left side.

FOR THE COUNTRY HOME

Old-fashioned oil lamps of pressed colored glass have been transformed into modern affairs by the use of wiring and electric bulbs. They are charming for the country house. Shades of gay paper are appropriate. Chintz also may be used.

NOVEL SLIPCOVERS

Decorative slipcovers are made of heavy linen in a shade of bright blue with narrow stripes of red.

LAUNDRY HINTS

A handful of borax in the wash boiler will whiten the clothes.

To erase all traces of scorch stains wet the scorched place, rub with soap and bleach in the sun.

Remove perspiration stains as soon as you notice them because the longer they are neglected, the more difficult they are to get rid of.

Irons must be stored in a very dry place. If you are putting them away for any length of time, rub them with a little mutton fat (or any fat that contains no salt) and wrap them in brown paper.

FOR SOILED COLLARS

A scrub brush with stiff bristles is invaluable when washing badly soiled collar bands, mud-splashed hems or other stains on white clothes. Lay the cloth smoothly on the washboard, wet the brush, rub it across a bar of soap, then scrub the garment with strokes of the brush.

GLOVE CLEANING

One woman successfully cleans her kid gloves at home by soaking them in a jar of gasoline, shaking the jar occasionally. Rinse them in another jar of clean gasoline. This method has been found very satisfactory and is really very little trouble.

PURELY ORNAMENTAL

Brilliants now appear on pillows—small, lace-trimmed ones, intended for ornament. The gems are large and of deep rich hues, set at the corners where shaded ribbons meet.

FOR COLLEGIANS

A new tie-rack that is most convenient for small spaces has a center strap of pigskin with brass loops on each side extending out about three inches. They give the effect of a lot of hair pins stuck into a strap.

FOR THE WASTE BASKET

A round piece of heavy paper or oil cloth placed in the bottom of a wicker or other open-mesh waste basket prevents the pencil shavings and other fine matrial from sifting through on the floor. This simple precaution saves many steps.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Thirty thousand women in Ohio are classed as wage earners.

About 1,000 women are members of the Tokio, Japan, Woman's Suffrage association.

The manufacture of watches and watch movements employs about 8,000 women in this country.

Turkish women have rebelled at posing as nude models in the Government School of Fine Arts in Stamboul.

Lady Rhonda is at the head of a movement to have the British Parliament change the age of women eligible to vote from 30 to 21 years.

More than 100,000 women and girls in the United States are employed in the canning and preserving of vegetables and fruits, sauces, fish and oysters, etc.

ELIMINATING STARCHES

If you wish to cut down your starchy diet, make white sauce for creamed vegetables, etc., by using the liquor they were cooked in thickened with milk powder.

RECIPES

Hot Water Sponge Cake: Beat 4 eggs until they are light, beat in 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of flour, a little at a time, then add another cup of flour with two teaspoons of baking powder mixed with it, and lastly, 1 small cup of nearly boiling water. Bake in a moderately hot oven.

Bran Taffy: 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup light corn syrup, 1 cup water, 1-4 cup butter, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups bran.

Put the sugars, corn syrup and water into a sauce pan and cook, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking, without stirring, until the temperature 300 degrees Fahrenheit is reached (very brittle.)

Remove from fire, add salt and butter, and stir only enough to mix well. Add bran and turn at once on a greased slab or on a greased inverted pan or baking sheet. Smooth out with a spatula. After about a half minute take hold of the edges of the candy and lifting it slightly from the slab, pull it as thin as possible. Break into irregular pieces.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sterling

Mr. Editor: Will you allow me just a short space to say to the genuine 100 per cent Americans of the town of Sterling that it is their duty to vote this year. In order to vote one must be registered, in order to register the names must be in the hands of Mrs. Georgiana Mowry or Ida Marriott, registrars before 5 o'clock Sept. 7. Get your own name in and look up others. When people born in Europe from Finland to the Mediterrannean sea can become voters and call themselves better citizens than others on account of religion it is your duty to get out and vote. Don't fail this year.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gen. Enrique Estrada, whose arrest is said to have uncovered a widespread revolutionary plot against the present Mexican government, has played a conspicuous part in the affairs of the southern republic for some years. He gained his greatest prominence as secretary of war in the cabinet of President Obregon. In this office he succeeded Gen. Benjamin G. Hill, who died under mysterious circumstances only a month after President Obregon took office in December, 1920. General Estrada comes from the state of Zacatecas. He received an excellent education and early displayed evidence of possessing high military talent. He joined the movement which overthrew Huerta and later took the field under General Obregon. He served again in the revolution of May and June, 1920. Gen. Estrada was regarded as one of the strong men of the Obregon administration.

Reddy Rubs His Eyes

It certainly is very queer
How helpless things can disappear.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox roamed quite a way down the beach, poking his inquisitive nose into this and that and the other thing. He pulled seaweed and he poked under pieces of wood that had been washed ashore; he went up on the sand dunes to see if he could find a mouse anywhere. But all the time he kept thinking about those queer jelly masses he had left behind. Reddy cannot bear to be puzzled. When he is interested in a thing, he wants to know about it.

Reddy watched him for a moment, then turned and trotted up the beach

Looking far down the beach, Reddy saw Graywing the Gull. Graywing was fishing. He was out over the water, but now and then he would alight on a big rock on the shore.

"Graywing seems to know all about the things on the beach, so perhaps he can tell me what those things are, and where they came from, and all about them," thought Reddy, and off he started in the direction of Graywing.

Graywing saw Reddy coming and remained sitting on the big rock until Reddy reached him. "Hello, Neighbor Fox," said he, "what is on your mind now? Don't tell me that you have nothing on your mind, for I know better."

Reddy looked up at Graywing and grinned. "You must be a mind-reader, Neighbor Gull," said he. "There is something on my mind. Perhaps I shouldn't say it is on my mind, for really it is on the beach up there. But it certainly is bothering me."

"Well, what is it?" inquired Graywing.

Reddy grinned more broadly than ever. "That's what I want to know," said he; "what is it? I don't know how to describe it to you, so when you get through catching your breakfast, why not go back up the beach with me? I am sure you will know what it is, for you know everything."

"Tut, tut, Neighbor Fox; you flatter me;" exclaimed Graywing, but he looked pleased nevertheless.

"Not at all! Not at all!" replied Reddy. "When I am with you, I feel as if I know nothing at all."

Graywing looked more pleased than ever. "We'll go right up there and see these things which have been puzzling you, Neighbor Fox," said he. "You trot along up the beach and I will join you by the time you get there."

This was just what Reddy wanted. He turned his head to hide a grin of satisfaction. "Thank you, Neighbor Gull," said he. "It isn't far up there and when you get there you will find the beach fust covered with these queer things. I suppose they came out of the water, but I don't know. My this sun is hot, isn't it?"

Graywing nodded. Then he flew out over the water in search of something more to eat. Reddy watched him a moment, then turned and trotted up the beach. Presently he reached the place where he and Jimmy Skunk had been so puzzled by those queer jelly masses. Reddy stopped very abruptly and blinked both eyes. Then he rubbed first one and then another. No one or those masses of jelly could he see. He looked all around to see if he was in the right place. He was. He was sure of that. There were his footprints in the sand, and the foot prints of Jimmy Skunk. But all those little masses of jelly had disappeared. Reddy's first thought was that Jimmy Skunk had done something with them. What he could have done with them Reddy didn't stop to think. He looked about for Jimmy. Jimmy wasn't in sight. He had gone back home to sleep.

"Well, where are those things you want to know about?" inquired Graywing the Gull, alighting on the beach near Reddy.

HAND OF GOD IN HISTORY OF THE NATION

Rev. Edwin S. Holloway of New York city, a brother of J. P. Holloway of this city, was the preacher Sunday at the Central Baptist church and at the evening service spoke in an inspiring way upon the theme, "The Providence of God in Our Nation's History." His text was Isaiah 60, 12: For the nation and kingdom that will not serve thee, O God, shall perish.

The greatness of God, he said, is shown in human history and is nowhere more manifest than in those who keep his commandments and seek to do his will. The prophecy of the destruction of Babylon by one of God's prophets seemed no more unreasonable at the time than would a similar prophecy today about New York, and yet the prophecies of Isaiah on the one hand and human history on the other show the hand of God. He must be blind who does not see the hand of God in the history of our nation.

From the Pilgrim fathers, from George Washington on bended knees pleading for liberty for a God loving people and from Benjamin Franklin providing that the first session of congress and all future sessions should be opened with prayer, the speaker pointed out the influence of God in the early history of the nation. Then he related in later times the incident of the well known dramatic reader, Murdock, who when a guest at the white house, just after the Union disasters of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville discovered Abraham Lincoln flat on his face on the floor of one of the rooms pleading to Almighty God to save the Union. From that moment, said Murdock, he had no doubt of the outcome.

The only hope for the ship of state, the preacher declared, was to have the people loyal and true to Almighty God. Nothing will save us but righteousness and truth, so that these appeals for religion are really appeals for the stability of the state. Let our highest desire be to be many Christians, truly obedient to God. If we want our country to live and survive it must be a God-fearing country. So let us set our faces against all that is unrighteous and unholy till we shall come to be the one great sister nation to all the countries of the world.

SIX GUNMEN BEAT EMPLOYE OF COLCHESTER GARMENT FACTORY

At the point of a gun, six unknown men at Colchester Sunday morning at 6:30 held up an automobile containing employes of the Levine garment factory as they were on their way to work and beat one of the workers named Marcus, so badly that he had to be taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Hartford for treatment for his injuries. The attack occurred on the Lebanon road, two of the gunmen crew approaching the machine on one side and four from the other. A strike that has been in progress at the Levine factory is given as the motive for the attack.

Word of the gun play was sent to the state police barracks at Groton and late Sunday afternoon Officers Kennerson and Foley arrested Mrs. Bessie King, 28, Hyman Morrison, 30, and David Hoch, 37, all of Colchester, bringing them to police headquarters in this city. Later Mrs. King and Morrison were released under orders from Sergeant Gorgan, but Hoch was held on a breach of the peace charge.

Search for the gunmen crew is continuing.

STIFF FINES IMPOSED ON KITCHEN BOOTLEGGERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 30—The state police are engaged in cleaning up the liquor selling situation in this city and in Groton. They have started, but they seem to have a long way to go yet. They began by arresting and accusing some twenty-seven sellers of booze of various sorts, including wine and beer. Half a dozen of those arrested in New London were disciplined in the police court Saturday while a score of others are to receive treatment at the hands of Judge Prince Tuesday and Wednesday next. The people complained of are mostly what are known as kitchen sellers, though a few other keepers were taken into custody and accused. The fines imposed ranged from $150 to $200. Lonnie Brewer, colored, fared worse than any of the accused, for when he was fined $150 he did not have the funds to pay, so he went to jail. Lonnie has often been tried and never denied. He got a dose Saturday that he will be apt to remember, for snow will cover the ground when he emerges from jail unless he can succeed in securing the assistance of friends to furnish him money. Others fined and who paid their fines are Nick Stamatoru, $150; Joe Mariano, $200; Clotilde Frausini, $150; Josephine Dlugolivitch, $150.

The state police have been working on the more than a score of cases for a fortnight and bought liquor at all the places whose proprietors they accused. The court room was filled with the friends of the dealers accused, all interested in the disposition made of the cases. The adjourned cases will come to the court in bunches, about half of them Tuesday and the balance on Wednesday.

J. H. Earl a Coast Guard officer, was fined $3 for operating an automobile without having an operating license in his possession.

It is declared that nobody has made any profit from the operation of concessions at the beaches along the coast east or west of New London, during the season now closing. The weather was against a large patronage, it was rainy, foggy and cold, so that many were kept away from the shore who would otherwise have gone there to stay during a portion of their vacation. One or the oldest concession holders at Ocean Beach, declared, today that in the twenty-three years he had been in business here the season of 1926 was the least profitable. The same story comes from all the beaches west as far as New Haven and east to Providence.

The party returned home about 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The bake was prepared and served under the direction of Jerry Fish, a member of the club.

The Norwich Motorcycle club has been in existence for some time past and its membership includes motorcycle riders living within a radius of 10 miles of Norwich. Merritt Hawes of Canterbury is president of the club and the membership is growing rapidly.

DEMONSTRATION STAGED BY GERMAN MONARCHISTS

NURSEBERG, Germany, Aug. 29.—(AP)—With such unwonted military display, goose-stepping and constant clicking of heels, the residents of this quiet old city of Nuremberg might well wonder whether the good old days of the kaiser had not returned.

For three hours this morning former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, Prince Oscar, son of the former emperor, and Field Marshal von Mackensen, surrounded by scores of officers of the old army and navy, stood in the brilliant sunshine in the market place and watched twenty thousand soldiers of the wartime armies goose-step past.

Rupprecht was in a marshal's uniform and carried a marshal's baton which he raised in salute as his "army" marched, with bands playing and eleven hundred standards and flags flying.

Von Mackensen was also in uniform and wore the famous death's Head Hussars busby, but did not carry a baton. Both he and Rupprecht were greeted with storms of cheers on arriving at the market place, wearing proudly top hats and frock coats, had been allotted places of honor to watch the review.

This was all part of the nationalist demonstration as a counter-move against the republican demonstration held here a short time ago. Those who took part are opposed to the republic and entry into the league of nations.

HENRY FORD TO HAVE ENTRY IN NATIONAL AIR RACES

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Henry Ford has entered his new giant three-motored all-metal monoplane in the national air races which will be held at Model Farms in southwest Philadelphia Sept. 4 to 11, it was announced today.

Sept. 11 it will compete against other big freight and passenger carriers in the air transport speed and efficiency race which will be flown over a 12 mile course for a total distance of 120 miles.

CAPACITY HOUSE EXPECTED AT BEAUREGARD-BRADLEY GO WEDNESDAY

A capacity house has practically been assured the Army-Navy club for their first boxing card to be held at Parish hall, Taftville, on Wednesday evening. Tickets have been selling rapidly and the advance sales have been a large portion of the ringside seats disposed of while a large portion of the reserved seats have also been taken.

The main bout is drawing heavy as it is a bout that has been scheduled several times but has never materialized until Matchmaker Beauregard of the Army-Navy club took hold. This bout is between Al Beauregard, formerly fighting under the name of Young Coulon of Taftville, and Ruby (Dark Cloud) Bradley, of Holyoke, Mass. The boxing fans of eastern Connecticut have been clamoring for this bout ever since Bradley whipped Pinkie Silverberg, state flyweight champion. Coulon lost his state title which he won from Happy Rollason, to Pinkie Silverberg and now he is matched with Pinkie's conqueror.

The card takes on more or less of an eastern Connecticut aspect as two New London and one Westerly boy also appear on the card besides a Norwich and another Taftville lad. In the semi-final Young Conley of New London, a member of the coast guard, is to swap punches with Red Mourdian, a coming lightweight from Bridgewater, Mass. Conley is well known to the patrons of the leather pushing game as an aggressive who has made an enviable record since he has been in the east. While stationed on the Pacific coast Conley annexed the all-navy lightweight crown and since coming east no service man has been able to topple it from his brow.

Another service man from the New London district who will show his wares will be Scotty Carroll, who is a recruiting officer at New London. Carroll has been in the boxing game a number of years and is a pretty fighter who can give and take with the best of them. Carroll's opponent is to be Kid Wagner, a Taftville boy, who aspires to pugilistic fame. Wagner has done a little fighting on amateur cards in and around Norwich but this is his first real professional engagement and his is being watched with interest as he has plenty of ability together with a strong love for the game.

Westerly's representative on the card at Taftville will be Battling Eruck who is to mix it with Johnny Butovia of Norwich. Butovia is a boy just entering the professional game while Eruck has fought several times at Tex Grills' arena at Westerly and is no stranger to the home fans.

Reports say that all boys are in fine shape, especially Beauregard who is expected to come in at about 114 pounds, his best fighting weight. Camp Devens is coming to Norwich strong in support of Beauregard who is now stationed at the camp.

Commissioner Donahue said Sunday that he would endeavor to have Harry Wills, big negro challenger of Jack Dempsey at the bouts as Wills is to be in Norwich on Tuesday evening and may stay over for the fight on Wednesday night.

WARRIORS EVEN SERIES WITH TAFTVILLE BEARCATS

The Warriors evened up their series with the Bearcats at one all, by defeating them by the score of 2 to 1, on Sunday afternoon in one of the fastest games seen at Duwell field this season. Both teams played airtight ball throughout.

The Bearcats scored first in the sixth inning when Lamory was passed and he scored on Rockdale's long triple.

However, the Warriors came right back and won the game in the seventh when two runs crossed the plate. After J. Burns was safe on an error and Courbois was passed Fitzgerald doubled scoring Burns and Courbois crossed the plate with the run which decided the issue on a squeeze play with Couture batting.

The Bearcats came close to tieing the score in their turn at bat in the ninth when P. Finn, first batter, was safe when E. Hamill juggled his roller. He stole second but was stranded there when Couture tightened and retired the side. The score:

LARGE CROWD SEE TUNNEY IN ACTION

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A large crowd traveled to Gene Tunney's Lake Pleasant Training camp today to watch the challenger of Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight crown go through his training stunts.

A dearth of sparring partners somewhat curtailed the number of rounds which the former marine put on before the crowd. He did three rounds with the light bag, two with the heavy an dthen went into four rounds of boxing with Bud Gorman Oak Hill, the only other one of his sparring partners in camp was laid up for the day with indigestion. Johnny Grosso had left for a fight of his own, and Billy Vidabeck had not returned from Boyle's thirty acres where he appeared in a fight during the weekend.

Tunney paid special attention to his straight left. Today's work with this blow showed it to be better than at any time before during the present training. He had plenty of speed, power, and excellent accuracy today.

SUB BASE WINS TITLE IN NEW LONDON LEAGUE

The baseball championship of the New London City league was settled Sunday afternoon when the Submarine Base defeated the Knights of Columbus at Morgan park, 11 to 0, the deciding game being witnessed by an immense throng of supporters of both teams. Accompanying the two clubs was the band from the United States Ship Camden, for the Base and the United States Coast Guard for the Knights of Columbus. The two clubs were represented by a throng of supporters, who rooted enthusiastically for their respective clubs and the results was the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game on that field. The base team gave admirable support to Lefty Harrell, while Joe Cranker was hit hard by the submarine boys, and the latter was aided in scoring by the erratic fielding of the kacay's [illegible]

DEMPSEY WALLOPS HIS PARTNERS FOR THE CROWD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Inspired by the presence of 3,000 to 3,500 spectators, half of them women and flappers attired in the latest summer creations, Jack Dempsey snapped into his ten round work-out at the Greyhound track today to the strains of lively jazz music coming from an orchestra furnished by one of the boardwalk cafes.

The crowd, sweltering in the heat of the hottest day Atlantic City has experienced this season, was the largest that has watched the champion in action thus far.

Dempsey boxed seven rounds, using five sparring mates. He cut loose his heaviest blows against only one man, Charley Anderson, of Chicago, a 212 pound negro. Dempsey drove a right hander under Anderson's heart that all but dropped him. He was hanging on at the finish. Dempsey next took on Frankie Carpenter, a lightheavyweight from Freeport, L. I., for two rounds.

He caught Carpenter off balance in the first, dropping him with a right to the jaw. The blow, however, merely grazed his chin, and he was on his feet instantly.

The comedy of the afternoon was furnished by Joe Nassau, of Indianapolis, a one time wrestler. Nassau, a squatty looking individual, with a bald spot in the back of his head, appeared at the camp, expressing a desire to take a few punches at the world's champion. He was no opposition, even for three minutes. He ripped into Dempsey, with head lowered, like an enraged bull, flaying the air with right and left swings. None of them found their mark. Dempsey jolted him a few solid smacks, which caused Nassau to shake his head, like a dog pulling on a rope, every time he got hit.

Joe Kurp, the iron man from Shamokin, Pa., on the hospital list as a result of the pasting he received yesterday. Kurp a slight internal hemmorhage of the nose after the workout.

William A. Brady, the theatrical producer and former manager of James J. Jeffries, was an interested spectator at the ringside today. He was impressed with Dempsey's condition, declaring that he "looked very good."

PYLE SAYS HE HAS NO BUSINESS ARRANGEMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Charles C. Pyle, sports promoter who has Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, under contract to play a series of matches in the United States, has no "business arrangement" with any member of the American Davis Cup team.

Pyles admission that he had not approached any member of the team was made here today after William T. Tilden, 2d, Vincent Richards, William Johnston and R. Norris Williams, members of the team, had emphatically denied that they had any offer from Pyle under consideration.

At a banquet in Philadelphia Thursday night, Pyle said, speaking of Mlle. Lenglen's approaching engagements here:

"Her opponent will be one of the American team members. I am not at liberty yet to state which one it will be because I do not wish to do anything to jeopardize the chances of America in the announce the name of the player, Sept. 15."

The promoter's statement here tonight does not challenge his Philadelphia statement but denies the existence of a "business arrangement." He reserves the right to attempt to perfect such an arrangement later.

FORTY FOOTBALL CANDIDATES EXPECTED AT STORRS

STORRS, Conn., Aug. 28.—Forty candidates are expected to report for the first football practice of the Connecticut Aggies, which will be held here Sept. 16, according to the announcement of Head Coach S. A. Dole. This will be the largest squad the Nutmeggers have mustered since Dole has been in charge, and although the material is for the most part inexperienced, Connecticut followers are optimistic. The squad will train at Storrs.

Coach Dole will have only a few veterans on hand despite the fact that his squad will be larger than usual. Captain John J. Daly of Hartford at center. Willard Eddy of Simsbury at halfback. Arthur Zollin of Arlington, Mass., at tackle. Arthur Lorentzen of Naugatuck at guard, Louis Logan of Newark, N. J. at end, and Antonio Longo of Danielson at guard are the only veterans remaining from the 1925 eleven.

The backfield will be materially strengthened by the addition of Arthur Williams of Danielson and Daniel Noonan of New London, both of whom were ineligible last year. Both shape up as exceptionally good ball carriers, and their presence should greatly increase the Aggies scoring power.

RIVERVIEW CLUB BEATEN TWICE BY ENDEES

The New Departure team of Meriden took both the week end games from the Riverviews, winning 3 to 2 on Saturday at the State hospital diamond and then taking Riverview's measure at Meriden, 6 to 5 on Sunday.

Saturday's victory was practically a gift for errors at critical times by Hamel, allowing the Endees to score their three counters. The Riverview team threatened several times during the game but lacked the hitting ability with men on bases. In the ninth inning with one down, the Riverview club had the bases full but a fast double play, Massey to Dwyer to Zielke, ended the game. Lefty Dugas pitched brilliant ball but was given erratic support.

On Sunday rallies in the sixth and seventh innings spelled defeat for the Riverview after West had pitched airtight ball for five innings, allowing but one hit up to the sixth. Riverview out-hit the Endees, 14 to 7, but were unable to make them count at the proper time. The scores:

ELM CITY GIANTS EVEN SERIES WITH TAFTVILLE

Saturday afternoon at the Providence street grounds the Elm City Giants pounded out a 9 to 2 victory over the Taftville A. A., evening up the series between these two clubs at two victories each. The Elm City boys found Jarvis to their liking and pounded out ten hits off his delivery, three being triples, three doubles and the other four singles, which they converted into five runs. Lefty Buckland was sent in but did not prove so very effective as four runs were scored off him. Lefty allowed five hits which coupled with three glaring errors gave the Giants their counters.

Taftville was unable to hit the offerings of Cannonball Smith effectively, getting four hits, one a triple by Eccleston. Arrangements have been made to bring the Giants back to Taftville for the fifth and deciding game. Manager Troland is to use an Eastern league pitcher in the next contest in an effort to take the series. The first game went to the Elm City Gants, 9 to 1, with Lefty Dugas pitching. The second game was won by Taftville, 2 to 1, Jarvis allowing but two hits. The third game went also to Taftville, 8 to 7, with Buckland hurling while the Giants evened the series Saturday. HARRY WILLS TO BE AT ST. PATRICK LAWN PARTY

Through the State Commissioner of Athletics, Thomas E. Donohue of New London, it has been arranged to have the famous Harry Wills come up from New York and appear at the lawn party of St. Patrick's parish. Wills is the big fellow who has been daring Jack Dempsey to try conclusions with him for the past five years; but it is evident that Dempsey realizes that he would more than meet his match in the colored boxer. Will's manager, Paddy Mullens will accompany the star to Norwich and so will his wife. All are interested in making the program attractive for their Norwich friends, as was stated Saturday evening over the telephone by Commissioner Donohue, who told the news of Wills' intention to visit Norwich to Rev. John J. Reilly, chairman of the committee for the evening's entertainment in the grounds at the K. of C. Home.

CUBS WIN EIGHTH STRAIGHT BEATING REDS

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Chicago ran its winning streak to eight games today by defeating Cincinnati, 5 to 1 in the first game of the series. Carl Mays weakened in the sixth inning when the Cubs launched an attack which included a home run by Charley Root with a man on base. Lucas, who succeeded Mays, lasted one third of an inning and Meeker retired the next two men in the eighth inning. Root held the visitors to seven scattered hits until the ninth when three successive singles saved the Reds from a shut-out. Adams led the attack for the Cubs with four hits including two doubles.

HOTEL GRISWOLD RAID NETS 50 GALLONS OF LIQUOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 29—The Hotel Griswold was raided Saturday night by state police, from Groton barracks. It has been reputed that the place has been distributing liquor for a long time. Shortly before 8 o'clock a squad of state police officers swooped down upon the place and make a search of the bar, seized about 50 gallons of liquor. Thomas White, alleged attendant of the place was arrested will be presented in the Groton town court tomorrow morning.

James German, 24, and George Burke, the latter residing at 10 Harrison street, were on Main street, near Church street Saturday night about 10:30 o'clock when they engaged in an altercation that finally resulted in the pair becoming involved in a fight. Sergeant Samuel Hick arrested the men. They will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

Rock Zekas, 195 North Bank street was arrested Saturday night charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and will be presented on these charges in the police court Monday morning. Zekas, a frequent offender, was in the vicinity of his residence about 7 o'clock Saturday night and was creating a disturbance. Complaint was made to the police and Patrolmen Ernest Opperman and Edward Riordan were sent to where Zekas was making the disturbance and placed him under arrest. On the way to the police station, Zekas put up a fight and during the melee he kicked Patrolman Opperman, inflicting an injury of a nature that compelled the officer to report off duty and go to his home. Zekas Sunday morning was released on bail of $50 for his court appearance Monday.

Two more arrests were made Saturday night of alleged bootlegers, the two accused being among those whom it was intended to arrest Friday, but who were not found when the state and local police sought their whereabouts in a wholesale raid. Those arrested Saturday night were Ernest Coe, 29 Cottage street, public service operator and Mrs. Augusta Visconi, 185 Main street. Coe was found at the public service stand, Union station by Sergeant John Cavanaugh of the local police department, and State Police Officer Johnson, Groton barracks. He furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning. Coe, it is alleged has been peddling liquor by the pint and quart from his taxicab. Mrs. Visconi, it is claimed has been conducting a prosperous business at the Main street place, distributing the drinks and bottles to frequenters of the place, principally sailors. She also furnished a surety on her bond of $1,000 for appearance in court tomorrow.

Thomas Occhialini has sold to Manuel J. and Mary J. Sousa a parcel of land on Squire street.

Miss Phyllis Russell, of Crescent Beach; Mrs. George Tafft, Norwich; Elmer Russell, Crescent Beach; Master Donald Hamilton, Norwich, and Mrs. Harold Maine of Mystic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Patrolman William Graham detected John Sullivan, 8 Grand street, with three golf sticks this morning and believing that the sticks had been stolen from the links of the Shenecossett Golf clug, brought Sullivan to the police station. Sullivan stated that he purchased the sticks Saturday night from an Italian youth for $5. The sticks were held at the police station, pending an investigation.

Mrs. J. Heylinski, of 190 Clifton street, New Haven, reported to the police of that city Saturday night that she was in possession of two cartons of aluminum ware that she had found on the highway while touring outside New Haven. The cartons were addressed to "E. W. Woolworth, Broad street, New London, Conn." There is no such concern on Broad street, this city and it is believed that the merchandise was intended for the Woolworth stores, State street.

Charles Apicelli, of 126 Poquonoc road, Groton, motored to Ocean Beach Saturday night and while he absented himself from his automobile a thief stole it. Apicelli reported the theft to the New London police, but no trace of the car was found.

The New Haven police Saturday night requested the New London police to be on the lookout for three automobiles stolen from the streets of New Haven earlier in the evening. One of the cars was a Ford touring, 1926 model, registration, Y-3674; another was a Hudson coach, 1930 model, registration, C—2609, and the third was an Essex coach, 1926 model registration, Y-836. UNION

Old Home days in Union, Aug. 27, and Aug. 28, were most enjoyable. The two days although cloudy were rainless and very comfortable. A large crowd gathered in and about the grove and town hall, Saturday morning, and the day was filled with friendly greetings and pleasant social intercourse. The afternoon program was opened by singing Home Sweet Home. Rev. Henry A. Coolidge assisted by members of the Phoenix band, leading and many voices joining. Chairman L. M. Reed then presented Holcomb R. Howard who gave a hearty address of welcome. This was followed by addresses by Attorney Hartley Reed Walker of Orange, Mass., William Herbert Corbin of Hartford and Ralph V. Towne of West Hartford. Rev. H. A. Coolidge led in singing of Auld Lang Syne. Addresses were then given by: Gilbert E. Willis of Manchester, Fred W. Moore of Worcester, Attorney Henry Albert Booth of Springfield, Mrs. Samuel McCune Lindsay of New York and Union.

The following made interesting impromptu speeches: Rev. John Pierce of Phoenix, R. I., Rev. Charles G. Fogg of Gloucester, Mass., and John Newell of Waterbury, Rev. H. A. Coolidge led in the sining of God Be With You Till We Meet Again.

Saturday evening an orchestra from Southbridge, Mass., furnished music for a dance at the town hall. A very large and orderly crowd passed an enjoyable ending to Old Home Saturday.

Old Home Day Sunday drew a full church at the morning service extra seats being necessary. The sermon by Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, the congregational singing hymns by the male choir and the children were all impressive and will be remembered throughout the year.

There was a song service led by Rev. H. A. Coolidge and followed by a lecture and Oriental views, conducted by Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, at the church Sunday evening.

Thursday evening, Aug. 26, a social under the auspices of the L. B. A. was held at the town hall. Ice cream and cake were served from 6:30 to 8 o'clock. The hall was very attractively arranged and decorated with the L. B. A. colors, black and gold. The room was well filled and a pleasant social hour was spent. The children, led by Mrs. Lindsay at the piano gave a balloon march. Later all adjourned to the church where songs, led by Rev. H. A. Coolidge and Mrs. S. M. Lindsay were much enjoyed. The community singing was followed by a beautiful vocal solo by Mrs. Dudley Clark, of Southbridge, Mass., accompanied at the organ by her daughter, Miss Helen Clark. Mrs. Clark generously responded to two instant encores and S. M. Lindsay then gave a short interesting address on Porto Rico, before showing his beautiful pictures of the island and its people. Dr. Lindsay was commissioner of education and, with his family, lived for three years in Porto Rico soon after the close of the Spanish war. He was also a member of the executive council of the first legislature held on the island. He spoke in high praise of the fine character and type of citizenship of the rank and file of Porto Rico's population. He was in Porto Rico during the past year, on a semi-official cammission, and accompanied (among others) by Dr. A. B. Meredith. He found the progress made in education and government most encouraging. The schools showed a gain in attainment far beyond the schools of the United States. He said we are not to think of the men and women of Porto Rico as "foreigners." Since some eight or nine years ago, by an act of congress, they have been citizens of the United States.

Mrs. Wesley Bradway of Stafford spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Bradway.

Week end guests at the George Thayer home were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marsh and child, Mrs. Minnie Horton and her grandchildren all of Worcester, Mrs. Frenk Peck of South Lyme, Mrs. Fred Potter and daughter, Miss Ruth Potter of New Britain.

Mrs. Susie Lawson McCrea has been entertaining Miss Gordon, of Reading, Penn.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

The cleverest, fastest-moving, and most unroarious comedy-drama of the season now playing as the first feature at the Broadway theater, The Nut Cracker, starring Edward Everett Horton, flashes across the silver sheet in farewell Wednesday.

Samuel G. Hutchinson, who made this picture as the first of a series for Associated Exhibitors, returns to the production field after a considerable absence; and it is indeed unfortunate that this able pioneer of pictures ever gave up making screen entertainment in favor of distributing and exhibiting it.

Two's company, three's a crowd in Associated Exhibitors new and dashing melodrama, Two Can Play, which is playing at the Broadway theater as the second feature.

The main difficulty confronting the puzzled three, is the choice which will eliminate one, and leave the companionable two.

Clara Bow, of course, is the center of the puzzle, with Wallace MacDonald and Forrest Stanley as the two aspirants to her favor. To add to the general excitement, George Fawcett does all he can to mix things up as her gruff old uncle, with the result that she and the lovesick two are marooned on a desert island.

Two Can Play first appeared as a Saturday Evening Post story by Gerald Mygatt. Nat Ross directs the picture.

A new Kinograms serves to close a most enjoyable two hours of fine entertainment.

Palace Theater

As was expected, the rush for seats, Saturday, for the engagement of Anne Nichols' riot of laughter, Abie's Irish Rose, which comes to the Palace theater for three nights and a matinee Saturday, beginning Thursday evening, fully justified the management believing capacity at each performance would be the order of things, and it is asked that we advice theatergoers and likely patrons, to secure their seats as early as possible, unless they wish to be disappointed.

Abie is one of those magnets of the stage which come but once in a decade or two, but in this particular instance, it happens to be the most phenomenal success in stage history, for this delightful comedy of love and tolerance, delivering a much needed lesson beneath one thousand hearty laughs, has added more pages to theatrical history than any play ever produced since the advent of the speaking stage and the passing of the puppet show, a matter of some 500 years since.

The long runs and financial returns accredited to this wonder play of the age, which are now matters of record, have never before been equalled, and the precedents established, will no doubt remain as a standard for years to come.

There are plenty of good seats for all performances to be had at the box office, but as the demand is large, there is no telling how long they will remain there.

Largest School of Kind in World

The remarkable growth of The Bentley School of Accounting and Finance of Boston is an outstanding achievement in the history of American educational institutions. Starting in 1917 with an enrollment of 20 students it has grown to the point where it is now the largest professional school of college grade in the world devoted exclusively to training men for the duties of office manager, cost accountant, auditor, credit man, comptroller, treasurer, and public accountant. The enrollment for the past year was 2080.

The school maintains very high standards, and it has the reputation of turning out exceptionally well trained men. Because of this, business corporations and public accounting firms give preference to Bentley graduates.

Particular stress is placed on enrolling young men of the clean-cut, upstanding type because the kind of positions in which graduates are placed calls for personality as well as [illegible]

THE PILGRIM MOTHER

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her growing family. When they were ill, she brewed potent remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Hardening of money rates, coincident with the heavy calling of bank loans; indecisive price movements in the stock market, as trading lapsed into midsummer dullness; steadiness of bonds despite the unusually large volume of $50,000,000 in new offerings; a sharp rally in cotton, following publication of the government report showing a sharp reduction in the crop estimate, and a decline in wheat prices, were the distinguishing characteristics of this week's financial commodity markets.

Stiffer money rates reflected the expanding demand for funds in connection with crop movements and fall business requirements. Steady accumulation of the rail shares, based on the unusually favorable nature of the July earnings statements, and a late rally in the oils were the outstanding developments in the stock market. An increasing demand for high grade foreign government liens was one of the few features of the week's bond trading.

Removal of the "peg" on German marks, followed by a moderate rally in that currency, attracted widespread attention in the foreign exchange market. Sterling exchange lost ground under the pressure of grain and cotton bills. French francs strengthened in reflection of the progress toward fiscal reform being made in that country.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Ennui

My soul goes clad in gorgeous things,
Scarlet and gold and blue.
And her shoulder sudden wings
Like long flames flicker through.

And she is swallow-fleet, and free
From mortal bonds and bars,
She laughs because eternity
Blossoms over her with stars!

O folk, who scorn my stiff gay gown
My dull and foolish face,
Can ye not see my soul flash down,
A singing flame through space?

And folk, whose earth-stained looks hate,
Why may I not divine
Your souls, that must be passionate,
Shining and swift, as mine?

Fannie Stearns Gifford.

In a City Street

The city, they say
Is dull and drab.
And lacks the beauty of common things
The glory of life in earlier days.

But in one day
In fair Philadelphia,
I, walking in a street of old, quaint houses,
Saw gray pigeons playing under the eaves
Of a mild and soft-eyed old brown horse.
An old man playing a sweet-stringed harp
On the grass-grown flags of this sunny street,
Then, a knightly sign of the fleur de lis,
Welcoming all to a rendezvous
In a tapestried chamber where white gods gleam.

Suddenly
A holy sign:
A white bambino on a high, blue wall.
Then a quaint little shop, its cunning wares
A young girl recalling Botticelli's "Spring"
Flung on its steps in bright disarray,
A dusky cherub in stained yellow rags
Gaily strumming a ukulele.

To those who can keep
The soul's eyes undimmed,
Beauty is never far to seek.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Among the letters this past week was one telling about a "mean" man, one if the story is true, who should be shunned by everyone. You Wide Awakes will recall the story of the boys who worked hard for the man who promised to pay them for their labors, but, who, after they had worked hard, refused to give them the money he had promised.

Such a person is doing much more harm than he might think in doing such a thing as that. Confidence of young boys and girls in their elders, relatives or not, is something to be inspired and when it is deliberately trampled on it cannot tend for good. Every older person recognized a well bred child by the respect that child shows for him or her. We cannot expect children to look up to older people if they are tricked and made to work on promises never intended to be carried out.

Perhaps some of you Wide Awakes may now believe that this talk should be read by older people. In a way you may be right, but in back of it all is the idea that you yourselves are growing older each day. If you learn the bitter lesson of what it means to be tricked, either by having it happen to you or reading about it happening to some friend, you quickly see the evil back of it all. This should make you firmly resolve that when you become men and women you will never be guilty of such a mean trick.

The man who played the mean trick on our Wide Awake companion may think he has done something smart. He is wrong in this belief for he has done something that shows him in his true light; a man not worthy of the name and one who never again can enjoy the pleasant respect that can come from admiring children. He has abused their confidence and, by doing so, has lost their respect.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE AWAKES

My Visit to My Mother

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I want to tell about my visit to my mother in Bozrah. I live with my grandma at Narragansett, R. I. Five weeks ago I came to my mother's in Connecticut to spend my vacation.

Uncle Bill brought me here. On our way up we stopped at Atlantic beach and saw the breakers. We started for home and just before we got to Westerly we got caught in a thunder shower. But we got home without getting wet. The next Sunday afternoon Uncle Bill took us to the aviation field at Midway and we saw the airplane go up. I wanted to go up but Uncle Bill said no. The next Saturday, Aunt Guestie took me to the moving pictures. The next Sunday afternoon Uncle Bill took my brother and sister and I to Niantic. We had our lunch under the trees by the river. One day mother and all of us went to Storrs college and we saw many pretty things. The next Sunday grandma and grandpa came up and we went for a ride after they came. Aunt Guestie has a cross dog. When I look at him he growls. Last Saturday afternoon grandma and I went to the movies. Sunday afternoon I am going to the movies and Sunday I am going home. I am 11 years old and in the fifth grade. You may hear from me again.

My Calf

Dear Uncle Jed: It has been a long time since I last wrote to you. I thought I would write and tell you about my calf. Her name is Jennie. She was born April 25, 1926. She is four months old. I take her out in the morning and water her and take her in at night and give her grain. I like her very much.

Will close now, hoping all the Wide Awakes will like my story.

A Pleasant Trip

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide Awake Circle. I have been trying to write before as I am real interested in the stories in the paper. I want to tell you about the real good time I had last week. My daddy asked my sister and I if we would like to go to the camp in Niantic. Of course the answer was yes. Just to our delight the soldiers had a drill with horses that day. We enjoyed ourselves I hope you liked my story.

Burnt Cakes

Dear Uncle Jed: The Saxons had defeated the Danes of Chippanham. All day King Alfred roamed the country over crags, marshes and swamps. He concluded he would have to spend the night in this lonesome place. As he surveyed the country he observed cattle in the distance. These must have an owner he thought. He walked over hills, crags and miry pools until he reached the cattle. He arrived there just in time for the neat herder was about to lead them home and house them for the night. The king asked him if he might have shelter for a time. The old man said that he would be welcome to the little hospitality he would be able to give. When they arrived at the little cottage Alfred found that the old man's wife was altogether different from him. The little shelter she might give she begrudged him. His wife was the greatest scolder he knew in the whole country. After the king had been there for awhile the old man discovered his identity. Alfred could not stand the woman's scoldings so he spent the days in hunting in adjoining marshes and crags. One day Alfred could not go hunting on account of the inclement weather. Martha the man's wife made a batch of cakes and placed them on the hearth to bake and told Alfred to take care that they did not burn. The king's mind was filled with sad thoughts of his miserable country. The cakes caught on fire and would have burnt had not the wife smelt them. She ran out of the room and placed them on the table. She came back and gave Alfred a tirade of talk until she was exhausted. He had not expected this and was quite bewildered. Alfred had to eat the burnt cakes until they were gone. For a time afterwards he did not taste the white bread of his own country. The king went his way. Alfred had not told the man's wife who he was for fear of her tongue carrying his name farther than he wished. When she found that her husband knew it and had not revealed it to her a hate raged within her.

Enemies of the Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: Some enemies of the birds are the cat, snake, weasel, squirrel, mouse, jay, cowbird, vermin, owl, cat and catbird.

The cat, weasel, squirrel, mouse, jay, owl, rat and catbird plunder other birds' nests and break the eggs.

It is said that the black snake charms the birds. They stand still and their wings don't move at all. They are in an upturned position just like upturned palms of a hand. Later they try to attack the snake. When one bird stops for a while the other carries on the assault.

We have one parasitical bird, the cowbird, so called because it walks about amid the grazing cattle and gathers the insects which their heavy tread sets going. The cow bird drops her eggs, one by one, into other birds' nests. If such an egg is in the nest, it is usually the only one that hatches, because it kills the other birds by the insects which it carries on itself.

Vermin is a germ probably brought to the nest in feathers, straws or hairs, which lie on the ground. The little birds, when they cannot stand the burning in the nest, which is a bit of purgatory, jump to the ground and die.

There is another enemy of the birds, by far the worst. This is the collector. A collector is a person who takes eggs, which are not hatched. People do this to find rare specimens of eggs to make a collection. This is a cruel habit because it ruins the nest of eggs and causes sorrow to the parent birds.

The Hunter's Experience

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will enjoy the story I am about to tell. The name of it is, The Hunter's Experience. One late autumn afternoon in the heart of the Canadian wilderness, I was hurrying back to camp. I was walking on a dangerous, narrow path and my feet were tickling as I passed with the precipice above and the whirling waters below me. The dashing of the foam against the rugged rocks made me shiver.

All at once I was attracted by the "howl" of a huge bear. I halted. I would not go back for fear he would follow me. I would not go forward for I knew I would be killed. I was ready to grip my hunting knife. I took three steps forward. There was no snarl or growl. No savagery in his expression for the intentness of his eyes were getting dim. He swung his head up and down and I knew I had won. I felt courage coming back to me. Then I glanced at the precipice and then at the whirling waters. It did not take a second before the huge bear had disappeared around the turn.

The Worst Accident I Ever Had

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope that my story will prove to be a good one and gain me a book. Following is the story.

One fine day in June my brother, two friends and I went with the horse and wagon to a nearby farm to get something for my father. While returning my brother got off the wagon to get a whip. He then got on the wagon and wanted to hit the horse with the whip. As it was a long one, it hit the horse on the ear.

The horse became frightened and ran away. The reins fell out of my brother's hands. One of the traces broke and the other caused the horse to pull the wagon along with him. As the horse neared a corner he tipped over the wagon with all of us in it. The trace broke and the horse ran away. My brother fell on a large rock and was unconscious for a few minutes. I fell near the wheels of the wagon and in a sitting position. Both of my friends escaped being hurt.

I tried to arise, but fell back. One of my friends ran to a neighbor to call him, but he was not home. We telephoned one of our nearest neighbors and he came with an automobile and took us home. We called a doctor and he told us that it would be necessary for us to go to a hospital and have an X-ray taken of my foot and my brother's arm.

Our neighbor who took us home also took us to the hospital. X-rays were taken of my brother and myself. We were put into beds. My brother's hand was put into place. I was then taken downstairs to have my foot plastered. My brother and I were in the hospital two days. On the third day we were taken home in an ambulance. The doctor told me to remain in a plaster cast six weeks. I have already been in bed five weeks. I have one more to stay in bed. I have had a very hard time trying to bear the heat. During the time I was in bed my nearest neighbor was very kind to me. He gave me a great deal of good books to read and I enjoyed myself with them.

It is the worst experience I have ever had in my life and I hope it will be the last experience of its kind. I look forward to the day, and pretty

RECEIVING PARCEL POST AT GREENEVILLE STATION

Through arrangements which have been accomplished by Postmaster Casper K. Bailey, parcel post is being received at the Greeneville postal substation.

This will be a great convenience for that section of the city, making it unnecessary for them to bring parcel post packages to the main post office in the center of the city. Except for Norwich Town, the Greeneville station will be the only substation at which parcel post packages are received.

YOUTH OF 16 DROWNED IN DIVING AT FORT NED POND IN CANTERBURY

Robert Leathem Ferguson, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Ferguson of Canterbury, was drowned Saturday afternoon at Fort Ned pond in the town of Canterbury, while swimming with a group of Scouts, who had gone there a few days ago for the purpose of camping out. The boy, it is understood, dived from a boat into the water and was drowned without appearing again on the surface. His body was recovered Sunday morning and permission was given for it to be removed to the undertaking parlors of Tillinghast and Sons, Central Village.

The young man was born in Elizabeth, N. J., April 28, 1909, and was a resident of Canterbury for a number of years, where news of his tragic death cast a gloom over the entire community. Friends at Plainfield also learned with sorrow of his sudden death, where he had gained a wide circle through his scholastic attainments at Plainfield high school. Besides his parents he is survived by several brothers and sisters.

WOMAN BADLY INJURED IN CRASH AT YANTIC BRIDGE

Edith Natta of Massachusetts, passenger in the Pontiac car driven by Wesley G. Mills of 110 Graham street, Quincy, Mass., is a patient at the Backus hospital, suffering from a fractured skull and numerous other injuries, and Mills has been released under bonds, charged with reckless driving, as the result of a crash on the Yantic bridge at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, which also caused passengers in the car driven by Curt Leippert of Olsen Park, Long Island, to receive treatment.

The bridge at Yantic on the Norwich-Willimantic highway is somewhat narrow allowing two cars to pass abreast with only a few inches of clearance, Huntington Lathrop, grand juror of Lebanon, traveling towards Norwich, saw the Paige car driven by Mr. Leippert heading north and he came to a stop to allow the Paige to cross the bridge. In the meantime the Pontiac car driven by Mills, came toward Norwich at a speed alleged to have been excessive, crashing headon into the Leippert car on the Franklin end of the bridge.

Edith Natta was thrown through the windshield of the Pontiac and was rushed to the Backus hospital with Mr. Leippert, the latter being discharged as soon as pieces of glass were removed from his face. Oswald Mengi, another passenger Leippert's car was taken to the hospital and later treated by Dr. J. J. Donohue, who found the patient to be suffering from a large bump on the head, a torn nose and lacerations about the face.

The Natta woman was found to be suffering from a slight contusion of the brain, numerous cuts on the head and face, legs badly bruised, and with a general shaking up. She was also attended by Dr. Donohue, and will be confined to the hospital for some time.

Two men and two women, also three little girls additional passengers in the Leippert car, escaped without injury.

As the accident was just over the bridge and out of the territory of Constable Lucius Fenton, Deputy Sheriff Hoxie of Lebanon was called to conduct the investigation, holding Mills under bonds on the charge of reckless driving, the case to be heard at Franklin court on Tuesday.

The front end of the Pontiac car was completely demolished, the engine being driven back and the windshield broken. The Paige had a broken front wheel, damaged mudguard and broken windshield.

The party in the Paige car was headed for South Manchester from Long Island, where the children had been visiting with their grandparents.

MAN'S RECORD IN PAST PREVENTED HEAVY FINE

A Taftville man who appeared before the local city court, for his first court appearance in 45 years, was dealt leniently with by Judge Arthur F. Libby, Saturday morning. The man was accused of cruelty to animals, the charge being made by Agent Fred Wyant of the humane society. The charge related that the man had kept his horse out of doors for three weeks, the animal being tied to the back of a dump cart with a rope too short to allow the horse to lie down. During the three weeks the animal also had to wear the harness, which had not been removed.

Several people testified to the correctness of the charges against the man by Judge Libby, stating that although the man had been cruel to the animal he felt that his record was good and that with a promise to take care of the animal properly in the future, a fine of $5 and costs would be sufficient in this case. Two witnesses and the constable making the arrest refused to take fees and this reduced the total bill to $10.31.

A local man charged with intoxication paid $5 and costs, a total of $14.50.

REV. DUNBAR ELECTED STATE CHAPLAIN, A. L.

Robert O. Fletcher, post, No. 4, American Legion, was strongly represented at the Legion state convention held in New Haven last week, nearly 20 members of the post taking part in the big parade on Saturday and in the Volture Promenade on Friday night.

Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, commander of Fletcher post, was elected state chaplain at the convention Saturday morning and Past Commander William A. Anderson was elected delegate from this district to the national legion convention to be held in Philadelphia in October, and at the Grand Volture meeting Friday night was elected grand conducteur.

Although Norwich had hopes of getting the 1927 state convention for this city Danbury pulled a little stronger and won out by 15 votes. Although losing out for 1927 the strength of the vote gave the Norwich men encouragement for aiming for the 1928 convention.

Over 75 residents and visitors at Ocean beach participated in a benefit bridge given at a restaurant in Bentley avenue the other night, for the benefit of the Hebrew Women's Home for Children of Hartford. The sum of $130 was netted.

BOY SLIGHTLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY TRUCK

James Alex, 8, of No. 7 Hill street, was struck and knocked down on Main street, Saturday morning at 10.30 o'clock, when he darted out into the street from behind a parked automobile, directly into the path of the Velie truck driven by Martin Krauss of Lisbon, driver for the Norwich Electric company.

The accident happened in front of Lerou's Drug store and the boy was rushed into the office of Dr. LaPierre, where an examination disclosed that the child suffered only from a bump over one eye. The boy was able to go home soon after the accident.

The accident was reported to the police and witnesses are said to have stated that the truck was proceeding at very slow speed when the accident occurred.

STORRS COLLEGE HAS TOO MANY APPLYING

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 29—Connecticut Agricultural college, a state institution, will in all probability have to turn away from its doors Connecticut young men and women for the reason that the law provides for a maximum enrollmen of 500 students, and applications to register have already passed the 540 mark.

Of these, 310 are old students, and according to Registrar David L. Greene this is a larger percentage of old students returning than in former years. Such students will of course be given a preference over applicants for admission to the incoming freshman class, Mr. Greene said.

The entering class will this year be the largest in the history of the college, with approximately 240 applications already received, and the opening of college still another month away. Of this group, 150 have already been accepted by the college, and remaining applications are pending. In selecting applicants, the college will follow a policy inaugurated last year, when preference was shown to students who stood in the upper two-thirds of their high school classes. For students with poor high school records, the college will require that they take an intelligence examination before they will be admitted and allowed to register.

THOMAS WHITEHEAD WEDS MISS SNELL OF WESTERLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WETERLY, Aug. 29.—At the Broad Street Christian church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Miss Lillian Mary Snell, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Snell of Mechanic street, and Thomas Whitehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead of Norwich, were married by Rev. The church was decorated by the Ellen Gustin circle. The bride's gown was of white georgette, trimmed with moire ribbon. Her veil of premier lace was caught with pearls.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead left for a trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return, they will make their home at 11 Spruce street, Westerly.

CARING FOR GALLUP BURIAL PLOT IN LEDYARD

The Gallup cemetery association held its 22nd annual meeting at Ledyard Saturday with 16 members present. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Henry G. Peck; vice president, Nathan G. Williams; secretary, Mrs. Edna C. Gallup; treasurer, Jacob Gallup. Great interest has been shown by the members of the Gallup family in this old burial plot, many members making generous contributions for its improvement. Plans are now being made to grade and re-seed the grounds. As soon as funds will permit the association hopes to extend its interests to a portion of the White Hall burying grounds near Old Mystic, where the graves of earlier generations of the Gallup family are located.

Previous to the business meeting a reunion of the Gallup family was held at the Gallup homestead, the summer home of Mrs. Nathan G. Williams.

SISTER M. ROBERTUS SENT TO WATERBURY CONVENT

Having completed her three years as superior at St. Mary's convent, on Hickory street and teacher of the eighth grade of the parish school, Sister M. Robertus has been transferred by the Rev. Mother Superior of the Sisters of Mercy, at Hartford. This (Monday) morning, Sister Robertus will report at St. Margaret's convent, Waterbury. There she will probably be assigned to teach the fifth grade in the parish school. The pastor of the Waterbury parish to which she goes is Rev. Edward Brennan, a famous war chaplain before being appointed by Bishop Nilan to have charge of St. Margaret's church.

Sister Robertus has made a very fine superior in the Greeneville parish, where in Rev. William A. Keefe's school there are about 400 pupils. The fact that, in the system of the order of Sisters of Mercy, the time has come for her transfer is a matter of deep regret to the people of the large parish.

Her departure is to make no change to disturb the order of the school, since her successor appointed is Sister M. Claver, for several years at Greeneville convent and who now takes up the duties of superior and eighth grade teacher.

While Sister Robertus regretted leaving the associate Sisters and the pupils in whom she had shown such constant interest, it is a pleasing fact that in going to Waterbury she will be near her sister, Sister M. Geronimo, a highly successful teacher in Sacred Heart convent, Waterbury.

Both nuns are natives of New Haven and are sisters of Rev. James A. O'Meara, pastor of St. John's church, Montville.

Mrs. E. S. Schall, formerly of Monument street, Groton, has moved to 130 Hempstead street, New London. Mr. Schall is chief boatswain's mate on U. S. submarine V-2, which, with the V-1 and V-3, is now engaged in maneuvres with ships of the Atlantic fleet off Block Island.

POETRY

Discontent

A king went forth to see the world,
But everything went wrong;
The beasts desired but could not be
Awing, and birds of song!
The birds all ceased their cheery song
Because they could not be
As big as sheep or oxen
Or monsters of the sea!
The oaks all limped and wilted
Because they were not pines;
And pines took on a languid look,
All jealous of the vines;
And everywhere the monarch went
He found things all askew;
Desiring to be something else
Had blighted them all through!
But he beheld a lovely rose,
As perfect as could be,
And shedding fragrance all about,
Then pleaded beseechingly:
"Tell me the secret, little Rose,
Of this amazing plight,
And how you keep so sweet and
Where other things all blight!"
The little rose, encouraged, said,
"The secret, Sir, you see.
Is full content to be just what
The Lord would have me be!
This dreadful plague distressing you
Is bane to every man
Who lets a heart of discontent
Displace God's perfect plan!"
—Rev. William Wood.

The Gifts of God

The light that fills thy house at morn,
Thou canst not for thyself retain;
But all who with thee here are born,
It bids to share an equal gain.

The wind that blows thy ship along,
Her swelling sails can not confine;
Alike to all the gates belong,
Nor canst thou claim a breath as thine.

The earth, the green outspread earth,
Why hast thou fenced it off from me?
Hadst thou than I a nobler birth,
Who callest this a gift so free?

The wave, the blue encircling wave,
No chains can bind, no fetters hold;
Its thunders tell of Him who gave
What none can ever buy for gold.
—Jones Very.

Saving Ships Ice

The ice man's latest job is plugging up holes in sunken ships so they can be raised from the ocean bottom, according to reports from Berlin which tell of an ingenious plan just invented by an expert in salvaging.

A refrigerating plant is lowered by means of steel cables and allowed to rest near the hole in the ship's side that must be repaired. From the plant extend flexible pipes, which are placed over the aperture to be closed. The metal side of the ship and the water surrounding it are both cooled at the same time, the result being a thick sheet of ice adhering firmly to the hull plates. The water can then be pumped out of the ship so that it can be raised to the surface.

VIERKOETTER EXHAUSTED, BY ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

Game German Staggered and Fell Back Into the Sea—Recovered Himself and Crept Up the Beach—Feet Were Bleeding, His Entire Body Bruised and Battered and His Eyes Bloodshot and Almost Closed—Witness Asserts That Vierkoetter was as Weak as a Child and Had to Be Carried Back to the Rowboat—Official Elapsed Time Was 12 Hours and 43 Minutes.

DOVER, England, Aug. 30—(AP)—Corporal Long of the Lancashire Fusiliers stationed at Swingate Camp, between St. Margaret's Bay and Dover, one of the few eyewitnesses of Vierkoetter's land, ran down the zigzag path, hewn in the hard chalk cliff for 300 feet to meet the swimmer. Vierkoetter was then 100 yards away with a small rowboat close by.

Unfortunately the swimer got among some jagged rocks at the base of the cliff and Corporal Long said, staggered and fell back into the sea. But he recovered himself and crawled up the beach. Both feet were bleeding and the entire body of the broadshouldered six footer was bruised and battered, his eyes bloodshot and almost closed.

The swimmer sank down completely exhausted, according to Long, and his friends from the rowboat gave him a stimulant and eggs. He then asked for cigarettes and lay on his back smokcontentedly for fifteen minutes.

"The channel nearly had him," said Corporal Long. "He was weak as a child and had to be carried back to the rowboat."

The official timekeeper of the swim announcedt hat Vierkoetter had left Cape Gris-Nez at 1:30 a. m. and finished at 2:15 p. m., the elapsed time being 12 hours, 43 minutes.

VIERKOETTER FINISHED FRESH, TRAINER SAYS

CALAIS, France, Aug. 30—(AP)—Ernst Vierkoetter a baker from Cologne, the champion long-distance swimmer of Germany, today swam across the English channel in the record time of 12 hours and 43 minutes.

"With a little luck,' said his' trainer, "he would have done it in 10 hours and a half."

Vierkoetter not only beat Gertrude Ederle's record but he waded ashore in England so fresh that he began at once to talk about trying next year to swim the difficult stretch in both directions at the one attempt.

According to the captain of the tug Europe of Dunkirk which accompanied the swimmer, Vierkoetter actually swam 30 and a half miles while the distance across the channel from the point where he went into the water is only 19 and three quarter miles. On his swim across the chanel, Vierkoetter swallowed a cup of broth after the second hour and a little later had some coffee. After the eighth hour he ate two bananas and after the tenth hour he had a drink of mineral water. That was all he had until he walked ashore near the South Foreland Lighthouse and asked the cheering soldiers from the nearby barracks for a cigarette.

DELEGATES SELECTED BY HARTFORD DEMOCRATS

HARTFORD, Aug. 30—(AP)—One hundred and seventy-six delegates, headed by National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, were elected to the state, congressional, county and probate conventions by Hartford democrats in convention tonight at the Hotel Garde.

Charles J. McLaughlin, chairman of the democratic town committee, presided at the convention, which was attended by about eighty of the 114 delegates eligible to take part. Following the approval of the list of delegates to the four coming conventions, the session adjourned, subject to the call of the town chairman.

Immediately after adjournment, delegates representing the city's three senatorial districts elected members to the state central committee. Thomas C. McKone presided at the meeting of the first senatorial district, which re-elected him a member of the central committee, also electing Mrs. Marion Roberts.

Mrs. Mabelle Fletcher was re-elected by the second district. The other member elected by this district was Frederick Barrett. Daniel J. Mahoney presided.

Thomas J. Conroy, presiding at the third district election, was re-elected to membership in the state central committee, as was Mrs. Catherine Yale.

While the convention nominating committee chosen by the chairman, was outside naming delegates, the convention, on the motion of Thomas J. Conroy, observed a two minutes' standing silence to honor the memory of John J. Mullings, for several years chairman of the sixth ward, who died during the past year.

SAYS ALL THE RAILROADS NEED IS TO BE LET ALONE

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—All the railroads of the country need is to be let alone, Matthew C. Brush, of New York city, president of the American International Corporation and a director of several western railroads, said today during a visit with President Coolidge.

As for any consolidation of railroad systems by legislation of congress, Mr. Brush declared that if the interstate commerce commission and the railroad executives could be let alone consolidation would be brought about intelligently and along the proper lines of economic law.

It would be criminal to interfere with th railroads under present conditions, he emphasized, adding that it is impossible to take a map, draw a few lines and bring about proper consolidations.

Mr. Brush was a luncheon guest at White Pine camp, having been invited to give his views of business conditions, especially in the light of observations recently made in the southwest during a trans-continental business trip.

He returned from that trip, Mr. Brush said, a "bull on America, on prosperity, on the future, and on the present." He did not find a single section he added, that was not prosperous. And he did not see any unemployment.

MUSSOLINI OUTLINES FASCIST FOREIGN POLICY

ROME, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Close collaboration with Spain is one of the cornerstones of Italy's foreign policy, Premier Mussolini today declared to his cabinet.

"The Italo-Spanish treaty, of which all the clauses are published, cements the friendship of two nations which have many positive affinities. They border the same sea, their collaboration is natural and constitutes a great factor for peace."

Referring to the Tangier matter the premier said: "If a Tangier conference is called, Italy must take part in it as a great Mediterranean power. Although it is not known when or where such a conference will be held, it appears the Tangier question is already completely separated from the question of the more or less permanent seats in the council of the league of nations.

Regarding the attitude of the English delegation at Geneva, Premier Mussolini said it was empowered with a margin of elasticity needed to face unforeseen situations.'

Premier Averescu of Rumania will come to Rome this September and his visit should strengthen the relations between th two countries, Premier Mussolini declared. The new Greek government is continuing its policy of friendship with Italy, the new Premier Kondylis denying all rumors to the contrary and telling the Italian minister in Athens that he intends to pursue a cordial policy of amity, the cabinet was told.

Philippines House Overrides Wood Veto

Passed Bill Providing For Plebiscite on Independence —Bill Goes to President Coolidge.

MANILA, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Philippines house of representatives today passed over the veto of Governor-General Leonard Wood the bill providing for a plebiscite in the islands on the question of independence. The action was expected. The Senate a month ago took like action and the bill now goes to President Coolidge.

The action of the Philippine house of representatives in passing over the veto of Governor Wood the bill for a plebiscite on the question of independence, followed several years of agitation for a government independent of the United States—the Philippine republic. The Philippine legislature, elected by the people, has been overwhelmingly in favor of the project and has taken many steps to forward it, some of them being vetoed by Governor-General Wood, appointed by the president of the United States.

When the Philipine legislature appropriated money to send a mission to the United States to work for independence the act was vetoed and the money was raised by popular subscription.

Local self-government has been extended to most of the forty-three provinces of the Philippines, the administrators with few exceptions being Filipinos.

The Moros of the Southern Islands, Mohamedians, have not lived amicably with the Christian Filipinos.

WORK IN ERADICATION OF BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

HARTFORD, Aug. 30—(AP)—Splendid work is being done in Connecticut toward the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, according to the opinion of Dr. J. Kiernan, of Washington, D. C., chief of the federal bureau of tuberculosis eradication, who is making a tour of inspection of New England states. With James M. Whittlesey, commissioner on domestic animals and Dr. Robert L. Smith, federal agent for the state, he visited many dairy farms today and Saturday. He plans to thoroughly cover the state before continuing to other states.

Dr. Kiernan said that this state is one of the leaders in the work of eliminating tuberculosis among cattle. Its program, he said, makes it appear certain that Connecticut will be one of the first to reach a record of 100 per cent ine radication work.

Besides various methods of testing, it was pointed out that different methods of reporting to the state dairy and and food deparment are now in use. The state laboratories send percentage reports of impurities, while many others use the older system of marking samples, "good," "fair" or "bad."

FISHING LICENSES NOT ISSUED BY GAME WARDENS

HARTFORD, Aug. 30—(AP)—"Anyone paying a game warden for the privilege of fishing in the Connecticut waters of Congamond lake is poorly acquainted with fishing laws," Superintendent of Fisheries and Game John W. Titcomb said today. "All licenses have to be secured from town clerks and wardens have no authority to take money for fishing rights."

He did not believe that a Connecticut warden was collecting money from Massachusetts residents, but that it was some person posing as a warden. The part of the lake that is in this state is so small, he said that this state has never bothered particularly about it, although the law requires that Massachusetts fishermen take out Connecticut licenses when using the waters in this state. His department is to investigate the activities of the alleged warden.

To Subdue Strikers at Manville, R. I. Mills

Sheriff Threatens to Read Riot Act — Troopers Establish Deadline—Strikers in Angry Mood.

MANVILLE, R. I., Aug. 30.—(AP)—A threat by Sheriff Jonathan Andrews to read the riot act and increased forces of state troopers and deputy sheriffs ended actual disorders today about the cotton mills of the Manville-Jenckes company here, but more than half of the 1,700 strikers continued to stand around the mill gates tonight in an angry mood.

Last night an attempt had been made to set the mill afire, and early today an official and a watchman were severely beaten by picketing strikers but this afternoon the strikers contented themselves with trying to stop everyone from entering the company grounds and with shouting and hissing. In many cases they were successful in barring those who would pass through the gates.

Lieutenant John Biard, in command of the state troopers, established a deadline on the Blackstone river bridge on his arrival here this morning. The troopers, armed with nightsticks and service revolvers, kept the strikers from advancing beyond the line, and they readily complied.

Sheriff Andrews today increased his force of deputies at the mill from four to 11. He also ordered the deputies to read the riot act in case of any increase in violence.

The essential part of the "riot act" is contained in chapter 344 of the general laws of Rhode Island, section 1, and is as follows:

"If any persons to the number of 12 or more being armed with clubs or other weapons or if any number of persons consisting of 30 or more shall be unlawfully, riotously, or tumultuously assembled, any justice of the supreme or superior courts, or of a district court, justice of the peace, sheriff, mayor, deputy sheriff, town sergeant or constable shall come among the rioters or as near to them as he can safely come, command silence while proclamation is making, and shall openly make proclamation in substance as follows;

"'By virtue of the laws of this state in relation to riots and tumultous assemblies, I charge and command all persons here assembled immediately to disperse and peaceably to depart to their habitations or to their lawful business upon the penalty inflicted by said laws; God save the state!'"

The disorders were prompted by the appearance of 16 strike breakers in armored cars last night. A crowd of 100 strikers and sympathizers watched the arrival of the strike breakers, and the appearance of the men in the windows of the mill was met with an avalanche of stones.

Several hours later the crowd assembled again and hurled flaming oil-soaked rags through the windows of one of the rooms. The fire was stamped out by Chief of Police Finn of Cumberland, and the crowd again resorted to stone throwing.

Early this morning Warren Sweet, production manager of the mill, was set upon and beaten, and a short time later similar treatment was accorded to Henry Bouchard, a watchman. The strike was called two weeks ago. Last Saturday morning employes of the social mill of the same company in Woonsocket, R. I., went on strike, and this morning there was agitation for a strike at the Globe mill, also at Woonsocket.

With the crowd blocking the street in front of the Manville mill and impeding automobile traffic, 15 state troopers under Captain Jonathan Harwood were ordered to disperse the gathering. Their efforts were ineffectual until they charged the crowd with drawn clubs. The street was finally cleared with no casualties other than minor bruises.

STATE POLICE USED CLUBS TO HOLD BACK CROWD

MANVILLE, R. I., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Three persons were injured tonight when state police and deputy sheriffs used clubs to hold back a crowd of strikers and strike sympathizers at the mills of the Manville-Jenckes company here. One of those injured was a oman.

The trouble started when a man whose identity the police refused to reveal attempted to stop an armored truck leaving the mills. When the police pushed him aside, the crowd, estimated at 5,000 persons, rushed the gates, and the officers used their clubs freely.

MANY COMPETITIONS IN CALIFORNIA PRIMARY TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30—(AP)—Californians will go to the polls tomorrow to pick party nominees for state, congressional and county officers. With a registration exceeding that of of the 1924 primary campaign 223,013 and with brisk competition for the gubernatorial and senatorial nominations in both republican and democratic arenas, a record vote is anticipated.

Interest in the republican gubernatorial and senatorial fights has been particularly keen since the entry into the campaign of United States Senator Hiram Johnson, who has stumped the state for Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination against Governor Friend W. Richardson, incumbent, and for Robert M. Clark, anti-world court candidate, who is contesting Senator Samuel M. Shortridge's bid for a second term.

Another national figure, William Gibbs McAdoo, candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in 1924, figures in the democratic gubernatorial and senatorial battles. Carl Alexander Johnson and John B. Elliott indorsed by McAdoo for governor and United States senator, respectively, have accused their opponents—Justus S. Wardell and Isidore B Dockweiler of complicity in the Tammany hall plot to control the democratic party and swing the 1928 presidential nomination or Gov. Al Smith in 1928. Wardell and Dockweiled have flung back the charge that McAdoo is attempting to insure himself the 1928 nomination by gaining control of the democratic party in California through Johnson and Elliott.

Upon Sinclair, the novelist, is unopposed for the socialist nomination for governor.

Prohibition is a leading issue in some of the congressional districts, particularly the second.

MULTITUDE AT FUNERAL OF RUDOLPH VALENTINO

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino was bidden a last farewell by the public today.

The scene was Broadway, theatrical center of the world, which has blazoned his name in huge electric signs where only a few years before he had worked as dishwasher, and later cabaret dancer at $50 a week.

Solid walls of humanity lined the route of the funeral cortege, which started at a Broadway funeral church at Sixty-Sixth street, and ended at the little church of St. Malachy in Forty-Ninth street. Theatrical folk, movie fans, people of the tenement districts and the thousands who make up the variegated life of the roaring forties turned out enmasse to see the funeral procession of the original sheik or the movies.

The fascination that made Valentino the movie idol of countless women and girls who knew him only on the silver screen, was evident at his funeral. Two women who had figured in real romances in his life followed his coffin, Pola Negri who had advised before his death that she was engaged to marry him, followed close upon the hearse in the cortege. Next came Jean Acker, Valentino's first wife, who announced just after his death that they had been reconciled during his last days. Winifred Hudnut, the actor's divorced second wife, was represented by a half-sister.

In her pew beside the casket Miss Negri shook with sobs, fell back in her seat, and was supported by George Ullman, who was Valentino's manager. Behind her, Miss Acker leaned forward, until her head rested on her knees and her companions administered stimulants.

RIOTING IN COAL FIELDS AT PONTYPOOL, ENGLAND

PONTYPOOL, England, Aug. 30—(AP)—Rioting started in the coalfields here today because of resentment by the miners of the presence of a large force of police. The police had been sent out to protect a few "willing workers," whom all efforts by intimidation or otherwise had failed to induce to quit work.

When these men were leaving the pits today under police protection, hundreds of strikers rushed at them hurling all sorts or missiles. The police charged the rioters three times and finally dispersed them. A few persons were injured.

GIRLS FIGURE IN CASE OF CHICAGO CAR BARN BANDITS

CHICAGO, Aug. 30—(AP)—A 17 year old red-haired girl from the rural districts near Green Bay, Wis., tonight became the central figure in a police investigation of a car barn bandits raid here last night in which seven men were shot, two fatally. A second girl, Marie Nolan, is described by Miss Frances Vaughn, the Wisconsin maid as being the "brains of the plot" to rob the car barn cashier's office of $6,000 and a search for her is being made.

The Nolan girl escaped in the bandits' car in a shower or bullets while a policeman fought furiously to retain a hold on the biting, scratching and slugging Vaughn girl whom he had dragged from the waiting automobile.

A police ambush was prepared when officers were informed of the plot by a car barn employe.

Last night the quintette, Ernest and Joseph de Lavern and William Maloney, led by the girls, rode to the car barns prepared for a daring raid. The men wore conductors' caps. Both girls remained in the automobile. Police previously had distributed their men in the cashier's office and had also drilled peep holes through adjoining walls where they could fire upon the robbers.

While one robber lined up a number of street car men in an outer room two others entered the cashier's office and demanded the money.

The cashier, instructed by police dropped to safety on the floor, and a fusillade of rifle and pistol shots answered the request from behind hidden walls.

Ernest de Lavern, shot four times in the back and shoulders escaped but was found today in a deserted flat lying on a cot in a serious condition from loss of blood. Joseph was killed and Maloney was shot in his attempt to escape. He died or his wounds.

The Vaughn girl said she had been living at the home of de Lavern as his wife, Florence de Lavern, wife of Joseph, presented an alibi and was released. Ernest de Lavern's legal wife said he deserted her.

CONGRESSMAN R. P. FREEMAN ADDRESSES REP. DELEGATES

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 30—Charles A. Gates of Windham and Mrs. Lillian M. Frink of Canterbury were unanimously chosen delegates-at-large from the twenty-ninth senatorial district, at the caucus of delegates selected at the republican town caucus Friday night for the republican state convention at Hartford, September 13 and 14. The delegates met at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at Windham Inn, Windham Center. The caucus was opened by Sheriff Gates, senior member of the state central committee from the 29th district. Senator Sessions L. Adams of Plainfield was chosen chairman and Ellsworth C. Babson of Brooklyn, clerk. Twenty-two of the twenty-six delegates answered the roll call. The absentees were, John Whipple and Fitzhenry Paine of Pomfret, Charles H. Blake of Brooklyn and William A. King of Windham. Henry Hopkins of Plainfield, presented the name of Mr. Gates and that of Mrs. Frink was presented by Herbert F. Williams of Canterbury. Adams of Plainfield; committee on credentials, James H. Johnson of Scotland; committee on rules, A. Linn Weatherhead of Windham; committee on resolutions, Chester B. Jewett of Hampton.

With the close of the caucus the 45 delegates and guests were guests of Delegates-at-Large Mr. Gates and Mrs. Frink at dinner. Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, who is candidate for renomination and re-election was the guest of honor and gave a brief, instructive talk in which he stressed the highly successful financial management of the republican party in both state and national administration. He gave figures on the tremendous decreases in taxation brought about during the Harding and Coolidge administration. Relative to income tax, he showed how the party had brought the tax on a $2,000 income from $60 to $20 in 1921. With another decrease in 1924 the tax was only $7.50 and today it is zero. In spite of these sweeping reductions of over one billion dollars some three billion dollars have been paid in the past seven years to war veterans Connecticut ranks second to none in its financial status. Its indebtedness in the last dozen years had increased less than any other of the 48 states of the Union and it has a sinking fund which, with accruing interest, makes the Nutmeg state solvent and a mark of envy for other states.

Others who responded included Senator Urgele LaFrance, of Plainfield, Mrs. Frink of Canterbury, Charles B. Pomery of Windham and Ellsworth C. Babson of Brooklyn who made a motion that the gathering go on record as endorsing the state and national administrations. His motion was unanimously approved. A vote of thanks was accorded Chairman Gates and Mrs. Frink. The menu of the excellent dinner follows:

CITY IS HEADQUARTERS NOW FOR TEN BUS LINES

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 30—With the transfer of ownership of the Hartford-Willimantic Jitney association from Harry A. Blanchette of this city and Edwin Markham of Hartford to the New England Motor Transportation company, changes will be noticeable on Railroad street after September 1st when the line will begin to be operated by the railroad subsidiary company. The busses of the three lines now to be operated by the company will be parked on railroad property at the foot of the street. These busses are operated on the Willimantic, Danielson and Providence line; Willimantic and Norwich and New London and Willimantic and Hartford. A new schedule is being prepared and it is planned to maintain a starter's office in the railroad station. This office is to be open fifteen hours a day. John Stevens, veteran driver of the Willimantic-Danielson-Providence line has been secured by the New England Transportation company as the first starter.

Messrs. Blanchette and Markham are to vacate the store in the European block on Railroad street which has been used for the past two years as a waiting room for the Hartford-Willimantic line, also partially occupied by the New England Motor Transportation company for its line to Colchester, the Black and White Storrs-Willimantic line and the Willimantic-Stafford line. The last named two lines will seek new quarters.

Due to the fact that they will be parked on private property, the Transportation company buses will not be affected by the fifteen minute parking limit on Railroad street.

Willimantic had been suffering considerably of late through necessary curtailment of passenger trains on the four divisions of the New Haven railroad having terminals here and curtailments on the Central Vermont railway. The way has gradually been paved for its return as a central terminal, until now no less than ten bus lines have headquarters here, having connections with the following towns. Danielson, Providence, Norwich, New London, Stafford Springs, Colchester, Storrs, Scotland, Columbia, Eastford, and North Coventry. During the past year there were two lines given up because of poor business, from this city to Putnam and Woonsocket, R. I., and to Lebanon.

John C. Frazier won the beginners' golf tournament at the Willimantic Country club links over the past week end with a score of 106. Edwin J. Donnelly was second low with a score of 117 and Attorney Harry S. Gaucher with Edward G. Kenney were close seconds, being tied with 120.

United States Tube Factory at Indianapolis—the largest tube factory in the world

Some Questions and Answers about United States Water-Cured Tubes

Question—What is the Water-Cure Process?

Answer—The Water-Cure Process is a new method of curing or vulcanizing automobile tubes now in use in the United States Rubber Company tube factories.

Question—How does it differ from the old process?

Answer—During vulcanization heat and pressure must be applied to the tube. The old method used steam to supply this pressure and heat. The new method uses water under high pressure and at steam temperature.

Question—Why does this make a better tube?

Answer—In the old steam method the pressure could not be applied evenly. Small air bubbles were formed in the tube, each of which became a source of weakness.

The new Water-Cure Process eliminates the possibility of such bubbles by its heavy, even pressure. It also insures better union between the tube and the valve-base, and at the same time gives the rubber itself a finer, longer-wearing, more age-resisting texture.

Question—Can water-curing alone make a good tube?

Answer—No. A good tube demands good rubber, proper construction and proper splicing as well.

Question—How are these provided in United States Tubes?

Answer—The rubber used is Sprayed Rubber, the purest and most uniform rubber known. It is made from rubber latex from the United States Rubber Company's own plantations, by a process developed and patented by the Company.

United States Tubes are constructed of four plies of rubber. Most other tubes are made of one or at most two.

Splicing is done by a specially developed method, which not only assures uniformly strong splices but also limits the pressure and heat to the splice itself and does not tend to weaken the rest of the tube.

Salesgirls Dread Bargain Days

Louisa was tired. From morning until night she had been on her feet in the busy department store. No matter how she felt, she must serve her customers with a smile. Her head throbbed and her feet ached. Week after week, she felt her strength ebbing until she was in a run-down condition, not fit to work.

"My mother suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," she writes. "I took only three bottles and it brought me about all right." Through the Vegetable Compound, she found better health to do her work and she told the other girls about it.

That was several years ago. Louisa is now Mrs. L. J. Van Dyke of 1246 Spring St., Morrell Park, Baltimore, Md. She is the mother of three healthy, active children. She says that she found the tonic effect of the Vegetable Compound helpful to her during this entire period.

Every working girl knows that to do her work properly and easily she must have good health. She can not afford to lose time from her work.

Girls who suffer from a run-down condition should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fresh twice a day—

Dietz Bread better than ever!

A FEW years ago Mr. Dietz thought he had realized his ideal in the bread he was baking.

For it had the perfection which only years of experience, the finest ingredients and a wonderful recipe could give.

But new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvements which his purchase of the Dolly Madison bakery has given him an opportunity to carry out.

Among other things, he has installed the very latest type of oven—a modern marvel of baking science. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which gives added tenderness to the firm, rich loaves—greater crispness to the evenly browned crust.

This new oven makes possible two bakings a day, so that the delicious new Dietz Bread now reaches your grocer twice a day—a fine, firm loaf, so fresh and tender it fairly melts in your mouth.

GET DIETZ BREAD from your grocer today and enjoy Mr. Walter Dietz's marvelous baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

DIETZ BREAD is made of the same quality of ingredients you would use if it were baked in your own kitchen. But the loaf has a finer texture, richer wholesomeness of flavor, because instead of just the one kind of flour you use at home, several fine flours are blended to give unvarying gluten strength and full wheat nourishment.

All ingredients must measure up to a rigid standard of quality and purity.

DANIELSON

CHECK FOR $736 FOR TAXES HALTS WHITESTONE MILL SALE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 30—The Whitestone mill property at East Killingly was not sold Monday afternoon under the auctioneer's hammer to satisfy a tax claim of the town of Killingly and by authority of the superior court as has been advertised would be done, for the very good reason that a check was received here during the morning from Charles R. Kapstein, of Providence, owner of the property. The check was for $736.05, that representing the amount for which the town obtained judgment against the property in court, the expenses incidentals. It did not include the last town tax on the property, this particular tax having come due since the judgment was obtained. Among men who have an interest in real estate transactions in the town of Killingly there was considerable speculation as to what the property would have brought if offered at auction. Several years ago, at another auction, it sold for a price in the vicinity of $3,000, but that was before the big stone mill was destroyed by fire. There appears to be no doubt that if the property had been offered for sale Monday it would have brought more than the amount of Mr. Kapstein's check to settle his account with the town. Years ago the property had a value running into scores of thousands of dollars.

HARRY EVERGATES BUYS THE BIG KEYSTONE BLOCK

DANIELSON, Aug. 30—Announcement is made of the sale of the Keystone block, largest frame business structure in Danielson, to Harry Evergates, one of the owners of the Puritan restaurant and adjoining properties. Mr. Evergates takes over the property from Attorney Arthur G. Bill and Mrs. John A. Paine of Broad street. Mr. Evergates plans for the use of the building are not disclosed.

The Keystone block, built about 1891, is on a keystone shaped area of land between Main and Water streets. There are five stores on the street level. On the second floor is G. A. R. hall, the Natorski billiard room and an apartment. There is a third floor level over part of the structure. Sale of the building involves the most important real estate transaction in Danielson in several months. Earlier in the summer Mr. Evergates negotiated for the purchase of the Danielson Inn property, but this sale was never consummated.

Sunday evening at 9 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage, Miss Laura A. James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur James of Spring street, and William Nuttall of North Main street, were united in marriage by Rev. Roger C. Stimson. They were attended by Miss Lillian Nuttall and by Mr. James, father of the bride. The bride had a gown of pink crepe and wore a black velvet hat. The bridesmaid wore blue satin and a black velvet hat. Mr. and Mrs. Nuttall left immediately after the ceremony on their wedding trip, going into the White Mountain region. Upon their return they will make their home in Danielson, where the groom is engaged in business and where both are very well known.

Many of Dayville's people were at St. Joseph's church in that place Monday morning at 9 o'clock to attend the funeral services for Mrs. Emily Cavanaugh, a resident there for many years. The officers of the solemn mass of requiem were Rev. Augustin Chapignac, M. S., the acting pastor, Rev James McCarthy, M. S., and Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., of Danielson. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. All the priests who celebrated the mass assisting in the committal service. The bearers were Armand Renealt, Joseph Burr, John O'Neill, Francis Gagnon, William Gilhooley and Christopher Brennan. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

These are days of celebration and exultation down in Wauregan. If you are acquainted with the overseers in the plants of the Wauregan company you will appreciate this. Anyone of them will tell you that about the easiest thing they do is to trim the overseers of the Quinebaug company mills in Danielson. As proof of this, they cite the fact that they did it twice last Sunday—over in Wakefield, R. I. Up to this point in this story there has been negligence about mentioning that the trimmings were administered in baseball games, but maybe everyone has guessed that. The overseers of both plants were guests of Francis Harrower and Gordon Harrower, officials of the Quinebaug and Wauregan companies, at the Dr. Harrower estate, near Wakefield on Sunday, at an outing. There was a morning ball game of nine innings that the Wauregan overseers won handily. Not satisfied with the outcome of that contest, the Quinebaug players called for another try at the Wauregan men in the afternoon and were readily accommodated. The game went nine innings and again the Quinebaug team went down to defeat. Agent J. Arthur Atwood, former Yale 'varsity pitcher, acting as umpire in the second contest had the time of his life. He was criticised and bawled out something awful for his decisions on everything from called strikes to what rule covered permission to throw clamshells at a batter. Still militant after two defeats on the diamond the Quinebaug men challenged Wauregan to a quoit pitching contest and won out on that, getting some consolation out of the sports program of the day.

Incidentally there was great cheer and good will among all hands assembled for a splendid clambake. The overseers and the officials who were with them had a wonderful outing, but Wauregan cannot get over how easy it is to trim Quinebaug at baseball!

Monday morning at St. James' rectory, Miss Harriet Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nash of Franklin street and Ray P. Mr. Bailey is with the Connecticut mills and the bride is among the well known young women of Danielson.

Another wedding Monday morning was that of Miss Eleanor Corriveau and Albert Trahan, both of this town. They were united in marriage at St. James' church at 8 o'clock by Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., who also was celebrant of the nuptial mass, attended by a number of relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Trahan are away on a wedding trip and upon their return will make their home here. Mr. Trahan has been the owner of private livery motor cars for a number of years and has gained a large circle of acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Atwood will sail from Boston Sunday for a vacation visit in Nova Scotia. Mr. Atwood will do some trout fishing while in the province.

Employes of the Quinebaug company are idle this week while certain necessary repairs are underway at the big plant.

Priests from various eastern Connecticut parishers were at Holy Trinity church, Pomfret, Monday to assist at the Forty Hours' devotion that will close this (Tuesday) morning.

There is little reason to recall this last day of August that the great coal strike of 1925 started a year ago tomorrow, when there was great scurrying about in Danielson to insure a winter's supply or fuel.

Miss Emma C. LaRoque returned to her home in New Bedford Monday after visiting with relatives in Danielson for a few days.

A new home for Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Mills is nearing completion on Hawkins street.

ARTHUR BERTHAIUME DIES WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 30—While painting a fence at North Grosvenordale, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Arthur Berthaiume, 33, was struck by an automobile driven by Henry H. Todd of Boylestown, Penn., inflicting injuries from which he died an hour later. There is a short curve in the road where the accident occurred which is misleading to an automobilist and Mr. Todd took the wrong direction in getting back to the state road his car struck Berthaiume, who was painting in front of the home of John F. Reardon, superintendent of the Grosvenordale Co., by whom Berthaiume is employed. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where an hour later he died from internal injuries. He was married and had two children. Mr. Todd, the driver of the car, was placed under arrest by Officer Joseph Carmody, of the state police. He is spending the night in the jail at North Grosvenordale in default of $2,000 bail. No formal charge has been entered against him, but it is presumed that it will be manslaughter.

By the plans of the state highway department for the elimination of the curve west of Senexit road, on the new trunk line to Woodstock, the old swimming hole west of the pumping station will be lost to the many bathers who use this place during the summer. According to plans shown, a bridge will be over the Little River at the spot so many bathers use. Alderman-at-Large Charles A. Richard says that if the state takes away the one popular swimming hole, it should provide another. This could easily be done while the work is in progress by damming up some other part of the stream. The present swimming place is near the highway and it is not large or deep, but makes a safe place for bathers who are not expert swimmers. It is intended to straighten out the present curve from the Senexit road.

All was joy in Glasgo Sunday and all visitors were given the glad hand with a fast color smile thrown in Saturday the employes of the Glasgo Finishing Co. went by trucks, busses and automobiles to Rocky Point to get one of those shore dinners before the year's chowder supply ran dry. By a prearranged agreement the Greeneville Finishing Co., men of the same craft, were also there. A series of races, contests and acrobatic stunts was pulled off, with the result that Glasgo brought home the bacon, brand, rind and spinach, while the Greeneville boys borrowed a sack and lugged it home full of goose egg. A few little side wagers were of passing interest.

One hundred and twenty-five, each one carrying his appetite with him, responded to the invitations to the annual summer clambake, at the camps on the Quinebaug Sunday. A dandy bake under the supervision of Chefs "Bill" McCluggage and "Gordie" Willis, withstood repeated attacks, followed by a unanimous expression of favor for the whole affair. Rhode Island chowder was provided at noon The bake at 3 o'clock included baked scarboro clams, baked green mackerel, lunch biscuit, green corn on the cob, roast sweet potatoes, chilled watermelon. A fine day day favored the outing, which wound up with a spirited watermelon batle, with no bulls-eyes of importance reported. The committee was Herbert Thompson, Erme and Alec Raney, H. G. Willis, Eudor LeClaire and Charles E. Maynard.

SAFETY IN THE AIR

Constant efforts are being made for greater safety in the air. This is being done by constant study for ways of improving engine and plane and by trying out various ideas for handling the flying machine when something goes wrong in the air.

For the individual it has long been recognized that the parachute offered an excellent means of descending with reasonable safety provided it was possible to get clear of the machine, but the latest test of the parachute idea which lowered a machine from an altitude of from four to five miles after the engine of the airplane had been stopped, gives hopes for additional safety through the development of this idea.

When Russell and Doucette fathered the claim that their invention would land a plane the engine of which had stalled in midair it was accepted with considerable salt. It was felt that if such a thing could be done there should be a test. That test has been held and the best part of it all is that it did just what was expected of it. The parachute opened beautifully, sustained the weight so that the descent was only 18 feet a second and landed the machine and men directly upon the ground with no harm except the breaking of the running gear and the snapping of a blade of the propeller. That is in decided contrast to what happens when machines stop and crash to the earth. Heavy losses of life have been caused by such accidents.

The demonstration coming as it did just before the accident which caused the death of Commander Rodgers of the navy encourages the belief that had his plane been equipped with such a parachute his life would not have been sacrificed. And what seems probable in his case would undoubtedly have held good in scores of others.

The parachute demonstration has merits which are certainly entitled to development and in the interest of greater safety for aviation it is to be expected that they will be freely employed for the prevention of untimely deaths and the preservation for the air service of those men of experience whose efforts have meant so much in the past and whose knowledge and skill are so greatly needed for the future.

A SUBSTANTIAL LOSS

How poorly informed many people are to their own interests, how careless they are in getting what belongs to them and how unmindful they are of small benefits is well illustrated by the statement to the effect that owners of stock in one of the country's greatest utilities failed to exercise their rights to subscribe to new stock at par, with the stock selling many points above, or even sell their rights for what they would bring, to the extent of $750,000.

This represents a direct loss to the individual stockholders who failed to use their rights or to sell them. While many of them may have been had but a single one there was nevertheless a value attached to it which might have been received, but which is worthless and of course a loss.

Due allowance will have to be made for those who forgot to attend to this bit of business and for those who did not consider it worth bothering with. The individual losses may have been small but taken in the aggregate the $750,000 is not a sum to be sneezed at and in all probability there were many who were eager to purchase those very rights. Thus it means not only a loss to the holders of the rights who have allowed them to become worthless and to those who desired them in making an investment.

The situation is not so different than that which has repeatedly come to light in connection with government bonds. Not only are there many coupons never presented for payment but in certain issues which have been called there are those which have never been turned in. The owners are not only losing the interest on their money since the redemption date but the government is unable to close the transaction.

There are those who mislay or lose their valuable papers, but those who forget and neglect to keep in touch with and benefit from investments in which they have made are not few. This latest disclosure doesn't represent praiseworthy thrift.

TEXAS SPEAKS

Apparently there were a few more than the Fergusons who felt that Mrs. Ferguson should be renominated for the governor of Texas, but when it is shown by a vote of practically two to one that another is preferred no surprise is occasioned. Such an outcome was clearly indicated by the preliminary contest in which Dan Moody running against the governor received almost as large a vote as he did during the run off. He came so close to the necessary majority over the entire field that public sentiment was clearly indicated.

Texas has had enough of the Fergusons. It reached that decision once before when James Ferguson was impeached. How it was ever able to forget that regime to the extent of nominating and electing Mrs. Ferguson when it was clearly evident that it meant the lifting of the ban against the former governor and placing him virtually in control of the state again has never been satisfactorily explained.

Texas has experienced conditions which did not please, but there was no one to blame for it more than the people of the state themselves by their action in returning the Fergusons to power.

Now at their first opportunity to remove the burden which they have been carrying they have acted in a manner which leaves no doubt of what is wanted. In fact the expression has been so emphatic that it is easy to measure the temper of the people. The trial by the Texans of the Ferguson administration and methods has been a failure and the end cannot come any too soon. In fact it is high time that Mrs. Ferguson complied with the promise which she made to Moody that she would resign at once if the primary gave him a greater number of votes than she got. Whether it was made for campaign purposes or not, the vote of the people of the Lone Star state indicates that it should be carried out.

Texas will still insist upon a democratic state government, but it will be under the guidance of Dan Moody instead of Jim Ferguson.

SOUND BUSINESS PRINCIPLES

The recent announcement that the state of Connecticut had saved $48,000 by paying its bills promptly and getting the discount indicates a bit of sound business administration that cannot fail to be pleasing to the taxpayers of the state. That shows a proper regard for state business and puts it on the same business as the conduct of a private corporation. The results of the practice put into effect a year ago are highly gratifying and even larger savings may be anticipated in the future.

Such results are in keeping with the good work that is being done at Washington. Federal expenses have been cut heavily. Federal taxes have been reduced and through the prompt payment of federal bills the sum of $675,000 was saved according to the last report of the budget director.

Connecticut's financial administration has been on a high plane for a number of years but even in spite of the good results obtained it was possible to adopt the suggestion that was made through the government practice in bill discounting, and if there was the same disposition shown in more states and in municipalities there could be a considerable saving effected.

Spending public funds is always much easier than making the best possible use of them. Rushing into debt, advocating higher taxes and boosting expenses is the common practice. Were it the fact that municipal affairs received the keen attention they deserve, savings effected where possible and the interests of the many instead of the few served the burden of indebtedness and taxation would be decreasing instead of steadily increasing. The willingness to cut out the apparent waste is hard to cultivate.

CONTROLLING THE BUSSES

The last session of congress did not act upon the question of motor bus regulation when operating in more than one state. It is a problem that has been under consideration ever since it was brought to attention that the interstate commerce commission had no authority to exercise control over such transportation lines and of course state utility commissions have no authority to deal with lines outside of their respective states. That leaves lines doing business in two or more states with more freedom than the conditions warrant.

From such a study as the interstate commerce commission is making of the bus problem and the evidence which is being provided in the hearings there should be obtained some first hand and pertinent information upon which congress can act when it gets together again.

The desirability of avoiding hasty action was emphasized in the last session of congress and yet with the heavy use of highways by motor busses and the amount of traffic which is now handled over the highways which formerly went by railroads, and therefore under the control of the interstate commerce commission, action in regard to this situation should not be too long delayed. This is evident in justice both to the public and to the bus operators.

The suggestion which was made before is still heard to the effect that the interstate commerce commission should be given authority to deal with this matter and to delegate its authority to state commissions if that is the best way in which the complicated mater with the numerous lines could be handled.

With railroads and trolley lines operating bus lines the federal or state control for the bus lines would be no different than the transportation companies have already been experiencing and which in justice to all should extend to the busses.

EDITORRIAL NOTES

So long August, see you next summer.

The man on the corner says: There are worse things than summer weather.

What has become of the zoning proposition that promised so much for Norwich?

Perhaps if August had another 30 days it might get warmed up to its usual job.

And after August comes September always one of the delightful months of the year.

With Labor day almost within sight the end of the big business at the shore resorts is at hand.

The report of more killings in Herrin, Ill., would be real news if it came from most any other place.

When the league of nations opens its new museum for portraits will it seek a group picture of the irreconcilables for preservation?

The next bit of news from the south should be an announcement to the effect that Governor Ferguson of Texas has resigned in compliance with her promise.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Emperor Yoshihito of Japan, who is 47 years old today, has been living in complete retirement for the last five years, while his son, the Crown Prince Hirohito, has ruled the country as Regent. A weakling from birth, Yoshihito showed evidence of suffering from a disease of the brain soon after he came to the throne in 1912. In 1921 the emperor's physical and mental condition became so aggravated that it was considered necessary to relieve him of the cares of state and appoint a regency in his stead. Several times lately his condition has been reported to be critical and rumors of his death have been circulated. With the passing of Yoshihito the imperial power of Japan has come into more liberal hands. The emperor was reared in accordance with the ancient idea of imperial aloofness, while the crown prince regent, on the other hand, is imbued with western ideas gained by world travel and study in Europe.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

It was actually pathetic to see how excited mother and Cousin Fannie were by their invitation to lunch at the Princess Royal hotel with the Countess de la Montagne. I chaffed mother about being thrilled by a title.

"It's not the title Lucile, which pleases me," she answered. "It's the joy of seeing a dear old friend after many, many years. Lois and I were at boarding school together the year before she went abroad. We neither of us dreamed then that she would marry into an old French family and live in Europe the rest of her life. She is just here for a short stay, and she is having this luncheon for a few of her most intimate old friends."

"Well," I said, "I hope that you don't find her developed into an old frump. I don't think that it was very nice of her to leave me out. I should think she would wish to meet your daughter."

"I suppose she isn't having any of the second generation, and it's just as well, dear, that you aren't invited, as somebody will have to stay home with your grandmother. You know, now that Tilly is away, I don't like to leave her without one of us. "Please don't make any engagement for next Thursday."

"Very well," I promised graciously, though I did think that mother was rather selfish, for she knew very well that any number of pleasant things might arise that I would wish to do on that day. As it happened I did receive an invitation for the morning from Frank Freeman that I could not refuse.

"Why, Lucile, where are you going?" asked mother on Thursday when I was starting from the house soon after breakfast. "You know you agreed to stay home today."

"I agreed to stay home while you and Cousin Fannie are out," I replied. "Frank Freeman wishes me to meet him downtown and look at a car he thinks of buying. It would hurt his feelings awfully if I didn't go."

"Really?" sniffed mother. "You must be back by 13:30."

I nodded and ran out of the house, and I did intend to be home shortly after noon, but after we had looked at the car, which I advised him to buy, for it was so beautifully upholstered, Frank insisted that I have lunch with him.

"Oh, I can't possibly," I said, but he urged me to have at least a snack, so we walked down Michigan avenue to a charming tearoom. Although I took only sandwiches, chocolate and ice cream with inelegant haste, I was horrified to find that it was nearly 1 o'clock when we had finished.

"Have you a date with royalty?" asked Frank, when I groaned at the time.

"Pretty nearly," I laughed. "I promised my mother to be home early so that she could go to luncheon with a lady of title, and I do hate to disappoint her. Darling mother, I'm afraid she's worrying now. I must simply fly. It's all your fault, Frank, for being so hospitable."

"You must take a taxi, Lucile, I insist," declared Frank. "That will hasten you some. I wish I had that new machine so I could deliver you at your door in no time, I'm just like you about mothers. They deserve all the consideration we can give them."

When I stepped out of the taxi, which Frank had paid for in advance, in his thoughtful way, I found another cab at the curb, and mother and Cousin Fanny were standing, as I laughingly remarked, booted and spurred at the door. Although they were in a tremendous hurry to be off, mother took a moment to reproach me.

"This taxi has been standing here running up a bill for nearly an hour, Lucile, and we are going to be disgracefully late. Why in the world didn't you some home when you said you would?"

"I'm sorry, but I was unavoidably detained. I thought of course you would be resourceful enough to get one of the neighbors to come in to stay a little while with granny."

Mother made no reply as she rushed to the taxi, but she gave me one of her strange sort of hopeless looks. I have not dared ask her how late they were at the luncheon, but I dare say they were not much tardier than some of the other guests. Poor dear mother and Cousin Fannie go out so little in society that they are unduly fussy when they do go. I am really the only one in our family with any social sense. — Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

HOW TO LIVE WITH HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

By Walter J. Wilson, M. D., Detroit, Michigan, Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

People with very high blood pressure may live for years, provided they have inherited a good arterial system, eat the proper diet, and do not undertake too strenuous physical exercise. A great many premature deaths are prevented by the physician who discovers high blood pressure and advises the patient how to live with it.

High blood pressure may be a symptom of heart disease in which the valve affected is the one that prevents, normally, the return of blood to the heart after it has once left it. When this valve does not work properly, the heart has to work harder in order to maintain a sufficient flow of blood. With this increased effort the blood pressure rises. This valvular defect may be caused by either rheumatism or venereal disease, proper treatment of which will, in many cases, lower blood pressure.

Another important cause of increased blood pressure is kidney disease. This often follows acute infectious diseases, such as scarlet fever, tonsilitis, rheumatism, and abscess formations around the teeth. Careful treatment is necessary when these diseases are present, to prevent development of kidney diseases, and, with it, later development of high blood pressure.

Another cause or increase in blood pressure is arterial disease. This may be caused by the infectious diseases previously mentioned and requires the same preventive measures. It is especially important in all these cases to keep the blood in circulation, in as bland and unirritating form as possible. For this reason, all irritating substances, such as the various seasoning agents, mustard, horse-radish, radish, pepper and vinegar, also alcohol, should be sparingly used.

Reduction in the salt intake will very often lower blood pressure markedly. Tobacco also has an effect of contracting the blood vessels and should be omitted or used in very great moderation. Physical exercises should still be carried out in order that complete transformation of food may take place, preventing increase in the poisonous substances which irritate both the blood vessels and the kidneys.

High blood pressure and hardening of the arteries do not necessarily accompany each other. A pipe-stem artery may be accompanied by low blood pressure, and arteries which may feel normal may still be subject to high blood pressure.

The chief danger in high blood pressure is rupture of the blood vessels, which is especially likely to take place on some sudden increase in physical exercises, such as climbing many flights of stairs or a hill—or under undue excitement caused by unusual anger or joy. Nervous tension is one blood pressure. It is therefore necessary in all these cases to modify the person's manner of living so that the tension which usually accompanies business activity may be avoided.

To prevent high blood pressure, prevent infectious diseases, or, if contracted, take a long convalescent period, eat proper food, see that elimination of waste products takes place, every day, take warm baths frequently, and arrange life so as to avoid unusual physical and mental strain.

CHILD TRAINING

THE GOOD LOSER

Mary Zook

Everyone admires a good loser. This is particularly true of the American public. When Carpentier sailed back to France a few years ago, he took with him the esteem and good will of the American people, because he accepted his defeat so gracefully. Conversely, a certain excellent tennis player is not well thought of because she is suspected of being a poor sport.

The training of a child to be a good loser is extremely important as the attitude he takes with regard to his losses will make or mar his disposition and will determine whether or not he can keep his friends. No one likes a whining, complaining person about. This training cannot be started too early as the older the child grows, the harder the lesson becomes.

My mother commenced with me when I was six years old. It appears that I attempted to play croquet for the first time. Not being able to drive the ball through the wicket after one of the attempts, I burst into tears, threw my mallet on the grass in a rage and screamed that I wouldn't play any more. My mother gently insisted that I must finish the game. She put the mallet back into my hands and told me to try again. Of course the ball went wilder than ever and I screamed loudly and wept, but it did not change my mother's decision. She kept me at it until I had been through every wicket. The fact that I was blinded by tears which continued to flow during the entire game made no difference. My mother purposed to make me a good loser and did not hesitate to sacrifice her own afternoon's pleasure. Her experiment worked to my advantage as will be seen.

The crying habit I had inherited to some extent. Every time I tried to do something new and failed the first time, I wept and became so thoroughly discouraged that I gave up trying. This fault is absolutely fatal to the progress and advancement of any child or adult. It is impossible to get ahead if such an attitude of mind is permitted. My mother was fully alive to this fact and strove to reason with me and to encourage me never to cry, but to bite my lips and hold the tears back at all costs. She showed me what a hindrance this fault would be later on if I did not control it then. I gradually formed the habit of whistling when I felt myself on the verge of tears. I still find this helpful.

It took time and patience on my mother's part to break me of the crying habit. The tears gradually became less frequent.

By the time I had finished high school the results of this training were clearly seen. I could lose a game and smile with the best of them. Tears were a thing of the past. Under very trying circumstances, I competed for a scholarship. The fact that the odds might be against me and the fact that I had not yet recovered from a case of "pink eye" did not deter me from straining every nerve to succeed. Success crowned my efforts. Had it not, I had already made complete arrangements to undertake a similar series of examinations the very next week at a different university. Who shall say that I had not learned to persevere!

IN DAY'S NEWS

ROME'S "SEA-GOING HACKS" ARE PASSING

The decision of the municipal authorities of Rome to retire some of the horse-drawn public carriages that ply the streets of the famous city, and at the same time to increase the taxi-cab supply is announced in news dispatches.

"Few sojourners in Rome have escaped riding in these conveyances of a by-gone day," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "The tourist, often newly arrived from Paris, where taxis swarm in all the thoroughfares, is struck immediately by the few seen on the streets of Rome. The lack is all the more marked because the Italian-made taxis are excellent vehicles.

"At the station or at his hotel the visitor can obtain a taxi-cab with little delay, but sooner or later he will stand on a street corner vainly trying to find one unoccupied. Then he will convince himself that the open 'Victoria' rolling sedately down the street will serve, and in he will climb.

"No doubt there are relatively new carriages doing public duty in Rome, drawn by energetic horses; but the casual visitor seldom encounters them. The carriages are of the kind dubbed 'sea-going hacks' before the flowering of the gasoline age drove them from our streets. They are reminiscent of our Capital's Pennsylvania Avenue, and numerous other city main streets of the late nineties; a low step between curved fenders, a single low seat for passengers, a steep upward sweep in front to a high driver's seat. The combination usually met with consists of an old vehicle, drawn by a nag long past his prime, and guided by an ancient mariner of the reins and whip.

"One's first impression is surprisingly favorable. Rested by the stop to take the passenger aboard, the horse starts off at a smart trot. But this pace lasts for less than a hundred feet, then drops to a slow, dejected walk. The cabby goes through the form of administering a few half-hearted whacks to his draft animal, then accepts the routine which is evidently well established. You gather, roughly, that every self-respecting Roman carriage horse insists on walking three times as far as he has trotted before he feels equal to the strain of making another dash.

"Naturally these easy-going equipages interfers with traffic, especially in the narrower and more crowded streets. They are seen at their worst in the gleaming, white, tile-lined traffic tunnel that dives under the grounds of the Quirinal Palace. Tram car bells clang at them, taxi horns screech belligerently, and truck drivers curse; but if a 'walking period' has arrived the four-legged object of all this din walks while traffic piles up; and apparently nothing can be done about it. That is, nothing but the removal of this particular factor of Rome's transit system. Tourists who have had similar experiences can picture some busy official, held up by one of these ancient vetture, rushing back to his office and impatiently penning the recent order that is to make Roman cab service less a matter of horse-flesh and more a matter of gasoline."

In her earlier days Mrs. Stanley Baldwin wife of the British prime minister, was a rather celebrated cricket player, and used to play with the White Heather club, composed entirely of women members.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Reddy is Stung by Jellyfish

The curious will, soon or late,
Find that they're stung, as sure as fate.

—Graywing the Gull.

If ever any one felt foolish, it was Reddy Fox when Graywing the Gull asked him where the things were that he wanted to know about. He looked just as foolish as he felt. He was staring all about, with his mouth open in the most foolish way. He couldn't find his tongue for a few minutes. Finally, he managed to answer Graywing's question. "I—I—think Jimmy Skunk must have carried them away," said he.

"Were there many of them?" inquired Graywing.

"The beach was covered with them," returned Reddy.

"Then how could Jimmy Skunk carry them away?" inquired Graywing.

At this, Reddy looked more foolish than ever. He realized then that, of course, Jimmy Skunk couldn't have had anything to do with it, and was honest enough to say so. "But somebody must have carried them away," he declared.

"There's one now!" he cried

Now Graywing suspected what Reddy had seen, and his eyes twinkled. "Can't you remember," he inquired, "just the spot where you left one of those things."

Reddy looked about. "Yes," said he. "I left one right on the sand over by that stone, and there are my footprints in the sand where I stood looking at it."

Graywing looked over there. "There seems to be a wet spot there," said he. "I left one right on the sand over by that stone, and there are my footprints in the same where I stood looking at it."

Reddy went over to the stone and examined the wet place. There certainly was a wet place exactly where those little masses of jelly had been lying. "You must be right, Neighbor Gull," said he. "I don't know what those queer things could have been, but they certainly have melted. I am sorry I got you up here for nothing."

"Don't mention it," replied Graywing. "It was no trouble at all. By the way, Neighbor Fox, have you ever seen one of these things?" Graywing was looking down into a pool of water between the rocks.

Reddy went over and jumped up on another rock, from which he could look down into that pool. Right away he became so excited that he nearly fell into the pool. "There's one now!" cried. "There's one of those things down in the water! The beach was just covered with them."

Graywing laughed right out. "I thought as much," said he. "That, Reddy, is a Jellyfish. Of course, it can't live out of water, but see how pretty it is in the water."

It was pretty. It was a round disc that still looked as if it were made of jelly, but the edges of it were moving and to Reddy's surprise it was swimming. From underneath this round disc Reddy could see long, thread-like things streaming out behind. "Do you call that thing a fish?" he cried.

"Folks call it a Jellyfish," said Graywing, "though, of course, it isn't a real fish; but it is alive and swims, as you can see."

"But what became of all those I saw on the beach?" cried Reddy.

Again Graywing chuckled. "They melted," said he. "You see that Jellyfish there is made up mostly of water, and so in the hot sun he disappears when he is out on the beach."

The Jellyfish was close in. Reddy wondered if he couldn't scoop it out on the rocks to see if it would melt. He thrust a black paw in among a lot of those little threads, intending to slip it under that disc and scoop the Jellyfish out. "Wow!" cried Reddy, and fell backward off that rock. He had been stung. The threads of that Jellyfish had stung him. It is a way they have of doing. Now Graywing did laugh! But it was some time before Reddy could see the joke.

A group of people in a small factory were having their picnic on a recent Saturday afternoon and one of the employes was accompanied by his sons. At the table he remarked that he believed he would have some of the "angel food" cake, as it was so much like himself.

Several of the named delegates immediately declared that they withdraw in favor of Mr. Donohue or anyone that he might name but the first man named by him declined. The delegates were elected as above and the caucus adjourned in nearly record time.

PROGRAMME OF DRAMATICS BY PLAYGROUNDS CHILDREN

The playgrounds gave its annual dramatic presentation at the Rockwell street entrances to Mohegan park on Monday evening before a good-sized audience. The program was well carried out, with the various grounds presenting to those assembled the work which had been done along this line for the season.

The Greeneville orchestra opened the program with several selections on their ukes, and songs with uke accompaniment which were generously applauded.

Following this the Lake street ground presented "A Helpful Dream." This depicted the dream of a girl, in which several different visions appeared to her. These were connected with poems which she had read and included the Village Blacksmith, with a child representing the village smithy, the Children's House with several small children to depict the scene of Hiawatha, with Indian girls to represent the poem. As a fitting conclusion the entire cast sang America.

The Elizabeth street children presenting "In a Naturalization Court" was next on the program. This was very humorous and brought well deserved aplause from the audience.

Johnny Dosch and Joe Finnegan representing the Falls Acrobats were next on the program and these boys showed themselves possessed of much talent along this line. Johnny Dosch also gave several harmonica selections.

The Jail Hill ground followed with dancing accompanied by musical selections and songs which were well executed.

The Greeneville orchestra closed the evening's program with musical selections which were very well given.

The whole affair was successfully presented and much praise no doubt will be extended to those responsible for the evening's entertainment.

WOMAN FRAUD STEALS FROM MOHEGAN INDIANS

The members of the Mohegan Indian tribe, whose reservation is below Norwich, are indignant at the discovery that this year again a woman imposter has been collecting money, claiming to represent the tribe.

It is known that the fraud has operated at the beach resorts, having begun quite early in the summer. She has given various names, sometimes calling herself Fielding, at other times representing herself as Mrs. Harris. It has come out that she collected $5 each from a number of charitable women at towns in the shore section of the county, also at the Rhode Island beaches; she promised those donating the money that when the Wigwam was held each would be given a handsome souvenir, free.

Leading members of the sewing society of the little church were in Norwich Monday, and expressed not only indignation but sorrow that any person should have the malice to cheat their society in this mean way. They talked of bringing the matter to the attention of Prosecuting Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, or of reporting the facts to Chief George Linton, in the hope that the woman fraud could be detected and penalized as her contemptible act deserves.

William H. Callahan, chairman of the town committee, called the caucus to order and Mayor Milo R. Waters was elected chairman on motion of Judge Thomas J. Kelly. The mayor took the chair amid applause and remarked that while there may not be as many in the caucus as our friends, the enemy, had the other night, he thought that with the harmony here as compared with their good will, the democratic party should have a wonderful opportunity in the coming election.

Lawrence E. Millea was elected clerk of the caucus, reading the call for the caucus, after which Henry Gebrath made the nomination of the delegates whom, he said, were endorsed by the town committee.

They were elected unanimously as follows:

STRUCK TELEGRAPH POLE ON LAUREL HILL CURVE

Crashing squarely into a telegraph pole on the westerly side of Laurel Hill avenue about 3:15 Monday afternoon a Ford coupe with three New London men in it was wrecked and two of the men were so severely injured as to require hospital attention The automobile was proceeding towards New London and was reported to have come down the grade and curve near the old chapel at high speed so that it narrowly missed hitting another car and then ran over the curb onto the sidewalk and hit the pole near the foot of the hill.

The coupe was owned and registered in the name of Willard Gordon of New London, who is known in that city as "doc" because he does tattoo work at rooms on Bank street. He was in the machine, but he would not admit to the police that he had been driving and he was placed under arrest on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He secured $300 bail later for his appearance in the city court this (Tuesday) morning. He had a slight cut on his face.

Harold Mosher of 86 Willetts avenue and Roger Jukis of 59 Federal street were the other occupants of the machine. Jukis was thrown out onto the sidewalk through the door and was partially stunned, while he sustained a severe cut on the forehead and lacerations on one wrist. He was rushed to the Backus hospital in a private car and remained at the hospital overnight.

Mosher sustained a bad gash in his left wrist and a cut on the nose from broken windshild glass. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance and after treatment was discharged but is summoned as a witness for the case in court.

When word of the accident was telephoned to police headquarters, Chief George Linton at once sent Sergeant Myron Morgan and Officers Barney Keenan and Charles Smith with the patrol wagon to the scene.

Dolled Up Beacon.

Monday afternoon, Sergeant Myron O. Morgan slicked up the big beacon at the bank corner, which, although almost automatic in its action, needs a little cleaning now and then.

SUSIE HEARS TALE REGARDING NEW LONDON AND HER ADVERTISING

Sust seems to have it in for our city of New London for in this week's letter she again tells of an incident that has come to her attention while in New London which she seems to think does not reflect any credit on the New London Chamber of Commerce or the New London merchants. We refrain from commenting on it one way or another but give to the public just as she has written it. Her letter follows:

Dear Sports Ed.:

Seeing as how you is connected with the newspaper game, either as a necessity or for love of it, I run onto something in that thriving metropolis of Eastern Connecticut which I thought might interest you. After claiming everything between Harlem river bridge and Cape Cod it seems to me that New London ought not to be scared that anybody's going to steal anything from them but such is the case if what I heard the other day down there is right.

From what I hear New London is as scared of Norwich as a gentleman of color is of a graveyard at midnight and twice as jealous. The old green-eyed monster sure must have a strangle-hold on them babies what runs stores down there. The tale what I heard is this and you can decide for yourself whether I'm right or all wet in my dope about them New London merchants and their Chamber of Commerce.

You know as well as anybody, if you is married and I hear that you is, that last Saturday was Dollars Day in Norwich. Well Norwich folks thought it would be a wonderful thing if them people down in New London was informed of what wonderful bargains a feller could get by coming to Norwich so they thought of advertising in a New London paper. Well from what I hear a advertisement was fixed up and a New London paper was asked to print the adv. Well whatda you know, that paper hadda got out and interview the Chamber of Commerce before they could say yes or no. They tell me down in New London that them merchants was going to have a dollar day the next week and they says to the paper that the paper had better lay offa the advertising from Norwich.

Gosh it kinda looks to me like the Chamber of Commerce was running the paper down there. So Ed. if you ever get pinched down in the old whaling town go to the Chamber of Commerce and maybe, remember I say maybe, they call up the paper and your name won't be put in. Of course this aint true of all New London papers. Gosh Ed. that paper must have a lotta money to be able to turn down a coupla pages of cash advertising. I wonder, Ed., If I went down there the merchants would refuse to sell me goods just because I came from outa town. I bet they wouldn't yet they expect a New London paper to turn down outa town advertising. Looks kinda like two shoes on the same feets if you know what I mean. I bet your paper wouldn't do nothing like that.

The way them New London merchants acted reminds me of a case in Providence not so many years ago. It seems that the Letout Co. of Providence was just to open up business much against the wishes of them Providence merchants. Well them merchants says to the newspapers you accept them adv. and we ain't going to advertise no more. Well them Providence papers turns down the new company so the company gets a lotta fliers out and in big type tells the public how the newspapers wont take their adv. and apologize for having to throw bills at people's front doors. Well, believe me, when them papers was left at every house in Providence the people who are fair-minded just flocked to the store and they got off with a bang and have been going ahead ever since. The reaction was entirely different from what them Providence merchants expected.

They tell me down in New London that somebody up in Norwich did about the same thing to New London. They tell me that every house in New London hadda paper giving all the dollar day advs. for Norwich merchants. Maybe the New London folks thought the same as them Providence paper. Well Ed. when alls said and done it looks to me like them New London merchants was afraid of the progressive merchants we got in Norwich. New London may claim all she wants to but its a cinch she ain't going to claim no Norwich merchants for which I is thankful. Its them kinda tricks what don't help nobody and keeps New London where she is and all the hurrahing and hollering for New London don't do know good if their heart ain't right and their eyes is dimmed by jealousy. That's that.

Well Ed. it's getting pretty near time for my vacation and Ma and Pa is still going to the mat regarding where we'll go and where we won't. I told you we had decided to go on a camping tour but it ain't settled yet. The only thing what's settled is that Ma's going to drive the buggy and Pa's going to sit in the back seat and ain't going to do no back seat driving either. Ma's been practicing driving that fliver for the past coupla weeks and has got so's she can turn around, provided she's got a ten-acre lot to do it in. She ain't had much trouble yet, only been towed in a coupla times 'cause she forgot to look at the gas, hit one tree but didn't do much damage to the tree only busted a coupla headlights and a mud guard, had four blowouts, in the tires I means, and was pinched once for not obeying a traffic cop. Outside of that everythings going fine.

Well Ed. next week I suppose I'll be whirling through the country-side coming in contact with nature as it is. I hope them contacts ain't forcible though.

Well so long old dear.

As Ever Susie.

YANTIC TO PLAY POWER CO. TONIGHT

The biggest game of the twilight season will be held tonight at the Duwell field, when Yantic and the E. C. P. will meet for the second time of the season. Those that saw the last game between these two teams need not be told what to expect tonight, but for the benefit of those who were not lucky enough to witness the last game perhaps it might be well to say that those who crowd onto the Duwell field tonight will be well rewarded, as it is almost a safe bet to say that the game will be every bit as exciting and thrilling as the last game which the Power Co. won in the last inning with two out by a score of 2 to 1. At this game the attendance was estimated at around three thousand, every one of them being kept continually on their feet by some hair-raising play. For two weeks the Power Co., has had the pennant all but cinched, but each time that they have met the Warriors they have been held to a tie, keeping them just far enough away so that they could not claim the pennant. Should they turn back the Yantic team tonight they will be declared the 1926 champions, but should they fail, it will be up to the Warriors on Tuesday night to defeat them again making a three cornered tie, between the Power Co., Yantic and the Saints.

Manager Jimmy Holland will use his strongest available lineup tonight to make sure that Yantic is again defeated. Manager Peckham of the Yantic nine refuses to make any statement as to what kind of a lineup he will use except, that the Yantic fans are coming down strong with plenty of the old long green, to back whatever team he does put in the field. It is rumored that Mgr. Peckham has signed up several new men and that a few of them have been wearing the J. E. Martin uniform all season. The only statement coming from him is that Cannonball Gill Jones will pitch and Hamil will catch.

The probable E. C. P. lineup will include Sheflott, catch; Dugas, pitch; Murphy, first base; Cimikowski, second; Barry short; Yerrington or Whitney, third; and Greene, Smith, Goldblatt, Hull and Barry in the outfield. The game will start at 6:30 as both of these teams have agreed to get around early.

Tuesday the Warriors will play the Power Co., and on; Wednesday the Yantic and Saints will play the last game of the season.

NAILDRIVERS TAKE LOOSE GAME FROM CLEAVERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Naildrivers took the Cleavers into camp 8 to 2 here tonight in another dusk contest which went by three and one-half innings. The Cleavers threw away the ball game in the first inning when errors let the first two men get on to score on George LaBelle's double after the third man up flied out to second. Alex LaBelle was safe on another error and both scored on a hit double by Bertlieume.

In the first half of the fourth the Cleavers scored when they bunched three hits. LaBelle had the better of the pitching holding the Cleavers to four hits while he fanned eight. Vadas, twirling for the Cleavers hurled in fine form and deserved a better fate but received poor support. Two of the three hits by the Naildrivers came in the first inning after the first three men should have been retired. The score:

MOOSUP TO OPEN FALL SEASON NEXT SUNDAY

The Moosup baseball team will open the fall season next Sunday against either Riverview, Jewett City, J. B. Martin, Webster or Danielson if any of these clubs can be booked. The team this year is under the management of Henry Amidon of Moosup who piloted the club to the state championship in 1915 and 1916. Manager Amidon claims that he will have as fast a bunch of ball tossers as ever represented Moosup, a club that fears no team in the state.

Joe LaBelle is reported as collecting a fast club to represent Danielson and the Moosup manager is anxious to arrange a series with the LaBelle aggregation. Manager Amidon would also like to arrange a series with the Riverview club as he considers Riverview oe of the best clubs in Connecticut.

TUNNEY HAS ONLY LIGHT WORKOUT

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Gene Tunney, heavyweight contender for Jack Dempsey's crown, spent his last day in his New York state training camp in comparative leisure. Some road work in the morning and a few rounds at the light bag sufficed for his training today.

Tunney planned today to leave Speculator tomorrow afternoon with a few of his men and drive to Albany. From there he will go to New York by night boat. Arriving in that city early Wednesday morning, he will continue his journey during the day to Stroudsburg. The majority of the camp members will go from Speculator to Syracuse and from there to Stroudsburg by way of Binghamton.

EASTERN CONN. TENNIS TOURNEY OPENS AT GOLF CLUB ON THURSDAY

The Third Annual Eastern Connecticut Championship Tennis tournament will be held on the courts of the Norwich Golf club beginning next Thursday when the first rounds of the singles, doubles and mixed doubles will be played. The finals will be played on Labor Day.

The tournament is open to all amateur tennis players of good standing, within and without, the state. Entrants desiring to play in the doubles events are urged to give names of partners when filing application. Those entering the singles events unable to find partners and still desiring to play in the doubles events should so state in their application and effort will be made by the committee to obtain partners. If applicants have played in other tournaments or in school tournaments they should state so in application. Be sure to give address and telephone number in application. Applications must be received by August 31st.

Prizes

Attractive prizes will be given to the winners and runners-up in each event. The winner of the men's singles tournament, in addition to the prize, will win a leg on the Willowbrook trophy. Permanent possession of this cup will go to the one winning three legs on the trophy.

Rules

Play will be on clay courts. Drawings will be made on today and players will be notified of the time of their first match. The bulletin board will show the time for the succeeding matches. Those not reporting in time for play will be defaulted. Rules of the U. S. L. T. A. will govern the tournament. Wright and Ditson championship balls will be used. Courts will be open without fee to contestants two days before commencement of tournament.

If hotel accommodations are desired please state so in application. Refreshments and light lunches can be secured a la carte at the club house. Entrants and guests may arrange for special dinners or lunches by telephoning the clubhouse the day before or by writing direct to the Norwich Golf club, advising the number to be served and the menu desired.

This championship tournament has become a fixture at the Norwich Golf club and is attracting state-wide notice for there are no better courts in the state than those found at the local club. Tennis is being revived in Norwich and al credit goes to the tennis committee of the golf club which has done wonders along this line.

It is expected that some of the best players in the state will be in competition at the local courts during the latter part of the week and it was hoped earlier in the season that some of the ranking players of the country would be here but with the Davis cup play and national tournaments coming soon it is hardly probable that any of the first twenty will be here.

MANY FAST MEN COMING HERE FOR A. A. U. MEET

The three open A. A. U. events on the field event program to be held at the Norwich fair on Sept. 8th are attracting considerable attention throughout the state, many entries being received already from well known athletes.

The Harriers of New Haven, who won the Police field meet in that city on August 11th and are known throughout the state as one of the most prominent in field events have entered a dozen athletes in the three events the 100 yard dash, one-half mile run and mile run and it is expected that before the week is out that entries will be received from the Cygnet A. C. of East Portchester, the Insilico club of Meriden, the Boy's club of Waterbury, Board of Recreation of Bridgeport and Y. M. C. A.'s of New Britain, Hartford and Stamford; all of these clubs have been invited to send athlets, which will go a long way towards making the first A. A. U. meet ever held in Norwich a big success.

The Harriers of New Haven include track men from Yale, Holy Cross and many of the high schools in that city. The closed Eastern Conn. events are also attracting considerable attention, many local entries being received to date. These three events the 100 yard dash, one-half mile run, and mile run will without a doubt attract much local interest as the boys who take part in these events are all well known to the people of the city.

The Submarine Base, Ashland club, New London Y. M. C. A., Willimantic Y. M. C. A., Putnam Y. M. C. A., and Norwich Y. M. C. A., have been invited to send entries for these events, which assures plenty of competition in these events

To date the only two events which have not received as uch attention as was thought possible are the 100 yard dash and 100 yard relay closed to the playgrounds of Eastern Conn. These events were arranged especially for the sake of creating interest amongst the playgrounds and it is hoped that they will be well patronized as it is the intention of the committee in charge of athletics to build up the playground events more and more each year. Anyone desiring entry blanks can get same by applying to "Sports" Duwell A. A. Norwich, Conn.

WESTERLY

FIRE PROTECTION COMMITTEE ALONG PAWCATUCK RIVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 30—Walter S. Hiscox, an assessor of the Westerly Fire district and building contractor; Louis J. Rossi, Westerly zoning inspector and civil engineer, and Frank A. Sullivan, a member of the Westerly zoning commission and granite contractor, have been named by Moderator Lewis Stanton of the Westerly Fire district, as members and fire district taxpayers of the committee to act with the board of engineers of the fire district to plan for better fire protection along the Pawcatuck river. The members of the board of engineers consists of George E. Egger, chief; Robert Bonner, first assistant; George A. McKenzie, second and Columbus Pasetti, third assistant. This committee is also empowered to look after the changing over or rebuilding of the fire house on Union street, and to report at a future meeting of the taxpayers of the Westerly Fire district, to be called by the clerk.

At the annual meeting of the Westerly Fire district Aug. 25th, Chief Egger spoke of the difficulty in using the Ahrens-Fox 900 gallon pumper on the Pawcatuck river bridge, where on Broad street with suction dropped through a manhole, at times only six inches of water and considerable current is found. He recommended that a dock be constructed at the rear of Barber Memorial building, High street, where the pumper could be located. The district was told that Agent William A. Wilcox of the building not only had consented but had agreed to donate the stone. Access to the Pawcatuck river was advocated by Chief Egger between the mill of the Westerly Textile company and the Briggs building at the head of Main street, where he thought a runway could be built.

Chief Egger reported that a number of business men of the town had complained to him, of the fire trap nature of the present wooden fire house on Union street. The floors were in need of rebuilding or the fire apparatus would go through into the basement. He said that there were two places where citizens of the town hesitated to use visitors—the Westerly Police station and the Westerly Fire station on Union street.

The board of engineers of the Westerly Fire district now has under consideration the purchase of an additional motorized pumper for the fire district. At the annual meeting of the district, $14,000 or as much of the sum as was necessary, was voted them for the purchase of such a pumper and the necessary equipment.

SAVONA LEAVES TOWN, FORFEITS BOND OF $1,000

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Aug. 30—Bonds of $1,000 for the appearance of Joseph Savona, a baker, of 16 Cherry street, Pawcatuck, furnished by his brother, Salvatore Savona, a barber of Westerly, residing at 10 Cherry street, Pawcatuck, were declared forfeited to the state, Monday morning, in the session of Stonington town court before Judge William A. Wilcox, when Savona, alias "Shorty, the baker," failed to put in an appearance.

The Savona place in Pawcatuck was raided Wednesday evening last by three troopers from the Groton barracks when frequenters were found near the place and an assorted lot of liquors was seized. Two counts were in the complaint on which Savona was to be arraigned before the court, that he sold to George Sisson of the Groton barracks state police on Wednesday, certain spirituous and intoxicating liquors, and the second, that he kept with intent to sell, in a wooden box there was present before the court as evidence filled and partly filled bottles of whiskey, gin, wine and other liquors.

When the case of Savona was called Town Solicitor George R. McKenna of Stonington announced to the court that the state understood that the man had disappeared. The bondsman, Salvatore Savona, was asked by Attorney McKenna if he had seen his brother and the reply was received that he had left for New York with his wife and children. Judge Wilcox declared the bond of $1,000 forfeited to the state and directed Clerk Albert G. Martin to proceed and collect it at once. Of this bond one-half goes to the state and the balance to the town of Stonington.

Edward Divan of Stonington, having been arrested by Patrolman William Ostman, was charged by Solicitor McKenna on Aug. 29th with disturbing and breaking the peace by turbulent and offensive carriage, language and behavior. He pleaded guilty. Mrs. Holland was called and testified that the defendant had been drinking, came to the parked auto in which she sat and claimed the car as his own and used offensive language. A fine of $5 and costs of $14.76, amounting to $19.76 was imposed and paid.

Joseph Ponte was arraigned with a charge of breach of the peace, Aug. 29th, having been arrested by Officer Ostman. He pleaded guilty. The state showed that while drinking in Stonington he struck another man. He was fined by Judge Wilcox $5 and costs of $14.22, amounting to $19.22, which he paid.

Manuel Anthony, 22, was charged with operating an automobile Aug. 26, on Water street, Stonington, without first obtaining a license. Officer Ostman saw the man driving in a manner which showed that he had little experience and his arrest followed. Solicitor McKenna told the court that the casew as without an intentional violation of the law, as the operator thought no license wa snecessary while he was learning to operate. He was fined $10 and costs of $11.46 amounting to $21.46 which he paid.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk are the following transfers: August 27, Mary Frances Allen of Westerly, John Francis Allen, Middle Village, N. Y., and Edwin Brown Allen of Troy, N. Y., as doners of power of sale under will of John Allen, and individually, land with buildings and improvements, south of Margin street, and on the east side of the Pawcatuck river.

This Flavor

alone will satisfy you in quick cooking oats —"Quaker" flavor

IN QUICK QUAKER—the world's fastest hot breakfast—the famous toasty flavor of the real Quaker Oats has been retained.

That, to you, is important; for flavor is the big point, after all, in food.

No other brand has that flavor. It took Quaker Oats experts years to attain it, and, at the same time, give you 3 to 5 minute cooking.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and this "bulk" are thus combined in making Quaker Oats an excellently balanced food.

That is why, in quick cooking oats, as in the regular, the important point to millions is to see the picture of a Quaker on the package of Oats that they buy.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During August the building activities in Norwich showed an increase over the month of July according to the number of building permits granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. During July there were 19 permits issued while during the past month the number was 30. The total valuation for July was ahead of that of August as there were a number of new houses included in the July total. The summary for the month of August is as follows:

New Frame Houses	5
New Frame Garages	6
New Cement Garage	1
New Frame Barn	1
Alterations to frame buildings	12
Alterations to brick buildings	3
Alterations to stone buildings	1
Total	30
Owner's valuation—$37,350

During the past week nine permits were granted at the office of the fire marshal and were as follows:

To Charles Rayewski to add a frame veranda to the present house at 26 North street. The addition will be 7x14 feet.

To Ben Gwazdoff to erect a 2-family frame house with garage attached at 51 Mechanic street. The house will be 30x33 feet and 2 stories high. There will be five rooms and bath to each tenement and verandas both front and rear. The garage will be 10x33 feet.

To Frank W. Johnson to erect a frame garage 12x17 feet on the Spring street extension.

To P. F. Sweeney to build an addition to the present house at 224 Broad street for Nathan Lambert. The addition will be 8x21 feet and two stories high.

To Joseph Brogno to build an addition to the present house at No. 16 Oak street. The addition will be 20x40 feet and two stories high and will contain four rooms. The foundation is of cement and the superstructure of frame construction with a composition shingle exterior.

T. Martin Kozerefski to erect a cement garage, 38x33 feet, at 85 High street.

To William Shibecoff to build a frame garage 20x20 feet at 28 Pearl street.

To Irene Gatrouses to build a frame house on Golden street extension. The house will be 28x28 feet and will have five rooms and bath. The foundation will be of stone and cement. The frame will be of wood.

To Tom Dieykas to add a frame veranda to his present house on Avery street. The veranda will be 5x2 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were four sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to 14 sales for the corresponding week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $56,475 and $33,865.

There were 13 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, an increase of four sales over the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $26,917 and $31,275.

Building Permits in State

The record of building permits issued and the estimated cost of proposed construction work for the past week in this state shows a substantial increase over the like week a year ago. A total of 418 permits were issued in the building centers reported in The Commercial Record, for building work estimated to cost $1,955,436. In the same period last year the total number of permits was 262 and the estimated construction cost $1,286,323.

Nation-wide building totals for July did not measure up to those for July, 1925, according to a building survey by S. W. Straus & Co. embracing reports from 475 cities and towns. There was a decline from June this year of about 11 per cent. While a July-June loss is normal the loss from July a year ago would seem to indicate more than merely a midsummer slowing down in view of the widespread loss, which is shown in about half of the states and 12 of the 25 leading cities.

Gain Shown in Connecticut

As reported before the July totals for building construction in this state were in excess of last year. Contrary to the reports from a majority of the states the figures for Connecticut indicate that summer building activity has been at a higher rate than last year. That gains made in this state during the present month is shown in the record of building permits issued in the cities and towns covered by The Commercial Record. A digest of these reports reveals that building work featured by extensive operations at Yale university leads the list in the classes of construction recently started.

New London

Only one permit was included in the list of nine building permits issued by the city Monday night. Garages, both private and commercial, accounted for four of the permits while one application granted was for the addition to a garage. Repairs and alterations were the substance of the two remaining applications granted upon Tuesday.

The interior is being completed on a two-family dwelling and lot for Elizabeth Boyle of the north side avenues. The house measures 26 by 28 feet and is two stories high. The garage is 22 by 28 feet.

Work has been completed on the addition to the garage of The Hop N. M. Laundry at 5 Montauk avenue. The new addition is of concrete frame construction 16 by 40 feet.

The Gulf Refining company has completed work on the new gasoline station at Main and Church streets. The new station is 21 by 40 by nineteen by brick construction and Elizabethan design. Road entrances are afforded from both Main and Church streets. A lattice fence around the property enhances the appearance.

A two-story frame cottage has been completed for Harry Rokosky at 29 Waller court. The new structure is 23 by 25 feet and of modern design with all modern conveniences. It is arranged for one family occupancy.

Work is progressing rapidly on the interior finishing of the new cottage being built for Anthony Irlandi at 112 Ocean avenue. The new structure is of frame construction and of modern design. Specifications call for a foundation 21 by 32 feet with an ell 8 by 15 feet.

Considerable progress has been made in repairs to the large frame building at 860 Main street, owned by J. and E. Rzepniewski. The building was damaged by fire early this year.

A frame garage 12 by 20 has been completed for Mrs. Frank S. Gardner in Gardner avenue. The garage is of colonial design fitting the surrounding architecture.

Extensive alterations to the house owned by Robert Rome at 328 Montauk avenue have been completed by Contractor John L. Aitchison. The work included the transformation of the roof and top floor, providing dormer windows and considerable more space.

The exterior side walls of the hollow tile bungalow being built for Thomas Occhialini in Montauk avenue near Thames street is nearing completion. The new structure is of a combined Spanish and Italian design. Plans call for a structure 35 by 46 with all modern conveniences including tile baths.

The two family dwelling being built for H. R. Griswold at Connecticut and Fairfield avenues is enclosed and work is being rushed on the interior. According to plans the structure will be 27 by 40, of frame construction and providing two six-room apartments.

The interior plastering and trim work is being rushed on the two-story frame cottage being built for Mrs. Annie M. Hislop in Ledyard street.

A stone garage 30 by 18 is being built for Matteo Rossie at 16 Shaw street. The garage is arranged for commercial use.

Work is progressing rapidly on the alterations of the store front at 34 Main street for Mr. Itzkowitz. The alterations will provide an entirely new front of modern design with a deep entrance. The interior of the store is being remodeled with new shelving installed.

Work has been started by the Southern New England Telephone company on the construction of a storage house 19 by 20 on Broad street. The new store house will be used in conjunction with the company garage in the Shannon and Rukosky automobile body.

Two dormer windows, 12 feet long are being completed for Mrs. J. A. Moon at the house at 169 Ocean avenue. The work is being done from private plans.

Former Mayor E. Frank Morgan has now added the designing of buildings to his long list of accomplishments. The former executive who is proprietor of the Pequot Laundry, appears as contractor and architect on an application to build a garage 42 by 20 in the rear of the laundry at Pequot avenue, brought to the attention of the city council at its weekly meeting Monday night by City Manager William A. Holt. A permit to build the garage was granted by the council.

William Golding, cellar for cottage 24 by 26 Henry street.

Arthur H. McCarthy, one and one-half story cottage 27 by 30, Farnsworth street.

E. Kuplin, frame garage, 18 by 20, 27 Clover court.

William T. Reagan, garage, 8 by 16, 20 Walker street.

A. J. Coulter repair roof, 16 by 27, 231 Williams street.

Jennie Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lynch, two-car frame garage 20 by 13, 96 Greenwich street.

Joseph Berenbaum, new brick front 20 by 13, 96 Greenwich street.

John McGann, addition on garage, 8 feet 8 inches by 15, 14-24 Walker street.

WESTERLY BUILDING WORK ON INCREASE

Appreciable gain has been shown in the past week in the construction work of two business blocks in Westerly, especially that of the South County Public Service company's eight and one-half future business headquarters on High street. The forms for three sides of the cement underpinning were broken during the week and the exterior sides covered with a waterproof coating. At the site of the new Nardone block, corner of High and Canal streets, a steam shovel continued the work of excavation for the cellar, where a part of one of the cellar subdivision walls is in place and the cellar wall along Canal street. Work has not yet begun on the site of the old Dr. J. Howard Morgan homestead, where David Novogrod is having plans prepared for the erection of a business structure.

During the third week in August, 1926, Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following permits:

Aug. 14. Mrs. George E. Smith, South Manchester. Close in outside stairs in rear of house on Lots Nos. 10 and 12 Clark avenue, Pleasant View Beach. Frank Knight, contractor.

Aug. 17. William C. Tourgee, Sandy Hollow road. Chicken house, 16 feet by 20 feet, on Lots Nos. 41 and 42 Susan Vose plat, off Granite street.

Aug. 18. Alexander Beattie for John Beattie, 22 John street. Two-car garage, 10 feet by 18 feet, removing previous one-car garage, corner of John and Hobart streets.

Aug. 20. Santo Turano, 50 Pierce street. One-family house, 26 feet by 28 feet, off Pierce street. Santo Turano, contractor.

Aug. 20. Santo Turano, 26 Pierce street. Two-car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet at 36 Pierce street. Frank Iacano and company, contractors.

August 27. Natale Pucci, Quarry road, Bradford, R. I., one car garage, 12 feet by 18 feet, on Quarry road, Bradford, R. I.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATER MANAGER EXPERT IN SHOW BUSINESS

Charles A. Meade who has assumed the management of the Palace theatre under the direction of the Connecticut River Valley Theatres corporation is a showman of wide experience and recognized ability, having devoted practically his entire life to the amusement business. Beginning at an early age as an executive officer of large fairs and expositions in Chicago and Kansas City, he entered the motion picture field when it began to take on importance in the entertainment of the public, first operating theatres playing pictures, vaudeville and theatrical attractions in Kansas and later became manager of the Regent Theatre, Detroit, Mich., one of the largest and finest theatres in that city. His work in the line of exhibition attracted the attention of the United Artists corporation consisting of Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin and he was engaged by them to represent them in the booking and exploitation of their pictures in the Dominion of Canada. This position he held for a long period but the urge of the theatre itself was too strong to be denied and when an opportunity to secure three fine theatres in Winnipeg, the metropolis of western Canada, developed, Mr. Meade leased these houses and operated them with such great success over a period of three years that a contest to secure these theatres was begun by the leading film producers resulting in the leasing of the chain to the Universal Pictures corporation. After the conclusion of this deal Mr. Meade decided to return to the United States. While in New York city several weeks ago he met Alfred Gottesman executive head of the corporation now operating the Norwich Palace and Mr. Gottesman so sucessfully presented to him the beauties of the New Palace and the desirability of this city as a place of residence that in spite of other flattering offers Mr. Meade was considering he decided to come to Norwich.

When seen at the Palace Monday although he and his staff are working at top speed completing the last details in preparation for the Palace opening on next Thursday evening he found time to express his admiration of the charming residential sections of Norwich and its busy business district. Coming to New England is like a home coming almost to me, he said, as I was born in the Green Mountains of Vermont and, of course, I feel at home here; the people I have met are real people and Norwich is a live city and I like it and I am going to use all of the resources of our company and all of my best efforts to give Norwich real entertainment at the Palace. If I am successful in adding to the pleasure of the public I shall be happy indeed.

The United States Rubber Co.

He one of teh largest manufacturing concerns in the country cooperates with their dealers to keep local business in the hands of local concerns, was interestingly brought out in a talk with one of our leading tire merchants last week.

The company to which he pointed particularly for its work in this direction is The United States Rubber company, which has perhaps gone further along these lines than any other one concern.

There are several reasons, aside from the very good point of keeping home money at home, why our own local tire stores are the logical place to buy tires rather than the mail order houses.

Tires need looking after by an experienced tire man. He must have a well equipped and well stocked shop and be able to tell whether a tire is doing its work properly, and if not, why not.

For instance, an expert tire man can tell whether tires are wearing unluly because of the wheels being out of alignment and can correct the trouble in time.

If improperly equalized brakes are causing tire wear, the tire man can tell that and warn the owner.

This sort of service you cannot expect when you buy tires from mail order houses.

The United States Tire company started 11 years ago to educate people to their interest in supporting the legitimate home town tire dealer.

In addition to running its own educational campaign, in local papers without interruption for 11 consecutive years the company encourages the dealer to supplement it with advertising of his own and helps him do it. Under certain conditions it even shares the expense of the dealer's own advertising.

Recent improvements in production methods now enable the United States Rubber company to market, through the local dealers, tires of known quality, bearing the company's full warranty, for as little money or even less than the cost of nameless mail order tires of uncertain value.

The Japanese Steamer Kaikyu Maru struck a rock on Ripple Reef shoal in the Aleutian Islands and the crew escaped in lifeboats.

BOOTLEGGING TAXI DRIVER FINED AT NEW LONDON $150 FOR PINT SALE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 30—Ernest Coe, a taxi driver, was fined $150 for the sale of a pint of booze from his car to a state policeman. Ernest got $4 for the booze so the experience is not such as will induce him to continue in the unlawful business he is engaged in. It was represented that Coe had recently married and that he had a hard time to meet the expense his doubling-up had occasioned. That was not a reason for showing leniency to Coe, as he has before been convicted of the same offense.

Augusta Visceri was charged with keeping a place reputed to be such as liquor could be obtained at and with the actual sale of liquor to a state policeman, on the day of the firemen's convention. She is represented by an attorney who asked for a continuance. This was allowed and the woman gave a bond of $1000 to appear for trial on the 3rd of September. She resides at 185 Main street and there the liquor was sold.

CONFIDENCE IN PUBLIC HONESTY WAS MISPLACED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 30—Oscar A. Larsen, of 28 Crescent street, went to Ocean Beach yesterday to enjoy the afternoon in the water, but he did not go through the formality of hiring a bathhouse and as a result he lost a part of his wearing apparel and a small sum of money. After reaching the shore resort, Larsen went to one of the bathhouses of the Clifford concession, which he found without lock or other device to make it secure against intrusion. Entering the bathhouse, Larsen attired himself in a bathing suit and went into the water. When he returned to the bathhouse he discovered that a thief had visited it during his absence and had stolen a pair of shoes, watch, tie clasp and $3. Larsen reported the theft to the police, but no trace of the thief was obtained.

GARDE THEATRE MANAGER TO BE GEO. ESHENFELDER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 30—George Eshenfelder of this city, was officially appointed manager of the new Garde theatre, this morning and assumed the duties by opening his office in the theatre building. The appointment was made by Arthur S. Friend, of the Arthur S. Friend Companies, Inc., New Haven, lessees of the theatre. No date for the opening of the picture house has been set.

There have been numerous complaints against the gang of loiterers about the restaurant called The Coffee Pot on Main street. They have constituted a nuisance, according to the information lodged with the police department. As the men have been arrested they have been disciplined, but that fact has not abated the nuisance. Today the severest penalty yet imposed was dealt out to James Gorman and George Burke. They were fined $5 for intoxication and each was sent to jail for ten days for a breach of the peace, in being very offensive to the officers who took them in. Sergeant Hick was the policeman who dealt with Gorman and Burke. He saw them loitering at the Coffee Pot and ordered them away. Then he heard Gorman tell Burke, who was at the curb in an automobile that the police were over-officious. He told Burke that "you can't move around here." Sergeant Hick declared that Gorman was intoxicated so he ordered him to get to cover. He didn't get, so he was taken into custody. Burke followed along for a short distance and yelled "Hooray for the cops!" Officer Sylva told Judge Prince in the police court that the nuisance of the officers around the restaurant had become very annoying to officers on the beat. He said they were constantly being subjected to abuse.

The beat the accused could do was to deny all that was said especially what was said of the occurrence in which they were interested. The court found the accused guilty as claimed by the prosecutor and penalized them as stated.

Henry Healy was fined $5 for intoxication. He claimed he was not drunk, but he didn't make good his claim.

John Londras, a painter, was charged with intoxication, but as he had never been in the court before and there appeared to be extenuating circumstances he was released on a suspension of judgment.

The general store of A. Goldstein, 119 Main street, was burglarized Sunday night but the amount of plunder was not great. Only a small amount of miscellaneous stock, principally wearing apparel, was stolen. The thief entered the store by forcing a rear window. The break was discovered this morning when Goldstein opened the place for business and he reported it to the police. Sergeant John Cavanaugh is conducting an investigation.

The funeral of Mrs. Caroline Dennis, wife of Darius Dennis, was held this afternoon at 62 Washington street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie C. Sullivan, wife of Michael Sullivan, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. At the close of the mass Edward F. Murray sang "Some Sweet Day." The bearers were William Reagan, James Doran, Martin Keefe and John Sheehan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Rock Zekas got drunk Saturday and created a disturbance at his home. Mrs. Zekas, a hard worker and the mother of several very respectable children, complained to the police and Rock was taken into custody. Today he was sent to jail for a stay of three months and he was also fined $10.

Charles Smith, when arrested for intoxication, told the court he was just celebrating Sunday night. He was fined $10 and paid.

Mrs. McVeigh was operated upon a fortnight ago and although the operation was known to be a serious one and complications developed, it was believed that she would recover. Mrs. McVeigh's condition remained critical several days, but later it was believed that the crisis had been passed. However her condition became grave Sunday and she died shortly after midnight.

George Ledoux, 69 Jay street, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with breach of the peace by Mrs. Hugh Lyddell. Ledoux furnished a surety on his bond of $50 for his presentation in the police court tomorrow morning.

Gertrude Mickstead, 17, an inmate at Long Lane farm, Middletown, an institution for wayward girls, made her escape this morning and the New London police have been requested to maintain a watch for the girl as she had expressed intention of coming to this city to seek work. The girl is described as being about five feet, three inches in height, stout build, has bobbed hair and is of German descent. When the girl escaped she wore a khaki blouse and bloomers.

Miss Helen Austin of Williams St., employed as clerk in the office of City Clerk Julian B. Moran, resumed her duties today after her vacation, which was spent at Bretton Hall in the White Mountains.

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 30—The clothing store of Hirsch & Co., Bank street, has been closed and it is understood that Harry Hirsch, proprietor of the store, will make a voluntary petitionin bankruptcy within a few days. The clothing store is one of the oldest business houses of its kind in this city. Frederick Hirsch was its proprietor at one time and later his father became proprietor of the store. For a number of years Harry Hirsch has been its proprietor. With the suspension of business Saturday night, the clerks were informed that their services would no longer be required and today the store was under lock and key.

A man about 65, a stranger to the police, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray charged with indecent assault. He was locked up and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. The man, who is an Italian and cannot read or write English, went to the residence, 13 Tenth street, where, it is claimed, that he succeeded in getting a girl of 8 to enter the cellar and there he took liberties with her. Later the girl informed her mother of what had occurred and the parent made complaint to the police. Motorcycle Officer Ray went to the house, but when he arrived the man had left. He was, however, arrested on Huntington street, near the corner of Stony Hill.

Mrs. Mary Foley, of Waterford; Timothy Murphy, 91 Garfield avenue, and Max Soltz, 301 Montauk avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Agnes Poyud, 16, and Rose Trudeau, 17, strangers here, were arrested by Sergeant Nelson Smith this morning charged with lascivious carriage. They will be in the police court tomorrow morning. The girls, who, it is understood, reside in Taftville, had been loitering about the approach to the United States Coast Guard section base, state pier, were complained against by an officer stationed there and their arrests followed.

Palace Theater

The Palace will have as its attraction for three nights with a Saturday matinee starting Thursday evening, Sept. 2nd, Anne Nichols' riot of laughter, Abie's Irish Rose which for 32 weeks tested the capacity of the Castle Square theater in Boston, and which is now in its fifth year of unprecedented success at the Republic in New York city, with no signs of waning as yet.

The company and production to be seen here is one which added new pages to theatrical history as well as establishing a new record for long runs and financial returns, and the celebrated author-producer is sending it to Norwich intact.

As the demand for seats has been very large, the management requests all those wishing to witness the play here to procure their tickets as early as possible, thus avoiding the rush as well as disappointment.

The play deals with the love of a Jewish boy of Orthodox parents for an Irish girl of the Catholic faith who are thrice married, by a Methodist minister, a rabbi and finally a priest, in order to appease the irate fathers of each, but who are disowned. To disclose how the reconciliation is brought about would be to detract from the expectancy of those who intend witnessing the play, but beneath one thousand hearty spontaneous laughs during the unfolding of the beautiful story of love and tolerance, there is a lesson so delightful that there is not a dissenting voice to be heard from any patron who leaves the theater, and with the feeling they have seen something worth while.

The box office will be open daily during the engagement from ten a. m. until nine p. m.

Lyceum Theater, New London

Don't delay ordering your seats for the engagement at the Lyceum, New London on Friday evening only, Sept. 3 of George Jessel, America's youngest emotional star, in his sensational comedy drama, The Jazz Singer, playing a solid year in New York and comes here direct from its record breaking run there.

The Jazz Singer is a strong dramatic play, written by Samuel Raphaelson and tells the story of a boy, brought up in strict orthodox fashion, who ran away from home to become "a jazz singer." His father, who is the Cantor of the synagogue, is heart-broken to think that his only son, whom he had trained from childhood to succeed him as the Cantor, had taken up a stage career instead.

After an absence of five years, the boy returns to assure his father and mother that he has made good and has returned home to share his love and fortune with them. His father drives him from the home on the eve of his debut on Broadway. The Cantor is taken ill and on the Day of Atonement cannot sing as he has for the past 40 years in the synagogue. This is also the night that the son is to make his debut on Broadway in a big musical revue. Torn between love and duty, the boy has to decide whether his career means more to him than the love of his dear ones. In one of the most dramatic scenes ever written, the boy decides that his place is in the synagogue and makes the great sacrifice, taking his father's place and leaving behind the bright lights of the stage.

Lyceum Theater

Wallace Ford, to be seen as Thomas Atkins, Jr., in Pigs at the Lyceum theater, New London, matinee and night, on Saturday, September 4th, created the Abie role in Abie's Irish Rose and William Scott, the youth in Abraham Lincoln, whose reprieve from a death sentence after being found asleep at his post, provided one of the deepest thrills in that play. Ford created his present role in Pigs and appeared throughout the 41 weeks' run of the John Golden comedy classic at the Little theater, New York, last season. His last appearance in New London was with Booth Tarkington's Seventeen.

Breed Theater

Anna Q. Nilsson, First National film star, will bring a number of new styles to the fore Wednesday when she appears on the screen of the Breed theater. This is the gist of reports from other cities where her latest picture, Her Second Chance has already been seen.

As is well known to the admirers of the lovely actress, a goodly part of her dress creations are of her own design. Prior to the filming of a picture Miss Nilsson designs whatever new gowns or wraps she will be called upon to wear.

In Her Second Chance, the star starts as a poor Kentucky mountain girl and rises to the heights of a woman of fashion. The gowns worn by Miss Nilsson in the latter episode are described as the last word in elegance.

Huntly Gordon plays opposite Miss Nilsson, with Charlie Murray, well-known comedian, in a featured comedy role. The film is an adaptation of a novel by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow. It was directed by Lambert Hillyer. Eve Unsell made the adaptation. June Mathis was editorial director.

Stop, Look, Listen, Larry Semon's first feature-length comedy will be the second attraction of the double feature bill at the Breed Wednesday and Thursday.

LABOR NOT TO HAVE TICKET IN THIS STATE

No separate ticket of labor candidates will be made out for the coming state election unless such a course is approved by the state convention of the American Federation of Labor, which meets at New Haven Labor day, was the decision arrived at a meeting in Hartford of eight representatives of various trade unions. The group which called itself the Connecticut United Labor convention, denied the charge made by Martin F. Plunkett of Wallingford, state secretary of the socialist party, that it was organized by the communist party.

This decision not to run a labor ticket was made, said S. Bronin of the painters' union local No. 4 and 404 of New Haven, because of the shortness of the time preceding the election, because of the opposition to the plan by some of the trade union officers, and because "unless there were at least 40 unions represented, a united labor party would not be justified in nominating a ticket."

Regret that the socialist party would not give its support to such a movement was expressed at the meeting. Mr. Plunkett, state secretary of the socialist party, issued a statement in which he accused this group of being organized by the communist party of Connecticut. To this charge the United Labor convention replied:

"The issue has nothing to do with communism. Its purpose is to bring about a unification of approved American Federation of Labor unions in this state for the election of an all-labor ticket. It hopes to unite labor forces for independent political action."

William Thuer of Hartford, president of the Capitol City Machinist lodge, No. 354, reiterated his statement that he was not and had never been connected with the Connecticut United Labor convention.

MOROS WISH TO REMAIN UNDER AMERICAN RULE

JOLO, P. I., Aug. 30—(AP)—Several hundred picturesquely garbed Moros received Carmi A. Thompson, presidential investigator at the pier yesterday and informed him they wished American rule continued, but Filipino administrators removed. They declared that if the United States withdrew from the Philippines, the southern islands of the Archipelago must be placed under the sultan of Sulu.

Speaking at a public meeting, Moro chiefs said they were independent for 500 years before they surrendered to the United States, because the Spanish had never conquered them. Their surrender to the United States, they asserted, was with the understanding that the American government would protect them permanently.

The sultan of Sulu, without governmental authority, acknowledged the homage of the Mohammedan Moros as he escorted Mr. Thompson on his tour of inspection of the island of Sulu.

Nikko, Japan, has a lacquered bridge over which only members of the royal family may cross.

AUCTION

AUCTION NOTICE

By Witter Bros., Auctioneers, Office 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn.

We will sell an exceedingly important lot of modern household goods at public auction on Saturday, Sept. 4th, at 1 o'clock P. M., D. S. T., rain or shine, at the residence of Stanley Tomsheit at 47 Main St., Central Village, Conn., representing the contents of an eight room house completely furnished with new furniture consisting of beautiful quartered oak dining room set, mahogany parlor furniture, fine new Victrola, many records, latest style of new iron beds, bedding, art squares, rugs, etc., ice box, portable bath tub, lot of cord wood, and many other special features. This is another one of those highly important closing out sales; the furniture is really too good to be sacrificed at auction, but nevertheless it goes for the high dollar. Terms cash.

OLD MYSTIC

Preparations for the observance of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Methodist Church society here have been going on for months. The members desired the church to look its best, inside and out, and have contributed many hours of labor the past two months and when the celebration time arrived the former pastors, members and guests saw the attractive village church and parsonage at their best. The observance began Saturday afternoon with a reception at the parsonage from 3 to 5, followed by a reunion supper at 6:30.

Sunday morning exercises included preaching by former pastor Rev. Daniel Pierce of Phenix, R. I., and communion service anthem by choir, The Good Shepherd and a duet, The Lord Is My Shepherd, by Miss Emma Williams and Miss Fay Johnson. In the afternoon Rev. H. L. Dorchester of Hartford, a former pastor, whose father and grandfather were pastors, preached. Miss Grace D. Wheeler gave an historical sketch. The choir sang the anthem, I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say and Clifford Desley sang a solo, In My Father's House Are Many Mansions. In the evening the address was by Rev. A. E. Legg of Fulton, N. Y., a pastor 26 years ago. The choir sang the anthem, O Be Joyful In the Lord and Charles Lamphere sang a solo. The present church building is the second structure, the first having been burned Feb. 17, 1851. The present one was soon built, larger and better in every way. The church has a parish house, built a few years ago that furnishes ample room for the Sunday school and various activities of the church. Some deceased members have left funds, the income to carry on the work.

Prof. DeWitt J. Keach preached in the Baptist church Sunday morning for the third time during August.

Rev. and Mrs. Francis Mitchell will return this week from their vacation. Mr. Mitchell will have charge of the prayer meeting Friday night and preach next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John DeGraw and daughter, Gertrude, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith of New Haven spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Eldredge. Their daughters, Claire and Marjorie, returned home with their parents, after spending a month with their grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Williams, Misses Agnes and Edith Austin have returned after spending a week at Mr. Williams' cottage at Lantern Hill.

ANNUAL SWIMMING MEET OF LIFE SAVING CORPS

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 30—(AP)—More than 3,000 flocked to Pleasure beach today to view the annual volunteer life saving corps swimming meet. Johnny wore the colors of the Milford Swimming association and along with his teammates, Alec Sullivan, Clarence Muller and William Carroll won the 400-yard relay over the speedy combination from the Colonial Park team of New Haven.

RAIL STOCKS FEATURED

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Speculative interest in today's stock market centered largely in the railroad and oil shares, several of which attained new peak prices for the year. Price movements in the general list disclosed marked irregularity, renewal of selling pressure against U. S. Steel common, General Motors and other recent industrial favorites being offset by aggressive pool operations in the tobaccos and a number of specialties.

Bear traders attempted to unsettle the general list on rumors of a further stiffening of money rates, but these fell flat when call loans were quoted in the "outside market" at 4 3-4 per cent, as compared with the official renewal rate of 5 per cent. which was maintained all day. However, in view of heavy demand for funds in connection with first of the month payments and the approach of the third quarter dividend, interest and federal income tax payment dates, a temporary stringency of funds in the call market is likely

The principal business development of the day was the placing of the common stock of the Consolidated Cigar company on a $7 annual basis, the price of the issue jumping 5 points to a new record high at 81. Reynolds Tobacco B, which was heavily bought on the prospect of a stock dividend, soared 10 points to a new peak at 115, but lost all but a point of its gain. American Tobacco and Congress Cigar also attained new peak prices.

Railroad shares continued to respond to the excellent current earnings and traffic reports. Atchison touched a new high record for all time at 155 1-2, up 2 1-2 points, and Canadian Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, Missouri Pacific, Norfolk and Western, Rock Island, Southern Railway and Union Pacific touched their highest prices in a year or longer.

Unconfirmed rumors that the proposed re-organization of the Texas company was preliminary to the merger of that and other independent companies accompanied the latest outburst of buying in the oil shares. Texas company and Shell Union sold at the year's best prices and substantial gains were recorded by Pan-American B, Atlantic Refining, Mariland and several others in that group.

Persistent liquidation of General Motors sent that stock down more than 3 points to 206 1-2 but rallied a point for the low at the close. U. S. Steel common closed 5-8 lower at 150. Sharp recessions took place in Allied Chemical, International Telephone, National Enameling, Remington Typewriter, U. S. Cast Iron and Warner Postures A, all of which has been prominent on the upside the past few weeks.

Among the score or so industrials issues to attain new high prices for the year were Amalgamated Leather common and prfeerred, Butterick Publishing, Eastern Kodak, Douglas Pectin, Owens Bottle and Union Tank Car.

BINCKOWITZ GETS BAIL—CASE CONTINUED TO FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 30—Adolf Binckowitz, 36, residing on Sandy Plain, between Kenyon and Carolina, employed by the Columbia Narrow Fabric Co., of Shannon, R. I., was before Clerk H. P. Clark in a special session of third district court this afternoon, on complaint of Deputy Sheriff Fred S. Bull, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Howard Hazard, colored of Tuckertown, R. I. He pleaded not guilty and was released in $2,000 bail, furnished by George P. Clark of Shannon, as surety for his appearance Friday next in the Third district court.

It was said that Hazard, in company with other men, appeared at the Binckowitz house and having purchased drinks threatened an assault upon Binckowitz. Hazard having drawn a knife. The defendant secured a shot gun in self-defense. In the altercation the shot gun went off and Hazard received nine shots in his face and shoulder. Binckowitz went to Shannock and reported to Clark that he had shots a man. The shooting took place about 11.30 Saturday night. Clark called the state police, who took Binckowitz to Sandy Plain to see his wife and while there Binckowitz escaped. He went to Pleasant View Beach, R. I., and saw John J. BLACKJACK FIGURED IN FIGHT AT A PICNIC

Several Polish residents of the city who had been to a picnic Saturday night near Greeneville landed in the toils of the local police. Monday morning in the city court two men were fined for fighting and breach of the peace. A more serious charge faced Pete Kodaski and Joseph Marshall. These men accused each other of owning a blackjack and in using it on the other while they were engaged in a fight. The blackjack was found on Marshall but he claimed he had taken it away from Kodaski. This was denied by Kodaski who alleged that Marshall attacked him with the black jack.

Feeling that the case was more serious than straight breach of the peace Judge Libby put the case over to today (Tuesday) to have more witnesses testify. Kodaski was released on bonds of $500, furnished by Victor Sliorski but Marshall was taken back to the cell.

The continued case of Robert Schmit for driving without a registration was nolled on payment of $3 when he showed a duplicate registration from Hartford.

Several other cases of breach of the peace and intoxication brought the session to a close.

DAWES TO SPEAK AT LEGION NATIONAL CONVENTION

Vice President Charles G. Dawes will deliver the principal address at the eighth annual convention of the American Legion in Philadelphia October 11-15, according to announcement by General John R. McQuigg, national commander of the American Legion.

General Dawes, a member of the Legion, has been sought as a speaker at all the national conventions. The Philadelphia meeting is the first he has promised to address, although he made an unexpected appearance at the convention at St. Paul several years ago and marched in the annual parade with the delegation from his home town of Evanston, Ill. When he was invited to address the convention he arose in his place in the auditorium and delivered a few words of greeting. He refused to go to the speakers' platform.

General Dawes has accepted the invitation of the national commander to review the parade of 75,000 Legionnaires in Philadelphia on Tuesday, October 12, and he will attend a dinner in honor of distinguished guests in the evening.

SHOW SHENANDOAH FLAGS FOR COUNTY FAIR DAYS

Retail merchants of the city are to be requested to display their Shenandoah flags during the three days of the New London county fair in order to give a welcome appearance to the many out of town people who will be in Norwich on those days.

Secretary Gilbert S. Raymond of the fair association has received a large poultry entry from Harry C. W. Main of Old Mystic. Mr. Main specializes in odd varieties and has entered several kinds of pheasants, wild wood ducks, wild geese and other varieties.

Another fine entry is that of George B. Gale of Petersham, Mass., who will show milking shorthorns and Aberdeen Angus cattle. Mr. Gale is one of the largest breeders of those varieties in New England and last week he showed his stock at the Tri-state fair at White River Junction, Vt. He will exhibit about 20 head of milking short horns and the same number of Aberdeen Angus.

The Bonnie Gardens of Washington, R. I., has signed for a large display of gladioli and other flowers.

Return After Vacation

Was there a man who didn't talk shop more than was necessary?

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

TWO NEW INDUSTRIES IN CITY'S BUSINESS LIFE

The location and operation of two new industries in this city is brought into prominent notice by the August membership letter of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce.

Under the head of industrial matters the letter says:

Industrial Matters — It is certainly good news to learn that the Tidewater Paperboard company has commenced operations in the plant formerly occupied by the Uncas Paperboard company located in Thamesville. At present the new company is operating one paper making machine, employing about one hundred men, with a weekly payroll of approximately $3,000.

The Tidewater company which purchased the plant, has spent a considerable sum of money in making the factory an efficient one. The chamber welcomes to Norwich the Tidewater Paper company; hopes it will be successful; and stands ready to give its fullest co-operation to our newest manufacturing concern.

The Light House Board company, coming from New Jersey, has leased about 15,000 square feet of space at the Tidewater plant to manufacture cloth board reels. This company will soon begin operation employing about a dozen people to start with a weekly payroll amounting to several hundred dollars. The Light House company has a factory in North Carolina as well. Norwich was sold to them because of our transportation advantages.

One of the industrial prospects which the chamber recently endeavored to bring to Norwich, employing about 60 people, has finally decided to locate in a large Connecticut city nearer New York. Correspondence and personal contact with the officials of this company in New York was made by the chamber and its representative in the effort to bring the concern to Norwich.

The attention of the local chamber was called to this prospect by an individual employed by a local business firm. This was also true regarding the city which secured the industry. Mention is made of this face because it is possible to secure a new industry through the interest of an individual who may learn of a prospect and informs the chamber about it. We hope that anyone, having knowledge of an industrial prospect, will promptly inform the Chamber of Commerce. We have several good factory locations available and a number of excellent manufacturing sites to offer industrial prospects.

FIXING FOR REUNION OF 56TH COAST ARTILLERY

Sunday, September 5, will occur the annual reunion of the 56th Regiment Coast Artillery Corps, on the estate of Major C. A. Moore, Round Hill, Greenwich.

This is an event of deep significance to the ex-soldiers of the World war, and the local veterans are working strenuously to insure its being an occasion to be remembered by their comrades of the regiment. The members of the old 12th company, which was a component part of the regiment, are keenly interested in the preparations, and are determined that the forthcoming meet shall at least equal, if not eclipse, any of the former reunions of the regiment held in other towns and cities of the state.

It is expected that Governor Trumbull will attend the reunion, also General Morris B. Payne of New London, commanding the New England troops, National Guard Brigade and member of the governor's staff; also Adjutant-General George M. Cole, and other military notables.

An interesting programme is being arranged, which will include a street parade, in which the Greenwich military will participate. The visitors will assemble at the state armory for registration at 8 a. m., and a business session will be held there at 11 o'clock. After the parade the regiment and guests will proceed to Major Moore's estate, where the festivities, wich will include a clam bake, will take place.

The energetic general committee in charge of the preparations is headed by Frank McNicoll, with Edward L. Tracy chairman of the publicity committee.

The injury was caused by a blow from a shovel. Dr. Paul F. Gadle was called to treat the injured member.

STATE C. T. A. U. HERE IN 56TH ANNUAL CONVENTION

Forty-one delegates representing various sections of the state of Connecticut attended the opening session of the 56th annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Connecticut, Inc., which opened in this city Monday morning.

A solemn high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's church by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, assisted by Rev. Robert J. Bowen, of Bridgeport, as deacon and Raymond LaFontaine, who is studying for the priesthood, as subdeacon. Rev. John J. Reilly was master of ceremonies and Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May was seated in the sanctuary. Henry J. LaFontaine was in charge of the musical part of the service and Roderick F. Sullivan sang two hymns, Agnus Dei and Ave Marie.

The delegates then returned to the T. A. B. society hall on Broadway and at 11 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Rev. Robert J. Bowen of Bridgeport, state president who invoked the divine blessing on the sessions of the conventions.

Mayor Milo R. Waters as then called upon to address the convention and he extended the welcome for the city stating he was glad to welcome the delegates to our beautiful city. During his remarks Mayor Waters praised the society for its good work in furthering the cause of temperance and for its continuous fight for temperance. In closing he gave a cordial welcome for the delegates again to assemble in Norwich for a state convention, not 20 or 30 years from now, but in the near future.

At the conclusion of the welcome address by Mayor Waters, President Bowen called upon James L. Case, president of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, for remarks. In a clear and concise manner President Case described what advantages Norwich has to offer, natural or otherwise. In closing he stated that he was pleased that the convention had come to Norwich and that he had been called upon to address the delegates.

After Miss Anna O'Keefe had been named assistant secretary to Frank J. Kinney, of Branford, secretary of the state organization, the meeting became one entirely devoted to business.

President Bowen Speaks

Rev. Robert J. Bowen, the president, read his annual report to the delegates, in which he stressed the need of temperance and reviewed the work of the society during the year.

The various officers were then called upon for their reports.

These were given by William F. Gullfoyle, first vice president; M. M. Lynch, second vice president, and Valerie Sidley, third vice president.

New London County Report

George Kane, director for Hartford county, gave his report of the work there, and William H. McGuinness of this city gave the following report for New London county, of which he is director:

Some time after the last convention I was appointed county director and agreed to take the position after I was informed that it was impossible to find any person to take it.

In January of this year I installed the officers of St. Mary's society of this city and found this society in a sound condition financially due to the careful consideration given to the society's affairs by the trustees, officers and members.

In membership the society has felt the effects of the general apathy noticeable throughout the country at the present time.

I have received no communication from any other society in the county but took it upon myself to make three trips to New London seeking information as to St. Mary's Star of the Sea society and learned that this society has not elected any officers or held any meetings in a period of years. I am unable to give any definite report on this society.

I have heard nothing in regard to any other society in the county, and am obliged to report as the only societies in the county, St. Mary's Star of the Sea of New London, and St. Mary's of Norwich, connected with the state union.

Secretary's Report

Frank J. Kinney's report as secretary of the organiaztion follows:

I hereby submit my 16th report as state secretary to this, the 56th convention of the C. T. A. U. of Connecticut from Aug. 31, 1925 to Aug. 25, 1926:

The membership received remains at about the same level as in 1925. All of the chronic delinquents were suspended and only the bonafide organizations holding regular meetings and paying promptly their per capita tax obligations were retained in good standing. Despite the fact that at the convention of 1924 the committee on constitutional amendments originated a resolution by which the state secretary should mail a statement during January of each year giving the amount of national and state tax to every society affiliated with the state union it is again necessary to report that some of the societies are delinquent with this year's tax although it is possible to report the best collections made for some years past.

There are about 2978 paid members in the state, according to Mr. Kinney. The remainder of Mr. Kinney's report dwelt upon the work of the various societies throughout the state affiliated with the state union.

Committees

President Bowen then announced the committees.

On credentials, John H. Cummings of New Haven; George F. Kane, New Britain; Edward Leheney, Danbury; Dennis J. Dunn, Torrington; John Tynan, Middletown; Frank Flaherty, Rockville and William H. McGuinness, Norwich.

On resolutions—Howard McCloskey, Danbury; John Wozniak, Norwich; Dennis J. Dunn, Torrington; George Kane, New Britain; Mrs. Joseph Newbrey, New Haven; Dennis Crowley, Ansonia; Rose Hogan, New Britain; William Guilfoile, Waterbury.

On constitutional amendments—W. H. McGuinness, Norwich; Thomas J. O'Brien, New Haven; John J. Keating, New London; Mrs. Frank Sidley, Torrington; James Glashorn, Portland; Mrs. Nellie Donovan, Naugatuck, Miss Pauline Wollschlayer, Meriden; Miss Mary Lynch, New Britain and Richard Coleman, Middletown.

Auditors—John J. Keating, New London and Miss Kate Walsh, New Britain.

Urges Move to Teach Temperance

Thomas J. O'Brien of New Haven, in an interesting talk brought out the need of teaching the doctrine of temperance to the younger generation, and securing more members of younger blood. He spoke of recent years when the boys were organized into cadets, of the field days and parades held. This, Mr. O'Brien brought out in the course of his talk, helped to bring the boys together, and helped their cause.

Today we have to get the children interested—both boys and girls—we have got to show them what we have for them. To do this the speaker urged that a track meet be held in some city able to hold such an event, suggesting New Haven or Bridgeport. The date Mr. O'Brien suggested was July 9 shortly after the schools had closed for the summer recess.

"It pays to advertise, let us advertise," were Mr. O'Brien's closing words.

Visited Submarine Base

There were no business sessions scheduled for the afternoon and at 2 o'clock through the courtesy of John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce, the delegates were treated to a trip to the United States submarine base at Groton. There they made an inspection of the base and boarded a submarine. This feature was one greatly enjoyed as the mysteries of the undersea fighting craft of the navy are many and most interesting to the average person on shore.

The drive to the submarine base was over the beautiful military highway, affording the delegates an opportunity to see the beauties of the Thames valley.

In the evening a special car took the delegates and their guests to Ocean Beach, New London, where an entertainment had been provided for their amusement, dancing being one of the many features.

Final Convention Day

The convention will come to a close today (Tuesday). At 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated for deceased members of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of Connecticut. The business session will open in the morning and officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

All sessions of the convention are being held in the rooms of Mercier council, Catholic Ladies of Columbus at St. Mary's T. A. & B. building at No. 82 Broadway, under the auspices of St. Mary's T. A. & B. society.

The local committee of arrangements comprises John Wozniak, William H McGuinness, Walter G. Casey, John H. Edwards and Andrew W. Deneff.
